

The Golden Fleece

Reserve another niche in the Hall of Fame for Chick Wilson and his "I" men. They're starting the semester off right by bearing down on a bunch of sophomores who can't wait until they are upperclassmen to assume upperclassmen's privileges.

In another column of this issue you will find a partial list of those second year individuals who wear cords for fear of being mistaken for frosh without green caps. Against the weight of campus custom and long established practice, there are always some who like to take their chances with bamboozling the lettermen. The "I" club didn't ask for the job, but the boys took upon themselves the thankless task because they felt that the tradition was worthwhile enough to be enforced.

There are always some who can't see why anybody should be restrained from wearing whatever they choose. Every "rook" in the army would doubtless vote in favor of a measure that would give him the privilege of wearing officers' boots. That's one reason why they are still rooks.

Keep it up, "I" club. You'll have the majority behind you as long as cords tradition is recognized on the campus, and there is nothing to indicate that it is slipping from popular favor.

Now if we can just persuade the "I" men to confine their activities to tradition enforcement and steer clear of picking a "Campus Queen," the worthy lettermen's club will enter that select group of organizations on the campus that justify their existence.

Of all the recognized ways of stirring up a first class fracas on an otherwise peaceful and friendly campus, selecting a feminine beauty or "popularity girl" is Rank A, No. 1. We note with approval and relief that the Mortar Boards have forsaken the idea of putting across their Spinsters' Skip with the ballyhoo of picking and crowning a "Campus King." Now if the "I" men will just come through and spare us the selection of a "Queen," our faith in democracy and athletics will be restored no end.

We learn in looking over an old Argonaut that the Idaho State penitentiary at Boise has a library of more than 6,000 volumes. Every book is on a shelf where it may be easily reached by the appreciative group. Inmates of the institution are also assured quiet while they read and study.

All of which, of course, has nothing whatever to do with the University of Idaho.

Idaho Institute Fills Vacancy Left by Wells

The vacancy left by Dr. Carl D. Wells who taught the courses in the Idaho Institute of Christian Education last semester will be filled by Dean J. G. Eldridge and Professor W. Wayne Smith for the second semester according to Professor W. Wayne Smith of the education department.

A definite time for the meeting of the respective classes has not yet been set. If the regular schedule followed last semester is not convenient to the students, they will be privileged to choose a time to their own satisfaction.

Professor Smith reports that registration in the Christian Education classes has been heavy. If anybody has not yet registered, however, and wishes to do so, there is still time. Information as to details of registration may be acquired from either Professor Smith or Dean Eldridge.

Dairy Professor Receives New Job

Prof. F. W. Atkeson
Will Go to Kansas
State College April 1

Prof. F. W. Atkeson, head of the dairy department of the university for the last 14 years, has been appointed head of the dairy husbandry department of Kansas State college to be effective April 1.

Professor Atkeson reports that he has not had official notification of his election to the Kansas state position, but said that he had been in communication with authorities there several weeks.

President M. G. Neale states that he regrets to see Professor Atkeson leave. "He is one of the best university men in the field of dairying in the United States. He is an excellent instructor, an excellent scientist, and has done very fine work in developing the dairy industry in Idaho," he said. "His going will be a loss not only to the university, the students, and the College of Agriculture, but will be a distinct loss to the entire state."

Professor Atkeson will go to Kansas State as head of the department of dairy husbandry and dairy husbandryman for the experiment station, the same position that he holds here, at a considerable increase in salary.

Prior to coming here in September 1921, he was field representative of the American Jersey Cattle club for the middlewestern states. His first position was that of assistant professor of agriculture at Cape Girardeau State normal school, Miss., going from there to Kansas State under Prof. J. B. Fitch, as an instructor. Professor Fitch is the man he now succeeds.

Professor Atkeson received his undergraduate training at the University of Missouri, receiving a master's degree at Kansas State.

GEM OF THE MOUNTAINS

There will be a table on the main floor of the Ad building this coming Thursday and Friday where those who have not already done so may sign over four dollars of their general deposits for the GEM.

Friday will be the last opportunity to procure a GEM for four dollars. In the future the price will be $4.25.

Arrangements have been made with the printer and photographers to extend the deadline on GEM pictures to February 18. That is positively the last date for getting pictures taken.

