"Alumni Family" Latest Quirk Of Statistic-Hunting Fiends

Sending 14 children to the University of Idaho with a total attendance of 62 years is the unusual record of two well known pioneer families in the state. Children of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. George Theron, the first of the Warrens, was graduated from the college of law in 1917 and is now practicing in Los Angeles. Brown, the second brother, was enrolled in the college of agriculture for three years, after which he studied for a year at the University of Wisconsin. He is district agent for a commercial feed firm in Nebraska.

Black and does hold first place, with skipper blue, better known as light navy, second. Brown has continued to gain with a marked degree in the past week, especially when combined with white. Opaline green, opaline yellow (Patou colors), gray, light blue and sand beige are high fashion.

For street wear dresses still remain from ten to twelve inches from the floor; sport wear a trifle shorter; evening dresses and semi-formal dresses to the shoe tops.

Georgette is the outstanding fabric of the moment, principal colors being black, blue and brown. Plain chiffons are also good. Printed chiffons are showing a little more life the past week and should increase in popularity from now on.

Editors and the R. O. T. C.

A RECENT survey conducted by the New York University News revealed some interesting and significant facts pertaining to compulsory R. O. T. C. drill in colleges and universities in the United States. There are 90 educational institutions in which drill is compulsory with a total enrollment of 75,441, and 30 institutions in which it is elective with a total registration of 11,295.

Questionnaires were sent to the editors of 39 leading college newspapers and of these, 25 replied. Drill was compulsory at six of the institutions, optional at 12 and six have no drill.

Three of the replying editors unqualified by approving of the R.O.T.C.; four were non-committal; nine objected only to compulsory drill and nine objected to military training in any form whatsoever.

Past the 2000 Mark

THE library issue is now forgotten as much as it can be by serious students who are forced to study in cramped and wholly inadequate quarters, but a recent report coming from the registrar's office half revives a spark of resentment toward the men who dilly-dallied with divorce and similar momentous problems without an ear for the needs of a growing and important institution. And, the 90 day divorce farce becomes all the more laughable when we learn that the Nevada legislature went Idaho one better and put the Gem State out of the competitive class in the divorce market by offering bored divorce not only double quick action, but the additional advantage of being able to gamble away their alimony. The one important bill the Idaho solons passed went for naught.

But, to get back to that registrar's report. There are more students in residence in the university now than ever before—the enrollment has finally gone on the long side of the 2000 mark. Idaho is not a large school among western state institutions but it is growing and the need for a library, which was noticed a number of years ago, will have become acute by the time the next legislature is called into session.

There is no need to review the arguments which favor the library; they are all too well known even to bear repetition. The Argonaut can only say that by the time the next legislature meets, the university enrollment will have reached a point where it will be impossible to expand without added space and facilities, providing that enrollment increases at the present rate, as it is pretty likely to do.

There is no institution more important to the future of the state of Idaho than her state university and the university can not compete with other growing western schools until the legislature recognizes this importance and takes education out of politics. There is competition, even in education, and the people of the state should make a sincere effort to attract students as well as divorcees. The latter may well pay but, after all, they contribute little to the cultural advancement of the state.

The Great Educational Machine May Be Some Cause for Student Failure

ONE reason which the tax-paying public has advanced for becoming dubious concerning the necessity of our widespread system of higher education, is that too many students, having gained admittance to the schools, soon drop behind and shortly flunk out. They maintain that their state loses money on them, and the students lose time which they might have spent furthering their lots in less academic lines.

Educators have taken sides regarding the causes of student failure, one faction blaming too lenient entrance requirements; the other, the prevalence of "traditional pap" which they claim is being forced down student throats in accordance with the academic diet of culture, destroying student interest and scholarship.

As students we are inclined to take a different attitude. On the one hand it would be very unfortunate if universities were to grant higher education only to those who stood highest in their preparatory school, for it appears that there are a great many who could be benefited by a college education without having to be scholars. In our present era of examinations, readers, etc., we are not absolutely certain that scholarship is more than a measure of a student's ability to please a reader or prophecy examination questions. Scholarship is based on grade points, and unfortunately, grade points are not a true measure of interest, initiative, leadership, or individual thought. Teacher's colleges and research institutes may justly regard scholarship as a prime requirement; but a university, whose purpose is to inspire the desire for culture and knowledge in its students, is dodging its responsibility if it deals only with people who are termed "scholars."

