Serenade Begins Junior Week; Zingale Stars In Assembly

The four-day Junior week celebration will get under way tomorrow night with the serenade, according to Sennett Taylor, general chairman. The week's activities, to embrace three dances, house decorations, and an assembly, will conclude Saturday evening with a cabaret.

Early goes to the cabaret will have the rare opportunity of getting their picture taken with an old-fashioned tinfoil camera in an 1890 back-ground, says Walter Gugnioni, co-chairman of the cabaret. Large cardboard silhouettes of old-fashioned men and women have been constructed and will be placed near the entrance to the Blue Bucket ballroom.

The house decorations, taking the place of the purged Junior parade, will be judged Friday at noon, according to Taylor, with the selection being based on suitability to the theme of "Gay Ninety Revue" and originality. Trophies will be awarded the groups with the best decorations.

Noise makers, serpentine, and other favors will be given out free at the cabaret, Gugnioni says. An elaborate floor show, featuring the "Original Follies Girls" has been worked out and will be presented at 10 o'clock. Reserved tables, $1.50 a couple, can be obtained by calling Norman Jagels, Lindley hall.

The remainder of the equipment for the plant is being constructed in different factories throughout the country, and Mr. Lind expects it to begin arriving soon. The heating plant, he said, will have the most up-to-date equipment possible.

Sideline kibitzers are still arguing whether abnormal batting or subnormal fielding accounted for the large score. Penny Penick captained her Pi Phi team to a moral victory with four runs and eight errors.

Fraternity Group Stirs

Its annual task, the issuing of fraternity date cards and rushing rules, being completed, the interfraternity council is, by tradition, entitled to resume its interrupted slumber for another twelvemonth. Reports indicate, however, that this year's council may prove to be the long awaited exception to the established rule.

Highly commendable are the recent efforts of the council to divorce itself from all political jockeying and to embark on a program of service. The extent to which this program will be successful depends largely on the support and cooperation given by the houses in sending delegates whose qualifications are based on merit and ability, not the need of activity points.

Considerable merit lies in the suggestion, recently made by a national fraternity official, that the president and vice president of each fraternity be automatically elected as interfraternity council delegates. This method of choosing delegates would increase the ability and prestige of the fraternity governing body by restricting membership to the most responsible, capable, and influential men from each house instead of the usual political bigwigs and Blue Key pushers who have served their fraternities on the council in past years.

Maybe the council is sincere in its desire for self improvement. Time alone will tell. The need of a reform in the council has long been recognized; maybe at long last action will follow, maybe.

Communique

Comment

Several months before the outbreak of the present war, an American correspondent who has been stationed at Berlin for a number of years had a long conversation on the subject of the possibility of war between Britain and Germany with a German government official whom he knew well and to whom he could speak freely. At the end of their talk, the German said sadly: "Well, if it comes, there will be only one winner—Stalin."

The British Tories were willing to condone Nazi aggression in central and southeastern Europe in the years 1933-1939 because they believed that the Nazi reich and Communist Russia would eventually come to blows over hegemony in the Balkans or possession of the Ukraine. The Baldwin-Chamberlain group looked upon Hitler's government as a bulwark against Communist expansion in western Europe. They saw the faults in the House of Hitler, but they shuddered to see it overthrown and Bolshevism triumphant at Berlin. There is no reason to believe that all of the British Tories have now changed their minds. In the type of destructive war now going on in the North sea and Scandinavia, Britain and the reich are weakening each other in relation to the U. S. S. R.

Inside reports indicate that a small but influential group in our own state department feels that the real danger to the world is not Hitler but the Kremlin. These "appeasers" were, according to one report, influential in sending Sumner Welles to Rome, Berlin, Paris, and London. They feel that the destruction of German military power, in a defeat by the Allies, would be the death-knell of capitalist democracy in western Europe. They are willing to work for peace terms that might even be humiliating for Britain and France, in order to preserve Germany's strength over against Red Russia.

Now that the Welles mission has turned out to be a technical failure, the appeasement bloc in the state department must take a back seat to the pro-Ally righteousness of the president and Secretary Hull. But the events of the next year may prove that there was some hard common sense in the Chamberlain hesitation to plunge into a war against the reich last September. Stalin may be the only winner, in the end.

After the Thetas vacated the house it was run as a private boarding house until the cooperative movement took Idaho by storm, and it was made into a women's cooperative and called Friendship cottage. When Ridenbaugh hall became available, university authorities abandoned it

Naive Nan

Dear Mamma,
This morning I feel just like a gentle little zeplin blowing from the south, I am so happy, Mamma! It is mainly because of a telephone call which I have just received, but I have decided also that I approve of life in general now that it is spring, Mamma, including the nice little bushes that are in bloom every where, and even life in its lowest form, like little bugs and things. I also approve of my teachers, because I have passed all my studies and everything.

