Introducing a new type of construction, the exposition buildings for the Century of Progress Fair in Chicago are costing 10 or 12 cents a cubic foot, which is extremely cheap. The buildings appear flimsy, but they are sound structurally, are fireproof, and are insulated against heat and cold. Experts declare the structures will be good for at least 20 years of usage.

An editorial in The Chicago Tribune suggests that the lesson should not be lost upon those designing school and college buildings. "We are spending millions each year," the editorial states, "in erecting magnificent temples of learning in the certainty that 20 years hence they will be as obsolete as a 20 year old school building is today."

Idaho students don't have to look very far to see the truth of this statement. When the Engineering building and Morrill hall were built, they were no doubt the best structures of their time. But their time is passed, and yet they remain to serve. They remain solely because the legislature can't afford to tear them down and erect new, larger, and more modern buildings in their place.

If they had been built more cheaply in the first place, however, with the specific idea of tearing them down 20 years hence, more money would be available for appropriations now. There might even be enough extra change in the treasury, so that Idaho students would not at present be studying in such a cramped and inconveniently arranged library.

IDAHO BANK FINDS SPURIOUS TWENTY

Bill Raised From Five Dollar Denomination; Expert Work

BOISE—A warning for banks to be careful of counterfeit bank notes was issued today by the state bankers' association with the discovery in Glenns Ferry banks of $20 counterfeit bills.

The bill was raised from $5 and escaped detection until it was passed to the bank. It carried a picture of Lincoln while real $20 bills should bear a picture of Andrew Jackson. It was explained by E. W. Porter, secretary of the association.

Secret service agents were advised of the counterfeit and bankers began a hasty check of currency on hand.

Porter said it was an example of very fine counterfeiting work.

Used Acid
Acid was used to remove the $5 designations from each corner. It similarly removed the printed letters "five dollars" from each side of the note. On one side the word "twenty" was traced in, being otherwise left blank.

Porter advised bankers that it was possible that a large amount of the counterfeit was in circulation as the technique indicated it was the work of experts.

LUMBERMAN OF N. IDAHO, S. A. HOFSLUND, IS DEAD

COEUR D'ALENE—Segurd (Sig) Alfred Hofslund, 48, manager of the Blackwell Lumber company of Coeur d'Alene, died Sunday at the family home after two years of falling health.

Hofslund, widely known throughout northern Idaho and the Inland Empire, came to Coeur d'Alene from Wisconsin 25 years ago. After a short time working in the mill where a place was made for him as bookkeeper. Later he was advanced to other positions, finally being appointed assistant secretary and treasurer, and in 1919 succeeded R. M. Hart as general manager.

GOLD FILLS VAULTS IN BANK OF FRANCE

Ingenious Traps Protect Bullion Underground.

Paris.—This is the story of a ride by trolley through streets paved with gold, 15 fathoms under Paris, a greater fortune than Croesus ever dreamed of. It was no dazzling sight, nor half so brilliant as the decoration of a modern palace devoted to the speaking films, yet within an arm's reach of the trackless trolley stood piled most of the nearly 50,000,000,000 francs which represents the bullion stores of the Bank of France.

The bars, most of them with Bank of England seals, do not glitter nor do they shine, but stand in neat steel cases like so many books in a library.

This great supply of gold, second largest in all the world's history, is more carefully guarded by ingenious mechanical protections than is any reigning king. A regiment of safe blowers could never hope to steal a single bar of gold from these vaults, into which 2,000 guards of the Bank of France could retire and keep house in case of attack or war.

Visitor's Reputation Scanned.
The Bank of France outwardly looks like any other bank, except that it is larger than most others in Europe. The thrill comes only in penetrating the gold vaults, flanked by an official who has previously instructed detectives to look up your reputation.

Alongside and bringing up the rear is a platoon of uniformed guards, each entrusted with opening some portion of the great underground labyrinth. If one man is missing it is impossible to penetrate the vaults. All the keys are useless if one is missing.

The entrance to the gold vault is by one of a series of shafts, most of which are "dummies" leading nowhere. The shaft for the descent has walls 15 feet thick of steel and concrete, water-proofed and ventilated.

This shaft is sunk through solid rock over which, not far below the surface runs an underground creek. This creek is really mud and sand in motion. It is allowed to run freely over the gold vault, another protection against penetration.

