Curtain at 8:20 p.m. For "Three Cornered Moon"

University Players Make Initial Bows In Performances Friday-Saturday; One Act Plays Will Be Presented Thursday

The riotous, rollicking Rimplegar family will appear tonight and tomorrow night in the university players' presentation of "Three Cornered Moon." Fred C. Blanchard directs the production. The slightly dizzy characters, the sometimes unwise wisecracks, and the fast moving action of "Three Cornered Moon" combine to make it an evening of hilarious entertainment.

The "two-piece" modern set used for the production was assigned by Desmond Smith. The curtain will be at 8:20.

A program of one-act plays will be presented in the U hut, Thursday, November 1, under the direction of Miss Jean Collette, dramatics instructor. No admission will be charged.

Miss Collette's students in elementary play production will present a one-act play, "A Letter of Introduction" by William Dean Howells. The cast includes Pamela Persons, Bea Jane Fisher, Margaret Brendell, James Laing, Glenn Starn and Gordon Barnett.

"Grandma, Old Style," a comedy by Walter Prichard Eaton, will conclude the program with the following cast of characters: Jean Boomer, Jewel Bennett, Katherine Schultenhelm, Robert Granville, Andrew James and Mary Elizabeth Smith.

These programs, which will start at 7:30, will be scheduled for all the free nights in November, December, and February. Any one who is interested may attend.

Pick Committees For English Club

Organization Plans Important Program to be Presented Next Month

Committees for the English club's new year were chosen by the executive board of the club at its meeting last Tuesday. This organization, composed of upperclassmen, English majors and underclassmen who have distinguished themselves in the entrance examination or in English 1 or 2, is looking forward to a special meeting for those who have in this way become its new members. A more definite announcement will be given later when complete arrangements have been made for an important program to be held about the middle of November, according to Dr. George M. Miller, head of the English department and sponsor of the club.

Committees Listed

The committees include: membership—Ruth Farley, chairman, Jane Baker, Ruth Ferney, Barnett Baker, John Brosnan; Program—Margaret Millingsworth, chairman, Doris McDermott, William C. Banks; chimes—Dock Hogue, chairman, Robert Mullins; Elsie Wahl, Ruth Haller, Eleanor Echternach; Bookshelf—Coana Amstutz, chairman, Edith Slater, Harold Sparks; publicity—Elva Anderson, Ethlyn O'Neal, original compositions. Other committees yet to be chosen, will be announced later.

The executive committee for the year includes: Paul Rust, president; Martha Jean Rehberg, vice president; Vera Allen; secretary; and Helen Thornhill, treasurer.

Every year the club sponsors several programs of speakers and entertainers and maintains a bookshelf of the latest worth-while books for the students to borrow.

Ag Students Sling Big Bawl Tonight

Is All-College Dance; Blue Devils to Furnish Music for Affair

Tonight is the big night for the Ags and for those fortunate ones who have secured their tickets to the 16th annual "Ag Bawl" which will begin at 8:30 at the women's gym. The music will be furnished by the Blue Devils orchestra.

For the past 16 years the agricultural students have sponsored the first all-college dance of the season and anyone who has ever attended the Ag Bawl remembers it as one of the novel occasions of the year. The decorations will carry out the autumn and harvest season with shocks of corn and piles of pumpkins all around. One particularly interesting feature is the old fashioned cider barrel over in one corner where every one gathers to refresh himself. (It is rumored that the cider has aged for two weeks.)

There will be a varied array of costumes also—everything from little Bo-Peep to the country doctor. During intermission there will be a surprise in the way of entertainment and prizes will be presented for the best costumes. A few tickets are still available and may be secured from representatives in each group house.

STUDENT DIRECTORIES OUT

The 1934-35 student directories are out and will be available to house managers of organized groups in limited numbers today noon. They may be secured by calling at the publications office on the first floor of the Administration building. Five are to be issued to each group.

Students who do not live at a group residence may get a copy by calling at the office. A limited number is to be circulated, according to Oran Fitzgerald, university editor.

Dairy Instructor Tells of Strange Milking Methods

When the native Kaffir, "boys" of South Africa milk a cow, they use a two-fingered "stripping" grip as though holding a cigaret, according to T.R. Warren, instructor in dairy husbandry at the university. What is more, they smear vaseline on their hands before milking, or as a substitute, ordinary harness oil.