Like I was telling you, Mamma, I am awful happy and I would just like to tell that person named Bill which invented the telephone. The individual which called me (I would recommend you and Papa to use that word) is a boy which maybe you know, because he said he was from the same place as I am, only I can not remember knowing any boys by the name of Junior, and his last name is kind of funny. Anyway, he asked me to go to an awful nice affair, and I am kind of thrilled and everything, only, Mamma, do you know any boys by the name of Junior Boy?

There is something which I feel it is my duty to tell you, though, Mamma, and it kind of pains me to say it. There was a dance up here of which I did not approve, and I would just hate to think what would happen if these had been a police raid or something. I do not feel it is safe even to write it in a letter, but Mamma, it had something to do with counterfeiting.

I would just like to say something in regard to the letter which you wrote to me last week in regard to the problem regarding marriage and a career, Mamma, and I would just like to tell you that you were too late, Mamma.

Now, do not get alarmed, Mamma, because I think it is all for the best, but anyway, I have decided I would not get married or have a career either one, and I can not decide yet, but I am either going to be a sociable butterfly or a ragged individualist.

Lots of love,
Nancy

P. S.—I would just like to inform you that I got to thinking the other day, and now I know what Papa meant when he got to looking at my shoes and looked kind of sad and said he did not like to see us turn the country back to the Indians.

Visitor Evaluates 'Best Sellers' Of Recent Years

Howard P. Miller, manager of Charles Scribner and Sons Publishing company, western division, today outlined several reasons why "best sellers" pile up edition after edition. He considered "Gone With the Wind," "Grapes of Wrath," and others.

Here to confer with Scribner's authors, the well informed Mr. Miller talked to students in Dr. C. J. Brosnan's class in "History of American Diplomacy." A graduate of the University of Kansas, he has been with Scribner's for 20 years.

Following a brief summary on international affairs, Mr. Miller asserted that not much work of distinctive literary merit has been done during previous wars. Authors tend to go far away from reality, he said.

"One of the reasons why "Gone With the Wind" sold its title," declared Mr. Miller. "It has a romantic appeal, and affords the reader an opportunity to escape from reality."

Although the book is loosely constructed, its characters are vivid living types. Rhett Butler, symbolized blockade runners; Scarlett O'Hara, a product of the vanquished South.

Considering the recent book "Grapes of Wrath," he told the students how John Steinbeck built up a solid writing background during his college days at Stanford, then interested himself in labor problems. He believes that Steinbeck did not exaggerate conditions in California, and that the book is causing considerable reform.

Other books and authors considered by Miller in his talk were Robert Sherwood, "Lincoln in Illinois;" J. Fred Pippy, "Latin America in World Politics;" John Dewey, "Experience and Education;" Mark Sullivan, "Our Times;" J. Truslow Adams, "Epic of America;" Marjorie Rawlings, "The Yearlings;" John Steinbeck, "Of Mice and Men;" Carl Sandburg, "Abraham Lincoln, the War Years;" Binns, "The Land Is Bright;" Bliss Isley, "Blazing the Way West;" and James Truslow Adams, "Dictionary of American History."

Ninety To Receive Master's Degrees At Commencement Exercises

Students Come From 31 Schools; Philippines and U. S. Represented

Ninety master's degrees will be granted this spring, according to information received yesterday from Dean C. W. Hungerford, head of the graduate school. This year's total is an increase of two over that of last year's 88.

Students in this year's group received their previous training in 31 schools other than Idaho and come from varying sections of the world. Two students are from the Philippine islands, many from New England, several attended schools below the Mason-Dixon line, and some are from the Middle West.

Masters degrees will be given in arts, science, music, agriculture, engineering, geology, forestry, and education with several phases of each general heading represented.

Unusual Thesis Titles
Thesis titles seem to have bothered some of the advance students who went out of their way to discover subjects that had not been covered before, and turned up with titles such as, "Henry Fielding's Theory of the 'Ridiculous' as it appears in Joseph Andrews and Lord Byron's Treatment of the 'Ridiculous' in Don Juan."

Other titles seem to be relying on the lack of thesis material concerning Idaho as one will explain the "Geology and Ore Deposits of the Volcano District, Elmore county, Idaho."

Another article will deal with the "Studies and Behavior of Mesquite at the Wilting Point." Scientific terminology appears in the one entitled, "The Cytology of the Anterior Pituitary of the Thyroidectomized Rat after Thyroid Transplants and the Administration of Extracts."

