The Bonfire

Somebody remarked the other day that Idaho's traditions are "few and far between;" but, right now, one, at least, is occupying the minds of the freshmen, namely, the bonfire.

For years, Idaho has always had a bonfire at the homecoming game. Part of the tradition has been the erecting of a rubbish heap every fall larger than that of the preceding class. During the first few years, following the introduction of modern plumbing in Moscow, this was comparatively easy. But, in more recent times, appropriate material has been scarce.

The freshmen really have a difficult task before them this week, and now is the time for all good Moscow citizens to come to their assistance. Moscow students at the university, especially, should not fail to notify members of the yearling class if they know the whereabouts of any useless material that might burn. And useless is specified. Last year the freshmen resorted to some oak garbage barrels behind one of the halls, such measures should not be necessary. If the pyre rises above the three telephone poles and the rubbish in Moscow is thoroughly cleaned-up, a "good time will be had by all."

CADET TEACHING BEGINS MONDAY

Thirty-Four Helping in Grade Schools and High Schools

Thirty-four future teachers, all enrolled in the practice teaching class under Professor W. Wayne Smith, began their practice teaching in the three local schools Monday. There are 21 "cadets" as they are called, in the high school, three at the Whitworth building, and 10 at Russell school.

The practice period consists of one week of observation, and one week of actual teaching. During the first week, the cadet grades papers, assists the regular class room teacher, and observes. The next week he takes charge of the class, with the regular teacher as a critic, after having worked out a satisfactory lesson plan. The system is under the supervision of Professor Smith and F. G. Gale, superintendent of the Moscow schools. Cadets in the high school meet with Professor Smith every Monday at 4 o'clock to discuss their work while they are teaching, and the grade school cadets confer with him on Wednesday.

Three Begin Later. Three more cadets in the class will wait until November 9 before beginning and according to Professor Smith a larger class in practice teaching is expected next semester. These people teach that subject in which they are most interested. In this semester's team there are no foreign language cadets, at the high school, while in English, history, and science there are more than one.

The school of education pays a certain stipend to the city school board for the privilege of doing practice teaching in the Moscow schools, while the board pays the critic teachers an extra amount. "In addition to the help it gives the school, practice work stimulates the regular teachers, while giving cadets experience," said Professor Smith. "It is a very much better plan than having cadets get their experience in a special practice school on the campus, because they are getting actual experience such as they will meet in the real teaching after college."

QUARTET FEATURED ON FOUR PROGRAMS

String Quartet Will Give Recital at End of Semester

The University String quartet has been especially busy this month with various engagements, according to Carl Claus, assistant professor of music.

The quartet played first for the faculty recital, October 8. This recital was presented for the delegates to the annual convention of the Third district of the Idaho Federation of Women's clubs.

The second engagement was at Lewiston, October 9, where the quartet sang at a morning session of the Idaho Education association. On October 17, the quartet played for the Daughters of the American Revolution, and on October 20, for the Moscow Music club.

The members of the quartet are: first violin, Professor Claus; second violin, Helen Parrott, senior; viola, Patricia Kennard, sophomore; cello, Miriam Little, instructor in music. Miss Kennard is a new member this year. She is taking the place of Louva Mae Jensen, who did not return to school. Mr. Claus is planning to have the quartet give a recital at the end of the semester.

REVEREND CODY ATTENDS SCHOOL

New Parish Priest Works for Masters Degree at University

Reverend Father Cody, the new parish priest of the Catholic church of Moscow, is attending the university for a masters degree this year. He is genial, easy to meet, and an essentially spiritual man who will prove a great help to the students.

The parishioners of Boise regret that Father Cody was given the place at Moscow and the students of the university and the people of Moscow readily understand why. He was principal of St. Joseph's school and chaplain of St. Teresa's Academy in Boise for six years. He received a masters degree in education at Mount St. Mary's, Emmetsburg, Maryland. He is an enthusiastic football fan having at one time coached a squad.

Father Cody said, "I deem it a great advantage to go to Idaho and I like the friendly atmosphere of the campus."

"No Men Allowed" Will Be Cry When Coeds Hold Dance

"No men allowed" is the slogan for the annual co-ed prom scheduled this year for November 14 at the emorial gymnasium. It is the one time of the year when all the co-eds can get together without the intrusion of their boy friends. Every girl is invited to come, dressed in costume. A prize will be given to the most cleverly dressed girl or couple.

During the intermission each group house and both halls are asked to give a short stunt or skit. A prize is offered for the most original and entertaining stunt, being won last fall by Kappa Alpha Theta.

"Tickets in the form of dance programs will be on sale soon," Austa White, general chairman, announces. "Final plans for decorations have not yet been made, but we promise that they will be unusually good."

