

Proposed Armory Building for Idaho

One of the sketches of the proposed University of Idaho armory to be erected adjacent to Memorial gymnasium is this sketch submitted to President Harrison C. Dale yesterday by Boise architects. Col. D. B. Crafton will be on the campus Monday as a personal representative of the ninth corps area commander to study the needs for the armory. The proposed building would cost about $200,000.

Dale Views Preliminary Blueprints Of Proposed $200,000 Armory

Preliminary blueprints for the proposed $200,000 university armory were brought to President Harrison C. Dale yesterday by Frank K. Hummel of the Tourtellotte and Hummel company, Boise architects.

"These plans are not necessarily the ones that will be accepted," President Dale said. "They are merely ones that have been suggested and we intend to look them over. It takes very much work and time to get any project like this going, and we want it to be a good one."

Col. D. B. Crafton, ninth corps area inspector who will be here Monday to investigate the need for a new armory.

"It is quite evident that there is a need for a new armory at the university, especially in these times," President Dale declared.

Crafton To Inspect Plans

Colonel Crafton is coming as the personal representative of the ninth corps area commander, and will inspect the preliminary plans which are now available for the new structure.

If Colonel Crafton approves the project the $100,000 being raised by the university through refinancing outstanding bonds on Memorial gymnasium, will be matched by an equal amount from the federal government.

The possibility of a new armory was opened last summer when congress made a $30,000,000 grant to schools which could show evidence that they needed new armories. The grant was one of the first acts under the new national defense program, and the armories will be used for the more adequate training of reserve officers in schools that have ROTC units.

If constructed, the new armory will be located west of Memorial gymnasium facing south. Plans call for a building 310 feet long and 125 feet wide.

CAUGHT IN THE DRAFT

Jason was surprised and glad to see a letter from a perturbed collegian in his mailbox yesterday morning, referring Jason to an article in the Daily Idahoian May 12. The article explained that since Latah county's draft quota for June is only one man and several men have volunteered for army duty, Draft Board secretary H. W. Chatterton had written to state headquarters "to see if something couldn't be done about it."

"John Doe's" conclusion is: "Instead of writing to state headquarters to see if something couldn't be done about it, perhaps Mr. Chatterton should consult with the young men concerned before making it upon himself to volunteer for them or at least let the whole matter drop and depend upon those people who have studied all such conditions in all of their detail and who the young men of this country consider highly capable of allocating county draft quotas."

Last night, Mr. Chatterton denied that he had written to Boise "to see if something couldn't be done about it." The draft board secretary stated that he had twenty men in class 1-A who were ready to be inducted into the army immediately, but that it was "foolish" to assume that he'd ask the state headquarters to allow Latah county to send more than its share of young men to the army.

Architect Discusses Lab Plans

Engineering department heads and Dean Jesse E. Buchanan conferred with Architect Hugh Richardson, Lewiston, early this week on the preliminary schemes for the new engineering laboratory to be erected across the street from the heating plant. Further conferences are planned later this week, Dean Buchanan says.

TEDDY'S GLOVES

Ever since Bill McGowan, former Argonaut sports editor, wrote to Bob Wether suggesting that the gloves Ted Kara, Vandal national boxing champion for three years used in the national tournament be hung among the tarnished cups in the Idaho trophy case, service clubs and the publicity department has paid "lip service" to the idea, but none have done anything.

Jason's little casual suggestion would be to talk less and act more, especially as long as Ted is willing to donate his mittens to the cause.

1000 Cadets Pass In Review For Col. Stilwell

Nearly 1000 cadets passed in review before Col. Thomas K. P. Stilwell in the colorful annual ROTC inspection held on McLean field Wednesday. The regimental parade was reviewed by Col. Stilwell, professor of military science and tactics at Washington State college, and also Lieut. A. H. Schierman, U. S. Marine corps and Lieut. Arthur Swan, U. S. Air corps, graduates of the University of Idaho last year.

