It Ought to Be Somebody's Business

A short time again the head of a large and important girl's school in the eastern part of the United States, made a speech in which she said that interest in politics had no place in colleges. Students were in universities, it seems, for the purpose of gaining an education, and politics is not a part of education.

For a girl's school that philosophy may be all right, but for universities at large the lady's ideas are slightly in error. It is just that kind of an attitude that has put us where we are in political corruption today. While leaders in American business and political economy are pleading for young men with college education to enter the political field as a means of saving American democracy, these young men are saying, "No thank you, it's a game, and it's too dirty." When Owen D. Young and Governor Roosevelt of New York and the governor of Connecticut made speeches in which they stated that American politics needed the type of men who came from colleges to pull things out of the mire, the Yale daily newspaper replied that politics offered nothing worth going after for a college man. Says the News, "Politics is just too dirty. . . . The most serious of all menaces to American principles is the increasing abhorrence of educated young men for politics. Politics is no longer a decent profession. We have heard too many men at Yale, too many men everywhere, speak their opinions of the American government to have any doubt of their low regard for it. The American Government is menaced by a very real nationwide disgust of this kind."

But now it is time that that attitude changed. It is time that students in universities did begin to show an interest in politics. It is up to them to take it from the category of a game and put it on a standard of business. Men of education can stop log rolling; they can see that something besides maneuvering in hotel rooms take place. Whether they become politicians or not, as public citizens they can begin to wake up to the necessities of real government. It will be a long process, but the business has got to be done. If that is the case, the people to whom that business properly belong are the ones who are in college. It is time to get going.

Of course, that is just advice. There is no danger of any such sudden activity. Instead we will continue to muddle through just as long as we do in our own political activities. When elections come along in campus affairs, we let the politicians do the electing. We fall for their ideas of student body government, their economies, and we don't bother to think about what is meant by smooth promises.

But even if that is the case, if the most unscrupulous, if the crooks, are going to be the officials, there is still plenty of reason why we should be interested. If enough of the more honest men, if there are any of such, are interested, graft is going to be more difficult. Our politicians may become smarter and that may carry over every once in a while to a brilliant political move. And again, if there is going to be graft, why won't it pay us to be interested enough to get a little of it for ourselves. Eitherway, it is a duty of college men and women to be politically wise.

JUNIOR FORESTERS TO LEAVE ON TRIP

Seventeen Students Will Journey to Priest River To Study Methods

Seventeen juniors in the Idaho school of forestry leave next Sunday morning for a two week's field trip to the Northern Rocky Mountain Forest Experiment Station 20 miles north of Priest River, Idaho. The forest experiment station has a large number of research projects under way and opportunity is given to the Idaho students to study methods of conducting such studies and gather information as to results to date. Logging and sawmilling operations carried on near the station will be visited at which time the students are permitted to assist in the actual work. U. S. Forest Service timber sales will also be inspected and the marking of timber will be carried on under the direction of a Forest Service officer. The students plan to travel over the North and South Highway which will take them through the five thousand acre experimental forest being developed jointly by the Idaho school of forestry and the U. S. Forest Service.

The students making the trip are Ralph Ahlskog, Spokane; Rudolph Benson, St. Maries; J. P. Brown, Hot Springs, Ark.; Loyd Burnett, Moscow; John Cook, McCall; Kenneth Daniels, Moscow; Jack Fred-eric, Coeur d'Alene; W. S. Gaffney, Weippe; Corland James, Spokane; Merton Kuhn, Union, Ore.; Paul Larsson, Sac City, Ia.; Paul Martin, Montpelier, O.; Lawrence Newcomb, Coeur d'Alene; Robert Ole Butte; Wm. H. IDAHO GRADUATE MAKES DISCOVERY AT U. OF CHICAGO