Mr. Warren recently returned from Cape Town where he took a shipment of purebred Holsteins for the Carnation farm near Seattle. South Africa is no "savage" land, Mr. Warren explained, but a country with a climate similar to that of southern California where the average American could enjoy life.

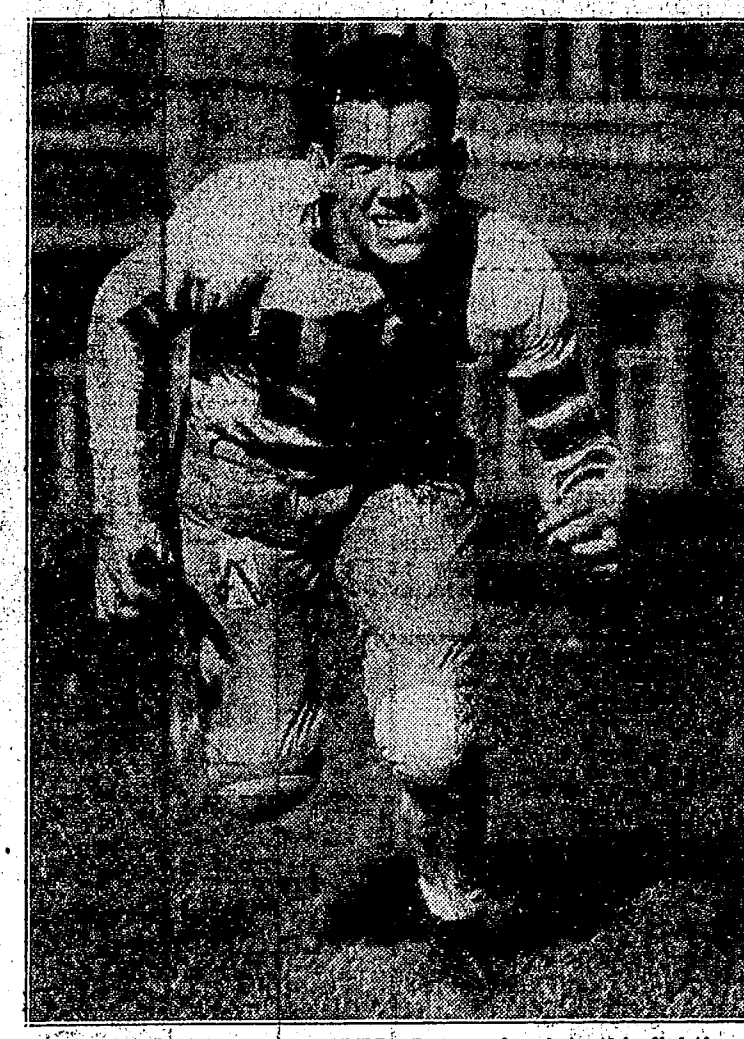

While there he visited five agricultural colleges.

Improved dairies in South Africa are the exception, not the rule, he found. Some have imported stock, with production records up to 20,000 pounds of milk a year. The majority, however, are unimproved. Such dairies have from 50 to 400 cows—queer looking native animals known as Kaffir cattle, with horns so huge and long that they would put the old-time Texas longhorn to shame.

Kaffir cows are milked about three months, and a daily production of two to four quarts is considered satisfactory. Native grasses are deficient in proteins and phosphorus. Peanut and coconut meal supplements are used, as well as cottonseed cake and soy beans. All are cheap. Bone meal is fed for its phosphorus content. When not included in the ration, cows gnaw old bones from which they often contract the germs of a strange and fatal disease.

Labor is cheap for the South African dairyman. Native Kaffirs, called "boys" no matter how ancient they may be, are paid 12 to 25 cents a day and "scoot," which consists of 60 to 100 pounds of white cornmeal a month and a half pound of meat per week.

Opponents Fear His Sticky Fingers

THE MONTANA GRIZZLIES WILL be running into this fighting face when they try to rounce the Van dal's left end at Missoula tomorrow afternoon. The Idaho wing man saying "NO" to any and all transgressors in his territory is Norm Iverson. Opponents keep their eyes on Norm when Idaho is on the offense, for he has developed a knack for hanging on to passes that come his way.

"Little Giant" Going Strong In Tough Professional Ball

Willis Smith, Sensational Idaho Ball Packer, Gets Praise In East

The "Little Giant" has come into his own!

