CONGRATULATIONS!

Perhaps you will remember that we printed in this column at the beginning of the baseball season a statement for which we are now willing to vigorously kick ourselves in our editorial pants. That statement was in effect that we congratulated the team upon defeating Whitman in a pre-season game and mentioned that further congratulations would be forthcoming were the boys to win a conference game.

They have won, not A conference game, but conference games. In fact they have worked themselves into second place in the northern division standings with an awfully good chance that they might win the division pennant. For their constant spirit, for their hard work, and for their natural abilities and the ability of the coach, Rich Fox, we sincerely offer our congratulations and our heartiest wishes for the successful conclusion of the season.

Sign Language Unites Indian Tribes

The hands of the American Indian move with poetic grace and expression when he converses with his brother through the medium of the ancient sign language. Although the two may be members of different Indian nations or of different tribes, each speaking of different language, they can make themselves readily understood by this language which is universal among North American Indians.

"Are you happy?" asks the old chief when his hands rapidly make the suggestive signs for "is there sunshine in your heart?" When speaking of night, the hands grip the edges of an imaginary blanket and fold it over the earth. For day, the same unseen blanket is drawn back.

"The Indian sign language is one of the oldest and best known universal languages in existence since it dates even the modern deaf and dumb language," said Dr. E. E. Hubert, dean of the School of Forestry an authority on American Indians. "The need for this universal language arose as the result of contacts between some 200 tribes of North American Indians, all speaking different languages or dialects."

System Found Useful
 The signs were first developed by the Plains tribes and were soon adopted by the Woods and Plateau tribes. This system of communication was found useful at a time of war when the Indians relied greatly upon silent forms of signaling. The Coast tribes never acquired the use of the sign language as did the other tribes.

Government Interested
 In 1884 the first real interest in this language was taken by the United States government, Major W. F. Clark, then captain of the second infantry and a man familiar with the Indians, was sent out to visit all the tribes using the sign talk for the purpose of collecting all the signs and incorporating them into a book with detailed explanation of how to form sentences and speak the language. The project was a part of the army development and the book was used for instructing scouts in Indian warfare. Major Clark's book, copies of which are now very rare, is the best work on the sign language ever compiled, according to students of the language.

"Few people realize just how capable and progressive the American Indian really is. The people of the Nez Perce tribe who live so close to Moscow are especially intelligent and artistic. I consider them a fine race of people. Their quill, corn-husk, and buck-skin art work is worthy of a great deal more appreciation and praise than it receives," declared Dean Hubert.

club; to perpetuate Idaho traditions and ideals, and to boost for Idaho to prospective students. Ernestine Rose Drake, '23, gave a pep talk on "Idaho Spirit" that roused the group to the enthusiastic singing of Idaho songs, led by Laura Barclay. They then adjourned to the home of James Farrell, '22, for a short song fest.

If the spirit on the Idaho campus is anything like that shown by this group when they sang "in our hearts you'll live forever," then Idaho will surely go on "winning her way to fame."

Nellie Oylear, '31.

DISTRIBUTE GEMS

The colorful opening section carrying out the planetary motive is a unique addition to the book. The 1934 Gem was dedicated to the late Dean Francis Garner Miller, as exemplifying the spirit of Idaho educators past and present.

