

Ball Hawker And High Scorer

BILL ENGLISH, dribbling, and Roy Ramey, shooting, are two fast-moving Idaho men who are expected to make real showings playing teams using the more flexible man-to-man style of defense.

IN THE RACE While Independent and United Students politicians have only begun to ferret out candidates for the approaching elections, one wishful one already gestures from his soapbox. This stumper, as everyone well knows, is Stanley "Bow Wow" Wojtkiewicz, who from the springboard of his freshman class presidency tries to get his thumb in every pie cut.

Le Gallienne Captures Full House In Potent Ibsen Tragedy

Eva Le Gallienne put the play and the audience "in her pocket" last night as she dominated every scene in "Hedda Gabler," presented in the university auditorium. Justifying her title of "First Lady of the Stage" were her poise, clear ringing voice, enthusiasm, beauty, and apparent disregard of the audience. Her supporting cast made it obvious that Miss Le Gallienne's Hedda Gabler was the central character in every moment of the play.

Men Groups Name Queen Nominees

Fourteen campus glamour women have been nominated by men's group houses to vie for the title of 'Queen of the Associated Women Students' carnival,' to be held February 10 in the Student Union ballroom. One vote for the queen will be given with each admission ticket and at various concessions. During the dance, tabulations of the votes cast will be posted every half-hour and the woman leading at 11:30 p. m. will be presented with a gift from the AWS.

Eva LeGallienne Tells Of Admiration For Sarah Bernhardt

English Star of 'Hedda Gabler' Began Stage Career at Six Years of Age; Knew Great Names of Stage

By Sam Taylor

Gracious and charming are the only words that fit the personality of the "first lady of the stage," Miss Eva Le Gallienne, star of "Hedda Gabler" presented by the Legitimate Theater Corporation of America in the university auditorium last night. Beautiful in a floor length gown of white, pebble crepe and in full make-up for her role, Miss Le Gallienne radiated all the finer qualities of her profession.

Darling of Sarah Bernhardt when she was a child, she cherishes the memory of that great star above every other experience she has had in the theater.

She Remembers "Camille"
"Miss Bernhardt used to allow me to watch her work from the wings. It was an unforgettable thrill to see the 'immortal Sarah' borne out on the stage on a litter like some pagan goddess to receive the praise and plaudits of her audience."

"Although she was an old woman at the time I knew her I can never forget her 'Camille' and the court scene from Moller's 'Jeanne D'Arc' when the great lady, then past 70, rose to acclaim to the world, 'I am 18'. In spite of livid, garish make-up and her advanced age she looked every bit the part."

Another of her cherished memories is that of Eleanor Duse. She carries Miss Duse's picture with her and sets it up in her dressing room wherever she is playing.

"Miss Duse was also very fond of me, and I thank my lucky stars that I saw every one of her productions after her comeback after a 10-year retirement."

Actress Starts Young
When she was 6 years old Miss Le Gallienne appeared in her first part, a walk-on, as a page boy in Maeterlinck's "Moraviana." When she was 14 she had her first speaking part in "Daughter of Fools."

Miss Le Gallienne is the daughter of Richard Le Gallienne, a British poet. Her mother, a journalist, still contributes to a Copenhagen daily. Her mother also translated "Hedda Gabler" from the original Norwegian for her daughter's interpretation.