Subject of his Idaho address has been tentatively announced as "Should America Go To War Against Hitler and Stalin."

August Expects Bright Season

Zingale, Passic, Cenarussa Will Be Only Losses From 1940 Team

Although losing Captain Sammy Zingale, Alex Passic, and Pete Cenarussa from this year's Vandal boxing squad, Coach Louie August announced today that prospects for a second national championship team were bright for next season. Veterans Passic and Cenarussa are graduating seniors after three years' of competition. Zingale lost a year of competition when he transferred from the University of Wisconsin.

Returning boxers are Ted Kara, Frank Kara, Laune Erickson, and John Webster, all members of the national championship team. The Kara brothers have one more season in Vandal trunks, while Sophomore Erickson and Webster return for two more years.

Benoit May Return
Heading the list of next year's prospects is ancient "Bud" Benoit, 1938 National lightweight crown holder, who dropped out of school last year. Benoit is planning to return to school, and will greatly strengthen the Idaho squad.

Jerry Knox, another former Vandal fighter who dropped out of school and who was an outstanding freshman battler here two years ago, will return to the squad to fill the vacancy left by Zingale. Knox fought as lightweight, but has grown to the welterweight class. Competition in this division will be provided by Jim Jennings and Bob Glasby, star freshman of whom Coach August expects great things.

Sophomore Bruce Brooks, varsity 155 pounder this year, has gained experience to establish him on the team next year, but he will have to contend with Lon Goulding, improving junior middleweight, who has caught Coach August's eye. Brooks was handicapped by a sore nose all season, but a rest from the ring wars will heal it, August believes.

Best prospect among the heavyweights is Vic Berlus, star freshman football player, whose reach and strength coupled with a fair knowledge of the game, have impressed the Vandal coach. Sophomore Cleo Rowe is another fine prospect.

Flechtner Sets Mark As Whitman Loses

An unbalanced Idaho track and field squad squeaked through with a 64-63 victory over the Whitman Missionaries last Saturday at Walla Walla. Only an unexpected one-two placing by Al Flechtner and Paul Ryan in the javelin throw gave the Gem State cinder artists the meet.

Flechtner Sets Record

Highlight of the meet came in the high jump when elongated Al Flechtner eased his frame over the cross bar at a height of 6 feet 4 inches.

His first place effort established a new Idaho and Inland Empire mark for the event, and surpassed anything ever performed on the Walla Walla field. According to spectators, the veteran Vandal cleared the bar by a good three inches.

The Idaho victory was earned at heavy costs as Maurice Young, stellar sprint ace, and Chuck McHarg, junior pole vaulter, suffered injuries, which will put them out of action for several weeks.

Young, counted on by Ryan for many points in the dashes and 440-yard run, pulled a leg muscle in the century race which will probably force him from further competition this season, Ryan said. A sprained ankle is likely to keep McHarg off the Vandal roster at least until the Oregon State meet in Moscow, April 27.

Ryan Not Optimistic

The narrow victory margin the Idaho scanty clads earned is indicative of the chances the Vandals will have when they stack up against WSC next Saturday, and OSC the week after, according to Ryan.

Although all-around team strength is apparently lacking, the Idaho coach hopes to develop such stars as Flechtner, Makela, Kerby, Leibowitz, Dyrgall, and McHarg into conference point winners before the season ends.

While the varsity picture was discouraging, the Vandal freshmen showed well in their abbreviated meet with the Whitman first year squad.

Dr. Owens Publishes

Dr. Harry S. Owens, assistant professor in chemistry, recently had an article published in the April 1940 Journal of the American Chemistry society entitled "The Viscosities of Arabo Galactan."

He wrote the article following the study of the sugar "galactan" present in tamarack tree. Sugar occurs about 10 per cent in each tree and not much is known about it. After studying the physical properties Dr. Owens measured the rate of flow of the solution of sugar. By this means he could tell that the molecule in the sugar was spherical in shape.

'Mural Sports

by "Dewle" Allen

Phi Delta Theta forged back into the lead of the intramural trophy race with a second place in intramural swimming against a seventh place spot for Willis Sweet hall last week. The 190 points for swimming gave the Phi Deltas a total of 945 points and a 45 point lead over the Willis Sweet men who have garnered a total of 900 points. Willis Sweet, last year's intramural champion, held a five point lead before the swimming events but earned only 140 points in that event.

Four Sports To Go

With softball, golf, track, and horseshoes yet to be run off, the trophy race has developed into a two way affair between the Phi Deltas, Division B representatives, and Willis Sweet, Division A leaders. Both teams have a safe lead on their nearest competitors.

