"Three Cornered Moon" Directed by Fred Blanchard Is Rollicking Farce

Helen Wilson Has Lead

Aldrich Bowler, Bernell Baker and Jean Ricker Contribute to Production

Next Friday and Saturday "Three Cornered Moon" by Gertrude Tonkology will be presented in the auditorium by the university players. Fred C. Blanchard is directing the production.

It is a rollicking, modern farce, animated by the irresponsible Rimpler family, and enlivened by wisecracks and impossible situations.

Helen Wilson plays Elizabeth who quite fancies herself as the inspiration of the poet, Donald (Aldrich Bowler). While he still has some of his own, Dr. Alan Stevens (Bernell Baker) tries to appeal to her good sense. The brothers, Douglas, Kenneth and Edward manage to complicate the situations appallingly, though they are slightly more subtle than the usual run of the "under sofa" little brothers.

Erma Lewis Has Lead
Erma Lewis plays Mrs. Rimpler, the mother of the mad crew. Jean Ricker is cast as Kitty, and Katherine Bjornstad as Jenny.

A clever cast that presents two views to the audience will be used for "Three Cornered Moon." It was designed by Desmond Smith of Cheney.

Students may get reserved seats at Hodgkin's drug store by presenting their ASU tickets. The curtain is promptly at 8:20 for both performances.

Faculty Dinner Given At Blue Bucket Inn

Many Guests Introduced By President Neale; Mrs. J. G. Eldridge Welcomes Them

The faculty members of the university held a dinner last Friday evening at the Blue Bucket Inn at which Mrs. J. G. Eldridge made the welcoming address.

Dr. M. G. Neale introduced the out of town guests, who were Mrs. C. Ben Ross, Boise; Mr. and Mrs. Jerome J. Day, Wallace; Mrs. James P. Pope, Boise; Clency St. Clair, Idaho Falls; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Jenney, Cottonwood; Dr. and Mrs. John R. Nichols, Pocatello; Mrs. F. Gerard, Boise; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph York, Boise; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Geddes, Winchester; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Parson, Boise and Representative Compton I. White, Clarkston.

The Pep Band and the Vandalers gave a musical program during the dinner.

STUDENTS STRIKE AT DIRTY POLITICS

Launching a movement tentatively termed the "Clean Government Movement," 39 student leaders at the University of Illinois struck the death blow to dirty campus politics recently.

Despite protest of the few politicians who were present at the meeting, the volunteer committee voted unanimously to endorse a complete slate of candidates for the coming election. That the action was staunchly supported by the students became apparent as disapproval of the prevailing political set-up was voiced at a group meeting held.

There are at least 32 of the known elements in sea water.

National Scobard and Blade Day Will Be Commemorated

National Scobard and Blade day, October 27, will be commemorated on the Idaho Campus with a luncheon at the Blue Bucket Inn at noon by the members of this military honorary society. The need for national defense will be emphasized. The honorary members who will attend are Gen. E. R. Crisman, Dean Ivan C. Crawford, Moscow; Col. F. Q. Knabenshue, and George S. Clarke, Spokane. Captain Harry Brenn and Lt. B. Hodgins of the National Guard unit of Moscow and the alumni of the organization are to be guests.

Rare Telescope Lens Recently Completed to Aid Astronomers

Rare perfection in an 8 1/2 inch telescope lens completed by the Corning Glass works to aid astronomers in studying cosmic mysteries was reported recently.

The lens was cast for a telescope to be erected at the McDonald observatory, maintained jointly by the Universities of Texas and Chicago. It will be the third largest telescopic eye in the world when a new 201-inch lens is completed. The second largest lens was recently completed for a 100-inch telescope at Mt. Wilson observatory in California.

The huge eye proved flawless, officials announced. It is similar to a 201-inch lens cast last March and is made of the same special composition.

