CHARLES WARNER TO PRECEDE BAND

Named as Advance Man to Arrange for Southern Trip

Charles Warner has been selected as advance man for the Pep band trip to south Idaho. He will leave Sunday to contact all towns in which the musical organization will play and settle the dates of appearances. He expects to be gone about a week or 10 days.

The band will leave April 4 or 5 and the trip will last six days beyond the end of spring vacation. A definite schedule of appearances has not yet been worked out, but they will visit most of the larger cities in southern Idaho including, Weiser, Payette, Buhl, Rupert, Burley, Pocatello, Blackfoot, Rexburg, Nampa, Caldwell, Boise, Twin Falls, and Idaho Falls.

As the regular faculty advisor for the band cannot go on the trip it will be necessary to find another sponsor. It has not yet been decided who it will be. Lloyd Ruluck will accompany them as stage manager.

It is the plan of the band to visit as many high school assemblies as can be worked out, in order to contact high school graduates and interest them in the University of Idaho.

PRITCHARD GIVES MOLDING WORK

Wednesday, Night Class Offered in Ceramics; Use Local Clay

A class in ceramics under the direction of Theodore Pritchard and Miss Nellie Best is now being offered to art students each Wednesday evening in the university hut. Various methods of molding and shaping are being studied. The clay used by the class is obtained from the surrounding country and through the cooperation of the School of Mines is made ready for molding.

Vases, trays, plates, cups, and small figurines are being made. These models will be glazed and open for exhibit later in the year. At present, the method being studied is the Japanese pinch. Later on the class will try throwing on a wheel, turning, and casting. The course is designed to acquaint the student with all methods of pottery making.

Professor Pritchard expects that the course will attract wide interest and may lead to the further development of the use of local clay for manufacturing purposes. There are at present ten enrolled in the class.

The members of the swimming team are: Alex Morgan, dives; Bill Woods, 50-yd. free style; Robert Spense, 100-yd. free style; and Robert Horton, back stroke.

STUDENTS PASS LETTER CLAUSE

Will Award "I" Sweater to Man Who Turns Out For Three Years

An amendment to Article I, section 5, of the ASUI constitution was unanimously passed a special meeting of the ASUI called by Robert Newhouse, president, last Tuesday. This amendment had reference to the awarding of an "I" sweater to men participating in major sports for three years and not acquiring the necessary credentials for a major award.

Although the meeting was called primarily for the purpose of voting on the amendment, there followed a short program composed of three numbers. First was a piano duet by Lloyd Whitlock and Morris O'Donnell, which was followed by a number from the violin trio, consisting of Dick Edwards, Wendell Olsen, and Bill Ames. The last number on the program was something quite new and unique from the usual ASUI entertainment, being a tap dance by Eleanor Olson.

The meeting was brought to a close in the usual manner, the Pep band playing and the students singing "Here We Have Idaho."

WOMEN'S "I" CLUB HAS NEW MEMBERS

The Women's "I" club initiated five new members at a dinner meeting held in their honor at the Blue Bucket Thursday evening. The initiates were: Rosanne Roark, Elizabeth Vincent, Gertrude Olson, Hilda Froisness, and Nellie Irwin. Miss Mabel Locke, Jeanette Wirt, and Mrs. H. Boyer were patronesses.

"The initiates will stunt at the next regular meeting of W. A. A." said Mildred Richardson, president of the club.

Death Claims Dean Francis Garner Miller

Dies Suddenly from Heart Attack at Community Hospital

ORGANIZED SCHOOLS

Was Interested in Advancement of All Forest Work at Idaho Since 1917

Dean Francis Garner Miller, organizer of the schools of forestry at the University of Idaho, University of Washington, and Washington State college, died suddenly early Thursday morning at the Community hospital. He was the victim of a heart attack though he had been ill for only a week when the end came.

Dean Miller had been dean of the Idaho School of Forestry since 1917 when it was organized as an independent division. It was under his leadership that the school attained its present high national standing, and received membership in the International Scientific Research association, an honor extended to only two other forestry schools in the United States.

Many of the progressive forestry practices in the state of Idaho are credited to his guidance and assistance. His administrative policy included not only instruction in forestry subjects, but linking up of the school with the forestry interests of the state. He had served many years as a distinguished member of the cooperative board of forestry, and in recent years had worked untiringly in his efforts to consolidate the forestry school's timber holdings into a matchless experimental forest.

Listed in Book

"Who's Who in America" gives the following facts about his career: He was born at Lanark, Ill., June 2, 1866, and was married to Evelyn Depew at Kansas City, Mo. Dean Miller was graduated from the Iowa State Normal school in 1893, the State University of Iowa in 1900 and Iowa State college in 1901, with a bachelor of science degree in agriculture. He received his master of forestry degree from Yale university in 1903. That year he accepted a position as professor of forestry at the University of Nebraska, serving there successfully until his call to become dean of forestry at the University of Washington in 1907. There he organized Washington's present college of forestry, serving as a full professor and dean of the school from 1907 to 1912. When Washington State college inaugurated instruction in forestry, he returned to his major field as professor of forestry and head of the forestry department at the state college for very close years.