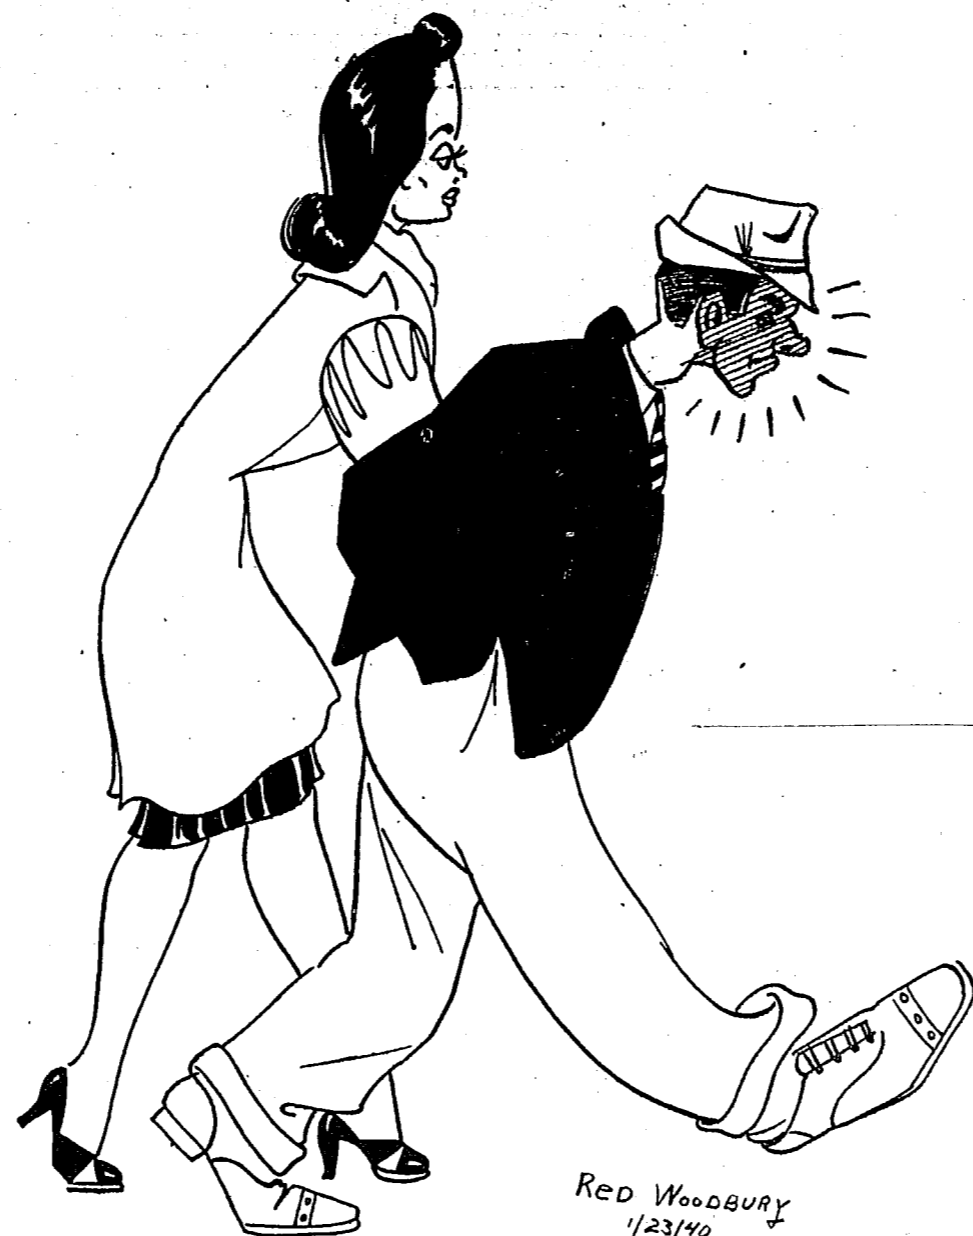

Desirous of helping young America to gain its "place in the sun" on the dramatic stage, Miss Le Gallienne maintained a school in the East in connection with her repertoire theater. This school was in operation for eight years until the depression forced her to close its doors.

Le Gallienne Pities Actors
"I pity the poor male really serious about a career, who is forced to be the only man among 30 or 40 females in class. It is for this reason that my classes were divided equally," she said.

Miss Le Gallienne believes that there is as much talent today in America as in the old generations, but that overbearing actors' guilds and lack of money hinder many potential stars from gaining proper training.

Miss Le Gallienne is also an author, has published a book entitled "33" now on sale by a New York publishing firm.

Dr. Barton Purchases Books To Aid Psych Students

Dr. J. W. Barton, head of the psychology department, who feels that young people of today should quit floundering around without choosing a vocation, has partially succeeded in solving the problem with the purchase of a set of 92 booklets, each dealing with a different career and outlining it.

The books, called a Research Monograph, are an outline as to what may be expected from a career in the way of remuneration and required abilities to assure success.