Colonel Stilwell expressed himself as well pleased with the entire inspection, and in complimenting the corps, stated, "The University of Idaho should be proud of its ROTC corps, for the entire unit is a distinct credit to the school. The corps reflected excellent training and performed well in the maneuvers."

"I was very well pleased with the conduct and cooperation as well as the excellent appearance of the corps," said Lieut. Col. C. W. Jones, head of the military department.

Members To Vote On Dissolving Cooperative Plan

Trustees To Send Ballots This Week To All Participating Members

The Co-op Bookstore last night voted to send ballots to all participating members of the organization to vote on whether or not the Co-op Bookstore should be dissolved as a co-operative. The trust has agreed to buy back student-owned stock at a premium of 33 1-3 per cent above par value.

Each participating member of the Co-op will be given an opportunity to vote on the matter, Gerald Hodgins, president of the Co-op said last night. Each student who is a member of the Co-op will be refunded $2 if the majority of the students favor disbanding the cooperative plan.

Few Memberships

"The Co-op has been a financial success," Mr. Hodgins said recently, "but from the membership rolls it appears the students do not want actual participation in the bookstore's affairs."

The form letter and ballot will be sent out to all members sometime this week, Mr. Hodgins said.

The Co-op bookstore, organized as the University Co-operative association, was founded in 1937. Seven shares of stock with a par value of $700 are owned by the students, whose shares are purchased with the money obtained from individual membership fees to the Co-op of $1.50.

Edicts Challenge Underclassmen To Water Fights

Freshmen and sophomores will climax their verbal battle of the last few days, which was aided by means of hundreds of edicts fluttering down from planes to be read by curious students, with the traditional water fight this afternoon at 4 p. m. in the field behind the tennis courts opposite Memorial gymnasium.

Late last night sophomores wrote the following answer to the challenge of the freshmen: "Without any whereas, high-sounding words (for the benefit of the things politely called frosh), or a dictionary, we the venerable class of 1943 do condescend to accept the somewhat hollow-sounding and futile challenge of the pipsqueaks."

You might just as well have saved all the air you have been blowing off your water-wings; you'll need them even though you are in your element wallowing in mud and slime. It's too bad the frosh don't realize that they are not dry behind the ears yet; it would have saved them a lot of whining and sniveling, but everyone has to learn sometime and Friday, May 16th is their day to learn not to spout off too much. The frosh that blew off gas in their challenge will be stepping on it Friday.

Frosh—your odor is causing a draft, but not even the draft will save you now. Your number is up, no more deferments after 4 p. m., P.S.T., May 16, 1941. This is war, though quite one sided in favor of the intellectually and physically superior sophomores.

Women Entertain Home Ec Majors

Women in the home-management house entertained the senior women enrolled in home-economics at a "career" party yesterday afternoon.

Games were played and fortunes told. An interesting event of the afternoon was the reading of a prophecy telling what the various guests would be doing in five years. Invitations sent were in the form of appointment blanks. Refreshments served to the 40 guests consisted of cleverly-arranged box lunches.

Hostesses for the affair were Kathleen Werry, chairman; Imogen Boyer, Beuletta Nordby, Neva Erickson, and Miss Margaret Ritchie.

Favorite Song Picked Idaho's favorite song, it turned out, was "My Sister and I" and Jewell Morris as Little Red Riding Hood sang it. Marilyn Jones as Bo Peep and Roy Southwick as Tommy Tucker both sang, and Priscilla Done polished off the show with two tap dances.

A nearly full house saw the assembly and encored most of the acts. Jarvis Palmer and his orchestra furnished music for the show.

The freshmen and sophomores, who, for the past week have been insulting each other with challenges, edicts, and counter-edicts, will fight the grudge to a finish they say, at the water fight this afternoon. Each team will line up on opposite sides of a pool of water and attempt to pull the other through at the end of a long rope.

Battlers to Meet All sophomores or freshmen who wish to take part in the annual fry should be at the battle ground, opposite the university greenhouses, at 4 p. m., officials state.

DELTS WIN CROWN Behind the six-hit pitching of Idaho's 127-pound national champion boxer, Frank Kara, Delta Tau Delta, won the all-university softball championship last night by routing the Idaho club 129 to 9.

