CWA EMPLOYMENT QUOTA INCREASED BY GOVERNOR ROSS

New Allotment Brings Total
Hours of Work Up to 3000

WOMEN MAY WORK

Many Students Remain on Campus Over Christmas to Take Advantage of Help

The university CWA employment quota has been increased one-third according to information sent to President M. G. Neale by Governor C. Ben Ross. This additional allotment brings to 3000 hours per week the amount of CWA time available to the university, until February 15, the date of termination of all CWA activity unless congress provides for its continuation.

Translated into dollars the additional allotment means that now approximately $17,000 is available to students of the university between now and the date of termination. The rate of pay is 55 cents per hour, the standard CWA rate.

Students on the CWA employment list are warned not to cut classes to do this work. A special notice from the president's office Monday indicated that any student who cuts classes to work on a CWA job would immediately be removed from the approved employment list.

As announced previously students who are taking a full load of classwork are limited to 20 hours of employment per week while the university is in session. During the Christmas vacation, which starts Thursday and continues for two weeks, the regular CWA week of 30 hours will be in force. A large number of students are expected to remain on the campus during the holidays to take advantage of the employment opportunity.

Additional allotments also have been made to other state institutions, the governor announced. The Lewiston Normal school's hours per week was increased to 1050 hours, the Albion Normal, 1050 hours, and the University southern branch, 1500 hours per week.

When the original allotments for student employment were announced out that the university quota was approximately 20 per cent less than the amount requested. The additional 25-man allotment, however, brings the amount to slightly more than was originally requested.

STUDENTS WARBLE CHRISTMAS SONGS

Will Observe Tradition
Around Lighted Tree
Tonight at 7 p. m.

Idaho students will gather next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock to renew a tradition that has been neglected in recent years. The fir tree which was first lighted in 1922 to create a more inspiring atmosphere for Christmas carols will again be used.

"Other universities throughout the country have been credited with originating the idea of lighting a tree on the campus during Christmas time, and then singing carols beneath it, but to my knowledge Idaho lighted the first tree in 1922 and should be given credit for this beautiful expression of Christmas spirit," Miss Permeal French remarked.

Expresses Christmas

"There is nothing which expresses better the true sentiment of Christmas than the singing of Christmas carols and I believe to be one of the most treasured traditions we have," she continued. In telling of the first time the tree was lighted in 1922, Miss French said, "I was standing in President Upham's office and happened to turn toward the window, when I noticed the magnificent star on top of the fir tree for the first time. Even though I knew the tree was to be decorated, it gave me an ineffable joy to realize what a lovely sight it was and what it signified.

"On a clear night the carols carry across the campus very well, and even may be heard by the people across town. The symmetrical fir stands out distinctly and invites the lighting of the many colored globes, fittingly topped off by the pompous star."

AG SMOKER HELD WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The Ag Smoker, sponsored annually by the Ag club, was held Wednesday evening in the armory of the Memorial gym. A crowd of eighty students and faculty members was present.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Ralph Knight, master of ceremonies. Varsity boxers and wrestlers entertained for two hours. The bouts were close and fast throughout.

A reading by Avon Wilson and several numbers by the new Ag quartet were featured also on the program. The quartet is composed of Howard Cagle, Don Morely, Don Peterson, and Glenn Back. The remainder of the evening was spent in a general get-together while refreshments were served.

"How much will it cost to get home?" "When will we get there?" "Which railroad should I go on?" As Christmas draws near one hears these questions on every side.

Railroad officials urge students to make reservations as soon as possible to avoid a last minute rush. Perhaps the schedule below will aid worried students in finding their way home.

WILL APPOINT FIRST ALTERNATE

White Asks Neale For Recommendation of First Alternate
For West Point

A vacancy for the first alternate for appointment to United States Military Academy at West Point has occurred and Representative Compton I. White has asked President M. G. Neale to supply the name of a candidate.

The alternate will be admitted to the academy if the principal candidate fails to pass any of the numerous exams. The man admitted will enter the academy in July 1934.

Those wishing to take the examination should confer with Prof. Eugene Taylor of the mathematics department.

The letter Dr. Neale received from Representative White follows:

Clarksville, Idaho
November 30, 1933
Hon. M. G. Neale
President—University of Idaho
Moscow, Idaho

My Dear Doctor:
I have a vacancy for a first alternate appointment to the Military Academy at West Point and it is my thought to give this appointment to some worthy young man whom you feel can pass the physical and mental examinations. Would you be so kind as to suggest the name of a young man from the First Congressional district for appointment as first alternate the appointee to be admitted in July 1934 in case of the failure of the principal to pass the examination and he is successful in his tests. With kind personal regards, I am,
Sincerely,
COMPTON I. WHITE

This is the second issue of the magazine this year, the first being the Homecoming issue. The cover for the Christmas edition has been drawn by Lang Armstrong of the Spokane Engraving company.