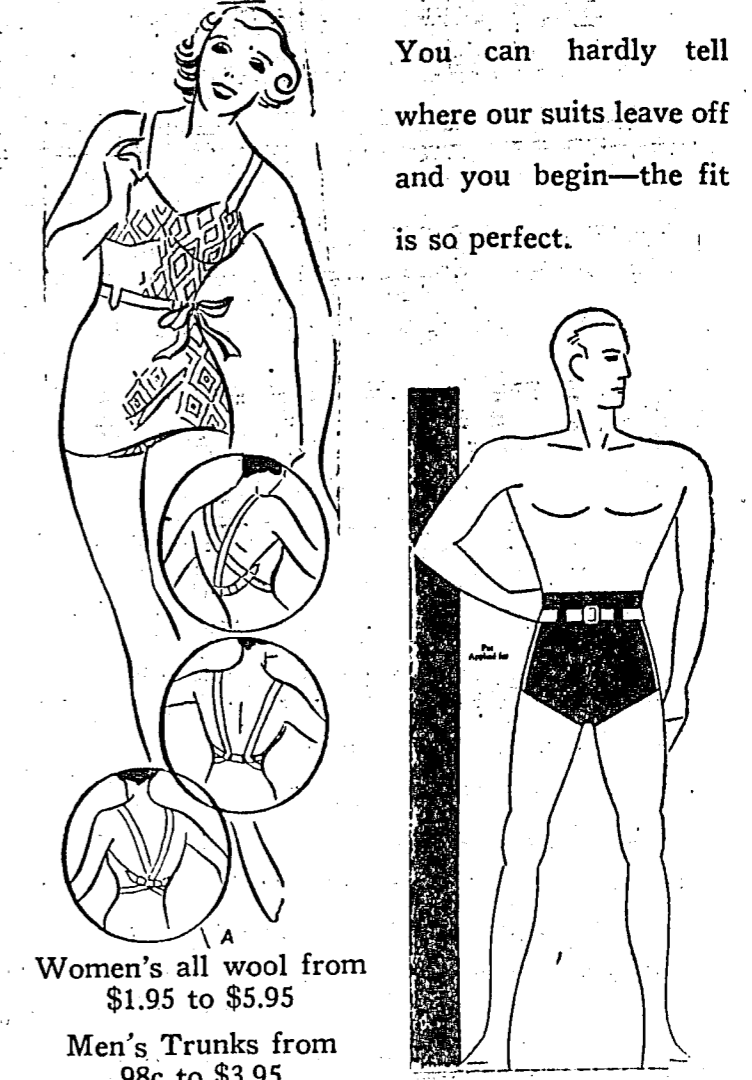

The pen and ink sketches used as main division sections are professional in execution, and the work of Alfred Dunn, a member of the art staff. These drawings of university buildings and student life are excellent examples of the pen and ink sketching art and are a valuable addition to the artistic qualities of the yearbook.

Revised make-up of all sections, and the use of increased printing space on each page has proved a pleasing deviation from the make-up of former editions. The colorful shooting star design which faces each page and each section in a different manner, is one of the features making the book truly distinctive. Write-ups in this volume of the Gem disprove the general statement that written material in yearbooks is dry, and uninteresting. The staff this year has attempted to add an informal touch to the write-ups in an effort to make them more readable. Good examples of this technique are found in the campus life, society, and athletic sections.

Campus Leaders
 Campus leaders are found on the sub-division pages this year. Unlike former years, these outstanding students were chosen not only from the graduating but from the entire student body. They were chosen as representative students in their particular fields of activity or class. Campus celebrities chosen by the 1934 Gem of the Mountains are Frances Wheeler, Robert Newhouse, Mae Belle Donaldson, Victor Warner, Frank Bevington, Joe Gauss, Frances DuSault, Richard Stanton, Ruth Kehrer, Margaret Moulton, William Ames, Mary Axtell, Elbert McProud, Lloyd Riutzel, Frances Hanley, John Norby, Howard Grenier, Cyril Geraghty, Max Elden, Ferd Koch, Robert Herrick, Ivy McPherson, Claude

Marcus, Douglas Cordon, Rollin Hunter, and Phillip Fikkan. Printers of the 1934 Gem of the Mountains were the Syms-York company, Boise, while engravings were made by the Western Engraving and Colorotype in Seattle. The distribution desk will be maintained today and probably Wednesday.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE INCOMING EDITOR:

When I pouned out "30" on my typewriter next Thursday night it will be "30" for Volume XXXV of the Argonaut; it will be "30" for staff members, and it will be "30" for me as editor of Volume XXXV.

It is with an equal amount of relief and regret that I turn the guidance of The Argonaut over to you. When I think that with the next issue the pages of Volume XXXV will be closed forever, I sadly realize that the pleasant associations with fellow student journalists will be over; that the fascination of the job will have reached the crossroads; that the responsibility of seeing that the sheet comes off the press will no longer be mine; and that the pleasure gained from all those things and many more will be only a memory.

Then we turn the pages in that memory book, and the scene becomes darker and less picturesque. The path you must take in editing Volume XXXVI, will unfortunately, not be a smooth one. Your job is to publish a paper for the students. When your policy, your style, or the content of your paper do not satisfy some of those students, you will be severely criticized. Your readers will be the most critical people you will deal with for some time. True, their money supports the sheet, but they forget sometimes that all the people cannot be pleased all the time.

You will be a victim of circumstances. One cannot exactly and conclusively express his opinions and convictions in words. The absence of facial expressions and vocal tones in writing accounts for that fact. So you will be misinterpreted; you will be accused of favoring one or the other political organ; you will be charged with bias; and some will claim that you have not the students' interests at heart. And then, of course, you will be guilty of a few errors.