The Fijis, in third place, and Lindley hall, close behind in fourth place, are the only teams that have a chance of overtaking the leaders. The Fijis lead Lindley Hall by seven points with a total of 820. Other leaders in the race the Idaho club with 778.5 points, Delta Chi with 692.5 points, and ATO with 682.5 points.

Beta Theta Pi captured its first major sports crown this year when they out swam and out dived the other teams to garner 100 points to nose out last year's swimming champions, the Phi Deltas, by nine points. The Idaho club captured third place with 78 points, nose out the ATO's who scored 74 points.

Phi Gamma Delta copped fifth place with 64 points, Delta Tau was in sixth place with 55 1/2 points, and Willis Sweet captured seventh with 48 points. Only two intramural records were broken this year.

Clarke Smith, Phi Delt, stroked his way to a new record in the breaststroke, and Jim Farrell, Beta freshman star, shattered the backstroke record.

Next sport on the intramural program is intramural track. A definite schedule has not been mapped out yet, but the schedule will be released later in the week according to Walt Musial, assistant intramural director.

Brick Doyle and Pete Hill will act as field directors. Willis Sweet, the defending track champions, are reported to have a stronger team than last year and are favored to repeat their last performance.

Huskies Sweep Idaho Match

A powerful University of Washington golf team steamrollered Idaho Saturday on the Seattle links by a 15-0 score. So powerful were the Husky golfers that the high Washington man was still three strokes under the best Vandal player, Bob Smith, who played the 18 hole course with a 78.

A week before, the Washington team dashed the hopes of the University of Oregon by defeating the Ducks almost as badly as they did the Vandals.

Ernie Johnson of Washington took individual honors with a card of 72. Besides Smith, Idaho representatives were Hud Nieman, 79, Bob Walton, 80, and Louie Kramer, 82.

An entirely new ladder tournament was begun yesterday by all candidates for the Idaho varsity to select the six high men to face Washington State in Pullman Saturday.

Regardless of previous positions

with Bill McGowan

(Today's column will once more be conducted by Sammy Zingale, captain of Idaho's National boxing champions).

It was indeed a pleasure for Coach Louie August and the championship team to return to the campus and receive the enthusiastic reception by students and townspeople. That's the kind of spirit that helps make winning teams . . . let's keep it up from now on in all sports! I am sure Idaho's baseball players will smack out more home runs with everybody yelling out there in the bleachers.

Besides capturing the championship, Idaho's boxers and Coach Louie August were showered with numerous other bouquets. Officials and coaches from all over the country were impressed with the smooth, heady type of attack employed by the boys from Idaho, and complimented Coach August on having the best-coached team in the tournament. That's quite an orchid for the youngest mentor in college boxing!

In the last Bucket issue, I mentioned that Joey August former Vandal boxer, was considered as one of the top referees in the collegiate world. After his efficient work at Sacramento, our coach's brother was named as the best referee of the tournament, receiving a rating of "excellent," while other referees were tabbed "fair" and "poor." Joey has cinched himself a permanent post from now on.

Maxie Baer, former heavyweight champ, was at the ringside, and after the matches remarked: "Boy, those potato boys are smart boxers for college kids! They must have a pretty good coach." Incidentally, the colorful Baer is hard to corner for an interview, but with the help of Mike Sullivan's Sacramento pals, I was invited to his home for a couple hours with the "three Baers."

When we arrived at their beautiful little home, Baer was snoozing away, but the charming Mrs. Baer got him up with Baby Maxie's help. Handsome Baer is very friendly and is Sacramento's most popular citizen. The Livermore Larruper has a date with Tony (I'll moider da bum) Galento on May 25, and Maxie is confident of eliminating the Beer-Barrel from the fight picture.

Baer said he was going after Joe Louis again, and "this time it's going to be different." At this point, Baby Maxie interrupted to show how his papa was going to bop "Cho Louie." Baby Maxie is a cut little tot with blonde curls, and at the rate he is growing, there will probably be another heavyweight in the family. Baer then showed us one of his enormous scrap books, and for an amusing hour he turned the pages, wise-cracking about the various important personalities that appeared in the pictures with him.

Baer's favorite movie actors are Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy. "They're real men," he said. He plans to make a movie soon after the Galento fight. After wishing the "personality boy" good luck on his come-back trail, we once again bid "Papa" Baer, "Mama" Baer, and "Baby" Baer good-bye.