The magazine features a short story by Dock Hogue and another style section by Jean Kingsbury. The humor section is also going to be featured.

News from the Southern Branch of the university will be found in this issue. An editor has been appointed to take care of the branch correspondence.

TO HOLD JITNEY DANCE JANUARY 5

To Be Held in Women's Houses;
Novel Affair to Be Sponsored By The Spurs

Jane's Jitney Dance, an all college dance, sponsored by the Spurs, will be given Friday, January 5. This is an entirely new idea being introduced by that organization, in that it will be held at four women's group houses and the women will be escorts for the evening.

The affair will comprise four different dances. These will be held at the Alpha Phi, Delta Delta, Delta Gamma, and Kappa Kappa Gamma houses. Each house will be decorated in its own distinctive motif. The Kappa house will carry out the Turkey in the Straw idea and the music will be circle two-steps and other fitting dances suggested by the name.

At the Delta Gamma house the Joe College motif will be carried out and all decorations will be very collegiate. A Rat Race will be the distinctive decorations at the Tri Delta house and Moor Indigo is the theme of the Alpha Phi house.

"We are most enthusiastic about our plans for this new kind of dance," said Elizabeth Nail, chairman of the committee, "and we hope it will be successful. Other members of the committee in charge are Lois Davies, Dorothy Dole, and Betty Booth.

FROSH TO DISCARD USUAL GREEN LIDS

From the "T" club comes the news that there need be no more green caps on frosh heads from now until St. Patrick's day. However, a warning is issued that this does not mean no hat at all. Some sort of covering must always be on the freshman's head while he is on the campus.

The University of Texas has recently received a first edition of the authorized translation of the Bible, familiarly known as the King James' translation, printed in 1611. Because of its influence upon the development of the English language and literature, it has come to be called the "greatest in the world."

HOLD INITIATION FOR FORESTERS

Four Men Are Initiated into Xi
Sigma Pi Monday Night

At an initiation meeting of Xi Sigma Pi, forestry honorary, last Thursday night John Parker, Garden Valley; Henry Ziminski, Gardner, Mass.; Orville Tumelson, Peck; and Charles Carlson, Pocatello, were initiated into the local chapter. Stewart Brown, Twin Falls, who was also to have been initiated, was confined to the infirmary. There was an initiation dinner in honor of these men at the Moscow hotel last Monday night, at which time each initiate read a paper.

FIVE YEAR PLAN PROVES SUCCESSFUL

Dr. Erwin Graue Talks to Phi Chi Theta at Noon
Luncheon

"Russia made her five-year plan into a ten-year plan not because the five-year one was not a success, but because it was so successful," Dr. Erwin Graue of the School of Business Administration told the members of Phi Chi Theta, women's business honorary, at a luncheon meeting at the Blue Bucket Wednesday noon.

Under this plan the economic system is based on the individual rather than on private property as ours is, Dr. Graue explained. Since private property doesn't exist in Russia, they have no stocks, bonds, or mortgages either. Wages are paid according to the individual's worth, he said.

Two Kinds of Money
Paper money, the value of which is governed by demand and supply, is used only internally in Russia, according to Dr. Graue. They have also a money for export trade which is backed by a gold reserve. Concerning the United States' recent recognition of Russia, Dr. Graue said that recognition of the right of all people to have their own forms of government is becoming prevalent. He also believes that the United States feels that she can profit by taking certain products into Russia.

Phi Chi Theta plans to have a luncheon meeting each month with some speaker each time.

Trial on Rocks; Set for Monday, But Is Postponed

Mystery, complete and unfathomable, surrounds the precipitous descent which took place today in the damage suit in which Miss Eulene Martin, beautiful law student at the University of Idaho, was suing John Farquhar and Warren Russell, wealthy, well-known men about the campus, for damages which she is alleged to have sustained in an automobile accident occurring in September at the entrance to the university campus. The trial which was set for Monday night, an attempt to collect $50,000 from the two defendants, did not occur. No satisfactory explanation was given.