The fact that our school is small, and that the students, divisions of the university, and the administration are closely united hinders you in your task. You will not be accorded the freedom of expression that editors of papers in larger schools are. Due to precedent and the will of the administrators, many subjects ordinarily meriting student expression, are closed to your comment.

You will have your staff difficulties; you will undoubtedly make some changes in the organization of news gathering; you will worry about the paper; you will feel hurt when criticisms are directed at you. But remember—you're a newspaper man. Maybe that's where some of the fascination comes in. You've got to take it, and continue to publish your paper.

Volume XXXVI will come out. The staff and myself are confident that you will execute your duties excellently. Though the sky will often seem cloudy, the sun will always come out. Through all your troubles, hardships, and trials, you will look back and remember that the associations and experience were priceless.

The job is yours. Although relieved, I regret that the pages of Volume XXXV are nearly sealed. Best of luck ed. R.S.

FINE WORK, GEM STAFF!

The entire Gem of the Mountains staff from Editor Clayne Robison down to the boy who ran errands are to be highly congratulated on their excellent production of the 1934 Idaho yearbook. When students received the beautiful volumes yesterday and exclaimed "fine work", "best ever", and other such complimentary phrases, they were sincere. The 1934 Gem is indeed a product of the Idaho campus of which the students may be proud.

The value of the yearbook will grow in the years to come. Some question the wisdom of spending $4 at the time subscriptions are taken, but fond memories that the book will recall will be worth far more than the price of the book.

Congratulations, Gem editor and staff, and congratulations, you students who subscribed to the book. The long hours spent on the book will be partially repaid by the appreciation of the students who enjoy having a truly fine publication to represent their college, and they will never regret being numbered among the eleven hundred odd students who bought the book.

Idaho Spirit
 Alive in Challis

In a small secluded community in central Idaho the spirit of Idaho lives on!

The first formal meeting of the University of Idaho club in Challis was held at a dinner in the Grubb hotel, Friday evening, May 18. The tables were decorated with bowls of yellow roses, and Idaho rooster caps and pennants. The place cards were small pennants of silver and gold. An "arborum fee" was charged at the door.

This club was organized April 12 at the home of M. L. Drake, '24, and the membership consists of alumni and former students of the University of Idaho. It is interesting to know that in this little valley there are 29 people who have attended our own state university. At this dinner, 18 members and 4 guests were present. The club boasts the unique distinction of having a member of the first class to graduate from the University of Idaho, Dr. C. L. Kirtley of the class '06, and a member of the most recent class, Laura Brigham Barclay, '34. Dr. Kirtley, president of the club began the reminiscences of the evening on the general topic "Headlines of My Day." He told of the "good old days" when he was a member of a freshman class of five, and the total enrollment, prep and university, was 42. The faculty consisted of the president and one professor.

Members of the other classes represented responded with amusing and interesting incidents of flu masks during the war, "when we used to beat W. S. C." Dr. G. M. Miller's "Theme Tablet," fires in the old Beta house, to a pink duck! Miss Nellie Oylear, '31, explained the two-fold purpose of the

Ships and Flowers Motif for Dances

With the craving for cool breezes at large, house decorators for the past week have played up sojourns to Utopias, perhaps. The nautical theme prevailed at the Phi Delta and Gamma Phi houses with every detail speaking loudly of a ship's events. The Delta Gammas suggested leaving the country, too, though by the old standby, the train. The Kappa Sigmas stuck to the ever effective idea of spring gardens and romance. Social events are gradually coming to a close—but there's always another year.

S. S. Gamma Phi Sails Saturday

S. S. Gamma Phi, ahoy! A blast of the fog horn greeted the Gamma Phi Beta ship guests as they climbed the gangplank to the main deck and registered for the Saturday night formal cruise. The house was arranged into different decks of the ship: the salon deck, the main deck, the sport deck, and the flag room. In each a list of rules and regulations was posted. Walls of the rooms were covered with portholes. The programs were of green and silver with a crest on the cover. At intermission a ship's paper, announcing the main features, guests, and weather forecast of the evening, was distributed to the guests. The Blue Devils orchestra, which furnished the music, rang the fog horn at intervals during the dancing. Patrons and patronesses were Miss C. H. Devreux, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sheehy, Judge Warren Truit, and Miss Katherine Jensen. Guests present were Warren Russel, Keith Evans, Afton Barrett, Victor Warner, Hugh Maguire, John Powell, Nathaniel Congdon, Arthur Davidson, William Tuson, James Robertson, Elmo Higginson, Carl Leithe, George McDonald, Merle Fisher, Alan Asher, Conrad Frazier, James Breen, Galen Winter, Wayne Harper, LaVerne Sackett, George Rich, Norval Ostroot, Gene Conklin, Gordon Reckard, Joseph Herndon, Lyle Fraley, Max Weber, Trevor Page, Russel Honsowetz, Harold Roise, Richard Axtell, Franklin Peavey, Thomas Feiton, Robert Brewer, Robert Moser, Paul Wright, Richard Stanton, Darrell Larson, George Hammand, Herman Wagner, and Hollis Neveaux.