Dean Miller came to the Idaho campus as dean of the newly organized School of Forestry. It had been a department for the preceding eight years. Seventeen years of service as Idaho's only dean of the school of forestry came to a close with Dean Miller's death. Two years ago Dean Miller spent a semester in Europe on sabbatical leave of absence.

Dean Miller was a member of Sigma Xi, national honorary scientific society; Delta Chi, national social fraternity; Xi Sigma Phi, national honorary forestry fraternity, founded in 1908 at the University of Washington College of Forestry when Dean Miller was its head; Alpha Zeta, national honorary agricultural fraternity; a fellow in the American Association for the Advancement of Science; American Forestry association; Society of American Foresters; and chairman of the board of trustees of the Northwest Scientific association.

The late Dean Miller was well known and highly regarded in national forestry circles. Professionally he was most interested in the fields of forest management and forest economics, many of his articles on these subjects appearing in technical and forestry journals.

For 30 years active in public service and for seven years financial director of the League of Nations, Sir Herbert Ames, will speak from experience on "The Great Reconciliation and Its Aftermath" at the assembly sponsored by the International Relations club at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning. Sent through the cooperation of the Carnegie foundation, the speaker will include in his visit from Monday until Thursday an informal reception, talk, two class discussions, and a public banquet speech besides his assembly lecture.

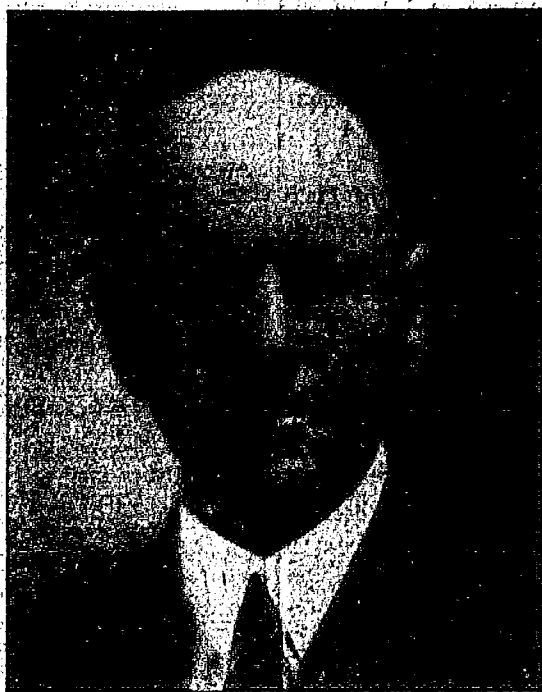

A description of the relations between France and Germany from the signing of the peace treaties to the present time will evolve from actual experience of 15 years close contact with the League and study of social and political problems. This topic of the assembly lecture will begin a series covering the present day problems of Central Europe. The second lecture of the series, "The Role of the Little Entente in Present Day European Politics" will be given at 4:15 p. m. Tuesday in the L. D. S. chapel. The series will end with the topic "The German Demands for Revision of the Treaty of Versailles," to be given at the public farewell banquet Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. at the Blue Bucket.

Curtain For "Trelawny of The Wells" At 8:20 Tonight

A prompt 8:20 curtain will go up tonight and tomorrow night on the university players' presentation of Arthur Pinero's "Trelawny of the Wells" directed by Fred C. Blanchard.

Tickets have been on reserve the past week at Hodgins. Students are admitted with activity tickets, an admission price of 40 cents will be charged all others.

A difficult problem from the point of view of costuming, period and a type of acting, obsolete on the modern stage, the production is nevertheless an excellent and highly amusing one. Dorothy Ward designed and directed the work on most of the costumes, although authentic clothes of the period have been found.

All university classes will be dismissed during the services. All forestry classes were dismissed Thursday.

University President, Professor, and Head of Foresters Tell Feelings

DID MUCH FOR IDAHO

Faculty and Students Mourn Loss of "Loyal Supporter and Devoted Dean"

A distinct sense of loss was felt by all students and members of the university upon hearing word of the death of Dean Francis G. Miller of the forestry school Thursday morning. His years of hard work and diligence in the service of the school will make him extremely hard to replace. Following are expressions from the president of the university, a professor in the School of Forestry, and the president of the Associated Foresters.

"The death of Dean F. G. Miller takes away one of the nation's leaders in the field of forestry. The university loses one of its most loyal supporters, and the School of Forestry a devoted dean.

"Up to the time when Dean Miller went to the hospital just a few days ago, his enthusiasm and effectiveness had in no wise decreased. His last day's service was as effective as any of his career.