Great Doors Intervent.
At various levels on the way down it is necessary to leave one shaft for another, passing through great steel and concrete doors. Some of them are revolving, others are pushed in and out like corks. These are the most ingenious barriers.

At first approach the wall appears to be solid, but an electric trolley runs up, attaches itself to a ring and backs away, pulling from the bottle-neck this great 15-ton "cork" of steel and concrete. The same trolley pushed the cork into place. There are ten such impenetrable doors of all sorts, each more ingenious in conception than another, before the gold is reached 80 feet below.

There, 90 feet under Paris, are the streets of gold. Bullion is constantly arriving.

The minute anything goes wrong underground warning bells clang all the way up to the surface, and at police headquarters on nearby streets overhead a special signal rings.

If the thief tries to run special traps will open, flooding compartments and shafts with water or traps on the ceilings are sprung and tons of sand crush everything beneath. Secret pipes carry gases and steam. Walls and doors are sandblasted so smooth that it is impossible to take hold and flooded moats from which rise slippery sandblasted steel walls make capture certain.

TELLS OF DANGERS ON VOLCANO FLIGHT

Hop Over Aniakchak "Prelude to Hell," Priest Says.

Santa Clara, Calif.—A graphic description of his recent flight across the volcano Aniakchak is given by Father Bernard J. Hubbard, famed "pader of the snows," in dispatches from Alaska.

Aniakchak is the world's largest active volcano, and was successfully spanned by the Santa Clara university priest in a plane piloted by Harry Blunt. The plane was nearly sucked into the crater.

"It was the most terrible prelude of hell that I ever imagined," Father Hubbard informed friends at Sitka, Alaska, from his base camp at Kukuluk bay.

Crater Changed.
"The great moon of the crater was completely changed from its shape last year," he said. "Where we hunted caribou and picked flowers last year is now inside the crater."

"A high fissure many miles long splits the southwestern floor of the crater and the mountain in the center has blown up and is still erupting."

"In the southeastern crater floor there are two new pits which resemble a huge coliseum. They are sending out smoke and cinders continually. The entire crater is black and resembles nothing more than a huge tank containing many cubic miles of sulphur gases."

"Our trip was like a trip to the moon. It seemed as if we were looking into a moon crater."

Fearing Being Sucked In.
"The plane rocked and dove. For a time it seemed as if we would be sucked into the huge crater, but I had full confidence in Harry Blunt, my pilot, and in the prayers of the mission native children of Holy Cross, Alaska, who promised to pray to the Queen of Angels each day for our safety and success in our unique venture."

"The airplane trip, Father Hubbard declared, was necessary in order to study the activity of the volcano before seasonal changes obliterated many important features."

INDIANA HIGH SCHOOL Student One-Man Band

South Bend, Ind.—Paul Castle, a high school student of sixteen, is gaining popularity as South Bend's one-man band. He plays the piano, accordion, a drum, and all the traps, nearly a half-dozen horns, a fiddle, harmonica, and several devices of his own invention.

Paul gives a large amount of credit for the one-man band idea to his father, who helped him rig up the outfit. In his performance the right foot comes in for more than its share of the work. It beats the bass drum, hits the cymbal, tambourine, and triangle. A snare-drum, connected to a small battery, rattles each time the other drum booms.

A special wire rack holds the harmonica and horns, so that all can be played without the use of the hands. The left hand plays the accordion and the right hand the piano.

At present both Paul and his father are searching for something to keep the left foot busy.

Deafness Blessing for This Man's Neighbor

Seattle, Wash.—Several hours of patient treading finally repaid Ronald Egger when he landed a large trout—one of the biggest fish he had ever caught—and he happily contemplated the meal it would make.

He proudly showed it to his wife, who suggested that the neighbors ought to see it before it was cooked. Egger put it on a platter and went next door. The neighbor took the platter, examined the fish, then turned to enter the house.

"Thanks, old man," he hung back; "mighty nice of you to give me this fish. I'll make a swell meal for the family."

Egger's heated comments a few minutes later were halted by his wife. "He's hard of hearing and thought you were giving it to him," she remarked.

Pair Fails in Attempt to Be Wed by Hoover

Washington.—Into a White House atmosphere surcharged with tension over grave international problems strolled a pair of persons who were completely disinterested in German reparations, war debts, balance of trade and all that stuff. A colored youth beamed:

"We want to see the President."

His feminine companion, on his arm, giggled and blushed.