In the initial inning the Idaho clubmen pounded over three runs to one for the Delts to take a momentary lead. Five runs in the second by the Delts gave them their first lead, and after that they were never headed.

Kara struck out five of the clubmen batters.

To win a berth in the championship game, Delta Tau Delta beat Sigma Chi 18 to 9. Idaho club defeated Lindley hall II 9 to 7 in their semi-final tilt.

Trackmen Hope To Annex Division Track Title

By Dayle Molen.

Eighteen Vandal trackmen will travel to Pullman tomorrow to compete in the northern division track and field championships, climax meet of the season for the Idaho team. The meet will start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. If any heats are run off in the sprints, hurdles, and 440-yard dash, they will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning.

The Vandal tracksters are in their best physical shape of the year, and are given a good chance to annex the team title by Coach Mike Ryan. George Makela and Darrel Kerby, pole vaulters, will be ready for the meet after being hampered by injuries for the past few weeks. Kerby began working out again this week. Both Makela and Kerby placed in last year's meet.

"We have a very good chance to win this meet," said Ryan. "The six teams are very evenly balanced and we will give them a real fight. Unless the change in altitude hampers the coast teams I think Washington State will be hard put to retain its title."

Records Threatened

If weather conditions are ideal, fans should witness several record-breaking performances, according to Ryan. The high jump record is almost certain to fall. Les Steers of Oregon who broke the world's record with a leap of 6 feet 10 and 25/32 inches, has been consistently leaping over the old mark of six feet six inches set by Vandermy of Washington in 1937.

Records in both the mile and the half-mile are likely to fall with both defending champions returning. Phil Leibowitz, Ryan's brilliant distance runner, equaled his record of 4:12.2 in the mile earlier this year. Leibowitz also has run the fastest half-mile in the north-

Racketmen Begin Hard Drills For ND Meet

'Whitewash' Win Over Montana Monday Closed Dual Meet Season

Vandal tennis men, who completed their season dual-meet schedule last Monday by drubbing Montana 7 to 0, are preparing now for the Northern division championships which are scheduled for Seattle May 24.

Idaho will send a four-man team to the conference jousts, Dale Reynolds, manager, said today. Bud Doane, Elmer Jordau, Sumner Delana, and Kent Barber will make the trip. All four will enter singles competition, and Delana and Doane will pair to play doubles.

Courts Make Difference

Because the courts at Seattle are asphalt surfaced, and hence "play" slower than the concrete courts which the Idahoans have been using, Reynolds said that drills next week would be held on the asphalt courts in front of the Ad building.

The Ad building courts are similar to the courts at Seattle, and practice on them will better prepare the Vandals for the conference championships, Reynolds reported.

Poor Dual Season

In competition this year Idaho lost six out of seven meets. They dropped their opener 7 to 0 to Whitman in a non-conference meet. In conference competition they lost to Washington State 5 to 2; Oregon University, 4 to 3; Oregon State 4 to 3, Washington 7 to 0, and Washington State 7 to 0.

Members of the tennis team this year have been Doane, Jordan, Delana, Barber, Dale, Poljak, and Reynolds.

Nine Faces Ducks Today After Downing O.S.C.

Coach Forrest Twogood's Idaho baseball club, in the win column after beating Oregon State 2 to 1 Tuesday, will crowd six conference contests into the nine days.

First on the Vandals' list is Oregon, current favorite to capture the northern division pennant this spring. The Ducks and Vandals open a two-game series here today at 3 o'clock at MacLean field, and play their second game tomorrow at 10 a.m.

Dal Bechtol has been chosen by Coach Twogood to pitch to Oregon bats this afternoon, and Merle "Whitey" Jenkins will have the job tomorrow. Tomorrow's game is being played early to allow for the Northern Division track and field meet at Pullman in the afternoon.

Oregon Heavily Favored

Rated as one of the hardest hitting teams in the circuit, the Oregon team is heavily favored over the Vandals. At Eugene last month the Ducks drubbed Idaho two straight games.