"I feel that these booklets should aid my psychology students in their choice of a career," Dr. Barton said yesterday, "and it should stop them from changing their curriculum every time they change their mind."

Dr. Barton asserted that there were two things that should be taken under consideration before choosing a vocation what the world wants and needs, and fitness to handle the vocation chosen.

The department of psychology is giving to students a vocational aptitude test which will determine whether or not they have the general abilities necessary to succeed in a line of work.

All booklets were purchased by a general fund contributed by members of the general psychology class, who have sole access to them.

Nursery to Ship Young Trees

New, young trees will soon be available for shipment to all parts of Idaho, according to Royale K. Pierson, extension forester. These trees will be supplied from the forestry school nursery under the Clark-McNary law through the cooperation of the university forestry school, and state extension service.

The new price list for 15 varieties of trees will be available for public use on January 15. Five of the most common trees to be offered for sale are the black locust, Russian olive, Siberian elm, green ash, and the ponderosa pine.

This is the first year that tree production has been carried on under a standard tree seed policy. The policy adopted by the U. S. department of agriculture this year is the model for the Idaho policy.

Under this plan the seed is certified for area and the conditions under which the seeds have grown. By this method young trees are shipped only to areas with conditions similar to those found where the seed was grown for that particular tree.

and was transmitted to his son." Mr. Johnson outlined Borah's concepts of principal, as learned from his father, and how he applied them during his long public life. He also outlined Borah's early, thorough schooling, and the love for knowledge that he gained.

"Idaho Loses a Friend"—Hagan.
"Senator Borah was all through his life's work a free-thinker, a hard worker, and not afraid of his own convictions—a man of strong character," said Chris Hagan of Moscow, a life long friend of Borah. "It will be difficult to fill his place. In his passing, Idaho has lost a loyal friend and the nation one of the finest minds ever in the United States Senate."

"Thirty four years ago William E. Borah was elected senator," said President Harrison C. Dale at the services, and for 34 years he has been a great Idahoan, typifying our highest and best ideals, our true political ideology."

Music for the memorial was provided by the Vandaleers, under the direction of Prof. Archie N. Jones, and by the symphony orchestra, directed by Carl Claus.

Extension to Offer Planting Program To Assist Farmers

Educational meetings to instruct farmers concerning the government tree planting program will be given in the seven central counties February 5 to March 15 by the extension division of the university and the school of forestry, according to Royale K. Pierson, extension forester.

The meetings, consisting of lectures and sound films dealing with forestry problems, are given in conjunction with the government program for better utilization of woodland tracts now existing, and the planting of trees to provide windbreaks for unprotected lands.

Trees needed for the program are raised in the university nursery and are sold to the farmers at extremely low prices, permitting all farmers to participate in the program.

"This tree planting program is a year around job," said Mr. Pearson, "In the spring we sell the trees, lecture on their planting, during the summer we check on the planting. In the fall, we gather tree seeds, check on sites for future plantings, and plan our stands for next year."

Woodruff Accepts Position as Chemist In Rayon Factory

Samuel Woodruff, 1936, recently accepted a position as research chemist with the North American Rayon corporation, Elizabethton, Tenn. His work deals with some of the technical problems involved in the manufacture of cellulose into rayon by the viscose process.

Mr. Woodruff received his B.S. degree in chemical engineering from the University of Idaho in 1936. The next year he held a graduate assistantship in the school of forestry and obtained a M. S. in 1937 with a major in wood chemistry.

Since leaving Idaho he has done graduate work at the University of Wisconsin where he has held a research scholarship in the U. S. forest products laboratory.

Waterfowl Display Draws Spectators To Morrill Foyer

Attracting unusual attention is the waterfowl exhibit now on display in the main foyer of Morrill hall. Designed by the wild life class under the direction of Dr. V. A. Young, professor of range management, the exhibit displays various waterfowl and their natural bird and animal predators, all in native habitat.

Purpose of the exhibit is to bring to students a natural laboratory with the practical aspect of the work being stressed, according to Dr. Young.

Minister Announces Religion Courses

Second semester courses given by the Idaho Institute of Christian Education (interdenominational school of religion) were announced by the Rev. Reuben E. Norling, instructor. The new courses are: "The Making of the Bible," "The Literature of the New Testament," "Comparative Religions," and "Principles and Methods of Religious Education."