Decoration Prizes Awarded At Game

Cups Given to Sigma Chi; Alpha Phi For Original Ideas

Sigma Chi, Alpha Phi, and the Kappa Sig's carried off the honors for this year's Homecoming contests.

The most cleverly decorated house in the men's division was won by the Sigma Chis, and the Alpha Phis were the cleverest in the women's division, the judges ruled. Kappa Sig's were awarded the prize for the best covered wagon.

A large mechanical duck predominated the front of the Sigma Chi house. Above him was the famous Garbo slogan, "I tank I go home." The first two words were in the form of Idaho's famous "I" tank.

Alpha Phi's, impressed with the bonnet-wearing idea erected a huge flying bee, buzzing into an equally large bonnet. "I'll be the bee in your bonnet," was the appropriate inscription for this decoration.

The judges, W. C. Banks, Miss Katherine Jensen, Theodore Pritchard, and Dr. F. C. Church, awarded the winners with the standard cups during the half of the game.

Fans Brave Rain To Witness Game

All-day Drizzle Fails to Keep 4000 From Homecoming Fray

In spite of the heavy rain Saturday, a crowd of about 4,000 came out to see the Idaho-Oregon Homecoming game. Eighty-eight alumni "I" men returned, and eight former football captains were represented to the audience in front of the grandstand.

They were George Horton, Moscow; Fred Cushing Moore, Spokane; Jim Thornton, Coeur d'Alene; Jack Hays, Culebec; Tom Owens, Moscow; Lee Tyrell, Moscow; Bill Hillman, Missoula; "Bunt" Breashears, Boise.

Expresses Regret
C. E. Favre, captain of the 1913 team, expressed his regret at being unable to attend as follows:

"You cannot know how much I appreciate your special invitation to return to the old school for Homecoming.

"I would, indeed, be very glad to be there, particularly in view of your special invitation. However, I find it impossible to be at Moscow on October 20, because of the fact that I must prepare for a trip to Washington, D. C. in the very early part of next month.

"With plenty of hope and good wishes for all the old crowd, and with the sincerest hope that they lick Oregon, I am

Sincerely yours,
C. E. FAVRE."

Earl Gets Off A Long One

THE MUD-CAKED FIGSKIN travelled 55 yards through the rainy atmosphere on this particular jaunt from the kicking toe of the big Vandal halfback. Smith's recklessness as a "muddier" jumped to a new peak after the Oregon game last Saturday when he got away many long punts for an average of 45 yards—an unusually high average for even a dry field. Attempting to block the punt in the foreground is Vincent Walker, Oregon right end. Just left of center is Ross Sundberg, Idaho fullback, who has caught big Alex Eagle with a block and lifted him two feet off the ground. In the left corner, Russ Honsowetz, Idaho half, is seen putting a block on Gardus Frye, Oregon right tackle.

Send Off Rally Scheduled For Thursday

The rally, giving the team a send-off for the Montana game next Saturday, will start in front of the Gamma Phi house at 4:45 Thursday afternoon. Everyone bring his noise maker prepared to give the team a good send off for their third conference game.

Moscow Bears To Play Wash. Team

Walla Walla H. S. Plays on MacLean Field Friday

MacLean field will be the scene of a high school game Friday at 2:30 p. m., which should be a "natural" as far as entertainment is concerned. The Moscow Bears meet the Walla Walla Blue Devils in a game which will mean a first defeat for one or the other. University students will be admitted to the game for 25 cents.

Walla Walla looked especially impressive in defeating Clarkston last week 85 to 0, their last two touchdowns being made by their second team. Moscow defeated Clarkston the week before by a score of 21 to 6.

Coach Dimmick's Wa-Hi club boasts a 200-pound line, according to reports, with four regulars in the center of the line weighing better than 210. The Blue Devil offense is built around Don Laman, 210-pound veteran fullback and one of the finest high school ball carriers in the Inland Empire.