Infirmary Report Reveals Increase

The infirmary clinic list of daily calls has jumped to 4859 compared to last year's record of the first semester with 3354 calls. According to Miss Edna Peterson, head nurse, an average of 24 calls have come in daily. Out of this number, 421 bed patients as compared with 332 of last year.

Fifty-three clinic patients and 27 bed patients have called since the third week after Christmas this vacation. The majority of these suffered from influenza. There were also cases of measles, one of scarlet fever, and one of chicken pox.

Contrary to belief, the infirmary has not turned patients away, even though it has been almost filled to capacity at times.

Light Opera To Be Given This Weekend

"The Gondoliers" Is Received by Music and Dramatic Departments

Venice Is Setting of Operetta; Centers Around Young Prince

"We should be very glad that the department of music with the co-operation of the dramatics department is willing to bring to us a revival of 'The Gondoliers,' which is to be given in the university auditorium Friday and Saturday nights of this week at 8:15," said Dr. G. M. Miller, head of the English department.

In commenting on the literary value of Gilbert and Sullivan's operas, Dr. Miller said that he considered them of great importance, and that he intended to include one of the operas in his book, "Victorian Prose and Poetry," but did not use one because of their length for a book of this type.

"The Gilbert and Sullivan partnership in light opera is one of the famous partnerships in the history of English literature. It is not often that two men make a perfect combination in work so that it seems to be the work of one man. That was true in Shakespeare's time with Beaumont and Fletcher and has never been true to the same degree since, except for Gilbert and Sullivan. These men revolutionized light opera in English by substituting for the French 'opera bouffe,' which had furnished material for English opera for years, a new material genuinely English, fantastic, delightfully humorous, without the least vulgarity, and original and not commonplace."

Dissolve Partnership

Sullivan always made perfect adaptation of his music to Gilbert's verse—in fact, much of Sullivan's music was actually suggested and determined by Gilbert's remarkably original verification. The partners in light opera did many things together, but probably their best known successes are: "H. M. S. Pinafore," "The Pirates of Penzance," "Patience," "The Mikado," "Iolanthe," "The Yeomen of the Guard," and "The Gondoliers." The remarkable quality of this group is that it seems to be as good in revival now as it was originally. It was immediately after "The Gondoliers" was written that the partnership, after 20 years, dissolved in misunderstanding.

"Both men were noted for their work outside of their light operas written together. Gilbert, for example, was the author of the inimitable 'Bab' ballads, and the author of the magnificent burlesque of melodrama played at the university under the name of 'Tom Cobb.' Sullivan was the author of many songs and hymns, including 'Lost Chord' and 'Onward Christian Soldiers,'" Dr. Miller stated.

Story of Opera

The setting of "The Gondoliers" takes place in Venice in 1750. The rise of the curtain reveals a group of pretty Venetian maidens, all of whom have come with the hope of being selected as the wives of the two unusually popular gondoliers, Marco and Giuseppe. But each of these maidens appears so gay and

Coach Prospects Narrowed to Six

Athletic Committee Leaves Selection Up to Board of Regents

Names of six tentative football coaches were selected Saturday noon by the joint advisory athletic committee and will be recommended for consideration of the president and the board of regents. The six men chosen have been arranged according to first choice, second choice, etc.

The coaching situation has been put up to President M. G. Neale and the regents to final determination. The name of the coach is expected to be known within the next week.

Names Withheld

The committee refused to give the names of the six men or any inkling as to their identity. "We consider our work now at an end," said Dean Ivan C. Crawford, chairman. "We have gone over the available list very carefully and have proposed six men from whom we believe the administration will be able to select a worthy successor to Leo B. Caland."

Crawford Makes Contacts On his way to attend a meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Dean Crawford contacted a number of prospective candidates for the position.

NOTICE!

Reserved seat tickets are now on sale for "The Gondoliers," which is to be given February 8 and 9. A reserved seat ticket may be obtained by presenting your ASUI ticket at Hodgkin's Drug store.

"Nix on Going Steady" is Advice

Portland Man Tells Students To Flit About

In the loving hearts of how many collegiate pairs would grave doubts appear and campus romances totter on their foundations, were Rabbi Henry J. Berkowitz of Portland to give the speech here that University of Oregon students recently heard?

"Don't keep steady company," he advised. "Flit about from the ages of 18 to 20-odd. It is a more felicitous method of determining who is worthwhile."

