

Mystery Play Tops Calender Of Social Events This Week

"Hawk Island," mystery play by Howard Irving Young, will be the outstanding event of the week and is scheduled for Friday evening, with the Alpha Tau Omega pledge dance and hair ribbons seemed not to have effected the attendance at dances; in fact, if there has been any difference at all it seems to have been that a greater number of couples remain on the floor throughout the dance.

Feminine "I" Club Punishes "Repeat 1903" Offenders

"Lest we forget" was the inscription on the sign worn by Phyllis Peterson as she merrily played a flute and skipped over the grass around the fountain in front of the Administration building Wednesday noon. She was star performer at the first "I" women's party in the history of the university, given in honor of those women who neglected to wear hair ribbons during the first week of the "Repeat 1903" drive.

Other entertainers were Annie Snow, Coalma Amstutz, and Kathryn Kennard, who, with hair and faces dripping wet, bobbed for apples with a dainty grace that caused much admiration. Bright green crepe paper hair ribbons were worn by the honored guests—all four of them. The other eleven guests failed to appear.

A large crowd formed on the steps and sidewalk formed an unusually appreciative audience. All the performers were cheered heartily. All women present fairly flaunted their bows before their less fortunate sisters, and, although there seemed more than the usual number of green caps in evidence, the "I" club furnished several masculine offenders.

WORK ON PRINTING PLANS FOR ANNUAL

Ralph York, of the Snyms-York Printing company of Boise, arrived on the campus today to work on plans for the Gem of the Mountains with Clayne Robison, editor. The Snyms-York company has done the printing for the Gem for the past six years and has the contract for the coming edition. York and Robison will work on the plans for the printing of the Gem on the budget for the year as well. They hope to cut down the budget, but at the same time, to maintain the standard of quality which has been set by the past editors.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO RUN 308 AT BILLIARDS!

ERICH HAGENLOCHER, twice 18.2 ball-line billiard champion of the world. Healthy nerves have carried him through stern international competition to many titles. Mr. Hagenlocher says: "For successful billiard play, watch your nerves! I've smoked Camels for years. They are milder. They never upset my nervous system."

TALKING IT OVER calls for more Camels. Steady smoking reveals the true quality of a cigarette. Camels keep right on tasting mild, rich and cool... no matter how many you smoke.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

"I know of no sport," says Erich Hagenlocher, "that places a greater strain on the nerves than tournament billiards. The slightest inaccuracy can ruin an important run. One simple rule for success is, 'Watch your nerves!' I have smoked Camels for years. I like their taste better. Because they are milder, they never upset my nervous system, and believe me, I smoke plenty."

There is a difference between Camel's costlier tobaccos and the tobaccos used in other popular cigarettes. You'll notice the difference in taste and in mildness—and Camels never jangle your nerves. You can prove this yourself. Begin today!

The Vandals are enjoying their first week end without a football game since the season started. That doesn't mean that they're resting—far from it. Already setting their aim on the Cougars and are going to have a week of tough practice under their belts when they meet that wily animal.

Howard MacInerney, veteran regular tackle, has returned to the squad. Harold Klumb, the California boy who played a great game against Montana, is holding down that tackle position now, and Mac will have to show a real brand of ball to get his position back.

Over at the Cow college they don't rate the coming Idaho-W.S.C. game as of much importance in the conference. The Cougar-U.C.L.A. and Cougar-Huskies games are of course considered most important. While their game with the Vandals may not be important as far as determining who the conference leaders will be, the Cougars are very likely to find that it will make quite a difference in the position which they occupy in the conference at the end of the season.

The Cougars are going to meet plenty tough opposition this week end when they tangle with the Gonzaga Bulldogs. Although Christofferson will be back in the lineup, the Cougars are still somewhat battered from the game with Oregon State and if they don't recover better than they did from their game with U.S.C. they are likely to find themselves in for a surprise trimming tomorrow.

Gonzaga has played a schedule this year which any team might well balk at. Almost without break they have met the U. of Washington, the U. of Oregon, Oregon State college, the Seattle Athletic club, and the U. of San Francisco. Their only win was against the West Seattle Athletic club, but they have provided stiff opposition for every team they have met. A one touchdown margin was all that the powerful, "Iron-man" Oregon State team could defeat them.

Gonzaga meets the University of Montana in Spokane on the same day as the W.S.C.-Idaho game, November 11. This conflict was the only one which appeared on the Inland Empire football schedule but was evidently unavoidable. That will undoubtedly be a good game but is not expected to compete with the annual classic, the Vandal-Cougar clash.

A great demand for reserved seat tickets for the big game has already developed. An even larger than usual crowd is expected this year and plans are being made to accommodate 10,000 people at the game. All hotel accommodations in the city have been reserved over that week end for some time.

The University of Oregon meets the University of Utah this week in what should prove to be an interesting clash. While the Webfoots are favorites, they're going to have a tough time for several reasons. For one thing, they are pointing for their big game of the season the following week with Oregon State. They will probably not be at the peak mentally for this game which will not affect their conference standing. Too, Utah, five-time winner of the Rocky Mountain conference, has one of her best teams in years. Utah has, however, been defeated in her last five games with Pacific coast conference teams, and is determined in every bone to finally win at least one game from their coast opponents.

Only one conference game is scheduled for the Pacific coast this week end—the California-U.C.L.A. battle. Other western games are: the W.S.C.-Gonzaga, Oregon-Utah, Stanford-Olympic club tussles. Here are the winners (we think)—California; Washington State by not more than seven points; and Stanford.