Foresters' Ball is to be held at the Women's gymnasium at 8:30 p. m., Saturday, Nov. 7.

Three Gay Mixers Are The Coming Events Of The Week

Seniors plan an unusual mixer for this Wednesday night. It will begin at eight o'clock at the Blue Bucket inn, at which time the first social meeting of the year will be held. The main idea of this first mixer is to strengthen the spirit of homecoming. The intercollegiate knights are sponsoring a jolly mixer next Friday night in the gymnasium. A good orchestra will furnish the music. The homecoming dance will also be held in the gymnasium on Saturday night, under the auspices of the alumni.

Receptions Given.
Kappa Alpha Theta, Hays hall and Pomey hall gave formal receptions Sunday evening in honor of the faculty members at their residences. An informal tea will be given by the Alpha Phi's next Wednesday at their chapter house. Several dances were given last week-end. SENIOR HALL HAS RECORD OF HAVING TEN BROTHERS NOW

Five Pairs of Brothers Are in Majority at Dormitory

Five pairs of brothers are out of a total of 17 residents is the unique record boasted by Senior Hall, auxiliary dormitory at the University of Idaho. Seven of the ten lived in Senior hall last year.

Oddly enough, two sets of brothers are from the same town, Weiser, Harold Albee, a sophomore in the college of agriculture, was prominent in freshman athletics last year. His brother, Leslie, registered this fall as a freshman in the school of forestry. Paul Ingelbretsen, also from Weiser, is a second-year forestry student, and his younger brother, Shirley, a freshman pre-medical major in the junior college.

Graduate This Year

Hazelton is the home of Henry and John Hohnhorst, both of whom expect to receive their degrees in June. Henry is a senior mechanical engineer and John a senior in the college of agriculture.

Howard and Gilbert Grenier hail from Hammett, south of Boise. Howard is one of the tallest men in the university, six feet five, and one-quarter inches; played on the freshman basketball team last year. He is enrolled in the school of education. His little brother, Gilbert, is only six feet one, and is a freshman business major in the junior college.

Gerald Ingle, a senior in the school of business, and William Ingle, a junior in the college of agriculture, are registered from Kendrick.

Gentleman Jim Says Daubers Are Taboo

In regard to this matter of exterior decorating of the "T" tank we feel that teething rings, rattles and other appropriate equipment should be handed out to the next group that has such an urge to express themselves. We'd just as soon have them express themselves via the next train to Orifino, where they will be at home among that select group to which they really belong.

And once more Homecoming is with us. The Idaho team, with the support of the students (from past experience, a clear case of non support) will give the Bulldogs a lesson in pronunciation, by demonstrating that the "gr" in the Bulldog growl is best pronounced as "hr". And how—

The Ag Bowl is gone but not forgotten. According to the lawyers, there will be a second Ag Bowl when the results of the traditional struggle are known, and sponges will make the most appropriate decorations seen in a long time.

The old song entitled "I get the Blues when it Rains" is all wet according to some of the Sophs, for it has rained three times recently and still they haven't any new trousers to wear.

After consulting the Kampus Kop, about the reason for the Tri-Delt's benches, the following conclusion was reached. It's just unfair competition in the matter of encouraging patronage by the members of Bench and Bar. But such trickery will never work, for the jail is to far away to make them feel completely at home. And again, that idea may be all wet.

And again that creates a thought (believe it or not) that the fellow who said, "Bars do not a prison make" was correct. They usually make a speakeasy.

"The Beggar on Horseback," popular play of the season of 1923-24, will be read at the weekly meeting of the advanced dramatics class to be held on Wednesday, October 28, at 4 o'clock p. m.

LEWIS AND CLARK DEFEATS MOSCOW

High School Gridders Play Close Game on MacLean Field

With a perfectly placed drop-kick from the twenty-yard line in the closing minutes of play, the Lewis and Clark eleven from Spokane nosed out the Moscow high school 3 to 0 on MacLean field, Saturday afternoon.

After an entire game of erratic offense and stop-wall defense on the part of both teams, the visitors finally took advantage of a scoring opportunity when Frazier, Moscow quarterback, dropped a punt inside his own 20-yard mark, which was recovered by a Lewis and Clark man.

Wasmuth dropped back and kicked an easy goal just over the bar to put the game on ice.

Moscow tried desperately to score in the minute of play that remained by tossing long passes, but failed to complete one.

Moscow held the edge over the heavier Spokane team on paper, making more first downs and totaling more yardage, several times breaking away on triple reverse plays for long gains, but were unable to take advantage of scoring opportunities.

This loss marks the second defeat for the Moscow eleven this season, having lost to North Central earlier in the season by a last minute touchdown, 13-7.

An estimated crowd of 1,500 turned out to witness the game.