Defense attorneys, Redford, Exelson, Wallis, Black, Amos, Bandler and Marcus, and plaintiff's attorneys, d'Micel, Lyon, Anderson, and Eimers, have been seen on several occasions, but they were always in a hurry in an attempt apparently to find cover. It is reported that the defense attorneys are

BERG AND ROESCH NAMED DELEGATES

Will Represent Idaho at the Rhodes Scholarship
District Meet

Lloyd Berg, a graduate student from Pocatello, and Winston Roesch, a senior in the School of Education from Tacoma, Wn., have been elected as Idaho's representatives to the Rhodes scholarship district meeting to be held January 6, announces Prof. Eugene E. Taylor, chairman of the University of Idaho Rhodes Scholarship committee. The scholarship, offered annually since 1904 from the bequest of Cecil Rhodes was won last year by an Idaho student, Rex Pontius, who was entitled to two years at Oxford, beginning in October. The honor is open to all men in the College of Letters and Science with a sophomore or upper classman standing.

The two Idaho candidates were chosen on the basis of scholarship character, and physical vigor by a committee composed of Professor Taylor, Prof. T. S. Kerr, and Dr. Harold Axtell. The students will compete with 10 other candidates, two elected from each state in the district. Idaho is grouped with Washington, Oregon, Montana, Wyoming, and North Dakota. This year all 48 states divided into eight districts of six states each, will compete for the scholarship.

Cardinal Key, a national sister service honorary to Blue Key, will soon be inaugurated on this campus. The honorary will function exactly as Blue Key does and will be represented by the same national body, but its membership will include the outstanding upperclasswomen.

BLANCHARD STARS AS "LIVING CORPSE"

Unusual Sets for ASUI Production of Tolstol's
Play Delight

By Nina Varian

To large and appreciative audience, Count Leo Tolstol's "The Living Corpse" was played last Friday and Saturday nights by the university players under the direction of Fred C. Blanchard.

The production was an excellent and unusual one, both dramatically and technically. The way in which Tolstol wrote the play, in a series of high moments in the lives of the characters, lent itself to an affective staging of the short, clear-cut scenes. Instead of the usual ornate, elaborate, Russian scenery, the characters and few properties were outlined in sharp relief by dark backgrounds and effective lighting.

Blanchard's Portrayal Superb
The crystal and jet clearness of the first scene formed a delightful contrast to the mad brightness of the following scene in the gypsy camp. No attempt was made at realism in the production. The gypsies were colorful and gay, and with their music symbolized Fedya's desire for freedom, just as all the scenes are merely to show what is happening in his soul.

Mr. Blanchard played Fedya in the traditional, continental way—the graceful gestures and the less restrained bodily movements. The role is a difficult one, and only one of Mr. Blanchard's talent and experience could have given such an excellent performance as he did. Tolstol meant the character to be sympathetic—this Fedya wrung the heart. Lovable in the very act of his throwing away conventional love and safety, strong in his own admission of his weakness, Fedya was made a moving and pitiful figure, and though he dies for society, he dies still searching for his ideal of beauty and happiness.

Alberta Bergh Excellent

Masha as played by Alberta Bergh is that ideal. Will, elfin, emotional, the real Masha is intangible, and even Fedya who understands and loves her, cannot hold her. Miss Bergh's interpretation was excellent, and in many ways surpasses any other work she has done at the university.

Ethlyn O'Neal as the conservative middle class wife Lisa, very adequately suggested the unimaginative "perfect wife and mother." Clayne Robison as Victor was almost too forceful and romantic for the smug, somewhat dull nobleman. Raphael Gibbs as Prince Sergius, added another convincing character portrayal to his list of performances.

UNIVERSITY GRAD TEACHES IN HAWAII

Ethel B. Richmond who received the B. A. degree from the university in 1917 is now teaching at McKinley high school in Honolulu and taking special work in the University of Hawaii, according to word received from Hawaii. Since graduation, she has taught in Idaho, Montana, Shanghai, and the Territory of Hawaii. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. Eileen Richmond, a sister, is now a sophomore in the university.

Bulletin Board

Kappa Phi Christmas meeting this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the women's gym.

Daleth Teth Gimel members and pledges Xmas party will be Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. rather than Tuesday as previously announced.

Gem Section Editors meet Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Gem office, Memorial gymnasium.

The move to effect such an organization was made by Blue Key after considering a proposal made by the national office and after considering the matter completely in its meetings. A need for such a body was seen by the members of Blue Key, according to its officers, because there is no upperclasswomen's service organization.

Moulton Chosen

After completion of plans for the organization of Cardinal Key, Blue Key chose the 12 charter members who met yesterday and elected Margaret Moulton, president, Frances Hanley, vice president, Frances Wheeler, secretary, Nina Varian, treasurer, and Marjorie Wurster, sergeant-at-arms.