As a result, we understand, Spring seems to be shaking her head in despair over the Oregon campus. It has flourished its magic wand in vain. Hitherto ardent Romeos are so busy thinking "Maybe she's not the right girl for me" that they have neither the time nor the courage to murmur "I think you're wonderful."

Nor would the girl even be listening if he should. The chances are she would be gravely debating "Should I be more frivolous?"

Now Oregon is not the only place in the West where the love bug has been biting the boys and girls. The sap which runs strongest in ardent hearts in the spring is beginning to flow around here, too, as even the most casual observer will testify. Imagine how upsetting it would be to hear warnings like these.

"A rapid succession of love is to be preferred to keeping steady company," the rabbi declared. "In most cases it is happier and healthier. Only through experiences of this sort can the individual learn the characteristics of strongest appeal."

Home Economics Teacher Returns After Accident

Miss Katherine Jensen, head of the home economics department returned to school yesterday for the first time since her accident. Miss Jensen, in going down a flight of stairs two months ago, fell and broke her ankle and wrist.

She was confined to the Gritman hospital for five weeks. During that time she carried out her lesson plans through substitutes. Since then she has been holding her classes in her apartment in Practice cottage. She also took charge of home economics registration there.

Miss Jensen is now able to get around with the use of a cane. Although her ankle is considerably swollen, she explained that her doctor said it was to be expected.

Noted Baritone Presented Today

Mark Daniels Appears At 11 O'clock Public Events Assembly

Mark Daniels, noted baritone, presented an outstanding concert at the ASUI assembly this morning. This program was sponsored by the Public Events committee.

Mr. Daniels received most of his preliminary vocal training in Portland, Ore., where he is well known for his activities as a concert, operatic and church singer. In 1925 he went East and was immediately associated with the Rochester American Opera company and remained with the organization for the two years during which he had leading roles in many productions under the direction of the celebrated conductor Eugene Goossens.

Appeared in Operas

Mr. Daniels has appeared in operatic performances in New York, Chicago, Montreal, and Toronto, Canada, Atlanta, Georgia, Richmond, Virginia, and many other large cities from coast to coast. Some of the operas in which he has taken the leading baritone parts are, "Carmen," "Madame Butterfly," "Faust," "Pagliacci," "The Marriage of Figaro," "Martha," and others.

During the spring of 1934, Mr. Daniels was engaged as the leading baritone for a special season of light opera, with the Chicago Civic Opera company, and appeared in 56 consecutive performances with outstanding success.

The singer is now engaged in radio work in Portland and is soloist and Precentor of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, as well as his concert entertainments.

Prof. Eugene Taylor Has Sabbatical Leave

Head of Mathematics Department Leaves for Harvard; Dr. Laney Also Goes

Prof. Eugene Taylor, head of the mathematics department since 1920, left for Harvard on a sabbatical leave from the University at the end of last semester. He will return to office next fall.

Professor Taylor received his B. A. and M. A. at De Pauw University in Green Castle, Ind.

The system of sabbatical leaves began at the University of Idaho during Pres. Alfred H. Upham's administration in 1927. Since then there have been two professors who leave each year. The leave is for one semester usually, but there have been year leaves given. The professors are chosen in the order of their seniority of appointment as full professors at the university.

Dr. F. B. Laney, head of the geology department, is the other professor to leave this semester.

MICROBIOLOGICAL FILM TO BE SHOWN

The works of Antony van Leeuwenhoek in microbiology will be presented in a film this afternoon in Science 110, at 4 p. m. by Dr. W. V. Halverson, head of the department on bacteriology.

Leeuwenhoek was the first man to do any extensive work with the microscope bringing together a series of lenses to have a compound magnification.

This film is available through the institute of the history of medicine, at John Hopkins university. The film was produced by Firma Multifilm, in Haarlam, Holland.

Revise Argonaut Staff For Second Semester

All Students Desiring Work on Publication To Meet Wednesday; Argonaut Pins To Be Awarded

New staff appointments for the second semester's work on The Argonaut will be made Wednesday afternoon at a meeting in Ad. 201 at 4 o'clock, announced Harold Boyd, editor, today. All new students, or old ones desiring work on the student paper should attend this meeting, he said. Argonaut pins will be awarded at the meeting.

There are a number of excellent positions open to new students who desire them," the editor remarked. "I want to encourage freshmen to turn out because they will have a better chance to work up to a good job before graduation cuts them off."

