HAWKEYE

ON DUTY

We have had many applications for snooping jobs next semester but so far we have failed to find a good snoop for some localities. Again we ask for more applicants. Send in your name to HAWKEYE and if you are among the lucky, you will hear from the all-seeing in person.

Just a few of the things that happened over the week-end: "AXEL" AXTELL coming home with mud all over the back of his coat and dozens of explanations. ...JACK "SPOOGIE" WILCOX learning to drive a car. ...C. B. O. C. MCGUIRE walking home with GLADYS COINER and thinking it was the Spinster Skip or something. ...GENE KILEY having more fraternity jewelry spread around the country than any three ordinary men. ...PAUL "KING" KERR stepping out with Jerry's blond—counter jumper. ...CHUCK "SIX EYES" WARNER around again after having all his spots removed at Edna Peterson's Spot Shop on the hill. ...SHIRLEY MACK having a little trouble getting in touch with SEULL ARMS over the phone. ...SWEDD WARD getting some of those Kappa darts and they are growing fast. ...PAT NORTHRUP doing a little peeping at the KAPPA windows. ...What do you suppose all the steady's will do when the other half leaves the campus next semester?

approached, not only by the coaches—but by the alumni of Washington and Oregon. Men now here at Idaho can tell those stories. Here's the point—Idaho boys who come to Idaho to school were not approached by alumni, but by one man, Leo Calland, the head coach.

This is written with all due apologies to those members of the alumni association whose cooperation has been evident and generous at all times. Those to whose attention we wish to call the foregoing comprise that group which persists upon hounding the press continuously with unfounded criticism, even yet, after Leo is definitely out of the Idaho football picture.

We Need Better Library Facilities Says Griper; And We Agree Say We

Sir: No good university is complete without an adequate library. The library at the University of Idaho is a pitiful excuse as an adequate library. How can the students in the university expect to get a great deal from outside research when the amount of outside material is limited and the space to read it in is so restricted? In past years the library has been somewhere near adequate for the needs of the school, but this year with the increased enrollment it no longer comes near as a group, therefore, is much belated, but none-the-less sincere. The article published in the Spokesman-Review on Friday, January 25th, prompts us to tell what more nearly approaches the truth of the matter.

To quote Mr. Leuschel, author of the ignominious story mentioned above: "during his six-year coaching regime Calland never made any attempt to solicit the support of the group whom he now blames for his failure. To the contrary any attempts of individuals of this group to arouse him from his lethargy met with a most cool reception." It is evident to us; knowing Leo's attitude toward his players and our school, that it has been Mr. Leuschel who has failed to arise from his stupor, with the exception of that time he may have spent telling the story of Leo's incompetence.

Every man who has ever played on Leo's football teams was personally interviewed by him before enrolling at the university. Mr. Leuschel cannot call to our attention one single year that Leo has not made at least one or two trips throughout the state in search of football talent since he took over his job here. Nor can Mr. Leuschel honestly deny that on every trip made Leo summoned the cooperation of alumni in providing jobs for the football men who needed them if they were to attend the university.

Perhaps we misunderstood the type of cooperation to be expected from the alumni. As we look upon it, the cooperation expected is in the nature of sending good men to school here whenever possible, helping to provide jobs for those men wherever possible, and of course, attending games whenever possible. This may be a misconception. Perhaps the cooperation to which Mr. Leuschel alludes is of a type whereby each alumnus and especially those former presidents of the alumni association should be appointed as members of the coaching staff; perhaps Leo, on his various trips throughout the state, should have "passed the hat" before the alumni. Would the opportunity of being called upon for cooperation of that kind have soothed the broken, neglected spirits? We think not. We believe that Leo called upon the alumni for their cooperation in the manner expected of him. After all, the Alumni association has pledged its assistance to the university, so it seems probable that the alumni would not be especially inconvenienced by offering cooperation instead of hibernating and playing with its mud pies, waiting to be asked to help.