Twogood said yesterday that "he couldn't see how any club could push Oregon off the conference roost this year."

Next games for Idaho will be with Washington State Monday and Tuesday. The first is booked for Idaho's MacLean field and the second for the W.S.C. diamond. The teams were to have played two weeks ago, but were rained out.

Snyder Starts

er, who pitched Idaho's only victory game against Oregon State, will probably start on the hill against Washington State here, Twogood said. Snyder has been ailing with a sore arm during the past week or so, and Twogood said he believed a rest over the week end would put the twirler in good shape to face Bailey's team.

Against Oregon State Tuesday, Snyder gave up only four hits, and crossed home plate for the winning run in the eighth.

Oregon State gained the lead in the second inning of the tilt when Idaho made two errors to pave way for a State runner to come in. Don Reed rounded the sacks in the seventh to tie the count, and Snyder came in for the deciding run.

Sportlight Reflections

by bob wethern

CONFERENCE CINDER CARNIVAL

For many reasons, but especially for one, Idaho track fans should take in the northern division track and field championships at Pullman tomorrow. By far the biggest reason is that it will be the local fans' last chance to see Phil Leibowitz, Idaho's distance king, in action. Sugar Bowl and Los Angeles relay officials thought enough of Phil's ability to invite him to their meets with all expenses paid. The Flatbush Flyer has enough "stuff" to crack several northern division records wide open, and he probably will if weather conditions are right and he feels inclined. The kind of performances that Phil is capable of are worth anyone's time and shekels.

Slated to be on hand for the championship spike-fest are an unusual number of outstanding performers, and they make the future of several other present-day records rather shaky. Oregon's high-flying Les Steers, world's high jump champion; Washington State's lanky speedsters, Bill Dale, coast half-mile champion, and Pat Haley, sophomore sprint sensation; and Washington's sprint combination of Kjell Qvale and Bob Smith should all be crowd-pleasers. Each school represented has at least one outstanding performer and several of above-par artists... something that's going to make the outcome of the meet as tight and unpredictable as what Herr Hess' next move might be.

And right here this foolhardy reporter crawls far out on a bending branch to state in a quasi-authoritative voice that the team winner is going to have to beat a hard-competing group known as Idaho's Vandals. This comment comes after having run around peering into Idaho trackmen's eyes to find a "we're not taking second place behind anybody" gleam lurking there. Veteran sportswriters have the eight-time champion Cougars slated to repeat... over the Washington Huskies' dead bodies. But after boiling down piles of statistics and adding generous amounts of a chemical known as "Old Alma Mater Prejudice," this reporter comes out of the dope kitchen with a brew that fairly reeks of the sentiment that "Idaho is on equal terms with any of the would-be winners."

With the meet already hypothetically run off, here's how the final results look. (Any similarity to what the actual results will be is purely coincidental.)

100-YARD DASH: First, Haley, W. S. C.; second, Qvale, Wash.; third, Leicht, Oregon; fourth, Smith, Wash., or Clark, Idaho.

220-YARD DASH: First, Qvale, Wash.; second, Haley, W. S. C.; third, Leicht, Oregon; fourth, Smith, Wash.

440-YARD RUN: First, Fairbanks, Montana; second, Long, Wash.; third, Murphy, Montana; fourth, Ueland, Montana.

880-YARD RUN: First, Leibowitz, Idaho; second, Dale, W. S. C.; third, Lang, W. S. C.; fourth, McKinney, Oregon, or Johnston, Idaho, or Thomas, Idaho.

MILE RUN: First, Leibowitz, Idaho; second, Dyrsgall, Idaho; third, Williams, W. S. C., or Neal, Idaho; fourth, White, Idaho, or Dwyer, Idaho.

TWO-MILE RUN: First, Dyrsgall, Idaho; second, Vaillancourt, O. S. C.; third, Williams, W. S. C.; fourth, White, Idaho, or Dwyer, Idaho.