Reporting Jobs Open

The greatest opening at present is in general reporting. However, a few can be placed in copy desk, feature writing, rewrite, or editorial writing work. These last positions will go, however, the editor pointed out, to older students on the campus who have a better knowledge of student affairs and greater experience in the mechanics of the job.

"The masthead will be made over entirely for the second semester and it is important that everyone, whether an old or new student, report at the meeting," Boyd declared. "It will be assumed in cases where students now supposedly working on the paper fail to show up that his or her position is open to someone else."

Award Pins

The meeting will be conducted much as are those at the beginning of the year. Names, experience, and preferences of all turning out will be asked for by the editor.

The following should turn out to receive Argonaut awards due them last spring: Bertha Mae Wilburn, Hugh Maguire, Charles Warner, Bruce Bowler, Al Anderson, Edwin Vincent, John Lukens, Frances Warner, Marion Johnson, Bill McCrea, Phyllis Peterson, Eileen Kennedy, Mary Ellen Brown, Maurice Mallin, Elva Anderson, and Nina Varian.

Each men's group represented is requested to advise Cecil Great-house immediately who its two debaters will be.

The following rules will govern the debates:

Any man who has participated in either freshman or varsity debate at the university is ineligible. Losing one debate eliminates a team. The affirmative teams will be hosts to the negative teams in the first round.

The negative teams will have dinner at the house or hall of the Affirmative, as will the respective judges. Any team failing to appear in the first round automatically forfeits the debate and is consequently eliminated. There will be no postponements of debates scheduled for Round one.

Each team should prepare both sides of the question. The schedule for round one is as follows: The entrants are as follows, the affirmative being listed first in each case: Chi Alpha Pi vs. University club; Phi Gamma Delta vs. L. D. S. Institute; Phi Delta Theta vs. Lindley hall; Beta Theta Pi vs. Delta Chi; Delta Tau Delta vs. Ridenbaugh hall; Sigma Chi vs. Senior hall; Sigma Nu vs. Tau Kappa Epsilon; Lambda Chi Alpha vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Alpha Tau Omega vs. Kappa Sigma.

Mystery Surrounds Muckers' Ball Plans

Many Theories Advanced as Possible Motif To Be at Women's Gymnasium

"You have to go through a tunnel to get onto the dance floor."

"A tunnel? I heard it might be a hoist, and some one else said they were going to use a tram car!"

Thus puzzled students have been debating about the decorations of the Muckers' ball, to be given Saturday night at the Women's gymnasium, some details of which are being kept secret by Egan Kroll, general chairman, and his assistants.

One thing is sure, however, after braving the unknown perils at the entrance, guests will find themselves in an underground mine scene, achieved partly by indirect lighting.

Excellent publicity for the graduating seniors in the School of Mines will be provided by the

Alice Kelly Accepts Position in Seattle

Graduated Here in '29; Well Liked Both as Student and Member of Staff

Miss Alice Kelly, for six years director of cafes at Hays and for many years at the university, leaves this week to assume a position as manager of the Women's University club at Seattle. The position offered Miss Kelly means a considerable advancement over that which she has held here.

In commenting on Miss Kelly's decision to accept the offer of the Seattle club Miss Permeal French dean of women, said, "She is well fitted for this position and will give entire satisfaction. She has been much beloved at Idaho, both as a student and as a member of its staff. Always courteous, considerate, and helpful, she has endeared herself to students and faculty."

Miss Kelly graduated with a B. S. (Home Ec.) degree in 1929, having been a Spur her Sophomore year, a member of the Home Ec. club, junior class secretary, A. W. ## Hawkeye On Duty

Evidently the vacation between semesters was too much for our roller-skating and cycling clubs, because we haven't seen so much as one of them out loosening up since the vacation. BILL PAULEY, however, showed us a new one in plain and fancy diving at the Bucket the other night.

We understand there is now existing an anti-HAWKEYE league on the campus that is gaining popularity. We don't think much will come of it, however, because you will all agree that everybody likes to read about all the gossip and dirt circulating about.

Alas, the last old landmark, the one monument that could be used for something other than to recall some famous person or thing, has been done away with. TUSON's yellow "drop-seat" has been sold! And all because the persistent users of this old stand-by couldn't afford to contribute a few cents for purchasing a set of new curtains.