Men from the southeastern part of the state were continually approached by alumni from Utah and other schools about attending their alma maters and playing ball. Others from the Boise area were to university. The university expects to attract students if its library is so inadequate? A new library would not mean needless expense because it would be a permanent expenditure and one that would last for many years to come. It would be an expense needed for the welfare of the school.

The only possible way that the library may be built is by the students taking it up, since no amount of talk by the faculty of the university seems to do any good.

Student Clubs

During the last few years, a great change has come over the American student. Due perhaps to the great economic depression and attendant financial difficulties, students, as most everybody else, have taken on a new and highly magnified interest in public affairs.

College liberal and political clubs have expanded membership, and strong, militant nation-wide student political leagues have arisen to unite the young in following various paths toward utopias. Each group has its own aims and ends; each strives toward the same general things—international peace and domestic security. How to get there? Well, each group has a different idea. And therein rests the reason for the hopeless lack of unity among American students, the obstacle in the way of an American youth movement.

Last Spring, the representatives of some sixty-odd colleges voted at various National Student Federation conferences to form on their respective campuses undergraduate public-affairs clubs which would work with a definite program for study and action. These clubs, under various names, already exist on many campuses. There is the John Dewey club at U.C.L.A., the William C. Bullitt club at Minnesota, and the Liberal club at Harvard, among others. On those campuses where such groups have never existed, it is hoped that before long there will be signs of growing organizations, devoted to one thing, training for intelligent leadership.

These units working together could accomplish much. They would form a powerful weapon in the struggle going on against the abrogation of civil rights and liberties. Between the activities of both the right and the left wing groups, we are fast losing our fundamental liberties of free speech and free press. These units could fight to preserve them, by championing any individual or group deprived of their rights or liberties. —National Student Mirror

Idaho's Football Team Has Something To Say About It

Radio Fails For Education

That there is "no royal road to learning" has been long an accepted axiom, but there have always been a few who have sought to smooth out some of the rough spots in the non-existent thoroughfare. Radio these roadsmoothers have looked to as one of their powerful instruments of the future. Some day they hope to see classrooms deserted and textbooks neglected, while students remain at home with one ear cocked attentively to their radios from which would be coming the day's allotment of knowledge.

But to these theorists has come a rude blow from a group of Harvard psychologists who have carried out experiments on students and adults which conclusively point out the superiority of the printed page as an educational force.

Radio, the experiments found, "has a somewhat dulling effect on the listener. He is definitely less critical, less analytical, more passively resistant when listening to the radio than when he is face-to-face with the speaker."

Students must now lay aside their dreams of acquiring culture out of the air, while lecturers, no longer distracted by the pleasant notion of reading their lectures without having to look at the bored faces of undergraduates, can now turn their efforts toward remedying defects in the fabric of education.—U. Pledges Plaints Will Resound As Semester Grades Come In

Now is the time for all good pledges to find out whether those nasty profs who flunked them at the nine weeks are still persisting in the idea of handing them a nice big red F for the semester, or whether a wonderful grade on the final would be any help.

It is also time to pick up any scrap of paper that may be around and start computing your average.

Then you sigh hopelessly. Then you start wondering if you have a prayer for that C in econ which would make everything figure out right, or if you could have possibly under-estimated what you deserved in some other course. And then you start out and figure the whole thing all over again.

This should, of course, have been done long ago, but so should a lot of other things. Notice, for instance, the vast number of students that crowd the libraries, actually staying there up until the time they close.

SOCIETY

VERY few were the social events that interrupted the pace of the students this weekend. The strains of the Blue Bucket orchestra Saturday night announced to all that there was some life left on the campus, but for the most part a blank of calm and quiet prevailed. It is lucky for the society editor that these horrid exams only come twice a year.

Three of the harder houses, Delta Delta Delta, Alpha Tau Omega, and Phi Delta Theta, had Sunday dinner guests, the Phi Deltas even forgetting lessons long enough to pledge one of them.

Next weekend, however, things will start again, with the Alpha Phi informal and the Junior mixer.