Defeats Dayton
Walla Walla's victory march has bowled over Pasco 55 to 0, LaGrande, 13 to 6, McLaughlin high of Milton-Freewater 7 to 0, Dayton, 14 to 0, and Clarkston 35 to 0. Dayton had previously been doped as the strongest eleven from the southeastern Washington district for 1934.

Coach Gale Mix's Bears will be in top condition for Friday's game with the probable exception of Clarence Kelly, halfback who came out of the Clarkston fracas with a back injury and has not been in suit since. Kelly's brilliant blocking will be missed against Walla Walla. His place will likely be filled by Jud Smith, 165-pound freshman. The red-head is a classy opener. The red-head is a classy opener. The red-head is a classy opener.

Last year Moscow defeated a much heavier Walla Walla team, 25 to 6.

MANY ENJOY DANCE AT GYM SATURDAY

Many people enjoyed the final feature of the Homecoming celebration which was the alumni and "I" club dance Saturday night in the Memorial gymnasium. All students, alumni, and friends of Idaho were invited to attend the affair.

Music was furnished by Johnny McReynold's eight piece orchestra from Spokane, which has just returned from a world tour after playing aboard ship, in restaurants, and over the radio.

"I" Club Gets Some
Tickets were sold for 40 cents to both men and women who attended the affair, part of which went to the "I" club which is planning to present a trophy case to the school.

Grizzlies Determined To Gain Revenge Over Vandals Sat.

Coach "Bunny" Oakes
Grooming Team For Idaho Tilt

"On to Missoula!"
That's the battle cry along the Vandal front this week. Undeterred by two conference defeats at the hands of Washington and Oregon, the silver and gold marches into Montana this weekend for what they have determined is to be their first conference victory.

The Grizzlies, coached by "Bunny" Oakes, have also lost two conference starts so far this season, the first being to Washington State, 27 to 0, and the second to U. C. L. A. 16 to 6. Rated slightly as underdogs in the coming tilt with the Vandals, the Montanans are working hard to even the odds before game time Saturday, and with the showing made against U. C. L. A. two weeks ago, are given a fair chance to upset the Vandals by Grizzly prognosticators.

Idaho Won Last Three
Recent Idaho-Montana grid history reveals that the Vandals won by one touchdown in 1933, the score being 12 to 6. The year before Idaho won 19 to 6, and in 1931 the Vandals topped a 21 to 19 score. Though Montana generally takes the short end of the score, in the annual game, it is always one of the best tilts of the season for both schools.

The Grizzlies showed improvement against U. C. L. A. in their second game of the season, and Coach Oakes hopes to bring the squad along so that by the Idaho game the Grizzlies will be at top form. According to Montana authorities, poor generalship has been the most marked weakness of Grizzly play, and this week every squad member is "thinking" football as well as playing it.

Soph in Lineup
Sophomores have been breaking into the Montana lineup to bolster up the holes left by graduation last year. Baehc, left tackle, has seen a lot of action thus far, and his performances have slated him for a regular starting position in that berth. At right tackle, Cosgrove, another first year man, has been showing well, playing an excellent game against U. C. L. A.

Pintarrel looks good at right guard and is listed on the starting lineup. In the backfield, Holmquist, sophomore halfback, played his first big time game against U. C. L. A. and looked mighty good, says the advance dope from Missoula. His punting, passing, and running ability give him the inside track on a starting berth in the Grizzly rear guard this season. Saturday's decisive win over the Montana School of Mines has restored confidence to the silver-tips, according to Missoula fans.

The University of California the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn.; Columbia University, Barnard College, American University at Washington, D. C. and Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio, are among the many institutions throughout the country which are establishing courses in the working of the NRA and code administration this fall.

Some of the notable out of town people who attended the dance were Ralph York of Boise, president of the Idaho Alumni association; Clency St. Clair of Idaho Falls, past president of the board of Regents; and Asher B. Wilson of Twin Falls, who is president of the board of regents.