We wonder who that BOY is that stands in an upper window in Senior hall and shines a light from a large mirror into the eyes of passer-bys? Of course everyone joined in the manhunt for BOB WETHERELL Friday night, and I'll wager you couldn't guess where they found him.

We heard that "DOC" HOGUE made some very interesting acquaintances in the Desert in Spokane over the weekend. Did you hear about the kids who just sat and ate and ate—or was it drank and drank in the Davenport only to find the bill was about fifteen dollars instead of about five as they supposed?

We saw MARY WICKES doing her best to get PHIL PETERSON to come out and play last night. WAYNE HILL waiting till all hours of the night for MARGIE WYKOFF to come home. ROSS SUNDBERG flitting from one gal to another lately. ED METZGER blacking a big W.S.C. boy's eye. Three Betas and their dates buying a car.

And girls, have you seen? "HON-at the Kenworthy—After more than a year of preparation and filming, "David Copperfield" comes to the screen, starting tonight.

No photoplay in recent years has aroused more advance interest than "David Copperfield." Listed among the immortal stories of all time, it frequently was described by Charles Dickens, its author, as "my favorite child." It is a story that has been read by untold millions since it first was published, and its presentation on the screen is awaited eagerly.

No liberties have been taken with the original story, according to advance information. It remains a thrilling, dramatic and humorous tale of adventure and romance, just as Dickens wrote it.

"GONDOLIERS"

so fair that the gondoliers are unable to decide which of them to choose. They consequently blindfold themselves and promise to abide by the first maiden they find. In this fashion, Gianetta and Tessa become the wives of Marco and Giuseppe, respectively.

When the couples leave the stage, a new party of personages arrive consisting of the Duke and Duchess of Plaza-Toro with Casilda, their daughter, and Luiz, the one attendant who still bears witness to the grandeur that once was theirs. The purpose of this visit is to find the Grand Inquisitor, Don Alhambra. It seems that in her infancy Casilda had been married to the young Prince of Barataria. As the King had allied himself with the Wesleyan Methodists, the grand Inquisitor of Spain transported the young prince to Venice where a similar misfortune could not befall the child. With the King dead, it remains for the Prince to be found and be betrothed together with his rightful queen, Casilda.

End of Happiness

Casilda's happiness, instead of awaiting her, seems to be at an end; for it seems that she and Luiz, who had in the past been ardent lovers, are now to be separated. A spark of hope appears however, when they learn that the gondolier who was in charge of the young prince had so often been tipsy that he confused the prince with his own son. In short, after his death, none knew which was the Prince and which was the son of a lowly gondolier; none but the old nurse of the royal child, Inez, who, coincidentally enough, is the mother of Luiz. At the opening of Act II, we find Marco and Giuseppe, the gondoliers, in their palace, ruling according to their republican ideas. The kings with their wives and servants, ignorant of the actual state of affairs, are dancing the cachucha, when the Grand Inquisitor appears and ends their light-hearted pastime revealing that the true king has already been married. And it now remains for Inez to arrive and make known which is really he.

The unexpected ending of this operetta leaves everyone happy and delighted. It appears that the traitors had expected to steal the royal child from his nurse and so, in her devotion, Inez had substituted her own child, who thereafter was brought up as a gondolier in Venice. Apparently then, Luiz is King of Barataria! Casilda's joy is complete! As for Marco and Giuseppe, neither had fate neglected them; they are now liberated from all monarchical responsibilities and are free to enjoy the rest of their happy days with the maidens of their hearts.

SOCIETY

THEY are over at last—those quizzes that have been taking our minds off the social calendar, and now affairs and entertainments can come into prominence again. The weekend was a time for rejoicing, not only about the end of exams, but also the hard-earned victory over W.S.C. This victory was hilariously celebrated by many at the junior dance held at the Blue Bucket after the game.

Harold Teen, Ella Childers, Andy, and many other comic strip characters cavorted in their favorite haunts at the Alpha Phi dance Saturday. And don't forget "The Gondoliers" this weekend. It will be a new and pleasant way to spend a date night.

INTO

The foggy, soggy days of the Beavers and the Ducks go the Vandals this week, armed, we hope, with steel traps and duckloads, those being the things with which the above animals are bowled over. In order for the Vandals to stand even a halfway chance of getting into the northern division championship reckoning, they must take three out of four of the games played. For years no team has become northern division champion with more than four defeats. When we remember the three defeats already accredited to the Vandals, we see the logic of the statement that we must drop only one game, and that preferably to the Webfoots.