Phi Delta Theta announces the pledging of Ralph Crowley, Idaho Falls.

Sunday dinner guests of Delta Delta Delta were Margaret and Roberta Matthews.

Beulah Willey and Miles Flannigan, Grangeville, were Sunday dinner guests of Alpha Tau Omega.

Sunday dinner guests of Phi Delta Theta were Alice Kelly, Beatrice Jane Fisher, Donna Mae Sheridan, Peggy Hester, Anita Sherman, and Virginia Healy.

Mexican Play by Maxwell Anderson Is Under Blanchard's Direction

An exciting melodrama of early New Mexico, "Night Over Taos" by Maxwell Anderson, will be the next ASUI dramatic production to be presented here under the direction of Fred C. Blanchard March 1 and 2.

The scene is laid in the home of the vallant Spanish nobleman, Pablo Montoya, in 1847. His struggles to stem the oncoming "gringos" makes an exciting tale of adventure, romance, treachery and heroic bravery.

Presented in New York "Night Over Taos" was presented in New York two years ago by the same group that did the Pulitzer prize play, "Men in White," last year—J. Edward Brombery, Franchot Tone and Walter Coy.

In the Idaho production, Paul Selby is cast in the leading role of Pablo Montoya. He is supported by an unusually large cast which includes the following names:

HONORARY MEETS
Delta Sigma Rho, national debate honorary, will hold its annual debate dinner for all debaters in the near future, according to Virginia Merrick, president of the Idaho chapter. In practically every city paper that printed the Northern division basketball standings Sunday a casual observer would have seen the University of Washington in second place with Idaho's name below it. Most of them, we will admit, have glanced at the averages and seen that the Huskies and the Vandals were tied for second and third places. Why not get all the figures and let them tell the tale? Both teams have played six games, winning three and losing three. In her games, Idaho has scored 74 field goals while the Huskies have netted only 61. The University of Washington led not only in free throws by five points, 47 to 43, but also in personal fouls, 66 to 62. Idaho's advantage of 13 field goals gives the Vandals 191 total points scored while Washington has scored only 169 which is one point less than has been scored against them.

It is not difficult after seeing a game on W. S. C.'s floor to see why they have won all their home games. Before Saturday's game all the criticisms on the Washington State gym were about the lighting. Let us add another. Several times when Idaho men started cutting for the basket they slipped and went down to their knees. It looked as though they were playing on a dance floor. Twice in succession Fisher tried to stop and pivot only to slip and pile up on the floor. An offense such as Idaho's or Oregon's, dependent on quick breaks for the basket and scoring opportunities, cannot click on a floor surfaced as the Cougar's.

The Cougars, although they did deserve to win Saturday's game, did not look a great deal better as a team than they did when they played Idaho here. Individually Washington State had a wonderful lot of boys but as a team they really showed little improvement. Rogers and Johnson deserve paragraphs to themselves for their wonderful ball handling and brilliant floor play. The Cougar's high scorers Dahlke and Holstine also played fine ball but were scoring only because of Roger's brilliant work of feeding them the ball.

Although Wally Geraghty only scored three points at Pullman, much to the glee of the W. S. C. cat-call and booing section, he still is high man for average points per game. Geraghty in six games has averaged 9.17 points a game, followed by Bobby "Goose" Galer with an average of 8.83. Rogers who leads the scoring column has played eight games and averaged 7.37 a game, falling to fourth place below Willie Jones who's average is 8.14.

Weakened Vandals Succumb To Second Half Spurt Of Revamped Cougars

Klumb-less Idaho Outfit Battles W.S.C. Evenly For First Period, But Is Downed, 42-27

With a whirlwind finish, Washington State college downed a University of Idaho quintet handicapped by illness, 42 to 27 at Pullman Saturday evening, evening their two-game basketball series. A crowd of 4800 witnessed the battle, which was nip and tuck for three-fourths of the game.