The other seven members chosen by Blue Key are: Frances Dulsault, Ruth Humphreys, MaeBelle Donaldson, Ivy McPherson, Esther Hunt, Mary Axtell, and Ethlyn O'Neal.

Members were chosen upon the same qualifications as Blue Key chooses its members: activities, scholarship, and personality. The choosing of members from now on will be left to the girls themselves and it is not known what system they will use. Blue Key, taking the initial steps in organizing, will also take care of the final installation which will be in the middle of January.

French Heartily Approves

When asked to express her feelings toward the organization of Cardinal Key, Miss Permeal French, dean of women, said: "I think it is a splendid idea; the need for such a body of girls has long been obvious to me. A girl, upon finishing active service in Spurs, has nothing to look forward to until her senior year. Mortar Board being a senior honorary. We need an organization to intersperse the two present ones. Cardinal Key will do this."

Members of Blue Key indicated that installation will be at a banquet of Blue Key and Cardinal Key members in January and will probably be followed by a joint dance the same night.

IDAHO, WHITMAN FIRST IN DEBATE

Each Win Three Out of Five at Walla Walla Tournament This Week

The Idaho debate team tied for first place with Whitman college in a forensic contest held at Walla Walla, Saturday. The Idaho and Whitman teams each won five out of eight debates; while W. S. C. won two out of eight. The men who made the trip were Earl Carlson, John Farquhar, Karl Hobson, William Wetherall, and Mr. A. E. Whitehead, debate coach and head of the public speaking department.

The tournament style of debating was used, and this meant that both sides of the question were to be debated by each team. The idea is to give the speaker as much practice as possible. Earl Carlson and John Farquhar won three out of four of their debates. Karl Hobson and William Wetherall won two out of four. The question for debate was: "Resolved: the powers of the president should be increased."

A similar tournament is to be held here January 20. Freshmen and sophomores from W. S. C., Idaho, Gonzaga, and Whitman will compete, students from Lewiston Normal, Yakima Junior college and Spokane Junior college can enter regardless of their year. The same question will be used for debate. "Anyone interested in this debate may start work immediately after Christmas," said Mr. Whitehead Monday.

Tomorrow May Be Too Late

There is no picture that mother nature paints so daintily as the first snow of the season. We have had our first snow just the other day, but evidently nature was not satisfied with her first snow scene, so she ups and pours over us and takes the snow away—with many thanks.

Although the greater part of the first whiting of the campus has left, very few residents on and near the campus shoveled the snow from their sidewalks.

Snow shoveling is a dreaded task, but after it has been packed down and frozen it is impossible to remove the snow from the sidewalks. A spill now and then is a good joke, but the tumbles that result in broken bones are not humorous to the most of those who have to walk over the icy sidewalks with a dreaded fear of falling down with the next step.

Last year several students fell on the icy sidewalks and sustained injuries that cost them many dollars before they were through paying doctor bills. Students could be saved and doctor bills could be saved by a very simple solution. Shovel off the sidewalks before the snow freezes!

There are several bad places on the campus. In front of the Phi Gamma Delta house is a notorious falling spot. The sidewalk leading from the corner of Idaho street and University avenue along the property of Dean J. G. Eldridge to the Oriole Nest always takes its toll of broken bones and serious sprains. In front of the Delta Gamma house is another bad place that should be taken care of before it is too late.

The above mentioned places are some of the worst spots but there are several other places that should be taken into consideration before a fatality occurs. Shoveling the sidewalk after the person or persons have fallen is comparable to locking the door after your wife has eloped with someone else.

Cooperation on the part of all property owners on the campus in the clearing of their sidewalks would relieve the pedestrians from the horror of falling at any moment.

Scientific Religion

(The Princetonian, Princeton University)

Woefully ignorant of all forms of belief but his own and often contemptuous of that, the average undergraduate, head full of art or of science or of history, staggers out from his four years of college hardly less confused in his thoughts of religion than when he arrived here a hopeful freshman.

It seems thoroughly illogical that a man should be taught everything at a university such as Princeton except how to orient himself in the mystifying confusion of religious thought which rises up to haunt him like a specter. That the college student is interested in religion is patent from the not infrequent "bull sessions" on the subject, that though they usually arrive nowhere, reflect the quest for understanding that is felt by any intelligent man. It is as much the duty of the university to help him out of this difficulty by explaining and describing the great religious beliefs and philosophes as it is to teach him Latin and mathematics.