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES: First, Holloway, O. S. C.; second, Schade, W. S. C.; third, Butler, Oregon, or Steers, Oregon; fourth, Pirie, W. S. C.

220-YARD LOW HURDLES: First, Haley, W. S. C.; second, Holloway, O. S. C.; third, Butler, Oregon; fourth, McLoughlin, Washington.

SHOT PUT: First, Bell, Idaho; second, Londos, W. S. C.; third or fourth, Heatman, Washington, and Uullman, Washington.

DISCUS: First, Anderson, Idaho; second, Barr, Washington; third, Clawson, Montana; fourth, Stone, W. S. C., or Bell, Idaho.

JAVELIN: First, Steers, Oregon; second, P. Ryan, Idaho; third, Kreiger, Montana; fourth, J. Piedmont, Idaho.

HIGH JUMP: First, Steers, Oregon; second, Findlay, O. S. C.; third, Beffus, Oregon; fourth, Mandic, O. S. C.

BROAD JUMP: First, Findlay, O. S. C.; second, Johns, Washington; third, Regner, Oregon; fourth, Johnson, Montana.

POLE VAULT: First, Hendershot, Oregon; second, Makela, Idaho; third, Thomas, Oregon; fourth, Pirie, W. S. C., or Kerby, Idaho.

MILE RELAY: First, Montana; second, Washington; third, Oregon; fourth, O. S. C.

After a quick glance at the above results, some of the more posted track fans will point out some glaring discrepancies. For instance, Clawson of Montana has thrown the discus farther than any other northern division competitor this spring and yet is rated only for third place. In watching Clawson perform at the Idaho-Montana meet last Saturday, it seemed that he was not a "good competitor" and would probably blow up with the pressure on. Idaho's Anderson is a calm and collected Scandinavian and should come through. Another discrepancy: Montana's Kreiger has thrown the javelin farther than Idaho's Ryan yet doesn't get the nod. Reason: Kreiger's good throw was a "fluke" and 15 feet farther than he had ever thrown it before. "Nother discrepancy: Montana is slated to win the mile relay and yet W. S. C. has by far the fleetest foursome. Reason: Two of the Cougars' top relay performers, Dale and Haley, will probably be concentrating on other events and will slight their baton work.

Thus, by including weather conditions, track men's artistic temperaments and a few dozen hidden "if clauses," everything works out to nobody's satisfaction. A columnist, like a woman, is never wrong unless he admits it.

Golfers To Finish Dual Season This Weekend

Idaho golfers will be seeking their first win of the season when they meet Montana today and Washington State college tomorrow. Coach Frank James is looking for a win against Montana on Idaho links although the Vandals are handicapped with the absence of Harry Snead due to illness. Idaho has never been defeated by the Grizzly divot-men, Coach James says.

Teeing off for Idaho at 8:30 o'clock this morning will be Hud Nieman, Stan Jones, Cliff Paulson, and Charles Boren. Three men who may break into the lineup if doubles matches are contested are Bill Holzer, Corwin Davidson and Bill Campbell.

Tomorrow's meet with W.S.C. at Pullman is a return engagement with Cougars having won the first meet, 10 to 11. Idaho freshmen will also play W.S.C.'s Kittens in a return meet. In the first meet they defeated the Kittens, 7 1/2 to 4 1/2.

A Band, A Flag

Wednesday we passed in review. Thousands of us; thousands of targets for democracy. We don't know why we passed in review. We don't know why we'll be targets for democracy. Maybe we won't be targets, a few of the optimists say; but everyone, even the optimists, know that we will. Yes, we know that we probably passed in review in MacLean field for the last time. We know that the next time—well, where will it be?

We passed in review Wednesday. Flags flew; the band played. Emotionalism swayed; all rationalization was tossed out the window. Even the most staid isolationist would tend to forget his viewpoint and get in and follow the band. Flying flags and the sharp military airs and the hep hep of marching cadets just "get you." You're swept in by the color and emotion of war. Sure, it was just play war Wednesday, but Hitler and the British don't play.