Big Harold Klumb, center, was in the infirmary with influenza. Norman Iverson, who took his place at tip-off but is normally a guard, had just come from a sick bed, and Wally Geraghty, spark-plug of the Vandal squad, was suffering with a side injury which cut his effectiveness in half. The first half was a desperate struggle with both teams fighting hard and setting a fast pace. The score was tied four times and the lead changed three times, the Cougars holding the margin 19 to 18 at the half time gun.

Again Vic Warner, veteran Idaho guard, tied the count at 19 as the second half opened. Then Washington State spurted when Holstine made good a free throw and followed with two field goals. Dahlke eaged another goal for the Cougars and Washington State began pulling away fast.

With two minutes to play Coach Jack Friel sent in a complete set of Cougar substitutes, and Coach Rich Fox replaced most of the Idaho lineup. Both teams tended to be rough in the frenzy of excitement but the pace was never slowed.

Washington State's forwards, Holstine and Dahlke, aided by Harold Hawley, recruit center, led the scoring, Holstine getting 11, Dahlke getting 10 and Hawley 9. For Idaho Larson was high with 6. Geraghty was shut out of the field goal scoring, getting only 3 points on free throws.

The two teams play here next Saturday.

Cougar freshmen defeated the Idaho yearlings 44 to 38 in a slam-bang contest after the varsity game. It was the first of a four-game series.

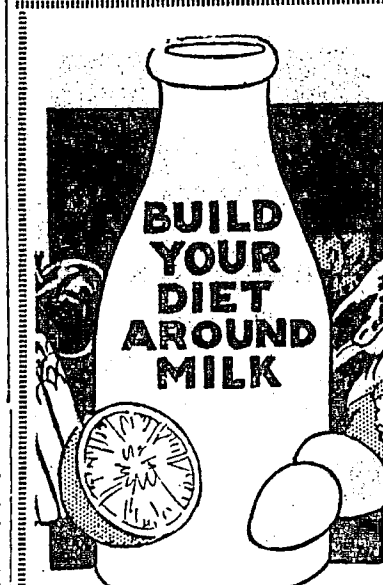

Babes Work For Preliminary Tilt

Idaho Frosh to Meet W.S.C. Kittens Saturday In Memorial Gym

Improving with every practice, Coach "Red" Jacoby's frosh quintet will resume their rivalry with the flashy W. S. C. Kittens Saturday night in a preliminary game to the Vandal-Cougar conference clash at the Memorial gymnasium.

The Babes were defeated in their game with the Kittens last Saturday, 44 to 38, but the spectators were surprised at the ability shown by the Babes when they worked to the limit the best frosh team W. S. C. has had in many years.

W. S. C. will probably enter Saturday's game heavily favored to win, but the Vandal cagers will have some thing to say about that and it is entirely possible that the

The Washington Huskies moved into second place and sent Oregon into a tie for the cellar position with W. S. C. in the northern division scoring race last night at Eugene by defeating the Webfoots, 42 to 36, after the teams were tied at 21-all at the half.

Bishop, Husky forward, and Chuck Wagner, Husky guard, each scored 10 in leading Washington to the successful outcome which was in doubt most of the time.

The Ducks held Bob Galer down to seven points, but they failed to stop the other Husky sharpshooters. Oregon's hopes for the conference honors were dimmed with the defeat, which was the fifth of the conference season.

W. Jones High
Willie Jones, lanky Oregon center, took scoring honors for the game with 12 points, followed by his stream-lined teammate, Glen Sanford, with 11. It was Sanford who guarded Galer, holding him to two field goals. Galer picked up three points on free throws, but not at the expense of Sanford, who played without fouling. Sanford broke loose in the first 10 seconds of play on a dash for a field goal. A minute later Clyde Wagner, Washington center, tied the score on Galer's rebound and Galer converted a free throw for a Washington lead.

Tied at Half
The score was tied up at 7-all and then the Webfoots went into a 17 to 12 lead, but the Huskies put on a rally that tied the score at 21-all by half-time.