Demanded the prosaic Captain Dalrymple, in charge of White House police:

"What for?"

The youth beamed again:

"We want to get married."

"My Gawd," said "Dal."

He informed his callers that it was Mr. Hoover's busy day and sent them to the license bureau.

Small Beetle Aiding in Fight on Forest Worms

Newberry, Mich.—A small beetle has come to the rescue of forests in the upper peninsula infested with a small worm which has stripped trees of leaves, according to reports.

Aid has been sought from the entomology department at Michigan State college and the response was that the worm could be killed only by airplane dusting. When a trip was made through the forests recently, however, it was reported that the worms were diminishing in numbers and that they were seen to have been eaten by the beetles.

Man Mountain Breaks Hotel Shirt Sleeves Rule

Cleveland.—Primo Carnera, Alpine pugilist, is the only man to violate the old tradition of one of the leading hotels here, that a man must wear his coat in the dining room. Old employees of the hotel recalled no exception to the unwritten rule—even in most torrid weather of a summer—until Primo ambled in coatless. They remonstrated. He protested. The rule was broken.

Many Activities On Campus Over Thanksgiving Holiday

Thanksgiving vacation proved to be very exciting for all students remaining on the campus. Not a single moment was idle. Wednesday evening the woe-be-gone stay at homes were found cheering themselves at a dance at the Blue Bucket Inn. On Thursday all of the houses had bountiful Thanksgiving dinners featuring the traditional American turkey.

The Alpha Phi hostesses on Thanksgiving eve at a buffet supper after which dancing was enjoyed until midnight. Gamma Phi Beta sorority entertained the same evening with a bridge party.

Informal Dances.
The fraternity houses were the scenes of much gaiety on Friday and Saturday nights when informal dances were the vogue in popular entertainment. Friday, Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Phi Gamma Delta, Delta Tau Delta, and Delta Chi were hosts at these delightful affairs. The Sigma Chi and Lindley hall dances were given Saturday night.

Sleighbells parties also vied for a place in the list of vacation activities. Members of Alpha Tau Omega and Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternities went in fervently for that diversion.

The event slated for this weekend is the Senior ball to be given Friday evening at the Elks' temple.

FRATERNITIES GIVE DANCES
Friday night was probably the busiest night of the holiday though each was filled to capacity with interesting events. Delta Tau Delta entertained at an informal dance and supper at their chapter house. Mr. and Mrs. Allan Janssen acted as patron and patroness. Sigma Alpha Epsilon entertained at a house dance on the same evening and Phi Gamma Delta gave a sleighing party first, followed by dancing at the chapter house. Miss Bethel Packenham and Mr. Edward Poulton were chaperones.

Delta Chi had an informal dance Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Steffens were patron and patroness. Alpha Tau Omega had an unusually large crowd at their dance. Music was furnished by Rosie Layne's orchestra. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Raeder were special guests.

Saturday evening Sigma Chi and Lindley Hall gave informal dances. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Gillette of Wenatchee, Wash., were guests of Sigma Chi that evening.

LITTLE WINTER CARNIVAL SPONSORED BY TEKES
Saturday evening the vacation bound at the Tekes house gave a winter carnival dance for twelve couples. A sleigh ride early in the evening, several hours of dancing, and bob-sledding on A Street were the diversions. Refreshments of coffee and buns were served in lumber camp style. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bever, Jo Ross, Beulah Barker, Jane Merrick, Ruth Smith, Edna Scott, Mary Axtell, and Louise Phrockmorton. Patron and patroness were Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Cassell.

SORORITIES ENTERTAIN
Alpha Phi entertained at a delightful buffet supper Thursday evening. Fifteen guests were invited. Following supper informal dancing was enjoyed.

Pi Beta Phi were hostesses at an informal fireside Friday night. A number of guests were invited.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Crane, Mrs. Rose Gilgan of Boise, and Miss Marjorie Crane were Thanksgiving guests of Beta Theta Pi. Mr. Galen Willis, now attending the University of Washington, and Mr. Clarence Green of Kellogg were guests for the week end.

Delta Delta Delta announces the initiation of Virginia Belle Evans, Ogden, Utah; Agnes McKiernan, Pomeroy, Wash.; and Marian Eastburn, Coeur d'Alene.