After winding up a brilliant collegiate career on the Pacific coast, Willis Smith, chief ball-toter for the Idaho Vandals for the past three seasons, is moving down the ranks of the mighty on the east coast this year, under the colors of the New York Giants.

The worthy inhabitants of Gotham have taken the 148-pound "Wee Willie" into their midst with the fervent respect of men who know a good thing when they see it, for "McJockey Mouse", so dubbed by New York sports writers, has twisted and squirmed his way through the best lines that professional football can produce, and made yardage, plenty of yardage, where All-Americans have been thrown for losses.

What the "New Yawkers" think of the boy from the sage brush lands of Idaho is expressed in the praise given him by Everett B. Morris in the New York Herald-Tribune, as quoted by Ron Broom in the Spokane Chronicle.

"From the matted hair and handle-bar mustache days when Poe, Hinkey, Daly, Weekes and Eckerall were rampant, through the era of Ghee, Maulbetsch and Pollard, down to the jazzier age when Lourie, Stinchcomb and Stuhldreher were supreme, pint-sized football players have continually proved that good little men could hold their own with good big men in the most rugged of all physical contact games.

"Wee Willie Smith never made all-America in his under-graduate days at the University of Idaho, but he is carrying on the "little giant" tradition in the toughest sphere of all—professional football—where players of mastodon proportions are as common as thistles in Scotland.

"Smith, quarterback with the New York Giants of the National League, is 5 feet 6 inches high and weighs 148 pounds. He is by all odds the smallest player in a 10-team circuit where all-Americans frequently understudy young men whose college days were passed in the obscurity of East Podunk State Teachers' institute.

Demon at Long Gains

"At Idaho, Smith played three years as varsity quarterback without missing a game. He built up a reputation for long scoring dashes. In 1932 he ran four times for touchdowns from his own 25-yard line or farther away. Last year he scampered 85 yards through Washington State for a score.

"Only California, one of the moguls of west coast football, was able to keep him from running 35 yards or more at least twice in a game. This throttling of Smith's speed and shiftiness occurred when Wee Willie was a sophomore.

Edouard Hurliman Plays In Recital

Concert Violinist Well Received at Monday Night Performance

An enthusiastic audience greeted Edouard Hurlimann, violinist and concert-master of the Portland symphony orchestra, at his recital last Monday night in the university auditorium.

From the Sonata in A Major by Handel, which he played with classic taste and style, through the technical difficulties of the first two movements of the Dvorak Concerto, up to the end of the last two groups, Mr. Hurlimann displayed a musical comprehension, a technique, and beautiful tone found only in artists of unusual attainments.

Edouard Hurlimann A Moscow Audience at Mr. Hurlimann's Concerts, Will Not be Satisfied Until He Has Played the Bach Air on the G String.

He played it without accompaniment as his second encore. It was done with a full, rich tone and satisfying breadth of style. That the audience enjoyed his playing was manifested by the rounds of applause which greeted the close of each number and by the numerous encores they demanded.

Miss Mabel Clark of the University music faculty played the accompaniments with ease and control and showed good taste in following and balancing her parts to the solo instrument.

This was Mr. Hurlimann's third solo concert at the University of Idaho, and in it he displayed a greater solidity and confidence than before. As usual he kept to his high standard of performance.

First Free ASUI Dance Set for November 17 In Memorial Gym

For the first time in the history of the university, members of the ASUI will enjoy a free all-student dance, to be given on November 17, in the Memorial gymnasium.

The idea was presented to several group houses in the form of a petition, which was approved by the Executive board at a meeting Tuesday evening.

The Academic council later approved the plans which were drawn up by the following committee: Mary Hartley, Nina Kinghorn, Louis August, and Orville Goodsell.

Synthetic, radio-active sodium in sufficient quantities to serve as a practical substitute for radium in certain types of biological research and medical therapy, is now an accomplished fact.

Expect All Students To Attend Rally on Return of Vandals

Braving a drizzling rain, a fair sized and enthusiastic crowd gathered at the train yesterday afternoon to see the team off on their trip to the Montana camp. The Pep Band showed their quality by playing exceptionally well despite the weather.

The rally started at the Gamma Phi house and proceeded down to the Beta-Phi Delt corner where the band played and songs were sung. The crowd then gathered at the station where they were led in yells and songs by the cheer leaders and entertained by a few band numbers. Just before the train pulled out, Coach Calland made a statement that the boys were set on beating Montana and were coming back as victors.