At the start of the second half the Webfoots went into a one-point lead when Gemmill converted a free throw, but Ralph Bishop crossed under the basket and emerged with two points that put the Huskies permanently in the lead.

KLUMB EXPECTS TO BE READY FOR COUGAR TILT SATURDAY

After hearing the score of Saturday's basketball game at Pullman, in which Idaho took the rap from Washington State, 42 to 27, Harold Klumb, big Vandal center, proved a very impatient patient at the university infirmary where he was confined with the flu.

Result—the aggressive hoopster was released in good shape from the infirmary yesterday and has every intention of being on hand for this Saturday's return game here. Idaho missed the ball-hawking of the big fellow at Pullman, but Coach Rich Fox plans to make him the main threat for Washington State to stop this week.

Geraghty is Threat
Wally Geraghty, Idaho guard, should also be ample cause for Cougar worries. Geraghty played only 20 minutes of last Saturday's game after Coach Fox took him out early in the contest when three fouls were counted against him. Close checking by Washington State prevented Geraghty from scoring a single field goal during his short time of play, but he counted for three free throws. As the Vandal guard's scoring average hitherto has been better than 10 points per game, he should count for about 17 this Saturday to bring his percentage back to normal.

Scrimmages during the week for both Idaho and Washington State quintets will be cut to the minimum, as both institutions are starting semester examinations. Coach Fox said he would not hold regular turnouts until Wednesday night.

The Washington State game will be the last home contest for Idaho until February 18 when Washington comes to Moscow. The Vandals journey to Oregon the week following the Washington State encounter.

Brown Replaces Mix As Moscow High Mentor

Former Idaho Football and Wrestling Star Comes from Burley To Assume Local Post

of a dozen years ago, last Monday night was elected to be coach and physical education instructor for Moscow high school. He will succeed Gale L. Mix February 4, when the second semester begins.

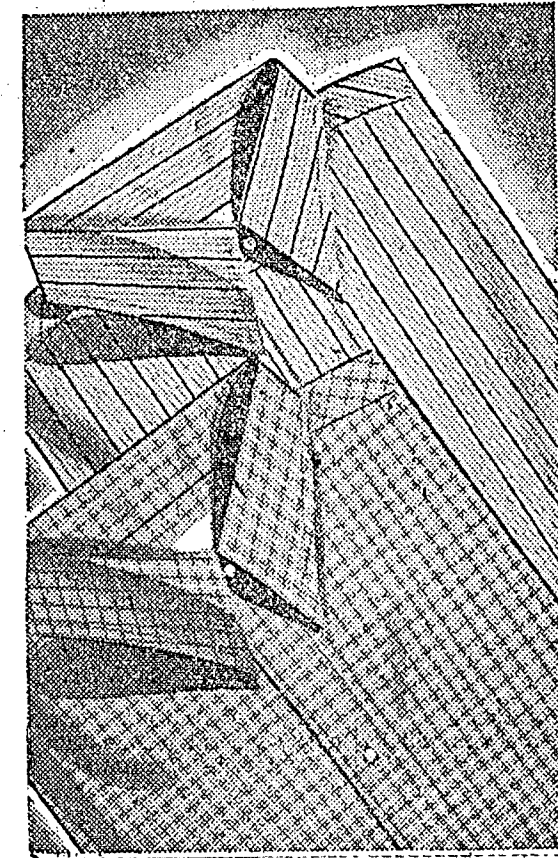

Brown comes here from Burley where he has been high school coach three years. He has also coached at Lewiston and Nampa.

The selection was made by the school board Monday evening in a special meeting. Brown wired his acceptance today, having obtained a release from the Burley position.

Graduating in 1924 after three years as a member of the football team and heavyweight wrestler, Brown coached at Lewiston, producing championship teams in both football and basketball. Several years he was out of the coaching profession being in business in Southern Idaho. The last three years he has been at Burley.

"Mr. Brown comes highly recommended from Burley," said Fulton G. Gale, Moscow superintendent, in making the announcement today. "His teams have been uniformly strong."