"We don't want to go to war," thousands of Americans cry. Sure, they don't want to go to war, but give them a band and a flag—they'll go to war.

I Promise

"I promise . . . I pledge myself . . . to the best of my ability." Familiar phrases these to the hundreds of students who are taking vows of membership in service honoraries, scholastic organizations, and social fraternities during these last busy days of school. Was your promise mere lip-service? Or are you one of the few who are living up to it?

Honoraries are praised and scorned. All year we have read and listened to arguments pro and con. If honoraries are worthy of a position on a college campus, and this writer thinks they are, they deserve that place because of the opportunity for personal development that they give to their members; for, after all, we come to college for more than books. We could read them at home if we were inspired by sufficient ambition, but at college we can acquire broad experience and training that will enable us to take our places in life as mature individuals. Much of this training in working with others comes from association in social, scholastic, and service organizations.

Trite as it may be, the old statement still holds that any group is only as strong as its weakest member. Secret societies with high ideals combined with members who do not live up to them do not deserve a place on any college campus. Such groups defeat their own purpose. It may be that you are one of those who is starting the process of decay in your organization. Why not take time out to think about that initiation service? Can you remember those vows? As members you are entitled to read them now. Why not look them over? If you do not feel you can keep those promises, then you will be better off to drop the organization, for both it and you will benefit from such action. If you have just forgotten, the glance at the ritual will serve as a reminder and your honorary group will once again be serving its legitimate purpose on our campus.

Communique Comment

As the man to whom Hitler dictated "Mein Kampf" enrolls as a patient in the "psychotherapy" clinic for ex-Nazis just opened by the London Foreign Office, the head of the German state is left with a job of explaining on his hands. Whatever the tone of the official communiques, the patient millions of the Reich may honestly wonder whether others in the Nazi hierarchy have not fallen victims to the megalomania unearthed by Dr. Goebbels in the records of the departed Deputy-Leader.

Reports from inside Germany in the past six months have given indications of dissension between the members of the Fuehrer's immediate entourage. In the hyper-centralized Nazi state, palace intrigue by those close to the throne must take the place of the legislative log-rolling so cherished by the elected representatives of the people in a democracy. It is possible that the opportunistic pro-Soviet policy pursued by the Realmleader and von Ribbentrop has embittered the idealistic Hess, and the companion of Hitler's imprisonment after the 1923 Munich Putsch now indulges in the type of inspired individualism hitherto reserved for the Fuehrer.

Minister of Labor Bevin informed his fellow-countrymen yesterday that the Hess excursion must be considered part of a German effort to open peace negotiations with Britain. This statement indicates that the Churchill cabinet is resolved to stay on its guard. The Deputy-Leader's account of the end of a beautiful friendship will be honored by an attentive and distinguished audience, but not by immediate British belief. It would seem inconceivable that the Fuehrer has been a party to the gigantic escapade, but it is possible that Hess acts as the agent of a disillusioned wing of the Nazi Party.

The circumstances of Hess' arrival in Scotland have led to a suspicion that certain groups within Britain are ready to discuss peace terms. In several sections, British morale has been sagging for the moment under the savage blows of the Luftwaffe and the grim tale of military failure in the Balkans. The small but powerful British minority that helped Hitler to rear in the 1930's may seek to exploit any incipient war-weariness in order to put pressure on Churchill in the direction of a negotiated peace. Part of this minority has never relinquished its dream of British-German friendship as the prelude to a Nazi attack on the arch-enemy, Communist Russia.

By The Day

HAPPY ENDING

Proud of the gold and red pledge ribbons of their organizations, the sisterhood of Cardinal Key arched high their eyebrows Tuesday and Wednesday when Pledge Sister Frances Hardin appeared on the campus, blissfully going about her business with nary a sign of the gold and red threads which were pinned on her palpitating breast last Saturday.

"Are you ashamed of our organization," Miss Hardin was asked. For answer she shyly hung her head. For nearly three days she bore in silence the cold, frigid stares of her colleagues. Yesterday she held her head high once more and proudly displayed the red and gold. After being grilled by curious members of the clan, Frances broke down and told her sad tale.