Dean and Mrs. James F. Messenger, Prof. and Mrs. Charles E. Holly, and Prof. and Mrs. Allen C. Lemon were dinner guests of Lambda Chi Alpha, Sunday, Nov. 22.

Prof. E. E. Hubert was a dinner guest last night of Tau Kappa Epsilon. After dinner he led a forum discussion.

Mrs. M. C. Gellinsky was a house guest of Tau Kappa Epsilon during the holidays.

KENDRICK SAFE BLOWN SUNDAY
Burglars Loot Red Cross Pharmacy For Narcotics, Cash; Extent Of Loss Unknown
Burglars Sunday night broke into the Red Cross Pharmacy at Kendrick and blew open the safe in a desperate effort to get narcotics and drugs. Sheriff Charlie Summerfield learned Monday from police officers there.

In company with Deputy G. K. Moody he went to Kendrick at once to determine the extent of the loss and obtain fingerprints, if possible. No details were learned here about how the yegmen gained entrance to the drug store or the extent of the loss.

Officers said the narcotics may have been taken for resale through bootleg channels, where they command high prices.

Dixie Roberts, Vanderbilt half-back, contributed 222 yards in gains and four touchdowns in the first game of the season.

Game Warden Sees Bread Lines For Idaho Game Birds
BOISE (AP)—The Idaho state game department wants to be sure there are no hungry birds this winter.

M. P. Bailey, state game warden, broadcast a request for sportsmen to watch carefully for coveys of quail or other birds which sometimes get "snowbound" or hungry and need care. Snow covers up much of the feed and frequently causes heavy loss.

The warden has no worry about the big game, particularly in north Idaho. Returning from a two weeks' rack into the wilderness in the Clearwater, Lochsa and Selway districts, and again in the Priest Lake territory, he said big game was very plentiful and feed conditions good.

Burleigh Grimes, Cardinal hurler, first met Gabby Street, now his manager, when both were with Chattanooga in 1913.

TRAINS DOGS FOR EUROPEAN BLIND

Tennessee Woman Provides Guides for Sightless.

Paris, France.—A clever and philanthropic American woman from Tennessee, Mrs. Dorothy Harrison Eustis, has made it possible for many blind men and women of Paris to develop an independence they never have known before, and she does it with dogs.

At her home in Vevey, Switzerland, Mrs. Eustis has established an organization called the "L'oeil qui Voit," or the "Seeing Eye," where she trains German shepherd dogs as guides for the blind. She says she conceived this idea after visiting Potsdam, where a similar enterprise has been successful.

Special trainers teach the dogs to be the "eyes" of the blind, and a number of blind people are received into her home where they are kept until they are accustomed to the dog.

Assisting Mrs. Eustis are two fellow countrymen, Miss Edith Doudie and E. S. Humphrey, whose efforts are concentrated on bringing help and relief for the blind throughout the country, for requests come to them from all parts of the world.

Only two or three dogs are trained at a time, and very close and concentrated attention is given to them until they become proficient in their task. By certain movements the dog is taught to make, he tells his sightless partner when to step up or down, from a curbing and when it is safe to cross a street.

Mrs. Eustis says that she does not allow the animals to be punished so that they have the slightest fear of their trainers.

New Machine Will Make Ditch Digging Passe

Canton, Ohio.—An engineering firm here has perfected a boring machine which will drill passageways and install piping underground without an open ditch being dug first.

The machine is fundamentally a horizontal rotary drill, which uses the pipe, or casing, to be installed as the medium for carrying a rotating cutter head. For operation the apparatus is placed in a ditch running at right angles to the embankment to be drilled through. The power unit is set up at the side, and power transmitted to the drill by an adjustable drive shaft. The system of power transmission is understood to be flexible and can be adjusted to all operating conditions.

The practical use of the boring machines has been demonstrated, officials of the engineering firm said.

Italian Priest Learns to Fix Leaning Towers

Genoa.—Don Piccaro, Italian priest, has developed a side line in which he has no rivals. In his spare moments he is a church tower and belfry straightener. He has just finished bringing the belltowers of the parish churches of Monerago and Santo Stefano d'Aveto back into line.

Don Piccaro, assisted by two or three workmen, dis a trench around the base of the tower to be straightened after first securing the top with steel stays or ropes. He drives a number of steel wedges into the sides of the trench and covers them with sand. The priest and his men then hammer the structure back into position.