Clayton Loosli Receives Two Year Assistantship in Tissue Culture

Growing live tissue from embryo chicks in laboratory glassware last year not only earned for Clayton G. Loosli of Marysville, Fremont county, a master's degree from the University of Idaho, but a chance to continue his studies under recognized medical authorities at the University of Chicago. Loosli is now attending the University of Chicago medical school working under Dr. William Bloom, head of the Rockefeller tissue culture laboratory and one of the leading men in the field. He recently received a two year assistantship in tissue culture in the anatomy department of Rush medical college, another Chicago division which pays $1000 a year and allows half time work in school. Loosli transferred to Idaho from Rick's college, Rexburg, in 1927, and received his bachelor's degree in pre-medical studies in 1930. His major professor here was Dr. H. B. Slough, head of the department of zoology. From the botany department of the University of Chicago comes word of another Idaho graduate who has won recognition, John B. Mitchell, Parma. "Your Mr. Mitchell has just passed a brilliant doctorate examination. We can all feel proud of him as a scholar and a gentleman," Mitchell has been doing research work in plant physiology since 1929 when he received his master's degree here. He will receive his Ph. D. degree from Chicago in June.

Another Idaho graduate, Boyd Faulkner, Fort Haily, has been spending his time to advantage since he graduated with a degree in agriculture last June. A recent letter from the head of the genetics department of the University of Nebraska describes him as "the best graduate student we have ever had in the department." His major at Idaho was plant breeding under Prof. C. A. Michels.

GRADUATE SPEAKS ON FOREIGN TOUR

Home Ec Club to Hear Speaker and Elect Officers Tuesday.

Miss Dorothy Howerton, graduate student in home economics, will tell the members of the Home Ec club of her last summer's trip to Europe at a meeting next Tuesday. Miss Howerton and Miss Jean Collette, who now holds a fellowship in English, are both graduates of Idaho and made the European tour together.

"Home Ec club officers for the following year will be nominated from the floor and elected after the talk," announces Dorothy Janssen, president.

The Home Economics club is made up of students enrolled in that department. Each year the club sponsors the Co-ed prom, a formal banquet, and a club picnic.

Dr. Donald A. Laird, director of the Colgate university psychology laboratory, has recently discovered that chewing gum peeps the average person up about eight per cent.

EASTERN STARS ARE HOSTESSES

Entertain Daughters and Sons at Get-Together.

Daughters and sons of Eastern Stars were invited to an informal get-together Wednesday evening at the Masonic Temple. A large crowd of university students attended. Refreshments of angel food cake and crushed strawberries were served as soon as everyone had arrived. Then a grand right and left started the dancing off. Two steps reels and a number of old fashioned dances helped to break the ice and get everyone acquainted. At the end of some of the dances everyone changed partners, thus meeting new people. Everyone had a lot of fun and only wished that 10:30 had not come so soon.

STUDENTS CAN'T READ

New fangled educational methods, Dr. Ernest Horn of the University of Iowa recently told the Inland Empire Education Association meeting at Spokane, Wash., should be forgotten until all students learn to read. Dr. Horn charged "it is beyond the ability of the ordinary student to get the meaning out of the ordinary textbook. Reading or failure to read or to be able to read is one of the drawbacks in modern education, even in the colleges." Oregon Daily Emerald.

FROSH COEDS WIN BASEBALL SERIES

Sport Is Again Popular This Year With Girls.

Baseball season closed this week with the freshmen holding the championship. Although the seniors ran a close second the freshmen were able to defeat these more experienced players. Members of the winning teams are:

Ruth Puckett, Marie McElroy, Janette Wines, Marian Ginder, Marjorie MacVean, Carol Campbell, Ellen Frazier, Edris Coon, Angeline Cherutti, and Evelyn Peterson.

The second team championship was taken by the frosh-sophomore team made up of Vaye Miller, Abigail Wadsworth, June McCabe, Maurine Aldecoa, Lillian Olsen, and Mary Louise Hepworth.