Knights To Install Caldwell Chapter

Delegates From College Sent to Help With Plans For Installation

Installation of a chapter of Intercollegiate Knights at the College of Idaho, was discussed at a breakfast given by the local chapter at the Moscow hotel, Sunday. Delegates from the College of Idaho were Larry Kingsbury, president of the ASCI, Willard Burns, Roger Ray, and George Millner. A delegation will be sent from this chapter to formally install the Caldwell chapter when plans have been completed.

Stanton Hale, '32, national advisor and former Duke of the Idaho chapter, is an active alumni who has helped the organization of the Caldwell chapter. Chet Rodell, national vice president, and Rollin Hunter, national viceroy, have also been working for the College of Idaho chapter.

Frank Bevington, Duke of the chapter, reported that the annual mixer was a success. Members of the committee were: Bill McCrea, chairman, Earl Bullock, Robert Strawn, Robert Strachan, Clyde Kowitz, and Mark Robinson. A joint dance with W. S. C. chapter Knights will be held soon.

School of Forestry Begins Fall Planting On University Land

The Idaho School of Forestry is beginning its fall planting program on the university forest land north of Troy. The work is being done by CCG boys under the direction of John Cook, an Idaho forestry student of the class of 1933.

Last spring 60,000 trees were planted over an area of 75 acres. This fall 120,000 trees will be planted over approximately 150 acres. The program will take a crew of 40 men about two weeks to complete. In addition to Douglas fir, ponderosa pine, and Engelmann spruce, which are native species, several white pines from Europe and Asia will be planted to test their resistance to the white pine blister rust.

"Alaskan Coast Is Warmer Than Moscow," Says Student

"Alaska is just one more part of the United States," says Marianne Lund, a student from Ketchikan, Alaska. "Alaskans do as Americans do and are as Americans are with a few exceptions."

Food and clothing are shipped into Alaska from the United States. With fishing as the chief industry, Ketchikan leads the world in salmon canning. Its population is increased by several thousand salmon canners in the summer. After visiting the salmon canneries, Marianne says she doesn't like canned salmon.

Contrary to common belief, the Alaskan coast is warmer than

Southern Tour Is Successful, Director Says

Vandaleers Return After Eleven-day Trip in Southern Part of State

Hold Informal Concerts

Make Tour in New Bus Recently Purchased For Use in School Activities

The Idaho Vandaleers, a mixed chorus of university students, returned Friday morning from an 11-day tour of southern Idaho. Leaving Moscow on October 8, they journeyed to Emmett, Weiser, Buhl, Idaho Falls, Rupert, Pocatello, Rexburg, Blaine, Twin Falls, Nampa, and Boise, where they gave informal concerts. A number of informal morning and afternoon concerts were also given at the various high schools in these above towns.

Twenty Vandaleers made the trip. They were chaperoned by Mrs. Carleton Cummings. Professor Cummings is the director for the organization. The trip was made in the new university bus recently purchased by the ASUI. "The trip this fall was the most successful ever taken by this organization," said Professor Cummings, "and to add to the perfection of the trip, the weather was perfect. We were well received wherever we appeared, and numerous entertainments were given in our honor."

The organization is made up of 10 women and nine men. Delsa Crowley is the accompanist. Raymond Vaught, one of the Vandaleers, assisted with the violin and Jessie Kenney with the cello. The Vandaleers last spring made a tour of northern Idaho which turned out successful.

No Cause For Alarm About Scarlet Fever

Robert Wetherell Stricken; All Members of Group Given Anti-toxin

Robert Wetherell, a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, was taken to the isolation ward of the infirmary yesterday and all members of the group were given scarlet fever anti-toxin when it was learned that he had contracted a mild form of the malady. Another member of the group was reported by Dr. William V. Halversen, head of the bacteriology department, as having the disease but his name could not be learned last night.

"There is absolutely no cause for alarm," said Dr. Halversen last night. "The cases have been isolated and all those who came in contact with the stricken boys have been inoculated. The scarlet fever anti-toxin will render them immune to the disease."