Convict Gets $100,000 for Unpickable Lock

San Quentin Prison, Calif.—Harold Marks, robbery convict, who invented an unpickable lock, learned recently that his ingenuity has won him $100,000.

Marks applied for a patent on the invention, and through a patent attorney was told that an eastern lock firm had placed $100,000 in escrow for him, pending patent grants.

"I'm going to bring my mother and sister to California," Marks said, "and when my five-year stretch is done I am going into business for myself. Maybe I'll write a book on 'How to Get Rich in Prison.'"

Whistle Tells These Shoppers Day's Weather

Columbia, Mo.—One long blast from the whistle of the city water and light plant, and shoppers don their raincoat and sally forth confident of fair weather.

Two long and three short blasts, and they either defer the trip or take along the umbrella and fur coat. Another signal, and it may be the palm leaf fan, or the whipcord duster.

George Reeder, United States meteorologist, arranged with the plant to broadcast his weather forecasts and generally spread the code. Now Columbia knows its weather prospects long before they are in print.

Turkeys Reported to Be Increasing in Size

Salem, Ore.—Train Oregon turkeys to be halter led. That's the suggestion of Edward Shearer, poultry raiser. "If Oregon turkeys continue to grow," he said, "it will soon be necessary to have them halter-broke and lead them around their stalls like cattle. Many of the Oregon toms are 50 pounds or more. To handle them is not a job for a weakling."

Sob Sister

Well my dear, since everyone seems to be playing cirrus and jumping through the circles around their eyes, we gather that a very enjoyable time was had by one and all.

From all the rumors flitting around, some people must have found it a very profitable vacation as well as an enjoyable one.

It was a psychological moment, or something.

Anyhow, the Beta pins were surely passed — promiscuously or otherwise.

And returned, of course.

Never mind, fellows. Pins have been returned before.

Our candidate for the Cluck club the boobs who insist on staying in class after Dr. Barton practically brings tears to his eyes, trying to get them to leave.

We'd say he was one of the few people blessed with an understanding heart.

Or else he was pretty tired too.

Everyone seems glad to give Clair Gale the glad hand on seeing him back this year—Clair and his orchestra.

They must be missing some of the old gang—Art, Steff, Hutch, Corkery, and Koester.

In an interview with Mr. Stanton Hale this afternoon, he gave the reporter the startling statement for publication that "it's love that makes the world go 'round." Professors are astounded at the young man's wisdom and knowledge and predict a brilliant and happy future for one with such sentiments.

Then there's the serious minded young Clayne who is going to be, if not already, a big thing for the Phi Gams.

Have you noticed how they're running true to type this year? You don't need to see a pin on a man to tell when he's a Fijl.

And, believe it or not, that one was not a jibe.

Idaho gained outstanding athletic recognition in the South after a six-man cross-country team journeyed to Salt Lake city and ran away with the annual Turkey Day marathon. Charles Heath, veteran Vandal runner, repeated his last year's performance, winning first place. His nearest competitor was a teammate, John Thomas, who finished a quarter of a mile behind. Every member of the Idaho squad placed in the first eleven. This victory gives Heath two legs on a silver lining cup which will become the permanent possession of the first athlete to win the marathon three times.

Willton Iyle, a veteran member of the University of Utah track, has also won the event two times. Last year the Idaho runner nosed out Iyle in the finish. This year Iyle failed to enter the competition because he lacked the proper condition. Although the Thanksgiving race ended Heath's collegiate competition, both of these runners are expected to be on hand next year to fight it out.

A brilliant four-year athletic record came to a close last Thursday for Charles Heath. Starting on the frosh track squad during his first year at Idaho, he started his sophomore year by winning the intramural cross-country run. Since that time, he has been the Vandals leading distance runner, winning his letter in track three consecutive years, and leading the Idaho Marathon team through three successful seasons. "Chuck" was always counted upon to take a first or a second in the one and two-mile runs.

His climax was reached last year when he led a veteran field of runners across the tape in the cross-country run at Salt Lake last year.

Although Heath's presence will be missed on future squads, the other five members of the team will be back next year, and Coach Otto Anderson is counting on another winning team. Anderson expressed himself as being pleased with the showing made by his team this year. Several Utah newspapers reported that "Heath and Thomas are two of the best distance men seen here for some time."