"The university in general will always be indebted to Dean Miller for what he has done to help build it up, and friends of forestry will always look back to him as the man who placed the School of Forestry of the University of Idaho among the leading schools of forestry of the world."

M. G. Neale
"No matter how widely we may search over the country I doubt if we could ever find a man to take Dean Miller's place. Who could exhibit the same enthusiasm in the professional work, or who could display the same sterling qualities which he exemplified.

"He was always most courteous and considerate of others and as a dean showed remarkable patience and kindness toward all his students. The profession of forestry has experienced a great loss for Dean Miller was a leader in many forest activities including his chosen line of forest management and forest economics. The School of Forestry faculty and student body mourn deeply the loss of their chief, their advisor, and their teacher."

E. E. Hubert
"The untimely death of our beloved dean came as a distinct shock to the entire forestry school. The students feel that they have lost a dear friend. The memory of Dean Miller's superior guidance and untiring efforts in education and student affairs will live on in the hearts of members of the Associated Foresters."

Budding Artists Display Ability In Idle Moments

Initials, Greek letters, extraordinary geometric designs, and sketches including houses, dice animals, foot-prints, skyscrapers, and girls, cover the boards kept in the racks in the back seats in the auditorium intended, not to be written upon, but used as a sort of base for taking notes. But what could be sweeter, during assembly or lecture, than to show off your artistic ability by writing the name of your home town or state, (Montana for instance appears in seven different places), or putting a so-called wise crack such as "Three cheers for the army and navy, but to hell with ROTC." or "This class is exciting—year, exciting slumber," or something quite unprintable.

We decided that nudes were the favorite pictures, and there are also countless ponies, ranging from a few dates to an outline of the entire course. Don't get too excited about this last—all the writing is so worn and blurred that it is practically illegible. Many a thrilling half-hour, however, might be spent deciphering some of the other remarks—providing, of course, you have the patience. We didn't.

According to Fred Blanchard, director of dramatics, the seating of patrons after the curtain has been drawn, causes confusion and disturbs the audience.

We Mourn The Loss of Dean Miller

Idaho deeply mourns the loss of Francis Garner Miller, dean of the Idaho School of Forestry since 1917. In him the university and the state loses one of its highly valued citizens.

World renowned in his chosen field, he developed the forestry school here until it was recognized as one of the very best in the country. Under his direction, the school drew students from all parts of the United States and many from foreign countries.

Beloved and admired by all his friends, his loss is keenly felt by all Idaho students. Recognizing his worth to the university, students realize that filling his position with a man of his character, ability, and personality will be a difficult task.

Idaho students may remember him for his activity in promoting student welfare and for aiding worthy students to obtain educational advantages, besides his important accomplishments in his life work.

To Mrs. Miller the students express their heartfelt sympathy. Dean Miller will be hard to replace in the lives of Idaho students.

On Senior Recitals

Many recitals by graduating students from the music department will occupy the calendar from now until near the end of the school term. A few have already been given, and several more are due.

In the past these concerts have not been too well attended, either by students or townspeople. The absence of students has been particularly noticeable. As a necessary part of the music course these recitals are presented by the students, and naturally, a small and, sometimes very scanty audience is regarded by the performer as embarrassing and humiliating.

These recitals are usually excellent, each graduating student having worked on his selection the entire year. It would be greatly appreciated by the music department, and even more so by the participating senior, if the recitals were better attended.

at the cinema

At the Kenworthy—The story of "Bombay Mail," now playing at the Kenworthy, is the story of two murders on a train by that name, which races from Calcutta to Bombay. More than a dozen people are suspected of the crimes, which are solved by Edmund Lowe, who plays the part of Inspector Dyke. The tale has not only the advantage of mystery, but is laid in a mysterious country, "Mother India," redolent with mysticism, where anything is apt to happen. In the cast are: Shirley Grey, Onslow Stevens, John Davidson, Ralph Forbes, and Hedda Hopper.

Another football star has crashed the movies in a big way. He is Ward Bond, a former linesman of the University of Southern California, who has definitely decided to carve a career for himself in the films. He comes to the Kenworthy Saturday in "Frontier Marshal," with George O'Brien. His part is that of a "heavy" as he enacts a tough two-gun desperado in the days of the old West. He is said to make things just as rough for his screen adversaries as he did against his opponents on the football field!

Charles Laughton, Carole Lombard, Charles Bickford and Kent Taylor have the leading roles in the drama, "White Women," which will be shown at the Kenworthy Sunday. Malicious gossip has branded Carole Lombard in the Malay settlement in which she lives. While she is pleading with the authorities not to deport her, Charles Laughton, king of the river, becomes decidedly interested in her, wants her, and what he wants, he gets. He takes Carole to his house—boat home far up the river in the jungle. Here in the midst of the woman-starved men, and the treacherous natives, she is forced to fight her way through all kinds of hardships. One of the men, younger and more polished than the others, falls in love with her and they fight their way to happiness.