Both boys were reported as resting easily last night and rapid recovery was expected for both. Their cases were light and Dr. Halversen expects no more outbreaks of the affliction.

"Those to whom the anti-toxin has been administered will probably feel worse than the boys who have the disease," he said.

This 'n That

Although it was one of the liveliest and most interesting Homecomings held for several years, we breathe a sigh of relief to know that it is a thing of the past. The celebration was a huge success in spite of the fact that many of the most interesting occurrences had not been planned. There was an unusual number of auto wrecks, headaches, and serenades not on the program. Maybe the fact that it was Idaho's thirteenth Homecoming will account for most of this. The rally Friday night was an indication of the magnitude of the increased enrollment. It was divided into two sections, part of the mob with the Pep Band parading down town, and the rest waiting patiently at the bonfire with the yell leaders. Quite a novel idea, even if it is a bit confusing.

The Spur serenade was very well attended. There was even a few Spurs there. We have been thinking about making a survey to discover how many people stumbled over the rail around the floor of the gym that night. Wonder how many of the celebrators attempted to ride the horse on the Tri Delt front yard. Someone evidently tried to ride it into the house, as it has been standing on the front porch the last two days.

The antics of individuals were very interesting. For instance, Exprexy Bob Newhouse bringing up the past at the Bucket Saturday night. "Doc Exum prescribing for Pep Band members at the game Saturday. Kappa Fisher very irritated over the disappearance of her date. Keenan Mains catching Morfitt red-handed at the Blue Bucket. Betty Merriam doing a high dive off the Phi Delt prairie schooner. Margaret Misselhorn prominent W. S. C. queen, renewing Phi Delt acquaintances. Bopp surprising the professors by attending classes. wonder if there is any truth to the rumor of culmination of Alpha-Phi-Kappa Sig romance. Wetherell being confined with scarlet fever. Fiji house quarantined. Kappa house expected to be A. T. O. returning alum requesting Bert Larsen to go get his pledge button. Honor Tricks
Learning how to value cards for trick taking possibilities is primarily one of the most important steps in contract. This means you must be able to estimate with fair accuracy the probable number of tricks your hand will take either offensively or defensively. To begin with the definition for honor trick is: A high card which is an expected winner even if the opponents play the hand at their contract. From the definition it is then obvious that any Ace will take a trick. Any AK in the same suit and AKQ in the same suit will take three tricks. Quite naturally this is true if you or your partner receive the contract, but the declarer is not determined until there has been progressive bidding, therefore, not knowing which side will receive the contract, the honor strength must be calculated defensively. According to the law of averages, which is an important factor in bridge, the third round is almost certain to be trumped. It is then we find that the latter (the AKQ) is not true because we cannot value the queen as a defensive trick. To illustrate, we shall say we picked up a hand with the AKQJ10 of spades.

We can then only value the AK as honor tricks. Therefore we say an Ace is one honor trick and AK two honor tricks. We shall now discuss the one and a half and half honor tricks. This valuation is also based on the law of averages. As an illustration, we shall take the AQ of spades. If spades are led and the K of spades is on the left, the A. Q. is only good for one trick and if the K is on the right, the AQ would take two tricks, therefore we can easily see how the term half honor trick is arrived at. One half of the time it will take a trick and a half of the time it won't.

The following table of honor tricks is printed for those who wish to learn contract. Beginners are urged to memorize this table and be able to apply it without the slightest hesitation.

DEMOLAYS TO HOLD ANNUAL CARNIVAL

The second annual DeMolay Carnival will be presented at the Masonic temple on November 3. The outstanding feature of this affair will be the raffling of a quilt which has been made and donated to the DeMolays by the Moscow Mothers club. Each 25 cent ticket to the Carnival will carry with it one free chance on the quilt.

Other features of the Carnival will be bingo, jitney dance, roulette, dice games, and other similar concessions with valuable merchandise as prizes.