These courses are open to all university students, and to residents of the community provided they have the equivalent of a high school education, Mr. Norling said. Classes meet in the Institute building, 511 University avenue. Dr. O. LeRoy Walter is director of the institute, and the Rev. Andrew E. F. Anderson and the Rev. Owen J. Beadles are instructors.

Landscaping Ceases On Campus As Money Dwindles

P. E. Morton, WPA project engineer with headquarters at Lewiston, recommended when he was here Tuesday that the WPA beautification program on the University of Idaho campus be virtually shut down until further funds were available.

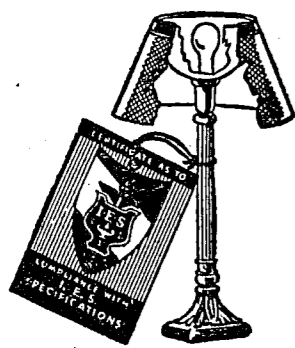

Seven of the 32 men on the project will continue temporarily with the work on the campus. Of the remainder, 10 were assigned to the Troy road project, 10 to the Troy waterworks project, and five to county-wide weed eradication operations.

Morton indicated a new Beautification project would be set up to start in March.

A new process which is believed to make possible the production of a new type of synthetic rubber has been discovered by University of Alabama scientists.

Cramer Announces Lab Tests

Routine laboratory tests are now being given all students who enter the infirmary as bed patients. This is a procedure which modern hospitals employ as a measure of preventive medicine, according to Dr. Harold Cramer.

Previously, only students sick enough to suggest specific laboratory tests were checked upon while in the infirmary because of the effort involved in getting these necessary tests done.

"Now we believe it will be possible to do a routine blood count and urinalysis for every entry, whether the case is a bad cold, sprained ankle or fractured skull," Dr. Cramer said.

"Occasionally such routine tests discover conditions not suspected before. During the first week of this plan a medical condition has been brought to our attention which would not have been suspected from the patient's condition and illness."

Communique - - - Comment

After a week of uttering dire threats, the German press has eased off its attack upon the "neutrality" of Norway and Sweden. No longer are the Scandinavian nations told to stop shipping British and French war supplies to Finland or else—Norway and Sweden evidently think that the Nazis were bluffing, for they are sending war materials to the Finns in increasing quantities.

The fact is that a neutral Scandinavia is vital to the Reich now that the Nazis have gone to war. The high-grade iron ore required in the manufacture of tanks, guns and naval vessels comes to Germany from the mines in northern Sweden. Germany has imported close to 8,000,000 tons of this ore from Sweden in the past year. Now the British are making things difficult. Under the terms of the recent Anglo-Swedish trade agreement, Britain will pay solid cash for Swedish iron ore that would otherwise be sold to the Reich.

If war should come to the Scandinavian peninsula, the shipments of iron ore from northern Sweden to the German ports on the Baltic would cease immediately. A German expedition would have a hard time fighting its way from the south to the north of Sweden in an effort to seize the rich mining fields near Boden. A British-French expeditionary force of considerable size would probably be sent to aid the Swedes the moment that German forces crossed the Baltic and landed on Sweden's south coast. The addition of well-equipped Allied units to the small Swedish army might stop the German invaders completely.

In addition to iron ore, the Reich obtains considerable supplies of nickel, manganese, molybdenum, chromium, tin, tungsten and nitrates from Norway and Sweden. These materials are essential to Germany's wartime economy; war in the north would stop their shipment to the German Baltic ports. So now the Nazi editors are considering the hard facts and taking time off to think the matter over.

To The Editor:

I very much object to the ideas expressed in the editorial "Classroom Panhandling," which appeared in the last Argonaut. I feel that this editorial did a great injustice to Mr. Koo, who is one of the four greatest speakers in the world today. Dr. T. Z. Koo is recognized as an authority on China and he came here to tell us about conditions in China at the present time. He would have done himself and his people a great injustice if he hadn't made some kind of plea in their behalf. He rose up out of those terrible conditions and is now devoting his life and wealth to aiding these people.