Plaids—checks—dots—smarter than ever—are leading the spring fashions. . . . Gloves and a scarf to match of taffeta printed in tiny checks can be added to a last season's dull crepe dress—the scarf should be tied in a crisp "chou" under the chin.

The most distinct blouse for your new swagger suit is of "soft as silk" white chamouis in a mannish style—high collars—cuff links—and shirt tails. Spring shoes in light shades with swagger striping and smart covered boulevard heels have also caught the eye of many a fashion lover.

"Perked" on the back of the coed head will be the gayest, most impudent looking hats—new straws—new spring colors—and all of them turned up in front. . . . foreheads are "in" this season. . . .

Black is the predominating color for the smart, new spring informal—soft black, chiffon, perhaps—or crisp black net, but always sheer black. . . . Pale chiffons and flowered silks also give promise of being quite what the well-dressed co-ed will wear. . . .

Letters such as, "Glad to see business is better, and when may I have my new spring outfit," have already been sent home to father. . . . Must be the weather.

Grins and Gripes

To the Editor

Look at the Records, Ags Greetings Ag club:

We, the LAWYERS, wish to acknowledge that our attention has been called to the minute and inconspicuous article which appeared in the Gripes column of the Idaho Argonaut of March 6, 1934, which was signed by your organization.

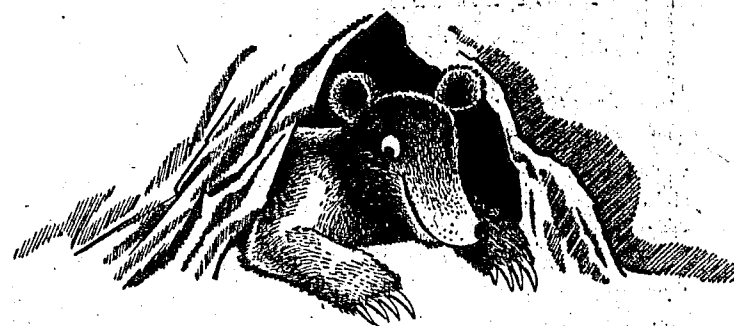

The following facts will forcefully bring to your mind that as the loser of last year's game it is your duty to issue the challenge according to long founded tradition.

If you had looked at the record you would have been able to ascertain from the March 28, 1933 and the March 31, 1933 issues of The Argonaut that the LAWYERS were victorious by a 21-15 score.

From this, the only official record, it is easily determined that the LAWYERS' victory was achieved on the evening of March 27, 1933, thus raising the conclusion that it is not yet too late for the Ags to issue a real challenge.

ALUM EXPLAINS LUBRICATING OIL

Donald Payne Writes Technical Article for "The Idaho Engineer"

Carbon in automobile engines is due almost entirely to poor lubricating oil—not gasoline, says Donald E. Payne, Idaho graduate who is patent attorney for a nationally known oil company at Chicago.

Valuable tips for car owners are included in a scientific article on oil refining written by Mr. Payne for the winter issue of the "Idaho Engineer," student technical journal. Payne, an expert chemist, earned his law degree during the three years he was a junior examiner in the U. S. Patent office. He entered the University of Idaho from Boise, and was graduated with highest honors in 1922 with a degree in chemical engineering.

New Quality Standards
Quality of lubricating oil, he says, cannot be determined by price or appearance. Nor do the best oils come from paraffine crudes, as oils of equal or superior quality are now being produced from mixed base or naphtha crudes. Recent advances in refining methods have set new quality standards for lubricating oil, he explained, of tremendous advantage to motorists.

Good lubricating oil must meet four requirements, Mr. Payne explains: high viscosity index, stability against sludging, low pour point, and low carbon residue. Viscosity means stickiness or resistance to flow. During hot weather oil often becomes too thin and leaks past the piston rings. The same oil in cold weather may become too thick to circulate properly. The "index" refers to the amount of change in the viscosity of oil with a given change of temperature. The higher its viscosity index, therefore, the less an oil will change due to temperature, and the better it will lubricate. This point is particularly important under winter driving conditions.

Sludge is caused by certain parts of the oil breaking down chemically and separating out. It was once considered necessary to drain crankcases frequently because of this sludge. Oils are now manufactured, Mr. Payne says, so resistant to sludging that crankcases need be drained only to remove grit and compensate for seasonal temperature changes, provided filters are used. Here again new refinery methods are responsible for improvement.

Pour-Point Variable
The "pour point" is the lowest temperature at which an oil will flow. If this point is too high, the oil cannot circulate freely. Refineries can regulate the pour point with new methods of wax extraction. Carbon residue is caused by the inability of certain oil fractions to vaporize from the upper part of cylinders before burning. New refining processes tend to throw out these non-volatile fractions. Oils from paraffine crudes, according to Mr. Payne, have a greater tendency to deposit carbon than oils from mixed base or naphtha crudes.