On the other hand, what we term as "traditional pap" is purely an individual matter. A compulsory course in physics may bring down the well-phrased epithets of the English major, while American institutions may be likened to a jail sentence by the engineer. It is not the subject, or the course which we may term "traditional pap," but the requirement.

Educators are of course interested in giving the undergraduate a broad education. It seems, however, that they are inclined to forget that there are a few students at the university who have that identical aim, and are only hindered by rigid prerequisites and requirements. The theory of mass education or "wisdom by formula" which has created our system of majors, junior certificates, and generally destroyed the freedom of elective study, does not contribute to the breadth of knowledge.

Our academicians defend this system by stating that if a greater freedom of elective study was to be allowed, popular courses would require gymnasiums for lecture halls, and that the path of least resistance would become a deeper rut than the groove which we have at present.

However, our present system works to the misfortune of a great many. The professor who knows that people are taking his course because it is required, knows that his students are not particularly interested. He is as disheartened in talking to such a group as the students are disinterested. Furthermore, the size of the group prevents him from ferreting out the sincere individuals upon whom he might bestow his individual attention. Readers and section leaders creep into the picture, together with class averages and sleepy faces.

When interest wanes, so does individual effort, and when a student flunks out from lack of interest, his machinery may be blamed for turning out faulty work as well as the students.

A University should not require scholars in order to exist successfully, for its worth should be determined by its ability to produce scholars. Therefore, before we blame high school credentials, and "traditional pap" for academic failure, let us investigate our treatment of the raw material before we come to conclusions.—The Daily Californian

O-HELL-O—Well, now that the big tournament is over we can again settle down to the normal ground. The only thing that remains a question to us is the origin of the new cabaret singer at the Blue Bucket last Saturday night. It seems that if Bob Woods really feels a need for entertaining his guests he would chose some more modern songs. Of course we enjoy those good old ballads of the nineteenth century, for even they have a place in the world.

FOX HAS WORKOUT WITH 1932 SQUAD

Coach Announces Improvement on Idaho Squad

Idaho's track squad traveled to Pullman Saturday afternoon for the second of a series of indoor meets with the powerful Coligar squad and, although the results were again kept secret, Coach Ot Anderson made no secret of the fact that his Vandals have vastly improved since the opening meet. The Washington State meet showed that Heath lowered his time in the mile by seven seconds, while Thomas dropped his speed by four seconds in the half mile. Williams tossed the discus 12 feet farther than his first try, and the rest of the squad improved their marks, according to Coach Anderson.

Lose One Regular

The entire varsity, with the exception of Drummond will be on hand next year and with the addition of several freshman stars should be well up on the conference ladder all season. Fox taught some fundamentals during the spring workouts, but spent most of the time searching for effective combinations and letting men scrimmage with set plays to work the ball under the basket. The final game started out at top speed and the men kept up the pace until the end with a great exhibition of first class basketball. The winners led by Geraghty, Carlson and Hale jumped to the front after the first few minutes of play and stayed there the rest of the battle, although Lacy, Wicks and Auckett all turned in great games for the losers. The battle was fast and cleanly played with some of the freshman stars showing up as well as the veterans. Grenier, freshman star who was to play with the Reds, was in the infirmary, and the absence of the tall tip off man cost the losers many points.

VANDALS LOWER FORMER TIMES

Coach Announces Improvement on Idaho Squad

Idaho's track squad traveled to Pullman Saturday afternoon for the second of a series of indoor meets with the powerful Coligar squad and, although the results were again kept secret, Coach Ot Anderson made no secret of the fact that his Vandals have vastly improved since the opening meet. The Washington State meet showed that Heath lowered his time in the mile by seven seconds, while Thomas dropped his speed by four seconds in the half mile. Williams tossed the discus 12 feet farther than his first try, and the rest of the squad improved their marks, according to Coach Anderson.

The entire varsity, with the exception of Drummond will be on hand next year and with the addition of several freshman stars should be well up on the conference ladder all season. Fox taught some fundamentals during the spring workouts, but spent most of the time searching for effective combinations and letting men scrimmage with set plays to work the ball under the basket. The final game started out at top speed and the men kept up the pace until the end with a great exhibition of first class basketball. The winners led by Geraghty, Carlson and Hale jumped to the front after the first few minutes of play and stayed there the rest of the battle, although Lacy, Wicks and Auckett all turned in great games for the losers. The battle was fast and cleanly played with some of the freshman stars showing up as well as the veterans. Grenier, freshman star who was to play with the Reds, was in the infirmary, and the absence of the tall tip off man cost the losers many points.