The season for picking all-star selections has arrived, and is in full swing. Although the official all-American teams have not been chosen, many western men have been among those mentioned by various sports writers and authorities over the country, among them, "Irish" Martin of Idaho, along with Arnebjide, Baker, and Williamson of U. S. C. Schwepler of Washington, and other outstanding linemen. "Wee Willis" Smith, Idaho's diminutive quarterback, has been mentioned on several all-coast selections.

His teammate, George Wilson, can be rated very little lower than Smith, and the fact that they both have been starting from the same position doubtless has kept them off many mythical elevens. In "Art" Spaugy, Idaho, has a strong candidate for selection on the squad to represent the West in the annual East-West game. He is easily one of the best centers on the coast this season. Several other candidates from Idaho cannot be considered because they have another year to play in intercollegiate competition.

Prospects for the yearling basketball squad this year are very slim. Although a group of 35 freshmen are turning out every night, Coach "Red" Jacoby is not counting on very successful season. Very little promising material has come to light, but with a squad cut coming up soon, Jacoby will spend lots of time working with the small group he has.

Intramural baseball, which was postponed indefinitely because of lack of space to conduct the tournament, has been scheduled to start December 17, according to John Thomas, manager. This sport will be the first major event on the intramural program.

REVEREND DRURY TALKS TO GUILD

Tells of World War Conditions in Arabian Desert

"Chicken wire made the Arabian desert a boulevard during the World war for the English when the Turks were trying to take the Suez canal," the Rev. R. P. Drury told members of the university chapter of the Westminster guild at their monthly meeting in the recreation rooms of the Women's gymnasium, Tuesday evening.

The Rev. and Mrs. Drury spent 13 years in China, and when they came home they took the money that would have taken them across the Pacific in first class passage and they took little Bobby and went home by the way of the Holy Land.

FROSH DON'T DRINK

A questionnaire conducted by the Daily Princetonian indicated that there are more abstainers among the freshman class at Princeton university this year than there are drinkers. The questionnaire also revealed that a majority of the 545 freshmen prefer a Phi Beta Kappa key to a varsity "P." About 60 percent of the class did not know what it wanted to be outside of alumni.

SPECIAL TO HAVE CAR FOR DANCING

Make Reservations Early For Holiday Train to South.

A special dancing car and a college orchestra are the features of the holiday special train to be run from Moscow to Pocatello. The train will leave Friday, December 18, at 1 p. m.

Reservations have been called for. They can be made with D. E. Moore or W. L. Smith, agents. The fare for the round trip will be one and one-third the usual price.

Besides the dancing car and orchestra, Pullman sleepers, tourist sleepers, a dining car and an observation car will be included in the train. As many students already have definite plans of going on the special to southern Idaho towns, it is urged that all reservations be made immediately.

D.T.G. HAS LUNCHEON

About 50 members of Daleth Teth Gimel, town women's organization, met this noon for a social meeting in the form of a luncheon. It was held in the club rooms of the Women's gymnasium, and was for members and pledges. The lunch was prepared by the members.

WILL DEBATE WITH W.S.C. THURSDAY

Idaho Affirmative Team Will Oppose Wage Reduction In Debate

Karl Hobson and Harry Anghny will represent Idaho here Thursday night in a debate against W. S. C. students in Ad. 311 at 8 p. m. The question is "Resolved: that wage reduction has retarded progress toward recovery from the present economic depression." The affirmative will be upheld by Idaho.

A second team composed of Paris Martin and Ralph Olmstead will debate at Walla Walla with representatives of Whitman college Thursday night, and at Pullman with W. S. C. students Friday afternoon. The Idaho team will uphold the negative side of the question with both schools.

Depressed Transportation
"We'll probably have first hand information about the depression," said Ralph Olmstead, new debate manager, "after we've hiked from Colfax to Pullman Friday. We find that there are no transportation facilities at the right time, and it will be a question of shoe leather and endurance."

Ralph Olmstead succeeds William Wetherell as debate manager. Due to illness, Mr. Wetherell failed to return to school after Thanksgiving vacation.

Requests for debate contests with men's teams have been received from thirteen universities and colleges. New Zealand and Florida are the most distant places who have asked to schedule debates with Idaho teams. Universities who have written in are: Oregon, Montana, Puget Sound, Pittsburgh, Washington, and Colorado. Brigham Young University in Utah, LaVerne college in California, Rollins college in Florida, Utah State Agricultural college in Utah, Linnfield college in Oregon, and Canterbury college in New Zealand have also asked to schedule debate contests.