Mr. Payne suggests in his article that motorists who are not sure about the grade of oil to use can safely follow the recommendations of the "S.A.E." charts compiled by the Society of Automotive Engineers.

GRADES UNFAIR CLASSIFICATION

Denounced by President of Chicago University; Only Useful in Transfers

An announcement has come recently from the president of University of Chicago, Robert M. Hutchins, denouncing the use of grades in the university. "If I had my way, I would admit any student who could read and write and was recommended by a reputable person."

Dr. Hutchins in also reasoning that grades were useful only in transfer records from one school to another is one of the many exponents of the abolishment of grades in higher education.

Higher education is itself a privilege and not a right. With this in mind, many educators have placed themselves in attitude that seem antagonistic to those who seek further enlightenment by using the strict fetish worship of grades. All privileges and rights are restricted by grades with the result that a constant fear of the instructor's wrath and mood makes the student seek only grades and forget the actual worldly and material good that is to be derived.

However, there are those that maintain that grades are an index to the student of his work and that a student who studies for grades alone should be eliminated anyway, and the pupil who comes to study for the good of the subject will be able to make grades a secondary issue by doing good work of his vocation.

Exactly one-half of the 1933 Marquette University football squad reads the sport pages before turning to other parts of a newspaper. One-fourth glance at the headlines first; a few turn to the comic strips, and one boasted that he enjoys only the editorials.

GOLD MAY BE IN "YONDER HILLS"

Lemhi Mountain Prospectors Instructed to Look for Ordovician Dolomite

Prospectors in the Lemhi mountains of south central Idaho should keep their eyes peeled for thrust faults and other breaks in beds of Ordovician dolomite, according to the latest publication issued by the Idaho bureau of mines and geology.

Valuable geological information that throws light on the ore deposits of the entire Lemhi range is contained in a 19-page pamphlet, "The Dome Mining District," prepared in cooperation with the U. S. geological survey. It summarizes the results of field work done in 1930 under the direction of Clyde P. Ross of the U. S. geological survey staff.

The district described by Mr. Ross is located on the southwestern flank of the Lemhi range about 40 miles from Arco. From the time of its discovery about 1880 up to and including 1928, the district has produced approximately $2,000,000, chiefly in silver and lead.

Deposits from Replacement
All the ore deposits in the district, as far as Mr. Ross could find, are the result of replacement in Ordovician dolomitic beds, especially in one set of such beds. Unlike most other mining districts in the state, the ores are distant from granitic masses, fine grained, and relatively free of introduced gangue minerals. Structurally, the rocks in the district are folded and faulted to an unusual degree. The faults are overthrust as in some of the great mining districts. These thrust faults and other structural features largely controlled the mineralization of the district, Mr. Ross explains. He goes on to say that wherever the dolomitic beds of proved favorable character exist, ore deposits may occur, even though surface indications may be scanty or lacking.

Dr. John W. Finch, director of the Idaho bureau of mines and geology, believes this clue may apply to most of the Lemhi ranges and adjoining areas.

The Dome district pamphlet was published in response to numerous requests from miners in the south central portion of the state. It is part of the geological field work for Lemhi, Custer, and Butte counties that was switched to the gold bearing areas when depression diverted interest from base metal mining.

Probably no other area in the state is doing so much on its own initiative to aid mining as Lemhi county, Dean Finch said. The Salmon chamber of commerce and other agencies have raised money for a survey of the mineral resources of Lemhi county. When

CHEMISTRY PROFS RECEIVE CRITICISM

Oregon State is adopting a form of instructor rating sheets patterned after those used at Purdue university for constructive criticism of the faculty by students enrolled in general and elementary chemistry.

The purpose of the student criticism is to enable the instructor to see himself as others see him and correct his unnoticed faults. In this examination the following teacher elements are considered by the students: interest in subject, attitude toward students, fairness in grading, liberal and progressive attitude, presentation of subject matter, sense of proportion and humor, self reliance and confidence, personal peculiarities, and appearance.

Two-day Institute Here For FERA Nursery Teachers

Mrs. Margaret S. Crumly,
State Director, in Charge of Program; 10 Towns
Send Instructors

An institute for the benefit of nursery teachers in north Idaho who are working under the federal emergency relief administration is being conducted here Thursday and Friday by Mrs. Margaret S. Crumly, state director of emergency nursery schools. Teachers from schools in 10 towns of north Idaho including a territory from Grangeville to Coeur d'Alene are attending the institute. Sessions are at Forney hall.

Although the nursery schools and the institute are federal projects, the employment of the state director and her trips throughout the state are made possible by the National Council of Parent Education. Mrs. Crumly comes from Boise, where she recently conducted an institute similar to the one here. Other institutes will be held at Idaho Falls, Pocatello, and Twin Falls later this month.