Tickets can be purchased from Don Holmes at the Delta Chi house.

Education Plan

The news from Moscow that the curricula of Soviet universities are being swung from a concentration in the sciences to more liberal topics is an interesting aspect in a consideration of the value of education in a governmental plan. It is, of course, a much debated question whether or not the Soviet type of government is a wise one; much can be said with equal validity on both sides. But no matter which stand may be taken, it is still an undeniable fact that the university plan is wise and commendable for the Soviet idea.

This idea of concentrating all the activities of a group of men and women towards one end is admirable for persons of any belief or station in life, for cooperation is a necessity, there is strength in unity, etc. And the benefits of this in Russian universities can be clearly seen. To quote Prof. Stephen P. Duggan, American Director of the International Institution of Education, "I was greatly surprised to find that the university, as we know it in the West, does not exist here today. The Soviet government is so much interested in the construction of a new civilization that it has been using everything else, to further that end. Since the Soviet leaders believe that the material basis of a new civilization must come first, they have given almost exclusive attention to scientific and technical subjects, to the neglect of practically all the humanistic subjects."

Now that the new plan for civilization is satisfactorily under way, the Soviet government has turned its attention to the other important end of education—the cult of a liberal education. History, for example, after an absence of over a decade, is being reinstated in the university curricula; a trend towards the humanities is being forwarded.

Though most people may feel that any admirable qualities of this education control are peculiar to the Soviet alone, the change furnishes a good example of idealistic education to every one. It represents the adherence to an ideal in learning set down to the best advantage of students and the public. A man or woman graduating from a Russian school will be fully equipped for any occupation that is to be had in the state, for technical advancement under the old scheme, and for more cultural pursuits in this broadening plan.

This has been notably lacking in the plan of American universities. In arts and liberal colleges, the complaint has always been that the studies pursued have done nothing towards developing or preparing the student. The arts education neither prepares one for a particular employment, nor is the teaching systematic enough for the development of a cultured mind. Each university in the United States is trying out its own plan in an attempt to solve these difficulties, but the confusion seems only to be increasing.

One answer might be that universities should plan their curricula about a central and universal plan. And for the best example, one may look to Russia. Perhaps the Soviets, despite the ridicule that has attended their Five-Year plan, have found an answer in education that is of real value.—Cornell Daily Sun

Things That Matter

"Stormy weather!"—and that means the girls—and fellows—can dust off those tricky raincoats they have been harboring for so long and give the campus an eye-full of new styles, colors, and whatever the noun is for a-propos.

One of the most unusual styles is worn by Jean Dunkle. He outstanding feature is the employment of a zipper which extends from the bottom to the neck-line, where it meets a new version of the Peter Pan collar. What fullness there is, is belted in at the waist-line.

Material enters in as a new feature in "different" rain coats, as is witnessed in one of Betty Dahl's, who selected a gold rubberized material on which is a suggestion of shiny metal. Anyway, she glitters when she walks.

Marie Schneider need never worry about duplication in her choice, for Cologne is awfully far away and we are getting old. But here she models a European number of pure white, ornamented with silver buttons and topped with a dark collar which fits tightly around the neck.

If the present weather conditions are consistent, we'll no doubt see competing patterns, but it never falls that when we're prepared for such, the sun will shine—what?

Vandals Lose To Oregon 13-6 Saturday On Muddy MacLean Field In Homecoming Game

Anderson Scores Idaho's Lone Tally After Blocked Punt

By Eddie Mayer

A drizzling rain that fell most of the time took considerable glamor from the Homecoming game as a powerful Oregon eleven pounded its way to a well deserved 13-6 victory here last Saturday.

Heavy rainfall during the morning made the field muddy and slippery by game time, putting a damper on flashy open play. Fans and students huddled under coats and blankets as they watched the battle.

Too much Van Vliet and Michek, combined with the inability of the Vandals to advance either by air or "terra firma" spelled defeat.

