Students To Go To Polls Thursday

Predicted; Books Needed, Burnett To Learn Dancing Warns

Balloting for class offices vill swing into high gear all day hursday when students pick class leaders for the second semester of the year. Pending acion of the ASUI executive board. which will meet tonight, two polling places will probably be provided for the convenience of the voters. A formal recommendation this effect was passed two veeks ago by the student-faculty council, but was not acted upon at the last ASUI board meeting, since the recommendation had not yet found its way from University President Dale's office.

ASUI activity books will again be required of all voters in an attempt to limit the number of votes per person to one, according to Don Barrett, election board chairman. One of the numbered tickets in the book will be detached as the student votes.

A smart band of Vandals and a smart coach, thank the Lord and Willis Bohman, made our prediction that Idaho would split the Oregon series look pretty silly. Proof that it was one of those things we don't mind being silly about is afforded by a description of a locker room 'Congratulations, Willis," we told him, "you're public iero No. 1.

"Thanks," said Mr. Bohman, "but you'd better get out of the shower. You're getting wet."

The other side of the locker room was as gloomy as it has been since Montana's football team occupied it last fall. Ted Sarpola, Webfoot sophomore extraordinary, listlessly wrote keep the Idaho hoopmen defhis name for a young autograph hunter. The rest of the team initely in the running for the showered and dressed dejectedly.

"Do you have anything to say about the game or about the games coming up at Eugene?" we asked Coach Hobson. 'Nothing in particular about this one. We'll probably play little better basketball next time.'

"What did you think of Idaho hospitality?"
You mean the people?—They were all right." "I mean the crowd, the players, the referees—everyone."

'Well, I never complain to the newspapers." We wondered if his complaint was directed at those Idaho students who booed and hissed when Oregon shot its free then until the finish neither

They were great games, marred only by a few exhibitions of poor student sportsmanship and the absence of Idaho's alleged Pep Band.

Some Pep Band members say they wanted to play but that Leader Glenn Whitesel "couldn't be there" and didn't let it be Gale, far-famed Oregon sharp known in time to get another director. Pep Band members are much in demand for dances, but when dance demands conflict with school loyalty, they should remember what put them in demand. "Idaho's Pep Band" has become a byword in other schools, not because they play for dances, but because they used to play for Idaho athletics.