Several lectures from the university faculty are appearing on the program of the institute. Mrs. J. E. Buchanan of the home economics department will speak on physical needs of the child. Miss Katherine Jensen, head of the home economics department, will speak on food needs of the child.

Dr. Allen C. Lemon of the psychology department will discuss problems of child behavior and Mrs. W. Wayne Smith, conductor of a local nursery school, will lecture on the use of equipment in nurseries. Mrs. Crumly will lead the discussion on administration and parent and community contacts. She will also show 60 colored slides illustrating the use of equipment in nursery schools.

Mrs. Crumly is a graduate of the University of Southern California and has completed her work for her master's degree at Oregon State college. She has had training in the nursery school there and at U. C. L. A., and has had work on parent education in other parts of California. She is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, national education honorary, and Delta Delta Delta social sorority.

Sessions of the institute are being conducted all day for two days Thursday afternoon the teachers attended the Moscow FERA nursery at the Russell school.

The federal nurseries probably will continue until the end of the present school year, according to Mrs. Crumly. There are 65 such schools in Idaho with approximately 1,500 children in attendance.

"The need for these institutes is felt greatly," said Mrs. Crumly, "for the state normal schools do not give instruction in nursery school work and none of the 65 teachers employed in this emergency work have had the necessary training."

RELIGIOUS GROUP TAKES SIX WOMEN

Women were pledged informally by Kappa Phi, national organization of Methodist women, Sunday morning at the Methodist church. The women pledged are: Marjorie Wilson, Jean Graham, Ruth Lang, Margaret Illingworth, Murva James, and Frances Paine.

These women will be formally pledged to Kappa Phi next Sunday.

STUDENTS PUBLISH SLANG DICTIONARY

Recently the students of the University of Illinois compiled a dictionary of the latest slang terms used by the students on the campus. The purpose given was that because strangers on the campus thought some of the phrases that they had heard were extracts from Esperanto, or some other international language, that such a compilation of the meaning of these terms was needed.

Some of the phrases got together were:

- Rattle your hooks—hurry up.
- Blow a joint—to leave.
- A Dave Joe—a fine fellow.
- Know it cold—complete knowledge of some course.
- W. K.—well known.
- Fag, coffin-nail, weed, snipe—cigarette.
- Out kicking it—on a spree.
- To ankle over—to go someplace.

Of the men in the advanced course of the Reserve Officers Training corps here 15 will complete the course about June 1, 1934, and will receive commissions as Second Lieutenants of Infantry in Officers' Reserve corps of the United States army.

Captain Henkle declared that under special conditions a small percentage of these officers are assigned as additional officers to regular army units and regiments. He also asserted that it is not expected that any of these officers will be called for duty with the new job of carrying the air mail that has been assigned to the army. They are, however, available in times of national emergencies, such as floods, strikes, war, or similar conditions.

A. W. S. Sends Women to Annual Convention Next Month

Two delegates will probably be sent to the A. W. S. convention which will be held next month in Tucson, Arizona. However, unless sufficient funds are raised only one delegate will be able to go. At the cabinet meeting, which was held March 6 in Dean French's office, points to be discussed at the convention were brought up. The aim is for each chapter to help by suggesting points of common interest. A nominating committee, was appointed for the coming elections. The committee is composed of June Armour, chairman; Dorothy Green, Marjorie Druding, and Helen Latimore. An assembly will be held in the very near future.

IDAHO MEN LOSE GONZAGA DEBATE

Hobson and Wetherall Represent Idaho in Two North Idaho Debates

Gonzaga defeated Idaho in a debate held at the Gonzaga university Monday evening, March 5, with a score of two to one. Karl Hobson and William Wetherall debated the negative for Idaho, and the men on the Gonzaga team were Etter and Myers.

The question for debate was: Resolved: The powers of the president should be substantially increased as a settled policy. The debate was attended by about 300 people.

In Kellogg, on Tuesday, Hobson and Wetherall presented an informal discussion debate before about 50 businessmen. The symposium style of debating that they used was very successful.

Wetherall began with a 20-minute speech on the powers of the president under the NRA. Then Hobson gave a 30-minute rebuttal, followed by a 10-minute rebuttal by Wetherall. The debate was then open to questions from the listeners. The audience was responsive and questions about our economic and political situation were asked. Inflation, the commodity dollar, reciprocal tariffs, economic recovery of other nations, depreciated currencies, politics in Austria, Germany, and Italy, constitutionality of the NRA, speculation, the securities act, were centers around which the discussion revolved. Hobson and Wetherall were well able to answer the questions and the debate while it began early in the evening, did not break up until 12 o'clock.

Receive Invitation
The debaters have received an invitation from the Coeur d'Alene chamber of commerce to return in April. It is also possible that they will make a trip into southern Idaho, but the plans are still very indefinite.