If a man of his calibre were hired to make a speech at the University of Idaho it would cost the students far more than the pittance which he received to aid Chinese students. The money we pay other speakers goes directly into their pockets, and they are not required to travel all over the campus to speak at different classes.

I don't think that the writer of this editorial realized the eminence of the "eminent Dr. Koo." This "Oriental" is qualified to be president of any university in this country. He is welcomed into the largest universities throughout the world. He gave the commencement address at the University of Washington a few years ago and was heartily received.

Thanks to the greatness of his spirit I am sure that he overlooked the reflections cast on him in the editorial. I therefore consider the means used to draw our attention to the plight of the athletic situation as very unscrupulous.

Signed,
E. R.

To The Editor:

I am writing in regard to the error made in last Friday's Argonaut. It contained a story with a very misleading headline which read: "ASUI Board Puts Foot Down on Fresh Misplay."

I believe, as do many others, that it should have read: "Bow Wow Puts Foot Down on ASUI Board Misplay."

We feel that Bow Wow should have been given permission to elect a new treasurer as we freshmen have a representative government. Our representatives unanimously voted Bow Wow the power to appoint a new treasurer. Was the ASUI board, which is controlled by the Independent Motormen tossed in a field goal party, afraid that Bow Wow would select a Greek, as the list up of candidates was mostly Greeks? Excitedly, the freshmen started to make a few more baskets for the good of our class he should but narrowly averted throwing the be given consideration before game away with their wild shot—someone who just lags back doing nothing. Do not forget to turn on the radio tomorrow morning, mamma, because there is going to be a thing, but I really think that anybody which writes on that paper he is going to play a kind of funny looking violin. I sent a post card to the Koffee Pot Parade, mamma, and asked him to play that song about the little fox. In case you did not know, his name is Casaba. Love,
Nancy.

Vandals Will Meet High Scoring Grizzlies Tonight

Idaho Throws Scare Into Beaver Five

Their spirits just as high after dropping two games to Oregon State's conference leading Beavers last weekend, Idaho's Vandals tangle with University of Montana's highly touted Grizzlies tonight at 7:30 in the third meeting this year between the two quintets. Idaho split a two game series with the Grizzlies at Missoula last month, winning the first encounter in easy fashion and dropping the second by one point when Art Merriek canned a shot in the last minute of play to save the game for Montana.

Although the Vandals were thumped twice by the Beavers last week, and pushed deeper in the conference cellar, Idaho showed hoop fans an improved air-tight defense in holding the division leaders to 20 points Saturday night and sifting the State defense for 18 to miss their first conference win by an eyelash.

Show Strong Defense. Idaho flashed some of the best ball handling seen in Moscow for many years in the second Oregon State game and continued to show improvement on offense.

"We played good ball against the Beavers in the second game," Coach Forrest Twogood said yesterday. "I was well satisfied with the showing the Vandals made. Anytime you can hold a team like Oregon State to 20 points a game you are playing basketball. We were every bit as good as they were that night. We will be plenty tough for Montana tonight if the boys play ball like they did Saturday."

Montana Strong. Montana almost grounded the high flying Washington State hoop machine last Saturday when they forced the Cougars into an overtime period before finally winning.

under the blistering pace set by Bud Olson, diminutive Cougar guard. Montana set the pace with Washington State until the last minutes of the game. Chief scoring threat of the Montana aggregation this year is Bill Hall, elongated Grizzly center who paced the Missoulaans against the Cougars last week with 15 points.

Coach Jiggs Dahlberg brings a team here tonight that rates among the best seen in Missoula in recent years. Height, speed, and accuracy are combined in the Grizzly five.

Captain Barney Ryan has been playing exceptional ball for the Grizzlies and leads the Montana five in scoring. Two sophomores, Bill Jones and Bill DeGroot, forwards, have been improving greatly and may possibly start in the game tonight. At the guard post with Captain Ryan is Bud Hudacek, veteran of last year and a real ball hawk on the Montana team.

Hilton Still Suffers. Idaho will be in near top condition for the fray tonight, though Rook Hilton is still feeling the effects of a severe bump on the temple suffered in the first Beaver game last week. The tall center is expected to see plenty of action tonight however.