Kappa Sigma Holds Spring Formal

Spring flowers were the main decoration used at the Kappa Sigma formal dance held at the chapter house Saturday night. The large front porch of the house was decorated with lattice work and cedar boughs. Yellow roses and peonies were used to carry out the spring effect in the house. The crested programs were of silver and white, tied with a red cord. Chuck Collin's orchestra, played for the dance. The patrons and patronesses were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Banks, and Dr. and Mrs. R. D. Russell. General and Mrs. E. R. Christman were honor guests. The guests were Mary Kersey, Helyn Newman, June Elmers, Geraldine Morse, Aita Diethelm, Marjorie L'Herisson, Marie Langdon, Cynthia Daly, Dorothy McFarland, Louise Mulliner, Helen Latimore, Josephine Standahl, Ruth Stewart, Alma Bissell, Laura McGrath, Edna Blakemore, Helen Wiswall, Mary Poynear, Barbara Lipps, Frances Paine, Lois Thomas, Mary Randall, Jane Thomas, Esther Flenner, Dorothy Rosevear, Mary Ferguson, Anna Brende, Alice Peterson, Alden Chapman, Raymond Nelson, Dean Arnold, Richard Jacobs, Herbert Wickstrand, Bonnie Woodward, Richard Axtell, Jack Dyer, Mark Robinson, Perry Neely, Paris Kail, John Kirkwood, Orin Summer, Lewis Racine, Kenneth Jones, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Humphrey, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Heath, and Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Estes.

Delta Gammas "Go Home"

Going home was the theme carried out in the decorations at the Delta Gamma informal dance held Friday night at the chapter house. Trunks and other baggage were arranged about the room and time tables and informative literature decorated the walls. Programs were in the form of trunk tags. Patrons and patronesses were Mrs. E. C. Given, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Blanchard, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Butterfield, Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. David, and Miss Belle Sweet. Music was provided by Clayton Spear's orchestra. Guests were Harold Boyd, Richard Stanton, Vos Darby, Roy Gray, Noble Palmer, Robert Krummes, Victor Schneider, William Martin, Jack Frye, Bentley Galligan, Charles Hill, Gilbert St. Clair, Norman Iverson, Robert

MORTAR BOARD ELECTS OFFICERS

CHAPTER TO CLOSE YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

In honor of their alumni, the Spur chapter will give a matinee dance at Forney hall tomorrow afternoon beginning at 3 o'clock.

All alumni and present members of Spur are invited. The dance is an annual event given each year at this time and is the closing activity of the year for the Spur. Refreshments will be served and there will also be entertainment during the dance.

Katherine Lane is in charge of the dance. The last Spur meeting of the year will be held this noon at the Blue Bucket. The group will begin its activity anew next fall.

CAMPUS MARRIAGE SURPRISES FRIENDS

Their many friends on the campus were surprised to learn Sunday of the marriage of Helen Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Martin, Moscow, to Kenneth Orr, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Orr, Moscow. The wedding occurred Saturday, May 26 at Asotin, Washington.

Idaho Jumps to Second Place in Division Standings by Defeating W.S.C., 15-9

Vandals Collect 17 Hits Off Four Cougar Pitchers and Stave Off Last Inning Rally; Naslund and Wheeler Hit Homers

Idaho jumped to second place in the northern division scoring column yesterday afternoon when they lambasted four Washington State pitchers for 17 hits including two homers and staved off a ninth inning rally of the Cougars to win, 15 to 9.

The Vandals held the lead from the very start and outclassed Bailey's men in every department of the game. Led by Bill Kleiner, who garnered three hits and as many runs, Idaho took advantage of their own hits and the enemies' errors to bring in 15 runs out of 17 hits. W. S. C. got nine hits nine runs, and six errors.