In spite of the unsettled weather conditions, baseball again proved to be one of the most popular of women's sports this year. There was a turn out of about 60 girls. Most of the practice was held in the women's gymnasium. Out of the 6 weeks period there were 5 weeks of indoor and one week of out door playing.

There are more than 10,000 extension students at Minnesota.

INTRAMURAL NET PLAYERS BATTLING

The intramural tennis tourney has progressed well into the semi-final matches in spite of the showers late yesterday afternoon that sent a dozen racket swingers under cover with half-finished sets.

Kappa Sigma remains the only undefeated team in A league having gone through the first three rounds without a loss. They played the winner of the Teke-Fiji match for the right to enter the finals. The Tekes earned the right to play for the consolation championship by winning from Tau Mem Aleph yesterday afternoon.

In B league, Alpha Tau Omega occupies the top position with no defeats so far. They play the winner of Sigma Chi-Sigma Nu match which was rained out yesterday afternoon for the right to enter the finals. Phi Delta Theta reached the finals by defeating Ridenbaugh hall in three matches yesterday.

VARSITY GOLFERS MAY PLAY W. S. C.

Coach Leo Calland is making a trip to Pullman this week-end to arrange with Doc Baker, director of physical education at Washington State, for a home-and-home varsity golf match. The meet will be played next week before the final examination schedule starts.

Golfers to represent Idaho will be chosen from the leading players in the intramural golf tournament last Saturday. Several outstanding scores were made, and the Vandals will enter the match with plenty of talent. Sherman Elworthy, individual low-score winner, in Saturday's meet with a low score of 36 for the nine-hole course, Willie Lewis, runner-up with a 39, Bill Willis with a 40, Mac O'Brien with 41 and several others with scores in the low forties are among those from whom the Idaho four-man squad will be chosen.

In an informal home-and-home meet with W. S. C. last year, the Idaho squad trounced the Cougars 25-13. Dope points to a repetition of the result this year.

SPORT SHOP

The recent visit of Jonathan A. Butler, the Pacific Coast conference investigator, has brought nothing to light yet, but the official report will be given at the conference meeting in July. Much has been the comment on his various stops on the tour but to date the remarks which he has given out would rival even Cal Coolidge for information contained. However the big bombshell or something of the kind should develop at the conference meeting in July—or perhaps it is not possible to find traces of niggers and woodpiles, etc. Wonder if Pullman is worrying as he is there now.

The track meet at Pullman tomorrow should be something well worth traveling to see. The Cougars will be represented by a strong team and will be the favorite, but has hit consistently.

some real high class performances by Coach Anderson's men will rival anything W. S. C. has to offer. The Idaho squad has been turning in some great acts in the recent meets and too much credit cannot be given to the men and the untiring efforts of Coach Ott Anderson.

The great shifting of men in the Vandal infield may not have bolstered the defense to any great extent but it did something to the attack part of the game. In the total hits in the last four games, Fox's team has outhit the rivals which is a great improvement over early season performances. Cy Geraghty has been the sensation of the squad in the conference games. After starting the season on the bench, he has developed into one of the best fielders in the league. He is a fast fielder and team and will be the favorite, but has hit consistently.

The great need for more tennis courts has been the outstanding result of the spring campaign. From early morning until dark the courts are crowded every day and to get to play it is often necessary to wait usually an hour or more. Many men of potential varsity caliber are kept away from the game because of the long waits necessary before getting to play a set.

Ralph Brashers, who fills a similar position, is visiting also. He is one of a family of four University of Idaho students, all prominent athletes. Mr. Brashers' wife, Mary Finnigan Brashers, accompanied him.

IDAHO GRAD. THROWS HAT IN RACE

Was active in World War Service.
Mrs. Bislone, Anne Glunderman, Delta Gamma, was also very active in student affairs, having served as Secretary of the Student Body and Elected May Queen in 1917.

Do you inhale? Seven out of ten smokers know they do. The other three inhale without realizing it. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Think, then, how important it is to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure you don't inhale certain impurities!

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this much-avoided subject . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? More than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.