'POPPAS' HAVE MONEY

Chorus girls like college men, according to Walter Winchell, New York columnist.

"There's the legend that the 'Poppas' of college students are in the dough. Most of the better lookers, however, go out with gangsters who really have money," says Winchell.

Mr. Winchell himself has never been inside of an educational institution for study purposes since he was expelled from the sixth grade. When given the opportunity to attend the Columbia school of journalism, he declined because of the undesirability of arising at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Kenneth Hensley, president of the Vandaleers, received an invitation this week from radio station KMTB in Los Angeles to try out for a position as a regular singer on its staff of entertainers. The offer came from William Sharples, the station's program manager.

Hensley said he couldn't understand why the station should invite him to try out, as he has never met any members of their staff, and outside of several radio programs with the Vandaleers, he had no radio experience. He may accept the invitation, he said, but not before next summer. Hensley expects to graduate in June with a bachelor's degree in education. Music is his major subject.

Tennessee had 21,851 boys and girls enrolled in crop and livestock projects this year.

ADS FOR BUCKET CLUB'S SUBJECT

Students to Write Ads for Town Merchants

A discussion of campus advertising as practiced by Moscow merchants in comparison to other universities will be the feature of the Ad club meeting scheduled for Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Ad 207, announced Jay Kendrick, president, this morning. All business and journalism students are invited.

Copy and layouts for several of the downtown business houses advertising for the December issue of the Blue Bucket will be made, if acceptable to the merchants the ads will be used.

The Ad club is cooperating with the business staff of the Bucket in an effort to have the merchants realize full returns on advertising dollars spent for campus contacts.

PROSPERITY IS NEAR

P. I. P. A.—According to Professor Bernard Holey, head of the economics department at Stanford university, prosperity is "just around the corner," and the present business depression is "just about played out." His most important reason for this belief is that the depression has been going on for about two years, and they very seldom last over that time.

Moulton Has Major Role
Margaret Moulton, who last summer capably played the romantic comedy lead in "The Patsy" before a capacity summer school audience is now cast to play a major role in the current production. Kathryn Hart also plays one of the three most important roles. She scored last year as Zinida in "He Who Gets Slapped" and "The Death of Tintagles."

SECOND PLAY HAS AN ALL STAR CAST

Seven of Cast Have Had Leads in Previous Shows

The Associated Press announces that in the future Hollywood movie magnates are planning to screen plays containing all star casts — literally Idaho will really be in advance of the movement, however, with the production of "The Cradle Song" here on the evenings of December 11 and 12.

Seven out of a cast of twelve have played leading roles in former all-college plays here or elsewhere while the remainder of the cast are not without experience. An unusual coincidence lies in the fact that Bertha Moore and Dorothy Menzies, who both, last year, played the leading role of Consuelo in "He Who Gets Slapped" — Miss Moore here at the university and Miss Menzies at the southern branch — are cast in "The Cradle Song." Miss Moore has had wide dramatic experience, playing a lead in "The Bill of Divorcement" and a prominent role in "The Death of Tintagles."

Raphael Gibbs is to play one of the few masculine roles in "The Cradle Song." He also has had a varied experience in dramatic work, playing in "He Who Gets Slapped" and in "The Bill of Divorcement."

Phi Chi Theta Entertains New Members at Breakfast

Phi Chi Theta, national women's honorary in the school of business administration, held initiation services at the Tri Delta house Monday evening at 5 o'clock. Immediately following the services the initiates were feted with a formal banquet at the Hotel Moscow. Helen Carney acted as toastmistress and responses were given by Katherine Mikkelsen, Ellen Jack, and Helene Benson.

LOSE AND NO DATES

Boston university co-eds recently informed the members of the varsity football team by letter that they would not speak to or make dates with the gridgers until they win a football game. At the time the team had suffered ten consecutive defeats, and the girls indicated that they were getting tired of it.

Mrs. John Myers of Brown, Okla., preserved 1,700 cans of food from spring and summer gardens, and plans to put up 300 cans of meats.

Floyd B. Olsen, governor of Minnesota, worked as a boy selling newspapers and shining shoes.