Four W. S. C. Pitchers

"Ace Speirs turned in another fine job of mound work, squelching the W. S. C. batters effectively until the ninth when a belated rally sent him from the box to be relieved by Newton, who finished the game. Herrold stayed less than three innings before Buck Bailey yanked him and sent in Irvine, the Cougar ace pitcher. Irvine soon gave way to the towering Houston and still the Idaho sluggers hit freely. Coleman finished the game. Idaho grabbed the lead in the first inning, Kleiner and W. Geraghty scoring. A barrage of hits in the third gave them four more runs. Two more in the fourth gave them an 8 to 0 lead. W. S. C. revived faintly in the sixth, bringing in three runners. The Vandals came right back, first scoring two and then getting three on a spectacular home run by Jo-Jo Wheeler. Starting out the ninth Idaho had a 15 to 3 lead. Newcomb walked, Sarboe got on, and Arbelbide swatted that pill over the fence. At this point Newton relieved Speirs. The Cougars kept right on hitting; Bendele got on, Sonnedecker hit a single, Jones got another and three scored on Robinson's left-field bingle. Newton tightened up and finished the game 15 to 9.

Third Basemen Shine

It was a big day for Fox's third sackers. Shodde, who has been in the regular lineup for several games, rapped out two hits, scored three runs, and drove in three other scores in six innings. Bar-

FROSH CAPTURE THIRD POSITION

Ritzheimer High Point Man for Vandal Babes in Northern Division Meet

Idaho captured third place in the annual northern division freshmen telegraphic meet with 28½ points. Washington State took first with 46 points, University of Washington second with 42½, University of Montana fourth with 19 and the University of Oregon fifth with 18.

Earl Ritzheimer, Idaho strong man, was second high for the meet with 11 points gathered in the shot put, discuss, javelin. Lorin Benke was high point man of the meet with 14 points.

The summary of Idaho places were:

440-yard dash—Richardson tied for 1st, time: 51.5.
 880-yard run—Orton, second; Adkins, third; Klingler, fourth.
 Mile run—Orton, fourth.
 120-yard high hurdles—Larson, second.
 High jump—Cresto, second.
 Shot put—Ritzheimer, second.
 Javelin—Ritzheimer, first.
 Discuss—Ritzheimer, second.
 Pole Vault—Nichols tied for third.

Vandals Have Good Chance at Northern Division Title

Slugging Power Feature Winning Spurt Down Home Stretch

How They Stand

	W	L	Pct.
Oregon	8	5	.615
Idaho	7	6	.538
Washington	5	5	.500
W. S. C.	5	5	.500
Oregon State	5	9	.357

The Idaho Vandals jumped to whole places to second position in the northern division baseball standings by downing Washington State yesterday. The Vandals will have a mathematical chance at the conference championship when they engage the Washington Huskies in the final series of the season on MacLean field tomorrow and Thursday.

If Idaho can upset the Seattle outfit two in a row as local fans figure they have a good chance of doing, the Vandals title chances still depend on how the Oregon-O. S. C. series comes out. One win by the Beavers would put the Vandals and Weebfoot in a tie for first place, making necessary a play-off. If the cellar occupants can upset Oregon in both of their remaining games, Idaho would be undisputed winners of the northern division title.

Win Five of Six

Idaho is given a big edge over the Huskies in the coming games in spite of her defeats at the hands of the Washington outfit at Seattle earlier in the season. The road-weary Vandals put up a rather poor exhibition of baseball over there, but have been coming along fast since then, and with the favorable surroundings of their home ball park, have won five games in their last six starts, knocking down W. S. C. and Oregon for two each and dividing with Oregon State.

The hitting power of the Vandals has been largely responsible for their flying finish down the home stretch. With an average of three home runs per game and a generous supply of extra base hits, the batting averages for the last six games show seven of Rich Fox's regulars to be hitting .300 or better with Les Albee, big first-sacker, leading the Vandals with a healthy average of .474.

Albee and Paul Anderson, port-sided fielder and pitcher, won't be in the lineup in the season's last games against Washington. They have left the campus to take jobs for the summer on the blister rust service.

GOLF TEAM HAS WINNING SEASON

Idaho Men Defeat Cheney at Spokane Club; Six Men Earn Minor "T" Sweater

THE Idaho golf team completed a successful season last Thursday when they defeated Cheney 11-1 at the Downriver Country club in Spokane. The Idaho team has won and played four matches this season. They won two from Cheney and two from W. S. C.