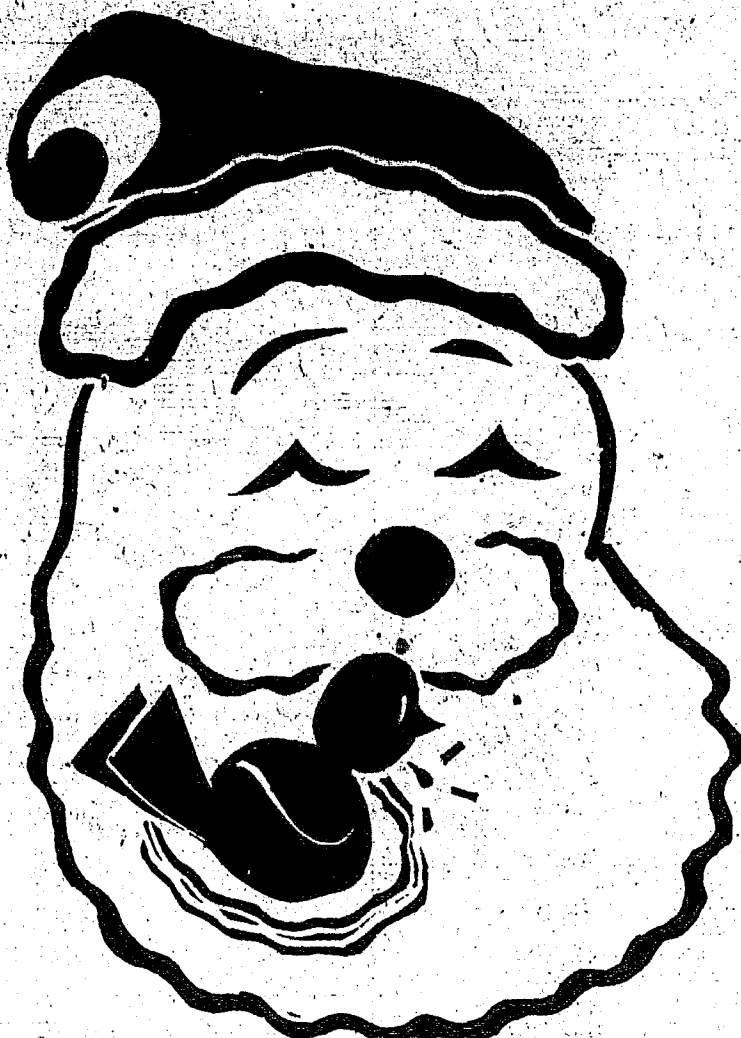

But, as was demonstrated in these columns last year, there is no reason to stop there. The Bible is certainly of as much a study of literature as are the Anglo-Saxon poets. Then again some of the great expressions of European art can be but feebly understood with no knowledge of their Biblical background. Treatment of religion from a historical angle and in its relation to modern thought and life opens an enormous field.

Not from a dogmatic, narrow, or proselytizing standpoint should any of these courses be given. They and others like them would be invaluable to the liberal Princeton curriculum, but only if presented in strictly an objective manner.

SANTA GETS THE BIRD —By Con Frazier

Please Page Scrooge

Satirist Gives Startling Opinions Concerning Santa Claus, Christmas Trees, Gifts and Tree Decorating

Where's Scrooge? The modern American Christmas is coming regardless of anything that can be done about it. If there is anyone with whom we would like to spend Christmas, it's Scrooge. Until he fell prey to a lot of sentimental mush, Scrooge was a swell guy. He deflated Christmas and the Christmas spirit. That was good judgment.

The basic idea of Christmas is probably fine. The event which commemorates is certainly well worth commemorating, but the process by which the occasion is celebrated has become such as to make one long to spend a nice, grouchy Christmas day with Scrooge.

The Christmas spirit is at present so inane. Can anyone suggest a crazier occupation for grown adults than spending most of a day planting a fir tree in the middle of the living room. Of course it's all right to do home gardening, but even Johnny, aged three, and Jane, age four (who are now standing in the corner looking sophisticated) know that a fir tree won't grow if planted in the living room. Besides that, we're getting tired of excusing such activities as Johnny and Jane do: "Sure it's silly, but the old folks get so much fun out of it."