Made FRESH

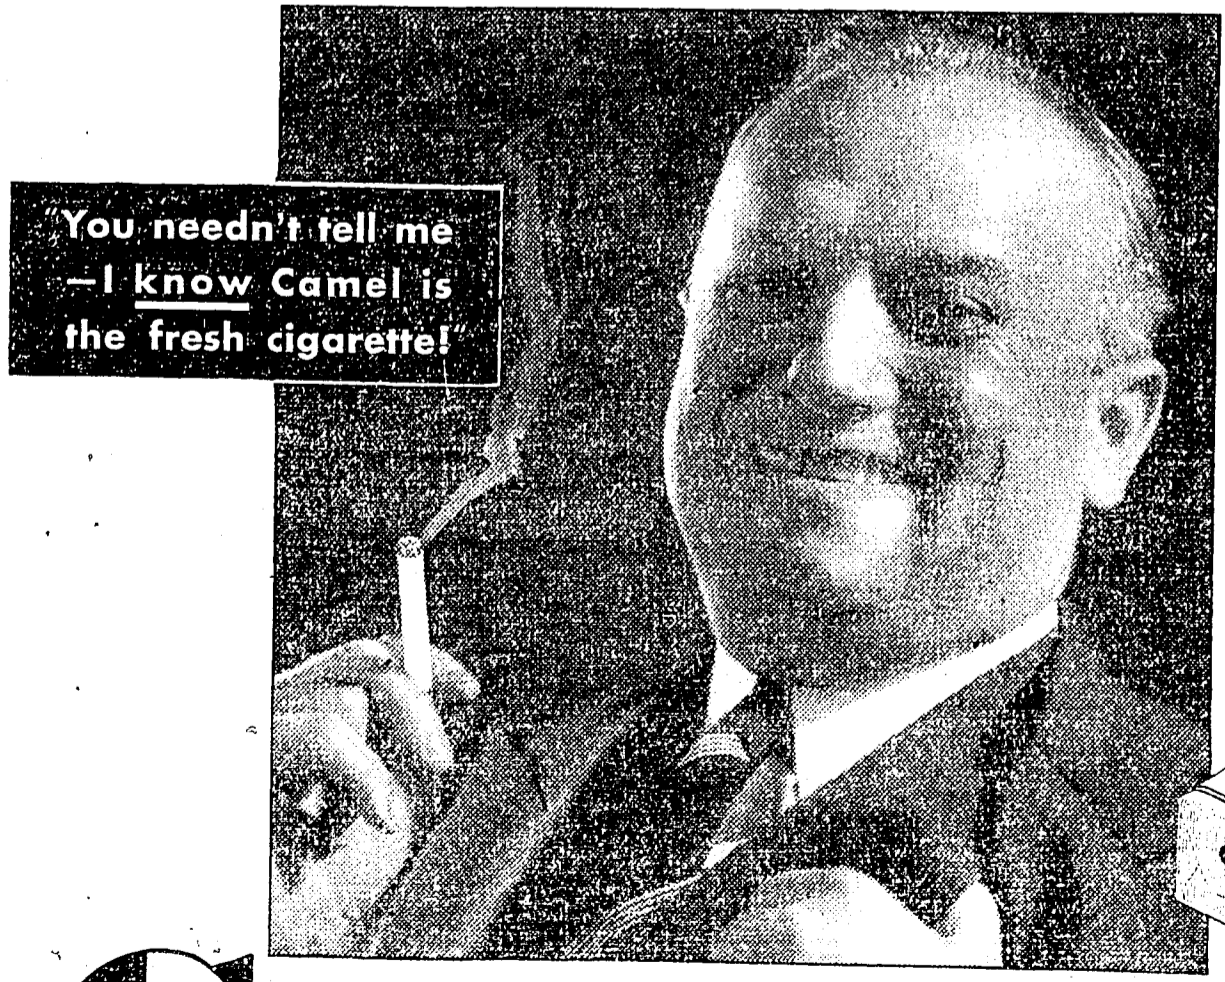

never parched, never toasted

CAMELS are KEPT Fresh!

You probably know that heat is used in the treatment of all cigarette tobaccos. But you know too that excessive heat can destroy freshness and fragrance. That's why there could be no truly fresh cigarette except for scientifically developed methods of applying heat. Reynolds is proud of having discovered and perfected methods for getting the benefits of heat treatments and still avoiding ever parching or toasting. With every assurance we tell you, Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh — not parched or toasted — and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack. If you wish to know why the swing to Camels is nationwide and steadily growing — switch to them for just one day — then leave them, if you can.