The individual scores for last Thursday were: Lewis, Idaho, defeated Shriver, Cheney, 3-0; Mann, Idaho, defeated Jones, Cheney, 2-1; Morgan, Idaho, defeated Plik, Cheney, 3-0; Rodell, Idaho, defeated Wadman, Cheney, 3-0.

Coach Leo B. Calland has been coaching the golf team this year and has taken an active part in the success of the season. Coach Calland wishes to announce that the following men have won their minor "T" sweater in golf: Lewis, Mann, Morgan, Rodell, Bevis, and L. Ensign. In order to be eligible for this sweater, each man must play in two matches and must win one.

Charles Cheney, 32, travels for a Salt Lake City hardware firm out of Rock Springs, Wyo. He was married last summer to Maurine Christman of Montpelier.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

The intramural tennis schedule is drawing to a close with B league nearing the semi-finals and A league with a few games to go. The Betas are clinched to play in the semi-finals and the winner of the S. A. E.-Lindley hall game will play the Sigma Chis to determine the opposing team for the semi-finals.

This is the last week for the matches to play. After this week if the schedule is not completed the team that is in the lead will determine the winner of the intramural tennis.

IDAHO TENNIS MEN TROUNCE W. S. C.

Vandal Net Squad Ends Season by Winning Three Out of Six Matches

FIVE men made their minor "T" letters in the last match of the season, when the Idaho tennis team defeated W. S. C. by a score of 4-3 here last Saturday. Idaho took three of the five singles and split the doubles.

The results of the matches were: H. Rust, Idaho, defeated Disset, W.S.C. 6-3, 6-1; Jandl, W. S. C. defeated Hudson, Idaho, 6-2, 6-3; Sowder, Idaho, defeated Logan, W. S. C. 6-4, 6-2; P. C., 8-6, 6-2; Bisset and Jandl, W.S.C., defeated P. Rust and H. Rust, Idaho, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

The Idaho team has won three of the six matches this season.

Vandals Defeat Grizzlies in Close Meet Saturday

Idaho Takes Eight Firsts; LeGore Breaks High Jump Record; Final Score 67 to 64

With one Idaho and one track record being broken, the Idaho Vandals nosed out the University of Montana, 67 to 64 in the dual track and field meet on MacLean field last Saturday.

Idaho led all the way, taking the majority of points in eight events. By taking seventeen points in the last two events, the Vandals, seven seconds, and six thirds, places, Montana received seven firsts, seven seconds, and eight thirds places. Bill Squance of Idaho along with Pedan and Taylor of Montana tied for first place honors with 2 first places each. Squance won both hurdle events, Pedan both sprint events, and Taylor won the mile and half mile runs.

Record Smashed

One Idaho record was broken when Jack LeGore of Coeur d'Alene, high jumped 6 feet 2 and one-eighth inches. This bettered the mark set by O'Brien of Kellogg in 1929 by one and an eighth inches. LeGore was also leading in the broad jump until a strained tendon prevented him from finishing.

Pedan, Bruin sprint flash, ran the 22½-yard dash in 21 and two-fifths seconds, bettering the track record by one-fifth of a second.

Squance Stars

Idaho won by virtue of eight

They won two from Gonzaga, and one from W. S. C. They lost one to Whitman, one to University of Washington, and one to W. S. C.

The following five men are eligible for a minor "T" sweater in tennis: Sowder, H. Rust, P. Rust, Axtell, and Hudson. In order to earn this sweater a man must play in two matches and win one.

The tables turned for the Idaho frosh tennis team when the W.S.C. frosh took them for six straight matches.

last Saturday for Portland to sit in the Pacific Coast conference meet. They will be mostly concerned with the 1935 football schedule. Coaches and graduate managers from Southern California, California, UCLA, St. Maries, University of San Francisco, Oregon State, Oregon, Washington State, Washington, Idaho, and Montana will make up schedules and discuss rules for the coming season.

Wants O. S. C. Game

Coach Calland is principally concerned with the schedule for next year.

"I hope we'll be able to get Oregon State on our 1935 schedule," Calland announced, "in fact, I think they should be on your permanent list. We have been playing five conference games right along, but I'm in favor of playing the other five northern teams each year before taking on other games. I think every team in the northern division should play every other team each season; they are natural rivals in football and everything else, including basketball and baseball. An I don't mind saying again that I would like mighty well to get a game with the Oregon Beavers next year."

There is one open date in this fall's schedule, October 13. It is possible that Coach Calland will be able to arrange for a game with Oregon State on this date.