The outstanding feature of the Idaho attack was the punting of big Earl Smith. His seven boots traveled for an average of 46 yards, an average which would be worthy of mention on a dry field let alone lifting a wet, soggy oval for that yardage.

DUCKS USE IDAHO STRATEGY TO ADVANCE

Bitter irony was dished out by the Ducks when they completed 7 of 12 pass attempts, one for a touchdown, while the Vandals were able to complete but 2 in 10 tries.

Oregon scored first when Parke gathered in Van Vliet's pass and stepped across the pay line with a minute and a half to play in the second quarter. Walker came into the game and converted the extra point from placement. The second score for the winners came in the third period following a march of 80 yards.

To Dick Nutting, guard, and Barney Anderson, end, goes the credit for garnering Idaho's six points. Nutting broke through the Duck line to block Van Vliet's punt, the ball rolling back 16 yards to about the 15, where Anderson, coming in fast, scooped it up and crossed the goal line before the Webfoots could get things under control.

OREGON GAIN IN SECOND AND THIRD

In piling up 215 yards from scrimmage to Idaho's 65, the Oregonians utilized the second and third quarters for most of the gains. The Vandals kept Callison's men check-mated in the opening stanza through the medium of Smith's punting, but in the next period the Ducks traveled from their own 45 to the Idaho 5 before the brakes were applied.

Then following the punt-out, Oregon took to the air and flew from the Vandal 46 to pay dirt. Of the seven plays attempted on this touchdown crusade, four were completed passes, three of which were in succession, the third netting the score.

MICHEK SCORES AFTER LONG DIVE

After McCue had punted over the goal line shortly after the start of the second half, Oregon took the ball on its own 20 and with Michek packing the oval on almost every play they cracked the Idaho front wall for consistent gains, crossing the goal line on the 14th play of the series.

On the kick-off following this touchdown, Van Vliet came back 25 yards to his own 37. Parke was thrown for a five-yard loss to the 32. Then Nutting and Anderson did their touchdown act. Inspired by this score the Vandals rallied to tally their only first downs of the game. Oregon kicked over the goal line, the ball coming out to the 20. Sundberg gained seven, added two, then Honsowetz made it first down with two more. Inman garnered two, then passed to Iverson for a gain of 19 for the other first down. Three more plays and McCue was called back to punt.

In the fourth quarter the Vandals somewhat repeated their first period punting activities, for they kept the winners deep in their own territory most of the time. Three which occurred in this period, the times during the game, two of Ducks were forced to kick from behind their own goal line.

#1 Fullback Michek

THE VANDALS COULDN'T STOP this combination of speed and power that rushed out of the Oregon backfield time after time in last Saturday's game. He's supposed to fill the shoes of the mighty Mike Mikulak, but players who have met up with him say that he is even better than the famous Oregon "cruncher."

ATHLETE IS INELIGIBLE

Everett Robinson, former star athlete at Wallace high school, has cast his lot with Hunk Anderson at North Carolina State this year. Last fall at Notre Dame he was rated as one of the outstanding frosh backs of the middle-west. According to Elmer Layden who relieved Anderson of his coaching duties at South Bend, Robinson would have been ineligible there this season due to his low scholastic standing.

PAUL BERG TURNS IN "IRONMAN" PERFORMANCE

Paul Berg, halfback, turned in another 60-minute of play for Idaho, making him the "iron man" of the squad. He hasn't missed one minute of action this season. Morse, Oregon end, who game highly touted as a pass snagger, lived up to his reputation. He was on the receiving end of most of his team's tosses.

Tommy Loutitt, referee, and his aids proved to be eagle-eyed officials throughout the game. Idaho lost 50 yards in penalties assessed for five different kinds of infractions, from pushing the center, backs in motion, unnecessary roughness, offside and too many times out. Oregon had almost as much trouble, losing 40 yards from penalties.

Calland's starting lineup, as had been rumored shortly before the game, was composed of several new men, some of which showed well and may stick as regulars.