"We are going to welcome the team home Sunday night at 11:00 a. m., win or lose," said Paul Kerr, yell king. "All fraternity and sorority members are requested to have their frosh attend and are requested to attend themselves. Let's get the good old Idaho spirit."

Scabbard and Blade Chooses Six Men

Hunt, Ward, Rich, Owens, Robertson, Giese Taken Into Honorary

Scabbard and Blade chose six pledges at their meeting Wednesday night. Those chosen were Vincent Hunt, Kenneth Robertson, Alfred Giese, Glenn Owens, George Rich, and Theron Ward.

The National Society of Scabbard and Blade was founded nearly 30 years ago at the University of Wisconsin by five cadet officers, and two years ago a memorial flagpole was erected at that institution by the National Society in honor of the founders. It now has 78 chapters in 45 states and a total membership of approximately 22,000.

To Celebrate Anniversary

On October 27, the various companies and alumni posts of the national society of Scabbard and Blade will celebrate the anniversary of the birth of former President Roosevelt as National Scabbard and Blade day. A company of regiment 6, at the University of Idaho will observe this event by a special meeting to be held at the Blue Buck ket at 12 o'clock noon. Among the speakers who will address the members of the company, together with alumni and invited guests are: General E. R. Chrisman and Major A. B. O'Connell.

Active membership in Scabbard and Blade is limited to outstanding cadet officers in the R. O. T. C. They are selected by members of the chapter upon their proficiency in military science, academic subjects, character and other attributes. Officers of the regular army, national guard and organized reserves may be selected to associate membership.

Grangers Will Banquet In Memorial Gymnasium

1000 Visitors to be in Moscow Next Week; Will Inspect University Campus

Beginning the first of next week, the Idaho State Grange convention will be held in Moscow. The meetings will be held over a period beginning Monday and lasting until Thursday. Official delegates and visitors, totaling almost 1000, from all over the state and several members of nearby county units and Washington Granges will begin to arrive in the city Sunday.

A tour of inspection of the university, originally scheduled for 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, has been advanced to 2 o'clock in order to allow visiting Grangers longer time to inspect the campus and the university farms.

Banquet in Gym

Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock a huge banquet has been arranged for, which will be held in the Memorial gymnasium. Dr. Mervin G. Neale, president of the university, will act as toastmaster for the affair. A diversified program using student talent has been arranged for the visitors at dinner.

"Chuck" Collins' orchestra will play during the meal. Herman Daugh will play an accordion solo, and Orrin Tracy, banjo player, will also entertain. Robert Lyon, director of the university band, will play a trumpet solo. The Vandaleers are to sing a group of Italian numbers. The university symphony orchestra and the military band are scheduled for important spots on the evening's musical program also.

Professor Chenoweth At Wednesday Meet

Professor C. W. Chenoweth was the speaker of the afternoon at the first regular meeting of Kappa Phi, Methodist women's organization, which was held in the Women's gymnasium Wednesday. His subject was "Ideals".

Wilma Mitchell, president of the group, played a cello solo, accompanied by Gertrude Gehrke.

Scholarship Applications To Be Soon

Aspirants for 1934 Rhodes Elections Must File Intention November 7 Selection in January

Idaho Committee Represented by Prof. Eugene Taylor in Ad. 203

Applications for Rhodes scholarship for 1934 are due with the Idaho committee, represented by Prof. Eugene Taylor, Ad. 203, on November 7. Elections will be held the first week in January 1935, and scholars elected at that time will enter the University of Oxford in October 1935. It has been announced.

Competition for Rhodes Scholarships takes place every year in every state. For the election, the 48 states are divided into eight districts of six states each. Each state committee is empowered to nominate two men to appear before the district committee, and from the 12 men so nominated, the district committee selects four to represent their states at Oxford. The state may thus receive two scholarships or none in any one year in accordance with the merits of its candidates.

Representative Here

In every college and university there is an institutional representative of the Rhodes Scholarships from whom copies of the memorandum of regulations, application blanks, and other information may be obtained. Prof. Taylor has been designated to act as representative at Idaho. The secretary of the committee of selection for this state is C. G. Bowden, Boise.

The stipend of a Rhodes scholarship is fixed at 400 pounds a year. No restriction is placed upon a candidate's choice of studies. Scholars are elected for two years in the first instance, but a third year may be awarded to men who have made an outstanding record during their first two years.