HUNT FOR METEOR WHEN SNOW MELTS

Resulting Research Will Add to University's Prestige.

Dr. F. B. Laney of the geology department announces that as soon as weather permits, a searching party will be organized to hunt for the meteor that fell somewhere in this vicinity during the Christmas holidays. It has been impossible to do any work this winter, as the meteor is buried in the snow. If the present warm weather continues, it should be uncovered within a very short time, Doctor Laney believes. The national reputation of the Idaho geology department will be greatly enhanced by the resulting research work if this meteor is found, Dr. Laney thinks.

Society

FROM now until the school year is over, an endless number of activities will take place on the Idaho campus. Spring formal, held on the 25th, and a number are scheduled to take place after spring vacation next month. The past week-end brought a good deal of excitement to the campus and townspeople in the form of the state high school basketball tourney. The all-college mixer given in honor of the team members Saturday night was the first that has been held this semester, and a large crowd attended.

April Brings Many Events.

The month of April brings a number of outstanding events. The pep band concert will be given on the 22nd. In addition to the concert which is given annually, William Ames, leader of the band, has this year planned a jazz revue to be shown on the same night. The show is well under way now and promises to be something new and unusual.

On Saturday the 25th, the "Ag" club has scheduled its Little International Stock show. Sigma Alpha Iota, national music honor society, will present a formal recital on the 28th. On the 29th Theta Sigma, journalism honorary for women, will give its annual formal banquet to which prominent women on the campus are invited. Theta Sigma always arranges to have a woman outstanding in the journalistic field speak for this annual affair.

Spring vacation coming shortly after Easter Sunday will break the monotony which is always felt about this time of year, regardless of the number of diversions. Numerous students living within a short radius of the campus will leave for their homes. Others not so fortunate will remain. There are usually, however, a series of impromptu, informal affairs which are arranged during the vacation period by those remaining.

Immediately following spring vacation will be junior week, always the busiest week of the entire year. The Junior-Senior prom, Junior cabaret, mixer, and parade, lead the events of the week.

Junior's Will Give Mixer. Wednesday night the junior class will give a mixer at the Blue Bucket inn. A good orchestra has been engaged and a general good time for all is anticipated.

Friday and Saturday nights, the elementary play production group will present a program of four one-act plays in the university auditorium. Mr. Fred Blanchard is directing the production of the plays.

Several group dances are also scheduled for this week-end. The "T" club formal dance, Daleth Teth Gimmel formal, and Kappa Sigma-Sigma Alpha Epsilon joint upperclassmen's formal dance will be given Friday night, as will the Kappa Sigma-Sigma Alpha Epsilon underclassmen's informal and Hays hall informal dances. Alpha Tau Omega is planning a formal dance for Saturday night and the L. D. S. institute will give an informal dance.

JUNIOR CLASS WILL HOLD MIXER

The Junior class will hold a mixer Wednesday evening at the Blue Bucket inn from 8:00 until 10:30 o'clock. The mixer committee consists of Robert Grant, chairman, Pearl Walters and Harry Angney. All members of the Junior class are urged to be present for this is the last mixer of the year and a class meeting is to be held during the evening. There will be entertainment, and a prize will be awarded to the man who appears in the dirtiest cords.

FACULTY FORUM STARTED AGAIN

Deans to Give Series of Timely Lectures This Spring.

The Student-Faculty forum has now started for the second year for Idaho students. The Forum is a group of college deans who talk on varied subjects of timely interest. The speakers spend about an hour discussing their subjects, and then the listeners are allowed and encouraged to ask questions.

The benefits derived from the meetings are to make groups more acquainted with all the schools in the university, and also to broaden their knowledge of the different subjects. It is requested by the deans that this Forum be encouraged for the unlimited benefits derived from it.

High School Lads Like Idaho Girls and Campus Scenes

"None of the fellows thought much about coming to school here until this trip," stated a member of the Moreland high school team. "We've only been here a couple of days, but it seems like we know a lot of people. We've sure had a good time."