Between the halves the covered wagon parade entertained the spectators, who needed some cheering to make up for the cold drizzle that had kept them dampened down all during the first half.

The lineups:

Leo Calland Rules Walker Suspended

Varsity End off Squad; Coach Charges Lack of Cooperation

"For the best interests of the varsity football squad Harvie Walker has been asked to turn in his suit," read an announcement issued by Leo Calland head football coach, yesterday afternoon following the practice session.

When pressed for an explanation of the end's removal from the varsity, Coach Calland replied that a lack of cooperation on and off the field prompted the action.

"Every member of the squad must lend his entire support to his coach and to the team to bring the season to any sort of a successful conclusion," he said. "I was absolutely certain of my ground before taking this action and I am certain that it is justified. I shall always exact from every member of the squad unswerving loyalty to the team and to the school."

By Eddie Mayer
Apologies before I start. But we had to have a space filler, so here goes—read it and weep.

Among the notables in the press box Saturday were "Bunny" Oakes, Montana head man, and "Buck" Bailey, the booming baseball mentor and head grid scout for Coach Babe Hollingbery, from across the line at the cow college.

Bunny also scouted the Vandals during the Gonzaga game—they're certainly pointing for us over Missoula way. While Oakes took in the battle here, his team was piling up a 48-0 victory over Montana School of Mines.

Bailey, an Idaho roofer for a day, didn't approve of Oregon's tactics in the third and fourth periods when they apparently were attempting to safeguard their lead by pulling time-wasting line plays deep in their own territory.

"Buck" boomed out, "If I was running that ball club I'd boot that ball clear out of the lot. Before some one drops that greasy oval."

Quoting L. H. Gregory of the Portland Oregonian: "Two years ago in Spokane Gonzaga beat Idaho, 20 to 7. As Calland finished the long walk across the field to congratulate Pecorovich, the winner, he grabbed Mike's hand and said: "Thank God, your man Krause graduates this year, so that's over!" Krause had scored a couple of Gonzaga touchdowns.

It was the other way about last season. Idaho beat Gonzaga, 20-12, mostly on the sensational scoring breaks of Willis Smith, Idaho's "little giant." This made it Mike's turn to take the long trudge of congratulation, and as he seized Calland's hand, in solemn tones he said: "Thank God, your man Smith graduates and we won't have to worry about him again!"

And then this year came that 24-20 thriller, with Gonzaga finally nosing it out, after having started from behind, 7-0; brought it to 6-18 on an impetuous scoring outburst, only to see Idaho come back with 20-18, and then, just before the finish, gained the winning touchdown on one of Ike Petersen's runs. (Then Gregory wondered what Leo said this year.)

Well, Leo congratulated Mike after taking the long walk, but failed to mention that he was glad Ike Petersen was playing his last year. But at any rate that is Leo's sentiments.

Stiff Workouts Prepare Frosh For Gonzaga

Yearlings Lack Drive; Defense Stressed during Weeks; Practice for Saturday

"From now on these big bruisers are going to hold that line," said Otto Anderson, frosh mentor. "We have a big team with a fast backfield, but we're not charging or holding like we should. This is going to be remedied before our game with the Gonzaga frosh Saturday.

The frosh have had the stiffest workouts of the year this last week. Many faults were shown in the disastrous game with Cheney Normal a week ago, so once more fundamentals are being stressed. The frosh have a good team, but they have lacked drive. Anderson is pounding block and tackle into them until they should be good on defense as well as offense.

Maupin has been looking good this last week, teaming up with Absher in a combination that has been working well. Rich and Prince have been showing their stuff too.

Saturday morning the frosh play the Gonzaga frosh on McLean field. Gonzaga has been following the example set by their varsity, and have been playing good ball all season. The Vandal babes have a larger line and just as versatile a backfield. Everything is in their favor and they should win. Last year the score was 26 to 12, with the Idaho yearlings on the short end.