Qualities Listed

A candidate may apply either in the state in which he resides or in the one in which he has received at least two years of college training. The qualities which will be considered in making the selections are:

1. Literary and scholastic ability and attainments.
2. Qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy, kindness, unselfishness, and fellowship.
3. Exhibition of moral force of character and of instincts to lead and to take an interest in his schoolmates.
4. Physical vigor as shown by interest in outdoor sports or in other ways.

A candidate, to be eligible, must be an unmarried male citizen of the United States, between the ages of 19 and 25, and must have completed at least two years of his college education.

Scholarship Awarded To Business Student

John L. Aram is Named Recipient of American Banker's Association Award

John L. Aram, senior in the School of Business, has been awarded the American Bankers Association scholarship for 1934-35, reports Dean R. H. Farmer.

This scholarship, operated as a revolving fund, is awarded annually to a junior or senior student of banking and economics by a committee of two faculty members and one banker. Men chosen in the past have been among the most outstanding in the school of business. Aram is no exception, having earned his own way for three years and ranking high in scholarship. He is president of the Idaho chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, national honorary business fraternity; a member of Delta Chi social fraternity; and the ASUI rally committee. He was graduated from the Grangeville high school.

dicade that it does not care whether traditions are enforced or not. The "I" club has our thanks for continuing their too thankless job, although no student expression on the subject was forthcoming.

Idaho has in the past maintained an enviable and nationwide reputation for its spirit of friendliness. A while customs. Yet even now it provokes merely a cheery "hello" is one of our oldest and most worthwhile of acknowledgement or a surprised glance.

Are we going "big time?" Are we losing our grip? We shall always say no, but will we always be right? Think it over—it's worth a thought.

Grins and Gripes TO THE EDITOR

Sir:

The Pep Band starts all Idaho pep rallies. The Homecoming rally, beginning in front of the Tri-Delt House last Friday night, was erroneously started without the aid of the band. Soon after the start the Pep Band arrived. Consequently many disillusioned people supposed that it was a bit delinquent in making its appearance. That is not true. Previous to the rally the band was engaged in entertaining at the dinner held for faculty members and other notables in the Blue Bucket. Immediately afterward it was to take its place at the head of the pep rally. The Band arrived in ample time to start the rally as scheduled, but someone apparently let their Homecoming enthusiasm run wild and started the fireworks before the band's arrival. The members of the band have expressed their desire to make public actual facts so that no misconceptions might be formed.

Are We Slipping?

Thirteen hundred freshmen students of Washington State college, the class of 1938, will inaugurate a new tradition there next month when they will be administered a pledge of loyalty to their alma mater. The idea is not original with Washington State college, but comes from similar ceremonies held each semester at other institutions throughout the country.

At the University of Washington the custom has been continued for 19 years, and to quote from an editorial in The Washington Daily on the subject "there is no more beautiful ceremony during the four university years than this moment when you stand on the shadowed steps of Meany hall, pressed close by hundreds of your classmates, and repeat the solemn pledge of loyalty to Washington."

The ceremony is an impressive one, and to quote further "no matter how cynical you may be, the tears press your eyelids and your throat grows tight as you pledge your faith."

The Argonaut does not claim that such a ceremony is needed at Idaho but it does wish to point out the value of the pledge to bind every student into a unit, of and for the school of his choice. The "Idaho Spirit," a tradition here which has lived and thrived through changing generations of Idaho students is not dead, may it never be! It may be a meaningless phrase to some of the new students, but to we who have known Idaho, her life, and her traditions, it means everything.

Perhaps we are failing these newcomers in our midst by not acquainting them fully with the meaning of that "Idaho Spirit" soon enough. Perhaps occasional small infractions of Idaho customs and traditions by these students are a warning sign which we are overlooking, one which may lead within a generation to the downfall of all that Idaho has meant to us.

Let's take stock. The "I" men have called upon the student body already this year for an expression as to whether or not its somewhat cynical attitude toward their enforcement of campus customs is meant to in-

Dr. G.M. Miller Returns From Southern Idaho

English Department Head Attended Meetings of Idaho Educational Association

Dr. George Morey Miller, head of the department of English, returned Saturday morning from southern Idaho where he attended meetings of the English group of the Idaho Educational Association and made an attempt to coordinate the work of the English department of the Southern Branch and that of the University of Idaho.