IDAHO COUPLE SECRETLY WED

Announcement of MacVean-Douglas Nuptials Last October Comes as Surprise

The secret marriage last October of Marjorie MacVean, Moscow, and Edward L. Douglas, St. Maries, was announced early this week. The marriage, which took place in Seattle, came as a surprise to the students.

Mrs. Douglas, a junior in the university, is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, Spur, and W. A. A. She has been active in campus activities during the three years she has been in school. Mr. Douglas, an Idaho graduate, is now employed in the state forester's office here. They will be at home to their friends in the Witter apartments.

TRADITIONAL OMEN ONCE REVERENCED

Why are we superstitious about the black cat? Because of a tradition the black cat has become an omen of misfortune. It was supposed that witches were given the power to assume the form of a black cat nine times.

The Egyptians, however, did not fear the black cat but revered it. Recently a cemetery in which thousands of black cats were buried was unearthed.

Today the black cat is not feared as it was in earlier times; but there are many superstitious people who still regard it as an unlucky omen and who believe that not only the black cat but all cats have nine lives.

PRESIDENT'S WIFE HAS NEW PASTIME

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will indulge in a new pastime along with her horseback riding and flying, with the installation in the White House of a shooting gallery. The shooting gallery, installed under her personal direction, is intended for indoor pistol practice and was placed on the first floor of the east wing. It is so constructed that there will be no chance of a practice bullet going astray.

The contrivance, which consists of a long metal funnel through which the shots are fired at the target, measures fifty-five feet in length, and three feet in width as well as height.

CHESS TOURNAMENT

The final date for the entries in the International Chess tournament has been extended to March 23, 1934. If you care to enter the tournament or want to learn to play chess, please write your name on the Cosmopolitan club poster on the bulletin board in the Ad building on or before March 23. After that date the games will start and no more entries will be expected. No entry fee is charged. For further information see chess poster.

High School Basketball Tourney Plans Complete

Each Team Will Play One Game a Day in Single Elimination Plan

Preliminary arrangements for the State Interscholastic Basketball tournament here March 15, 16, and 17 have been completed by Leo Calland, chairman of the state tournament committee.

Winners of seven district tournaments being completed this week, and Moscow high school as host team, will compete in a seven-game, single elimination series for the state high school championship. First round losers will enter a three-game consolation series to be run off simultaneously with the championship race.

Each team will play at least two games in the tourney and no team will play more than once each day. All eight teams play in the opening round Thursday, March 15, with two games in the afternoon and two at night. First round losers start the consolation round Friday afternoon with the first day's winners tangling in the semifinals Friday night. No games are scheduled for Saturday afternoon. The final consolation game and the state championship battle are set for Saturday night, March 17.

Three Cups
 Championship, runner-up, and sportsmanship trophies will be presented during a dance in honor of the visiting players and coaches to be held in the Memorial gymnasium Saturday night after the final game.

Nampa high school will open the tournament on the afternoon of March 15 against the southeastern district entry, as a result of drawings for first round opponents made Monday by Dr. M. G. Neale. Nampa won the southwestern district title at Boise last week.

Leo B. Calland and Fulton Gale, Moscow, members of the state tournament committee, were present at the drawing which was made by districts rather than by schools since all of the seven district tournaments have not yet been completed.

The "Panhandle" district is pitted against the south-central in the second game Thursday afternoon, March 15. Either Bonners Ferry or Post Falls will represent the "Panhandle" in the state tourney, while the south-central entry will be determined when Burley and Paul teams meet this week.

Moscow Plays
 Culesac, champions of the central district, meet the winners of the Salmon district tournament in the first game Thursday night. The final game in the opening round Thursday finds Moscow high, host team in the state tournament this year, meeting Madison high of Rexburg, winners of the recent northeastern district title.

All district tournaments will be completed this week and so that the regional champions may start for Moscow and the state title chase next week.

U. S. C.-HUSKIES PLAY FOR TITLE

Scheduled For Friday, Saturday and Possibly Monday; Beavers Won Last Year

The University of Washington Huskies and the Trojans of Southern California bring the Pacific coast basketball season to an end this week end as they meet in the playoff series to determine the winner of the 1934 coast basketball championship.

The series will be played on the Southern California campus on March 9 and 10, and, if necessary, the final game will be played on March 12. The two division winners will be battling to see who will succeed the Oregon State Beavers as coast champions. The Beavers last year won the title by defeating the University of California twice in a three-game series.

Jimmy Mitchell, of Spokane, who with Roger Folgate, refereed the Idaho-W. S. C. home games this season, was chosen as the one official selected from the northern division.

TEN VARSITY MEN TRAVEL TO W. S. C.

Coach Otto K. Anderson will take nine track men to Pullman tomorrow to work out with the Washington State track team in a practice track meet in the W. S. C. field, house.

The entire squad has been working out daily in Lewis court as the men endeavor to get in shape for a hard varsity season.