The sophisticated young basketballers from Coeur d'Alene were pleased with the Idaho campus. "We consider we are closely connected with the university, and most of us plan to come here to continue our education. We hope that some of us will be a part of the future Idaho basketball teams."

Mixer Was Unique. The mixer in the gymnasium on Saturday night was quite an event to the out-of-town boys. Several mentioned it with great expectation. "We think the campus is wonderful and we think the girls are wonderful too," declared a young man from Arco. His companion said, "We expect to meet some of the good-looking girls to the dance after the games."

One lad from Twin Falls was a bit mixed up about the mixer. "We get to mix with some of the mixture tomorrow night. Until the tournament is over, the coach makes us stay in the house all the time." When asked if the coach wasn't a bit "tight" on the rules this determined reply came. "We came here with the idea of winning this tournament, and the coach is trying to help us do it. Our coach is an Idaho graduate, and he knows what he is doing."

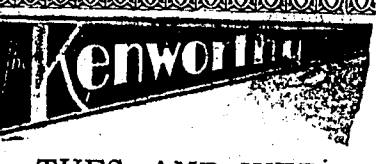

"We have been treated royally since we've been here," said a player from Idaho Falls. "One thing we've noticed is the hello spirit that we hear so much about before coming here. We feel very much at home, and like the school fine."

The Cinemaniac Looks at the Pictures

"THE ROYAL FAMILY OF BROADWAY" will be shown at the Kenworthy on Tuesday and Wednesday. It is a very successful production of the stage hit. "The Royal Family," which is a farce based on the lives of the Barrymores. Fredrick March gives a startling impression of John Barrymore—Tony Cavendish—in the story—although his satire is at times too evident. Ina Claire's impersonation of Ethel shows inaccuracies at times, but lets her own personality show through. Henrietta Crossman as Fanny, the marital grandmother gets the most out of her part, and Mary Brian handles a small part in such a way that we are led to believe she has real screen ability which she has formerly concealed. Capable direction has made this result in a film as entertaining as the play.

"THE LASH," starring Richard Barthelmess, is coming to the Vandall this week. The story takes place in California just after the war with Mexico. Mr. Barthelmess takes the part of a Mexican who hates the Americans and turns bandit to right the wrongs done his people. There were rumors that Dick had been losing ground lately, but his pleasing voice and his customary earnestness of portrayals do not bear these out. We do not see enough of the feminine lead, Mary Astor. She is worthy of more footage. JOAN CRAWFORD appears in "Dance Fools Dance" which will be shown at the Kenworthy on Thursday and Friday. She is supported

JONES PROTESTS TYPE OF MEET

Coach R. W. Jones, coach of the Twin Falls basketball men who won the consolation tournament, said that he was very grateful to the university officials and student body for the courteous treatment he and the Twin squad had received while at the meet.

"On behalf of the coaches in our district and myself, I seriously object to a state elimination tournament," said Jones. "In the three years we have come to the meet, I do not think that a team which has a possibility to travel that we do get a fair break."

Coach Jones is a former Idaho and California student. He attended this university in 1913, and afterwards California.

NASLUND, BACON DIVIDE TOURNEY SCORING HONORS

Make 32 Points in Three Games; Moreland Men Star

The fight for individual scoring honors in the state basketball tournament ended in a two way tie when Naslund of Coeur d'Alene and Bacon of Twin Falls each accounted for 32 points. Naslund got the jump in the first game and slipped in the second and then rallied in the finals to score nine points and clinch a tie for the lead. Bacon scored 15 field goals to lead the scoring in that division and Naslund accounted for 6 free throws to head the gift line tossers.

Grimmett, Sandau Star. Probably the most sensational players in the tournament were Grimmett and Sandau of Moreland, who made the majority of their shots from outside the foul line in spectacular style by using a long, arching push shot. The Moreland men were at a disadvantage in the scoring contest as they played only two games while the Coeur d'Alene and Twin Falls players had three chances at the title, but they had the best average per game with 13 and 14 points each. Twelve men made more than 20 points and the dozen players accounted for 144 field goals to average 12 each, while 53 of the 59 contestants broke into the scoring column.

The individual scores of the 20 leaders are listed below.