During his trip, Dr. Miller attended sectional meetings at Pocatello, Twin Falls, and Boise, where he discussed the work of the National Council of Public Relations. The teachers were very much interested in investigations concerning tentative course in English published by the State Board of Education in August, 1932, according to Dr. Miller, and interested, too, in comparing salaries of English teachers with those of other teachers. Dr. Miller expresses himself as very hopeful concerning the success of the new movement among English teachers.

Promise Cooperation Concerning the conference with the members of the English Department at the Southern Branch, Dr. Miller says: "I found the teachers they heartily agreed with me. The in the department of the Southern branch wholly cooperative in spirit and attitude. When I expressed myself to them as believing that we should have one department of Idaho with the least possible ment at the Southern Branch, Dr. Miller encountered a surprising number of old Idaho students, among them many of his former students. He expresses himself as well pleased with his trip.

Outside: Rain and a dreary world. Inside: Two dejected columnists sadly composing their weekly pro-nostication.

Vainly we have tried to pierce the cloudy wall which causes our melancholy concentration. Always before our heavy vision comes the picture of Homecoming—1934. Rain and its association. Talk of teamwork and lack of head-work. Then the scene changes. We see the face of Leo Calland. A face almost desperate in its grim resolve to beat Montana. For the last several years the man, Calland, has managed to keep Idaho out of the gutter by beating Montana. Out of the gutter on to the curb, so to speak. However, we are with you, Coach Calland, and right now, it looks as if you will pull us through another year and leave us sitting on the curb. Perhaps, just perhaps, we are assuming too much. The crystal hasn't been quite the same since the Idaho-Gonzaga upset, and as we watch Idaho crush the Grizzlies 20 to 12 in their Homecoming game, we wonder if it is playing another dastardly trick. This game means a lot to Idaho, though, and we sincerely hope that it is true.

We apologize for the philosophy. It doesn't belong in this column. Here is what does belong.

Our neighbors at Washington State, seemingly run dum after their defeat at the hands of Gonzaga two weeks ago, run rampant over the powerful team from Oregon State crushing them under a score of 18 to 6.

The University of Southern California plays true to form and lost to Stanford by two touchdowns.

Oregon University invades gentile territory and takes the University of Utah to church, 20 to 0.

U. C. L. A., still playing her bunch of sophomores in the backfield, takes the candy from the California Aggies.

The University of Washington vs. California game is a fitting one with which to close the column. Played in the Washington stadium, it is one of the feature battles of the year. California puts up a wonderful fight and has the Huskies begging for mercy most of the first half. Reason—California has one of the best chances for national recognition if she can win. She doesn't. The classic goes Husky 13 to 0.

The boys are off to Missoula with the intent of bringing home their first conference victory as a result of their tangle with the Grizzlies tomorrow. Mud cleats and tennis shoes are both being packed in the Vandal grips in case they are needed, because it may be goshawful muddy in Montana, and then again it may be frozen and slippery. If the gods decree rain, Earl Smith, chief mudder for the Callandmen, will show his wares. If a skating rink turns up, "Devil" Devlin's itchy feet will do most of the perambulating for Idaho. There aren't any snowmen on the Vandal roster, so blizzards, stay outa Montana!

SCARLET FEVER as experienced by the Fijis, is also tough on the football team. Four of the frosh managers and one of the sophomore managers hang out at the Phi-Gam house, and when the quarantine descended on the boys, football managers were conspicuously lacking on MacLean field. Every able bodied citizen that stuck his nose on the gridiron was earnestly beseeched to hold the chain or take care of helmets and footballs. Raphael Gibbs, sports publicity director, put a nice afternoon on one end of the chain. With another start or 60 more minutes, Rafe oughta be entitled to at least a hand embroidered water bucket.

ANDERSON'S frosh take on a tough one tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock when the Gonzaga Bull pups come to Moscow for the annual yearling game. The young Blues from Spokane, always rated as dangerous, stand as the dark horses this year, playing their first game of the season tomorrow. "I'd rather see the boys play the Cougar frosh any day than Gonzaga," mourned the joyous Otto. "These kids from Spokane stay whipped for three quarters and then in the last period come out to throw passes and make long runs like a bunch of All-Americans. You can't tell what they'll do. I haven't got over my scare of two years ago yet. My boys were ahead seven points for three quarters and then the Gonzaga frosh made one touchdown and came so close to making another one that it took all the joy outa life."