Two wins over the Oregon State Beavers would cause decided bullish tendencies on the Idaho market, but, when we consider that the Gillmen are heading the division, hopes for such a clean sweep recede miles and miles. And the Oregon Webfoots, smarting under a whole flock of recent defeats, will be out to squelch any championship hopes that the Vandals might have. How the games will come out can be only a matter to argue about until they're all over.

DID

You notice the frisky cawing of Bill Katsilometes on the basketball floor last Saturday eve. The rubber-legged Greek played a whole game in the half game or so that he was in, and proved to all who might doubt that the name of Katsilometes will appear often in sports notices from now on, much to the regret of the writers who have to struggle with his monicker. The ball-hawking exhibition put on by this son of old Athens was a credit to any man, and his work under the backboard proved that Idaho has three men to take the ball off that piece of timber from now on, instead of only two.

GREAT

is the conjecture concerning who the next football coach at Idaho will be. Rumors fly about "facts" are divulged, men reported to be interested are interviewed by out of town papers, and underneath it all works the committee who really has charge of the whole matter, saying nothing. Not even a single authentic statement can be obtained. Sometime during this week, the committee reports, the man to take over Leo Calland's job will be chosen, maybe. We hope so. This balmy weather stirs thoughts of spring football in idle sporting minds.

Al Fox Named on All-time All-star Northern Division Basketball Team

1921 Vandal Star and Brother of Rich Fox, Present Idaho Casaba Coach, Named in Oregonian in Choice of Mentors

Al Fox's name led all the rest! Topping the list of nine former Idaho basketball stars, Alex J. Fox, star Vandal forward from 1921 to 1923, is listed as guard on the all-time all-star northern division basketball team selected by the Portland Oregonian. Fox, a brother of Rich Fox, present Idaho basketball coach, was selected by the hoop coaches of the northern division, who were asked to submit their choices for all-time basketball nominees.

Fox, playing 12 years ago, left such an impression on the mind of basketball authorities that he was placed on the all-star team along with more recent stars such as Lee of Washington, Lewis of Oregon State.

Tied for Guard Post

Ralph Cairney of Washington, 1930-32, and K. Algot Westergren, Oregon, 1924-26, were tied in number of votes for one guard position and Hal Lee of Washington was voted in at the other guard berth. Ed Lewis, Oregon State, 1931-33, was the unanimous choice for the center post and so was named captain of the all-star aggregation. Henry Swanson, Washington, 1929-31 was selected to fill the other forward berth.

Among the selections for the first three all-time teams and for honorable mention, Idaho placed nine men, tying with Oregon for the most listed. Washington State and Oregon State were second, each placing eight, and Washington third, with seven. The Huskies, however, predominated on the first team, three of them being named. Idaho and Oregon State were the only two schools to place a man on each of three teams selected.

Idaho men named in addition to Fox are: second team, Frank McMullen; third team, Harold Stowell; honorable mention, Johnny Miles, Howard Grenier, Afton Barrett, Edward Lacy, Oz Thompson, and Pete Wicks.

MURAL BASKETBALL NEXT

The next event on the intra-mural schedule is the basketball tourney. This is to start next week, according to Ap Berg. The complete schedule will be published in the Friday edition of The Argonaut. Managers are advised to get their teams lined up and to hold a little preliminary practice.

University credit for ping-pong, archery, skating, and fraternity or sorority membership will be given by Oklahoma City university.

Vandals Defeat Cougars in Whirlwind Battle Saturday, 30 to 29

Last Minute Basket Wins For Foxmen in Close Game

Idaho fans again sang the praises Saturday night of the battling vest-pocket Wally Geraghty, who led his Vandal team-mates to their hardest-fought basketball victory in two years here over Washington State college, 30 to 29.

Geraghty, playing a guard position won the game with a crazy backhand shot at the basket, seconds before the gun cracked to nullify the Cougar's one-point lead, their second of the evening, garnered two minutes before by lanky Bob Houston, center, on a whirling toss.

Before 3700 fans, the two teams fought neck and neck to as frantic a wind-up as seen here. Holding a comfortable margin at the half, 17 to 13, the Vandals saw it smothered in the first two minutes of the second stanza. Holstine, Hawley and Johnson rang in eight points before Idaho could realize the game had restarted. Holstine bagged the first two to tie the count in less than half a minute, dodging past Larson to hit the net from the sidelines from the tip-off play.