It is time to put a stop to such things. Why, for instance, do people insist on hanging pop corn all over the place. Pop corn is to be eaten, and who wants to eat it after its been hung out to dry. And tinsel. Of all the things and people that one would like to hang, it is absolutely necessary to hang that junk so that anywhere you sit down it gets in your mouth or tickles your ear? Then, there's that sparkly stuff which is supposed to look like snow, but doesn't. Just what good does it do to scatter that around. It just has to be swept out from under the rug when the house is cleaned in the spring.

Yes, those things are comparatively harmless, but when they are added to the highly commercialized custom of presenting Christmas gifts, the whole thing becomes pretty horrid, pretty grotesque. Speaking of gifts, that idea is a swell way for merchants to get rid of things that even a puppy wouldn't chew, but it isn't fair. From the time the dressed up Santa Claus or Mickey Mouse appears in the aisles of the many establishments, while the merchants rush around raising prices on old goods, to the time when everybody rushes down on the night before to do his Christmas shopping early (and falls for that "Christmas bargain stuff") it's a complete fraud. And after it's all over, what have you got? Well, among other things, a half dozen so-called ties that aren't even fit to spill s up on, and a lot of other gadgets that couldn't have been used even for buying Manhattan Island from the Indians.

So that is Christmas—just a wild notion with anything. Christmas decorations (that aren't mashed already) get in your hair while putting them away, and you start paying off the Christmas bills so that more can be run next Christmas. Where's Scrooge? Now we are going to spend the day with him.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

"Everyone is familiar with 'Holy Night.' Since that time long ago when it was composed by a German priest, in a little German town, it has been sung by people all over the world, and will continue to keep its place. I hope that the students will turn out whole heartedly Tuesday night and sing this cherished carol along with the many others that are so familiar to us," Miss French concluded.

The Girls' Glee club, under the direction of Dorothy Fredrickson, will lead in the singing of the carols. "We are glad to be able to help revive the tradition and hope that the students will help us Tuesday night, so that in future years the tradition will be carried out with all the enthusiasm it deserves," said Evelyn O'Neal, president of the Glee club. "I think it is a fine tradition and should be kept up," President M. G. Neale commented.

Last Dances Before Vacation Carry Out Varied Decorations

Varied and colorful decorations were used this week end in the last dances held on the campus before the beginning of Christmas vacation. The Phi Delta chapter house, for their upperclassmen formal dinner dance, was very attractively decorated. The Senior Ball was held in a modernistic setting of black and silver. The Delta Chis changed their house into a pirate ship, and the guests came costumed as followers of the Jolly Roger. The Phijs changed their house into a huge Christmas package for their dance, and Hays had their decorations center around a huge Christmas tree.

Floor Transformed Into Pirate Ship

The upstairs dancing floor of the Delta Chi house was transformed into the deck of a pirate ship Friday night when the Delta Chis held their second annual Pirate dance. Costumes reminiscent of the days of Captain Kidd were very much in evidence as the dancers proceeded to go "native." Patrons and patronesses were: Dean and Mrs. F. G. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Chamberlain. The guests were: Betty Wilson, Dorothy Good, Claudia Jones, Ruth Smith, Jayne Jones, Rita Yost, Janet Reese, Charlotte Kennedy, Alise Frise, Clara Shaw, Mervia Cresswell, Myrtle Bach, Mary Ferguson, Barbara Geddes, Mildred Richardson, Nellie Irwin, Irene Hoffman, Evelyn Wilson, Dorothy Scoggin, Louise Willman, Barbara Mockler, Betty Winkler, Julia Wade, Donatella Dutton, Marian Swanson, Rebecca Black, Kathryn Zimmerman, Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Oberg, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Steffens, Douglas Cordon, Dorothy Yturri, Frances Herbert, Ada Yost, Lillie Gallagher, General McKinney, Gertrude Evans, Helen Lawrence, and Adalene Symerton.

Phijs Give House Party

At the Phi Gamma Delta informal Christmas dance held Friday night a duplex style of ballroom decoration was utilized. The two rooms used for dancing were wrapped in red foil paper and white respectively. The ceiling of the red room was decorated with suspended streamers of red, and green shredded cellophane. The white room contained numerous Christmas seals in the form of clever cartoons representing Mickey Mouse, Mae West, Santa Claus, and Christmas toys. Altogether there was six inches of snow above the mantel and over the doors the fire in the fireplace added a cheery atmosphere to the dance. The theme of Yuletide beauty and brilliance was skillfully executed. Programs were in the form of Christmas greetings from the Phijs and each guest found her program on a Christmas tree.