WEE WILLIE is making good in the big time. Coast fans still rave when they think of the exploits of the "Little Giant" Smith and now the eastern enthusiasts are adding their cheers to the general uproar. The colorful gridiron sprite is ripping through and around the massive pro teams as easily as he coasted through the coast clubs. "I'm tickled to death to see Willis make good," commented Coach Calland, collegiate mentor of Smith. "I always said he would if he got a break. There have been several times already this year that I wish I still had him." Them's our sentiments, too, Leo.

Anderson Issues Call For Cross Country Men

Those Interested are Requested to Meet with Coach at Memorial Gymnasium

A call has been issued for all men interested in running cross country to meet with Coach Otto Anderson at the Memorial gymnasium. So far, those reporting for practice are all veteran runners, including Rodney Pearson, letterman in the 2-mile.

Others on last spring's track team are Cy Atkins, Bill O'Neill, and Stewart Brown, all very good contenders for places on this year's cross country team. As yet, no new men have reported to try out for this year's team. Coach Anderson would like to have more turn out including freshmen. All will have a chance to run in competition.

No Team Since '32
The cross country team of '32 was the last team developed by the university. Last year the executive board voted to reinstate cross country as a minor sport for which the minor "T" will be awarded to those who earn one.

Meets have been scheduled with Washington State college, and also tentative meets are planned with University of Washington and other conference schools.

Vandals Head For Grizzly Lair; Bull Pups To Battle Frosh Here

Expect Tough Battle From Revengeful Montana Outfit

By Eddie Mayer

Though Idaho is a slight favorite to win on a dry field, 27 Vandal griders headed north last evening convinced that they will meet as tough a team Saturday as they will encounter all season. A wet, muddy field is expected to neutralize the situation to such an extent that the outcome will be nothing short of a toss-up.

In accordance with his policy of no pre-game statements, Coach Leo E. Calland had no comment to make before entraining last evening. He indicated, however, that the weather would be a major factor in deciding the type of attack the Vandals will employ against the Grizzlies.

Incidentally, in preparing for unfavorable weather conditions, Calland instructed the players to pack their tennis shoes in their canvas bags for use in case the field should be icy and cleated shoes prove useless.

Mudder Smith Will Start If Field is Wet

Against Oregon, the Vandals played a punting game, starring Earl Smith, a "dyed-in-the-wool" mudder. If similar field conditions are found at Missoula that were "enjoyed" here last week, Smith may again see a lot of action.

In the last three years Idaho has edged out close victories. Last season after a "mud pie" party for three periods, the two teams went on a scoring spree in the last 10 minutes, tallying three touchdowns, the Vandals winning 12 to 6. The previous year Idaho won 19 to 6, and in 1931 the Vandals edged out a 21-19 thriller.

Russ Hansowetz Started Fireworks Last Year

Russ Hansowetz, who has been playing a stellar game at half this season, was responsible for the first touchdown in last fall's battle between the two teams. He snagged an 18-yard pass from Willis Smith and ran 40 yards to the goal line. The second score was the result of a march down the field featuring the ball packing of "Wee Willie".

Marked in last Saturday's fray was the fact that some of the men who have been warming benches most of the time this season were standouts over the regular star players. Howard Hesse did an excellent job at left tackle, and Calland said yesterday that he might start him in that position against Montana.

Leon Green Turns In Good Game

Leon Green, a halfback who had never played end in college before the Oregon game, stopped the first play shot at him by the Webfoots for a 7-yard loss. Only three yards were made around his end during the day, so he may get the call to start again this Saturday.

Harold Klumb, engaging in his

Watch Out for This Grizzly, Vandals!

YOU'RE LOOKING AT HENRY BLASTIC, speed merchant of the Montana outfit that Idaho plays at Missoula tomorrow. Last year this lad ran through half of the Idaho team for a touchdown after snaring a pass, returned a kick-off 97 yards against W. S. C., and performed other feats of football genius against every team the Grizzlies played. As you might guess from the picture, he can pass 'em too. The Vandals won't be taking any chances on letting this flash loose.

first game of the season after being out with a leg injury, played a good game at right tackle. He was a top-notch defensive man last year, and didn't look so rusty against Oregon.