On Monday, she admitted, she lost her precious insignia. Afraid and ashamed to admit the loss, she held her peace. Unable to bear the ostracization longer, she trekked to town yesterday and invested in a suitable length of the ribbon at the notions counter of a local department store. Everyone is happy again.

COMPANY FOR LUNCH

The surprise visit of President Harrison C. Dale to the Sigma Nu house for lunch yesterday was thoroughly enjoyed by both the prexy and the Sigma Nu brothers, we are told on unimpeachable authority. Sigma Nu men were no little amazed at the unprecedented presence of Harrison C. Dale.

Luncheon over, the brotherhood gathered around and obliged its honored guest with a soulful rendition of their famed "White Star" hymn. A blank and bewildered expression came slowly over the bland features of President Dale. Realization was dawning. Also becoming clear the reason for the absence of Bill Smith, Kappa Sig, who had invited the President to luncheon.

HOME GUARD

Waking hours are often haunted with illusions, befogged brains and general uneasiness. If there is a skeptical soul in the audience who wishes to dispute this thesis, let the unbeliever pay a call on Jack Selway, Willis Sweet freshman and inhabitant of the room neighboring on the one occupied by ASUI president Leslie McCarthy.

Asleep in his room, Jack heard the rumble of the horde of freshmen on their annual senior-ducking expedition. Jumping to his feet, he dashed to the door, squared off and prepared to give battle to the invaders. Jack in his sleep drugged condition, was laboring under the impression that the rumble was caused by a group of T.N.E. members on their way to "get" his friend McCarthy.

SPRING SHOWERS

Mary Gauss is a firm believer in taking showers on her own initiative and on her own initiative alone. Monday night, when the Delta Gamma frosh were rounding up their seniors for their annual frosh-administered shower, Mary made a sudden dash for freedom, battled her way to the front door, and fled through the driving rain down the street with the D.G. frosh in hot pursuit.

Postponed

Postponement of the Argonaut picnic was announced last night by Bob Bonomi. Conflicting engagements of many staff workers was given as the reason for the change in date. The picnic will be held on May 25, he said. The party had been planned for next Sunday.

All persons whose names are on the masthead or were on the masthead the first semester are eligible to attend the picnic. All persons wishing to attend should sign in the Argonaut office, S. U. Reaching the home of the Rev. John Bill, she sought temporary sanctuary. From the home of the Reverend Bill, she managed to reach her own home across town followed by the alert frosh. But Miss Gauss was far from subdued. Just as the almost victorious frosh reached the front lawn of her house Mary made a final dash for freedom, squirmed loose from her captors, made the front door, entered and locked the door after her, leaving her erstwhile captors locked out. Miss Gauss remains involuntarily showered, but the frosh are vowing.

Letters

To the Editor:
I realize that the Friday, May 9th, edition of the Argonaut was none of your doing, but I have to gripe to somebody so perhaps you'll be good enough to listen.

I refer to the article appearing under "Dust Pan" concerning the "evils" of the songfest as held at Idaho.

First of all, I admit, I am prejudiced, having been a music major at Moscow myself. But then if I were not such I probably would not write.

Looking at the situation every which way, I fall to see any so-called "evils" in the songfest as it exists at present, except perhaps that most of the choruses in Idaho's songfests have been so mediocre, even bad, that it taxes one's nerves to sit through the whole program!

What a contradiction to the "Dust Pan" column which stated thusly!

"Let's leave singing something to be enjoyed, not dreaded." And I say emphatically, from the bottom, that last year contained the first songfest ever to escape the suggestion of "dread" in the minds of three-fourths of the listening public! The reason, of course, is painstaking effort upon the part of the choruses to rise a little above plain, ordinary, every-day, out-of-tune "group" singing. Who dares to frown upon that effort? Since when has lively group competition been condemned at Idaho?

Another point: Perhaps the only training some of these individuals will ever get in their lives will be working for songfest honors. Why, then, shouldn't music majors do the training? And what does it matter if a few ele-