'GIFF' DAVIDSON HERE WITH SQUAD

Former Idaho Star Visits With Buhl High School Hoop Team

Although the Buhl Indians were defeated by the Twin Falls five, Coach "Giff" Davidson thought their work so meritorious that the townspeople raised a collection and sent them to the state tournament. Buhl played the Bruins four overtime periods and lost by one point.

The Buhl coach graduated from Idaho in 1927 after having played on three of the greatest teams that ever represented the Vandals. Coached by Matty Mathew, they were winner of the coat flag one year, and runner up one year, besides beating the cougars every time they got a chance, we about all Giff could do. In addition to all this he found time to do a little track work. Giff has been in Buhl since his graduation and has enjoyed a great degree of success in the coaching game. His teams came to the state tournament in 1927 and 1928. They were runners up twice in their district and held the baseball title of the state one year. Davidson has two men on his club this year that are destined to become great stars. Henry Winegar and Carte are the mainstays of his ball clubs. Winegar in particular being an all-around athlete of the first water. Coach Davidson has arranged for a game between Winchester and his club for the benefit of the coaches, that is to enable them to see for themselves how these men work under fire.

COACHES TO MEET IN RETURN GAME

The Idaho coaches' basketball five will renew their old feud with the Cougar coaches tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock when the powerful clubs tangle on the local floor in what promises to be the best basketball dish of the year for the Moscow fans.

This battle will be the second of the year between the quintets, as the Washington Staters grabbed the opening game by the close count of 22 to 20 several weeks ago at Pullman.

An admission of twenty-five cents will be charged which will go towards a fund for the entertainment of the high school track stars at the state meet here in May.

With the Beta Chi's holding the first rung and 75 points in A league and the Sigma Nu's with the same position and points in B league, intramural basketball will draw to a close next week with several teams fighting for runners-up honors and 50 points towards the cup. The Coaches are the real winners of A league, but as they are not competing in the sports series as a whole their first position is conceded to the Beta Chis next high. They will play the Sigma Nu's next week for the university championship.

Last night the Kappa Sig's were eliminated from the three teams which were fighting for runners up honors when they were defeated by the S. A. E.'s, 17 to 16 in a fast and close game. Barrett, S. A. E., was high man with 6 counters. Sommercamp turned in 8 points for the losers.

Beta's Win.

Led by McCrory with 8 points, the Beta's came out victorious over Ridenbaugh, 27 to 15. This win did not change their sixth place in A league.

Thursday night the Coaches added another win to their unblemished schedule when they defeated Sigma Chi, 36 to 20. Anderson was high with 12 and Jacoby with 10. Hartman, Sigma Chi, scored 8 tallies for his team. The Independents lost a game to the Lambda Chi's, 25 to 23. At the end of the hour the score was tied 23 to 23. In the extra three minutes Lambda Chi scored a single basket.

With the Beta Chi's and Sigma Nu's holding the first position in each league the fight goes on between the men from Ridenbaugh and the Phi Delt's, each with three won and three lost, for the second place in A league. In B league the Phi's and S. A. E.'s are tied for the second rung with four won and two lost. A postponed game between these two teams will probably decide the tie.

The Sport Shop

By Paul Boyd

The tournament is over for another year and the best team won. Idaho Falls deserved the title of champions and the home town should feel proud of the high school lads. They started out in wobbly style but finished stronger than any other club. The weak start was no doubt due to the large floor and the unfamiliar crowd—but they came through like champions.

Spring seems to be in the air for sure—baseball, track and football men are all practicing outside for the first time this year. Coach Calland had the new men out for a two hour work-out last night that included 45 minutes of "pass-ball" before lining them up in passing practice.

Over in the other side of the field, Rich Fox had his little band of horse-hide chasers all lined up for batting practice. No hard busting was allowed, because of the lack of room, but every man was given his "cuts" at the ball. All the pitchers were out and began throwing the regulation distance for the first time this year.

The track meet last Saturday with the Cougars revealed that Idaho has finally begun to "come along." The time in several events was faster than at any period last year, so several great races are in store for the track fans. The 850 in particular was reeled off in very fast time, which was 1:53. Such stepping at this time of year may mean that the men are to advanced in their training and may go state before the season is over. Every man on the Idaho squad gave ample evidence that he is fast rounding into excellent condition.