Music for the dance was furnished by Chuck Collins and his orchestra. Patrons and patronesses were: Mr. and Mrs. E. Poulton, Lieut. and Mrs. J. W. Sheehy, and Mr. J. A. Beckwith. The guest list included: Katherine Lane, Helen Brown, Dorothy Rosaviev, Esther Flenner, Mary Belle Edmonds, Frances Weimer, Charlotte Alquist, Ivy McPherson, Hazel Gentry, Vivian Reed, Edith Slater, Vatura Van Engelen, Betty Goodwin, Alice Porter, Ann Curtis, Phillips Temby, Pamela Persons, Isa Adamson, Ruth Holand, Beatrice Fisher, Nita Sherman, Gladice Colner, Erna Deal Sogard, Ellene Richmond, Katherine Kendall, Bertha Wilburn, Jean Kingsbury, Blanche Johnson, Martha Jean Elsburg, Betty Fisher, Doris Papesch, Betty Wilson, Helen Wilson, Lella Gabbey, Frances Hanley, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Staples, Mr. and Mrs. Vance Westkill, Colfax, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Frisch, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Programs were of black, patent leather finished paper, with the seal of the university in gold on the cover. Miss Permeal J. French and Miss Lena Shoup were patronesses. Music was furnished by the Blue Devils orchestra. Music was furnished by the Blue Bucket band. The honored guests invited were: Governor and Mrs. C. Ben Ross, President and Mrs. M. G. Neale, Miss Permeal J. French, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerome J. Day. Miss French, and Mrs. Neale were the only honored guests who were able to attend.

Phi Deltas Give Formal Dinner Dance

Red carnations and white chrysanthemums were lovingly used as the table center-piece at the Phi Delta Theta upperclassmen's formal dinner dance Friday evening at the chapter house. The chrysanthemums and carnations were offset by green ferns and holly, and around the edge of the center-piece were green cedar leaves. Red and green cellophane poinsettias were cleverly used as place cards. The house itself was decorated with evergreen branches, which added to the Christmas effect of the decorations. The black suede-leather programs, with gold Phi Delta crests, were more than dance programs as each had a useful address book attached to the back. The patrons and patronesses were Miss Permeal J. French and Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Masterson. 'Twas the night before Christmas—and she was still shopping. The labors of Hercules were nothing to helping out Santa as far as the men folk are concerned.

With Dad or a brother it's not so bad because you can always give shirts, ties, lounging robe, gloves or some other personal gift—but with a newly acquired suitor or long time "friend" it's a different matter.

Unless you have loads of confidence in your own taste, apparel is more or less out—he might wear it just for sentimental reasons. Then, too, there was once a convention that only fiancés might do that.

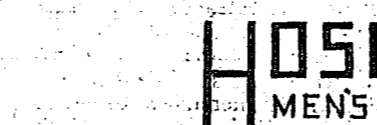

Here's some constructive suggestions: if he smokes—there are new fool-proof (no offense) cigarette lighters, long thin cases, imported briar pipes and so on. If he spends a good deal of attention to his dress—a pearl stickpin, ring, tie clip or other jewelry. If he is an intellectual—get him books. Well, perhaps you'd better make up your own mind—after all, what business is it of mine?

Here's some real news. Promenade last week passed by the Phi Delta house and picked up Jo Breckenridge in a beaded white gown and Harriette Dwight in one of

The seniors of that organization sponsored a party for the Home Economics club, given last Thursday night at 7:30 at the Women's gymnasium.

The program consisted of a quartet, made up of the College Girls club, Dorothy Goode, Eva Jane Brown, Luella Stevenson, and Emma Dean Sogard. There was then a reading by Helen Wilson, entitled "The Last Day of School." Following this was a tap dance by Daryl Hoyt, and Christmas carols sung by Edna Scott, Alice Bell, and Ruth Johnson.

After the program, refreshments were served—pop corn balls and candy, and the tree was lighted with candles in true Christmas spirit.

Horton Announces Idaho's New Conference Schedule

"I am very well satisfied with the football schedule mapped out for next year at Idaho," was George Horton's, graduate manager, statement following the meeting of the Pacific Coast conference in San Francisco last week.

Five conference teams will be played by the Vandals' next year, opening in Seattle on September 22 against the University of Washington Huskies. Following that game Oregon plays Idaho here on October 9. The Vandals then face Gonzaga at Moscow, Washington State at Pullman, Montana at Missoula and wind up the season playing California at Berkeley. Games with schools outside of the conference will probably be scheduled to fill the gaps as well as to provide more home games.