Ap Berg, preman, tossed the shot 47 feet, 3 inches in a workout yesterday. This mark better by over 14 inches the Idaho record he set last year, and he expects to better this mark considerably in the coming season.

The nine men who will accompany Coach Anderson, and their events are: Jim Kalbus, sprints; Ap Berg, shot put; Bob Newhouse, pole vault; Addison Beeman, freshman sprinter; Horace Pearson, mile; Carroll Livingston, 880; Bill Squance, hurdles; Glenn Orton, freshman miler; Bob McCue, shot put.

LEWIS AND CLARK WILL PLAY HERE

Spokane Team Will Meet Moscow Bears and Vandal Frosh

The strong Lewis and Clark high school team of Spokane will meet Moscow this week end to give local fans their last opportunity to see big time ball before the Idaho state tournament next week. Rated as one of the strongest teams in Washington, Lewis and Clark copped the city of Spokane championship title and is pointing for the Washington tournament next week.

Friday evening Coach Gale Mix's Moscow Bears meet them. Defeated by the Spokane champions on their barnstorming trip through eastern Washington earlier in the season, the Bears are determined to avenge their early season setback, which they maintain was due to the hard schedule they had just gone through.

Practice Hard
 Weeks of hard practice have put the Moscow club in the peak of condition for the Idaho tournament and they intend to take the Lewis and Clark outfit in their stride.

Saturday evening the Idaho frosh play the Spokane city champs, after a week's rest from active practice. Beginning with scrimmage against the Moscow high school team Wednesday night, in which both coaches corrected faults in their team's play, practice was resumed for the frosh, after a brief rest following the game with the Washington State frosh last week. Thursday evening the fundamentals of the game were stressed by Coach "Red" Jacoby, with hard practice scheduled for this afternoon.

Hall, Martin, Larson, Fuller, and Kerns, the "big five" of the frosh squad, will probably compose the starting lineup for Idaho, with Fry and Tracy scheduled to see plenty of action.

MARCH ISSUES CALL FOR UNDERSTUDIES

Men interested in trying out for freshmen and sophomore baseball managements should report to Clement March, baseball manager, in the dressing room of the Memorial gymnasium Monday at 4 p. m. Managements are awarded on a merit basis and seniors managers are selected from those who have survived the "cuts" of three years. There will be openings for eight freshmen and three sophomores on the 1934 managerial staff.

Harold Telford, Coeur d'Alene high school coach, and Archie Buckley, North Central mentor, Spokane, have been named as referees for the Idaho state interscholastic basketball tournament at the university March 15, 16, and 17, according to word received by the athletic department Thursday from J. Fulton Gale, Moscow, and Leo Calland, director of athletics, chairman, are the other members of the state tournament committee.

Capable Referees
 In his letter to Calland, Mr. Rae stated:

"I have picked men of whom I have first hand knowledge. I know Mr. Telford and Mr. Buckley are capable basketball officials. I know, too, that they have the moral fibre necessary for efficient work in handling the tournament. They are the best men I know from personal and direct observation."

Former Stars

COACH RICH FOX STARTS BASEBALL

Will Begin with Chalk Talk School Until Good Weather

Coach Rich Fox today announced that a school for all varsity and freshman baseball men will be started Monday afternoon in the Memorial gymnasium from 4 o'clock until 4:30. Instruction will be given in a manner similar to the football chalktalks and will cover the theory of baseball. This instruction class will continue to be held each night at 4 o'clock until the weather permits outside practice. Coach Fox announced that all baseball men must attend and that anyone who wishes to do so may also come.

Practice so far has been confined to exercising and limbering up in the gymnasium. Forty candidates have been turning out regularly, and while but six of these are lettermen, Coach Fox expects to turn out a better team than Idaho has had for some time.

Play Many
 The Vandals will play a full slate of 16 conference baseball games this season in addition to the regular non-conference dates, according to the diamond schedule being completed by Graduate Manager George E. Horton. Competition was limited last year to games with Washington State and other Inland Empire schools.

PYTHON BRINGS ON COURTROOM SCENE
 Gloomy Gertie, the python without a personality, stretched languidly on a courtroom floor recently while around her raged a legal tempest.

Doc Walz, Arkansas showman, wanted $2,043 from the Bird Wonderland corporation, which sold Gertie to him.

"They told me Gertie weighed 300 pounds, was 23½ feet long, and would feed herself," asserted Walz. Judge Carl Sturzenacker glanced hesitantly at Gertie and at Walz's measurements which set her length at just 18 feet.

"Worse than that, judge, she didn't have personality," complained Walz. "She was gloomy all the time."

It did seem Gertie lacked personality, or maybe allure. Practically nobody petted her.

The alumni of the University of Wisconsin have erected a $1,250,000 student clubhouse including a spacious rathskeller with a real bar. The university officials, however, have forbade the sale of anything but soft drinks.