Intramural Sports

The Phi Delt's defeated the S. A. E.'s Tuesday night 7-6 in a hard fought game. Martin, Phi Delt, scored a homer and Kramer, Phi Delt, scored two. The batteries for the Phi Delt's were Martin and Reckord and for the S. A. E.'s, Beatty and Morgan.

Ridenbaugh hall eliminated L. D. S. institute from the B. league intramural series 8-5 Wednesday night. Johnson of Ridenbaugh and Gessell of L. D. S. got homers. Madsen, Lee and Jergensen were batteries for L. D. S. and Striffers Johnson and Henney for Ridenbaugh.

T. M. A. won from T. K. E. 14-4 Wednesday night. Lukens, playing for T. K. E., was the only man to get a round trip. Burgan and Lukens were the batteries for the Tekes and Rice and Reberts for T. M. A.

The first intramural baseball game last night resulted in a victory for Alpha Tau Omega over the University club, by a score of 22 to 5. A. T. O. outplayed the University boys from the start. Three homers were made by the A. T. O.'s, two by Cook, and one by Jarlett. The batteries for the A. T. O.'s were Jarlett and Baldwin, and Smith and Hall for the University club.

In a hard, fast game last night, Beta Theta Pi beat Senior hall, 19-10. Smith, Senior hall, made the only home run of the game. The batteries for the Betas were Eldridge and McPhail, and for Senior Hall they were Hasler and Keyes.

Gonzaga Brings Powerful Squad; Game Called for 10 A. M. Tomorrow

By Bill Pauley

Saturday morning for the second time this year a Gonzaga football team invades the Vandal stronghold. This time the struggle will be between the yearlings. The game is called for 10 o'clock.

The Gonzaga frosh have the strongest team they have had in years, according to reports from Spokane. It is the best bunch of frosh that Gonzaga has had since the year that the great Max Krause played, they say, and that was the year that the Bullpups made history for frosh teams. Earlier in the season the Gonzaga yearlings defeated their varsity 13 to 0. Although the first string could walk over them now, it takes a good team to put anything over on such a team as Gonzaga has developed, and it must be remembered that it was just as early in the season for the youngsters.

Vandals Good Too

Coach Otto Anderson of the Vandal frosh has developed a splendid team, however, and even though the Bullpups can boast of a line just as heavy as the Babes and a backfield that will outweigh the Babes over 10 pounds, Idaho will make up for it in fight. The Babes have a smart team this year and Anderson has drilled them into a smooth working unit.

So far this season the Idaho frosh have an average of .500 per cent. In the first game of the season they bowled over the Lewiston Normal team 19 to 0, but then took it on the chin from Cheney. Several weaknesses were discovered in this last game, especially in defense. Anderson has been drilling the fundamentals of blocking and charging into them this last week so they will play this department of the game in much better style.

Walt Morgan, Idaho, won a decision over Lonnie Mullins W. S. C. at 115 pounds. This was another close battle, the judges, voting 2 to 1 for the Idaho man.

In the last bout of the evening, Morey Fickes, Idaho, lost a decision to "K. O." Keary, W. S. C., substitute for Sexton. Keary showed too much experience for Fickes, having fought in approximately 50 fights. Fickes hopes to have another chance at him and Coach Louis August predicts Fickes will take him next time.

Maupin May Be Out

The Idaho backfield is crippled in that Jerry Maupin, star Idaho freshman quarterback, has sustained a bad hip injury. This has been slowing him up considerably in scrimmage and may prevent his playing against the Bullpups. He has still been clicking in his passing combination with Absher; and Rich, half, Pavkov, half, and Prince, full, have been playing good ball.

Coach Anderson indicated today that he would probably start Carlos Stone, a fullback from Sugar City. Stone weighs only 165 pounds, which is light for the fullback position in the Idaho style of play, but Anderson declared that he makes up for it in flash and fire.

Use Varied Attack

The Gonzaga frosh have been running Washington State, Idaho, Oregon, and Puget Sound plays against the varsity, and will probably use plays from each of the four offenses against Idaho.

George Karamatic, 190-pound half; McKenna, 170-pound half; Pennito, fullback; and Schmidt, a youngster from Nampa, at quarter will compose the Bulldog backfield. Healey, center; McMichaels and Reader, guards; Kennedy and Cox, tackles; and Dickenson and Franks at ends will probably make up the Gonzaga line.