Idaho scored the first field goal Friday night, but Oregon State came back to take complete command of the game to swamp the Vandals 40 to 20 in the first of a two-game series with the Beavers. The smooth Orange offense pushed the Beaver score to 28 to 13 at the half and continued to maintain their lead till the final gun. John Mandie led the Beavers with 13 points and Roy Ramey topped Idaho with 9.

It was a different story the following evening as Idaho took command of the situation and paced the Oregon State quintet from the opening gun till the last two minutes of play when the Gillman sneaked through for a 2-point victory. Rook Hilton led the scoring with 7 points while John Mandie paced the Beavers with a five each. Idaho led at the intermission 14 to 10.

Vandal Ski Men Lose Decision

Taking one first and two second places, the University of Idaho lost a close decision to the Idaho Ski club of Wallace in a dual meet there Sunday. Phil Conley placed second in both the slalom and giant slalom races, and Martin Marquardt took first in the giant slalom and fourth in the slalom.

Near zero temperatures, were encountered on the ski runs of the Idaho Ski club at Lookout Pass and brought snow conditions that made the course extremely fast. Five university skiers were entered in the races and 12 competed for the Idaho Ski club. Total points for places won were the determining factors in deciding the winning team.

Placings of University of Idaho skiers in the events were: Giant slalom, Marquardt, 1; Conley, 2; Hans Winbauer, 10; Dick Bingham, 13; Jimmy James, 16. The course was about a half-mile long, winning time, 1:08.4. Slalom, Conley, 2; Marquardt, 4; Winbauer, Bingham, and James were disqualified in this race.

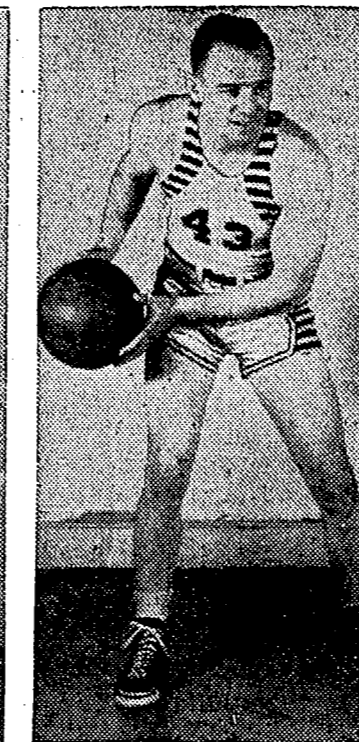

Recently a small blaze in a grocery store in Varnville, S. C., was extinguished by soda pop. The bottles heated up, burst, and the liquid squirted out onto the fire.

Captain

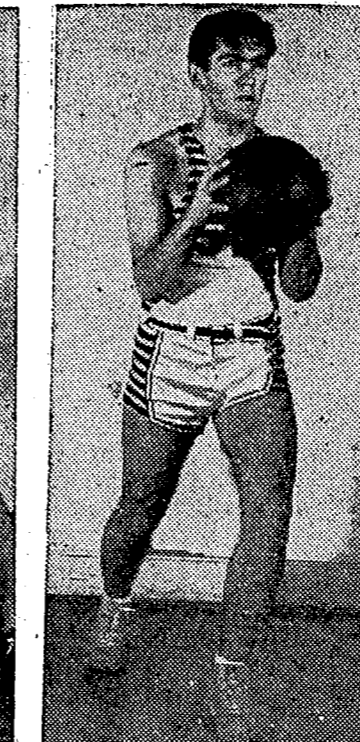

CAPTAIN Barney Ryan of the Montana Grizzlies. Last year Ryan scored 244 points and is on the way this year to break that record.

Veteran Guard

MONTANA'S Frank Nugent, guard, playing his last season for the Grizzlies. Nugent has earned three letters in football and is now on the way to earning his third award in basketball.

Montana Ace

Minor Men Lose To Cougars

Swimming, Fencing Teams Lose; Wrestlers Show Fight

Idaho's minor sports men took a three-way defeat at the hands of the powerful Washington State swimming, wrestling, and fencing teams Saturday at Pullman. The Cougar tankmen turned back Coach Bob Tessier's inexperienced crew by a 48-27 score to gain revenge for three defeats the Vandals handed them in 1939. Idaho's fencers lost by a margin of six bouts to three. In wrestling, the Cougars were victorious by a 20-14 count.