Intramural basketball is over and all that remains is the finals to be played between Sigma Nu and Beta Chi. Both teams have fast breaking clubs featuring sharpshooters on both squads. Duty of the Sigma Nu's and Thurman of the Beta Chi's are the men around whom both teams have built their attack. This is the first win for either of them for some time and both teams are fighting for the extra points.

The selection of the ten men of the "ALL-STATE TEAM" was a natural. Every man was an outstanding performer during the series and left no doubt in the players mind that he was the logical choice for the mythical team. This is the first year that the choice of the players and coaches seemed to be in accord with the "coffee drinking coaches of the Nest."

Coach Anderson announced himself well pleased with the way the men performed against W. S. C. last Saturday, and said if they continued to show that amount of improvement every week, Idaho would be no "set-up" for any track team. Even though the Cougars are ranked the leaders of the northwest, and perhaps the coast, the Idaho Coach is not taking any bad beatings this year and may hang the "iron mike" on some of the visiting teams.

McCoy leaped to 12 feet 6 inches last week, and then faltered. Outside work from now on will remove that hatred of training inside and wondering about the hole in the roof, whether it will be there or not. Bill seems a sure bet in anyone's jumping yard this year.

The Coaches of Idaho and W.S.C. will renew the feud started several years ago when they play the second game of this series tomorrow night. The Cougars were lucky to eke out the first win by a score of 23 to 20. "Rich" had a "field day" in the last quarter and tallied 10 points. A little more support from the rest of the club, and a victory would have been the Vandals. The teams are playing three games and Jacoby, Anderson, et al should come out on top; the time of the game is set for 7:30.

TELFORD TRAINED TEAMS ARE STARS

Coach Telly Telford has enjoyed enviable success since he graduated from the campus. In the last 96 games the Coeur d'Alene Vikings have won better than 84 of them. Such a winning streak can be laid only to one thing, thorough coaching in the fundamentals of the game. Telly graduated in 1924 and has been in the northern city since then, although he has not been coaching all that time.

Four years in a row his teams have represented their town in the state tournament and in each his teams have won the lion's share of the glory. One year he won the flag, and the second was barely nosed out by the Pocattello quintet.

Coach Telford was one of the stellar players on the outfit that won the first pacific conference gonfalon during that golden era of 22, 23 and 24. In 1924 he was elected captain, but in 23 and 22 the Vandals came through with the wins that paid off.

Several outstanding players have been developed by the former Idaho graduate, among which Carlons, present frosh star, Rebbensdorf, Peterson, and Justus, who attended school last year.

If he continues his present winning streak, he is due for a rise into high society. Universities are on the look out for coaches that can turn out winning teams, and Telford seems to have that knack.

WEATHER DRAWS IDAHO ATHLETES INTO OPEN AIR

Track, Football, and Baseball Men Swarm on McLean Field

Yesterday afternoon was the official opening of the spring athletic program at Idaho. Varsity baseball candidates tossed the ball around the diamond under the watchful eye of "Rich" Fox. Spring football began for the gridlers, and Coach Anderson's track men were getting their first air of the season as they traveled through their paces on the big track.

Prospects for all three squads are good, as plenty of veterans are on hand for the teams, and now that the actual practice has started the coaches plan to bring their men along as fast as possible.

Gridmen Report.

The football squad, 32 strong, was issued suits and lost no time getting into action as Calland had them playing touch football, falling on the oval, passing and kicking all afternoon. The men represent new candidates and last year's frosh players, as the veterans will not turn out for two weeks. Calland plans to have his present squad in good shape, with plenty of fundamentals under their belts when the old timers report for a four-weeks scrimmage session that should have the Vandals all set for the tough schedule next fall.

Baseball Squad Outside.

"Rich" Fox had his baseball squad out for their first workout and the men looked like they were all set for the conference season now. The hurlers spent an hour warming up their arms, while the rest of the ball hawks scooped up grounders and took flies off the bats of some of the veterans.

The practice was cut short in order to keep throwing arms from becoming over-worked, although the diamond artists have been loosening up for several weeks in the gymnasium. Fox spent part of the time correcting fielding errors as well as batting stances while his club was getting the feel of the turf and batted balls.

The crop of spring lambs in Idaho is unusually fine this year, says Prof. E. F. Rinehart, of the animal husbandry faculty. This, he thinks is due to the abundant feed and the unusually sunny weather.