Vandals Round Into Shape For Armistice Day Battle

Idaho Team Will Be At Full Strength For W. S. C. Game Nov. 11

With no game scheduled for tomorrow, Coach Leo Calland is devoting all his time in developing a defensive which will stop the Washington State Cougars in the Homecoming tilt Armistice day. The Cougars, who were defeated by the scant margin of 2 to 0 in last Saturday's game with Oregon State and who tied the mighty Golden Bears of California two weeks ago, rate slightly higher on paper in the conference than do the Vandals, having one win, two defeats, and one tie, as compared with Idaho's two losses and one victory.

Special attention is being paid in perfecting an adequate defense against W.S.C.'s widely publicized end run play, which evolves from a punt formation using an unbalanced line. Upon snapping the ball the entire line and backfield shifts in the direction the play is headed producing a potential 10-man interference wall. The play has netted long gains so far this season. Against a team lacking in good defensive might easily become of touchdown calibre. Coach Calland is occupied in giving his ends plenty of drill in beating down this particular play.

Watch Passes
Sharing in importance is the Vandal defense against the Hollingbery aerial attack, featuring Christofferson and Kelly in the snaring roles and Sarboe and Mergens doing the passing. These boys went great against California and in the event that Armistice day dawns bright and clear on a reasonably dry field, will probably be seen in action.

The tricky double shift which Washington State uncorked against California is receiving its share of attention. In performing "Babe" Hollingbery's latest "brain wave" the Cougars line up in their usual punt formation with an unbalanced line. After the first shift is completed the team shifts quickly into a balanced line, by which time some member of the opposing team is generally offside, though W.S.C. adherents swear that such is not the object of the play. Coach Calland is determined that no 5-yard offside penalty shall be chalked up for the Vandals as a result of the W.S.C. double shift and is drilling the squad intensively against such a mishap.

Strong Line
A large part of the time will be spent in strengthening the Vandal forward wall which functioned well against Montana but showed weakness against the "ten-ton" Oregon line two weeks ago. To the Idaho linemen will go the strenuous job of holding out the line plunging charges of Bendele and Colburn, dynamic Cougar backs. Coach Calland has better material in the line positions than has been seen on the Idaho campus for some years, with Nutting, Moser, A. Berg, Klumb, McInerney, McCue, and Swann in the front ranks and Hoggan, Wilson, Moore, Spaugy, Beatty, Barbee, and Davis providing an ample supply of reserves. Nutting, who was filling a tackle berth against Montana, will probably be switched back to his regular guard position with the return of Howard McInerney. "Chick" Wilson is crowding the regulars for a guard position and Moore, 193-pound sophomore, is working hard for a starting position at tackle.

Tuesday and Wednesday were spent in light workout with the heavy work beginning last night and scheduled to continue until the last of next week.

Ralph Hutchinson, trainer, reports all the men are in fine shape with the exception of Harry Jacoby, who has not yet fully recovered from a leg cut received in the Montana game last Saturday. It is expected that the veteran back will be ready to go before the big game a week from Saturday. Geraghty and Nutting, who received minor injuries against Montana are fully recovered.

VANDAL BOXERS SUFFER INJURIES

May Handicap Them in Meet With W. S. C. On November 9th

The Vandal boxing squad has received various minor injuries during the past week which may result in a great handicap to them when they meet their W.S.C. rivals in a real battling smoker on November 9th.

Louie Denton, who is matched to fight Ed Cavanaugh of Washington State, is just recovering from the flu, while Morey Fickes, who is to fight Bert Johnson of W. S. C., is suffering from a severe cut above the left eye.

Other members of the squad are suffering from sprained thumbs and bruises; nevertheless, nothing can rid the Idaho boys of their 1903 spirit and they are out to make this Homecoming and smoker one with the real Idaho spirit," says Coach Louis August.

"Chuck Carlson has been training hard," continued August, "and is in the best condition he has ever been in."

Coach August, is placing all his confidence in Denton, Fickes, and Carlson, and says the boys have their heart set on winning. Besides the bouts between Idaho and W.S.C., the boxers within the school will show just as much fight as each man is fighting for the championship in his class.

CALLAND REPLACES BATTERED PLAYERS

Earl Smith, Russell Honsowetz, and Charles Wilson Show Up Well

With the unleashing of several new guns and the rebuilding of his battered ones, Coach Leo Calland will have his Idaho Vandal football arsenal at almost full strength when Idaho meets Washington State at Moscow Armistice day. Three potentially dangerous but then little used cannoners were brought forth against Montana Saturday when the Vandals defeated the Grizzlies 12 to 6.

IDAHO FRESHMEN POINT TO W. S. C.

Young Vandals Drill on Defensive Phases of Grid Game

With the lesson handed out by Gonzaga a thing of the past, the frosh eleven is settling down to prepare for the forthcoming tussle with the W.S.C. frosh. Coach Otto Anderson is putting the team through the mill on defensive plays. With that end in view he will start running Cougar plays against his first string this week.

The schedule game with Spokane university was cancelled, giving the boys three weeks to get ready for the Baby Cougars. It is likely that the ends will come in for a lot of work when the young rivals meet. Otto has been working the boys on passes and the squad is beginning to show an improvement in that department. Hogan, the passing quarterback, has been putting the ball to the receivers with improving accuracy.

Cougars Heavier
The Cougar Kittens are slightly heavier than the Idaho hopefuls but their weight is concentrated in the backfield. Glesier is reported to be the fastest man on the squad and a strong kicker. W.S.C. had to make over several backfield men for the line and with considerable success.

The Washington outfit is fast and cagey and promises the Baby Vandals a tough game. With the tilt still long way in the future it is difficult to point to a possible winner. However, the Idaho boys are full of fight and are looking forward to a win from the team across the line.