Idaho's boxers won the heart of Sacramento fans with their sportsmanship and well-earned success, and will always receive a warm welcome from Californians. Winning the title was gratifying to us, but equally, if not more, appreciated was the interest and enthusiasm shown by everyone, and as Coach August said at the assembly, "that's the kind of backing that encourages athletic teams to do their best, and sometimes the unexpected." With boxing over, let's all get behind Coach Twogood's fine bunch of ballplayers and help them chalk up another championship. Let's make it a habit to bring back trophies in all sports—football, basketball, track, swimming—support 'em all!

On behalf of the boxing team and Coach Louie, I want to thank students and townspeople for the encouraging telegrams, letters, and phone calls. They helped us a lot.

Kansas State Accepts Idahoan As Coach

Bill Schutte, 1933, was named this week to a position on the Kansas State college football coaching staff, according to the Portland Oregonian. Schutte was selected to fill the post of assistant varsity grid coach to Hobbs Adams who was recently appointed head coach at the Jayhawk school. Adams was formerly assistant to Coach Howard Jones of Southern California. Schutte left a similar post at San Diego high school, San Diego, Cal., to take his new position.

While at Idaho, Schutte was a three-year letterman in football and baseball. On the gridiron he served as a center under Coach Leo Calland and held down the catcher's post on the Vandal baseball team.

on the squad, the Vandals in the next match will be the six top ranking men in the present ladder tournament, Coach "Butch" Boyer announced yesterday.

'I' Club To Initiate Champion Boxers

For the first time in the history of Idaho athletics a group of minor sportsmen will be initiated into the major "I" club, according to an announcement by I club members yesterday. The group to be initiated are the five members of Idaho's national champion boxing team. The members, John Webster, Laune Erickson, Ted Kara, Frank Kara, and Captain Sammy Zingale, will be initiated tomorrow night at 7 o'clock when the "I" club meets at the Beta house.

Geology Meet Lures Idaho Poultrymen

Dean A. W. Fahrenwald, head of the school of mines, said today that he and Dr. Donald J. Forrester, head of the department of geology, would leave Thursday for Boise to attend the annual meeting of the board of control of the Idaho bureau of mines in geology in the capitol building, April 19.

Vandals Slate Spokane For Next Home Tilt

Toughest competition of the season will be provided for the Vandal baseball club this week by the Spokane Indians of the Western International league and the Twin Falls Cowboys, Pioneer circuit, according to Coach Forrest Twogood.

Coach Twogood rates both teams far above the average college team. He plans to give both clubs a tussle. Spokane will meet Idaho Wednesday afternoon at MacLean field. The southern team will play Friday. Game time is 3:30 p. m. on each day.

Atkins Out of Tilt

Merle Stoddard will pitch the Spokane tilt. Dick Snyder will serve against the Cowboys. Whitey Price, who began workouts several days ago, will catch both games. Dick Atkins, only catcher for the squad before Price's appearance, speared a ball on the end of his thumb during practice last week and will be out of the lineup indefinitely. Atkins caught the entire Whitman series at Walla Walla, a total of six games in succession. This is his first year at the backstopping duties.

Practice sessions this week are aimed at adding polish to team play and eliminating some of the minor errors which have shown in previous games. Twogood still has six players fighting for three regular berths in the outfield.

Joe Spicuzza is the only one certain of securing a place. Ronnie Harris, Roy Roundy, Ted Kara, Babe Caccia, and Chuck Foster are the other competitors. During last week's games the outfield jobs were divided among them. Hitting ability will probably decide which trio will hold regular spots.

Spicuzza At Clean-up

The line-up for Wednesday's game in the order they will bat finds Roy Ramey, playing third, batting second, an unknown right fielder to be lead-off man. Short stop Bob Smith is third man up. Spicuzza will fall in the clean-up slot. Otis Milton, first base, is the fifth man up, with Chick Atkinson, second base, slated to follow. Catcher Price, Roy Roundy, and Merle Stoddard, pitcher, follow in that order.

Sports Fans Await Busy Calendar This Week

Idaho sports fans gazed on a loaded calendar this week as Vandals in four sports prepared for heavy action in the spring sports program.

First athletic action of the week will come tomorrow when the Idaho baseball team engages the Spokane Indians here. On Friday the Vandal horse-hiders will tangle with the Twin Falls Cowboys starting at 3:30 p. m.

Coach Mike Ryan's ovalists will play host to WSC Saturday in the first conference meet of the season. Varsity tennis and golf players will meet the Cougars at the same time in Pullman.

Jeffers To Address Spokane Chamber

Dean D. S. Jeffers, of the school of forestry, will address the Spokane chamber of commerce tomorrow on "The Main Travelled Road," stressing the importance of forestry research in order to facilitate the planning of an effective program for forestry. He will address the Latah county chamber of commerce to night at a meeting at Troy.