The hound robin baseball schedule of former years was re-established with Idaho meeting all conference schools in the northern division, including Washington, Oregon, Montana, Washington State, and Oregon State. A northern division conference swimming meet was also scheduled for March 3 at the Multnomah club in Portland, with the same schools competing as are listed above.

One of the outstanding features, according to Manager Horton, of the conference was the resolution adopted at the meeting requiring every school to play at least six conference games after next season.

This is regarded as a real step toward holding the conference together and causing it to really do something," Horton said.

The schedule as it stands now provides two home games for Idaho, but with open dates yet to be filled at least three of them and possibly four games on the home lot.

"I" CLUB HOLDS XMAS PARTY

Conduct Social Event in Front of Ad. Building Wednesday Noon

The outstanding social event of the year will be held at the front entrance to the Ad building, Wednesday, December 20, at 12:45, where the "I" club is giving its annual Christmas Cheer party for insubordinate frosh.

This party assumes greater proportions every year, and if the number of invitations issued is any indication, this will undoubtedly surpass any Christmas party the club has given. In the past the turnout has always been large, and those unfortunates who failed to take advantage of the opportunity have led to regret their absence, and it is hoped there will be very few absentees this year.

Invitations have been extended to the following:

Enormous Pipes Transport Steam To Heat Buildings

Did you know that it possible to walk erect from the new heating plant to the Engineering building through a tunnel? It contains the pipes that carry enough steam to heat thirty-seven buildings on or near the campus, according to Mr. S. C. Bates, chief engineer for the university. Branches of the pipes go to the Memorial gymnasium, the Ad building, Ridenbaugh hall, both women's dormitories, and as far east as the A. T. O. house.

Blind Graduate Of University Is Successful

An interesting clipping was taken from a San Diego, Calif., newspaper last week which was an interview with C. F. Pearson, whose parents lived in Moscow many years ago. Mr. Pearson was born here, and when seven years old became blind. This did not prevent him from getting an education, and he graduated from the Moscow high school, and then in 1924 from the University of Idaho.

"Blindness is not an affliction to be regarded with hopelessness and pity, as is so often done by the public," Mr. Pearson said, "but it is rather a handicap which can, to a very large extent, be overcome. Helen Keller puts it this way: 'The heaviest burden on the blind is not blindness, but idleness, and they can be relieved of this greater burden.'"

Then Mr. Pearson went on to tell of his life. "After graduating from the University of Idaho in 1924, with the degree of master of arts in English, I set out with a friend on a hike around the United States with a view to gathering material intended to be used later in writing. When we reached southern California, my friend accidentally broke his left leg and was forced to return to Idaho, where he got a position teaching. I remained in California, and in June, 1925, found my way to San Diego where I have lived ever since. The first 3 years in San Diego were the hardest of my life. Not until then had I been forced to face my handicap squarely. I advertised for typing and tutoring in French and applied at every school for the blind in the United States for a position teaching, but it seemed that every avenue to an independent livelihood was closed to me. I felt that I was a parasite on humanity, that there was no purpose in life for me. In the fall of 1927, I decided to enter the insurance business. I enrolled with a correspondence school for the blind and took up the study of life insurance. I have now reached the point where most of my economic worries are gone and with them the fear of blindness. I am now very seldom conscious of my handicap. I owe gratitude and appreciation to my many good friends in San Diego who have made it possible for me to succeed in the insurance business, and thus to bring about this radical change in my entire attitude toward life."

selected was 80 feet from the roof, and the attempt naturally failed, so the "I's" on the smoke stacks of the new building were put on when it was erected.

Students at North Carolina university are allowed to smoke in class, even during examinations, because the school is operated mainly from profits secured from the tobacco crops.

ANIMAL ROOTS OUT LOOT

A groundhog is credited at Rochester, Illinois, with having brought to light a bundle of valuable papers hidden by bank robbers.

The papers were found beside the groundhog's den by Charles Pringle, a farmer. The animal apparently had rooted the bundle out of his home in gaining exit.

The documents, including registered stock certificates and inurance policies, were property of R. J. Clark. They had been stolen in a robbery of the Hudson, Ind., bank April 13.

THE COLUMBIA FOOTBALL squad is small in numbers, but it lacks nothing in the quality of its individuals. Above is Coach Lou Little and a quartet of his outstanding stars. Capt. Cliff Montgomery, a real triple-threatener, and Barbaras, a 190-pound sophomore bullet, carry the bulk of the team's attack. "Red" Matal is a powerful defensive wingman and deadly pass-catcher, while Wilder has been one of the east's high ranking pivot men for the last three years. Wilder does the New York team's field goal kicking.