Led by Geraghty with a long ringer, the Vandals climbed cautiously back to knot the score again at 21, Geraghty and Bill Katsilometes, playing his first game this season, sinking free throws off to Wally's basket.

The Vandals forged into a new lead as Katsilometes sank a pair of free tosses off Holstine, but Captain Roland Johnson, narrowed it to one point as he garnered a free throw off Iverson's hacking foul. Iverson and Katsilometes bagged field goals for Idaho as the end neared. Rogers looped a long shot, his first of the evening, and Dahlke converted one of two free tosses for the Cougars from a 27 to 25 count in favor of Idaho.

Warner boosted it one point for Idaho with a conversion and the W. S. C. long-shot artist, Rogers, connected with an "impossible" long heave. Houston then stepped in to sink a whirling backward toss that netted two points and put the visitors into a one-tally lead. With two minutes to go they promptly went into a stall.

Geraghty ended it after half a dozen wild melees under both baskets with a freak one-hand try from near the corner, the ball bouncing from the backboard through the net. The score stood 30 to 29, and the gun barked as Rogers was sailing another long shot for the Cougar basket, but it bounced off the backboard.

Geraghty was high scorer with nine. W. S. C. out-shot the Vandals from the field, getting 12 field goals, while Idaho took advantage of frequent Cougar fouls to gain its second victory over the Pullman quintet in three meetings.

Washington State's yearlings, however, won, 47 to 29, over Idaho's first year five in the nightcap.

He Sank 'em

BILL KATSILOMETES, ineligible during the first semester, went into action against the Cougars last Saturday, and turned in a top-notch game. He caged five out of five free-throw—Idaho won by one point.

Basketball Team Leaves Thursday

Coach Rich Fox Will Take Ten Men on Oregon Trip

The Oregon trip, a subject which has cropped up persistently in all basketball conversation at Idaho since the start of the season, is now superseding everything else as the Vandals prepare to entrain for the coast Thursday night.

Ten men will represent Idaho, most of them to see action. Included in the Vandal contingent will be the following: Guards—Wally Geraghty, Victor Warner, and Merle Fisher; center—Harold Klumb and Kenneth Robertson; and forwards—Norman Iverson, Bert Larson, Ronald Martin, Donald Snedaker, and Bill Katsilometes.

KATSILOMETES MAKES TRIP FOR FIRST TIME

Katsilometes will do his first traveling with the Vandals this season. This fast, ball-hawking ace got in his initial 1935 contest against Washington State, and played havoc with the opposition by stealing the show from under the basketball with a deftness that would have done credit to Fagin of Oliver Twist fame. Besides starring at the backboards, he stood out when he sank five out of five free-throw attempts.

Addition of Katsilometes to the squad makes possible an all-veteran combination to use against Oregon and Oregon State, as the Greek speedster was a reserve on the Idaho quintet last year. He was eligible for competition the first semester this season according to conference rules, but could not play under school rulings because of scholastic standing. Coach Fox plans to alternate Katsilometes with Bert Larson, sophomore forward.

HAROLD KLUMB WILL BE READY

Klumb, big Idaho center, is still feeling the effects of his siege of the flu but is expected to be in good condition for the Oregon encounters. Oregon will be the first opponent on the trip when Idaho meets the Webfoots at Eugene Friday and Saturday nights. The Oregon State contests are billed for the following Monday and Tuesday.

Idaho Rifle Team Wins First Meets

Lewis Ensign Is High Score Man in First Three Matches

The Idaho varsity rifle team has started the season with its usual precision and won its first three matches. They outscored the teams of Utah State college, the University of Montana, and the University of Oklahoma with scores of:

Utah State College ..... 3602
University of Montana .. 3650
University of Oklahoma ... 3425
University of Idaho ..... 3713

Lewis Ensign was high score man with 387 out of a possible 400. Other high score men were Crowe, Morgan, Ridings, Ames, Moser, Jones, Kaeser, Linton, Nelson.

Thirty on Squad

Captain Wm. A. Hale, the rifle team coach, sees a favorable outlook for the team. There are now 30 men on the squad among whom are prospective new men.

The women's rifle team began practice Monday afternoon. It attracted a great deal of interest as in the past, according to Captain Hale.