Only in the grunt and groan tussle were the Gem Staters able to approach their cross border rivals. Captain Dwight Macy won a clean decision over Martin Packard of WSC in the 148-pound division. Packard was last year's northwest champion. LaVerne "Ding Dong" Bell, ordinarily a 175 pounder, used his experience to gain a decision over Karl Giguere, 230 pound Cougar.

Gordon Michels of Idaho stood out for the Vandal fencers, winning two of three bouts.

Delta Chi and Phi Delta Theta are leading their respective leagues in division B and are the leading candidates for the division B intramural basketball crown. Delta Chi must still defeat its two leading opponents, SAE and ATO, to clinch the crown. The only obstacle in the path of the Phi Delt is Lambda Chi which is far below the Phi Delt in league standings.

Idaho Club Leads

First in one league and tied for first in the other, the Idaho club is leading the division A intramural basketball tournament going into the final week of play. The Idaho club's lead in League I is none too secure, and the probable result will be a three-way tie between Willis Sweet, Lindley hall, and the Idaho club as Willis Sweet and Lindley hall play the league celerites this week. League II championship will be decided Wednesday night when the Idaho Club II and Willis Sweet II meet in their final game. Each team now has three wins and no defeats.

Postpone Tilt

Two games originally scheduled for Monday night have been postponed until Thursday night at 7:15 when SAEs will meet the Tekes and the Betas take on LDS, it was announced by Rudy Aschenbrenner, assistant intramural director this morning.

Ryan Welcomes Large Turnout

Track and field season for the Idaho Vandals officially opened Monday night in the Memorial gymnasium as Coach Mike Ryan greeted a large squad of varsity and freshman candidates.

The workouts, which will not interfere with the examination schedule next week, are light and consist of limbering up sessions of 15 to 20 minutes duration. Ryan plans to send the Vandal scanty clads through the light work until the new semester opens and will then settle his squad down to a routine.

Ryan expressed an invitation today to any member of the student body interested in track to turn out for competition. He said whether interested men had previous experience or not, he would welcome them to the squad. Ryan pointed out that the coming period of indoor work was the time to coach new men so that they could cut their capers when the weather broke and outdoor work was possible.

In past years the track squad has varied between 80 and 90 men which has added to the competition for places on the team as well as adding competitive interest to the intra-squad meets held during the indoor session. The annual meets between Whitman and Eastern Washington college have been scheduled to afford new and inexperienced men competition.

August Drives Team In Final Sessions

With six sophomores and only two seniors, Sammy Zingale and Alex Passic, comprising the Vandal boxing squad, Coach Louie August is driving his battlers hard today and tomorrow in the final training sessions for the Cougar matches at Pullman Friday night at 8 o'clock.

In one of the feature bouts, Zingale will climb to the 155-pound division to mix with Cougar Ben Drake, Pacific Coast 155-pound champion last year. Zingale, a University of Wisconsin transfer, fought at 145 pounds last year, but has been moved up to the junior middleweight class where he is expected to do his best fighting, said August.

Knox Meets Coffman
Another bout which carries interest is the lightweight tussle between Vandal Jerry Knox and WSC's Les Coffman. Knox starred on the freshman team last year, and according to August, will keep the Cougar fighter busy for three rounds. Coffman is remembered for his victory last year over Idaho's Bud Benoit, former national champion.

The heavyweight division brings together two crack boxers who are expected to travel three cantos at a busy clip. Coach August's vest-pocket heavyweight, Jack Patterson, has improved to such an extent that the Vandal mentor predicts a victory over Cougar Louie Allen, behemoth 200 pounder.

Passic vs. Spiegelburg
In the 175-pound class, Idaho's veteran, Alex Passic, will mix with John Spiegelburg, unknown WSC fighter. According to August, Passic's experience will win for him, but the husky light-heavy has worried his coach no little.

In the 165-pound class, Coach August's blonde protege, Laune Erickson, will enter the ring against Cougar George Engelland. Both are new to fight fans.
