Weightlifting Draws Men To Development Contest

Twenty-eight men answered the call for weight lifting candidates as the new self development program got off to a good start last Saturday. Anyone interested can still turn out, according to the plans as announced last

Need for weights for use in the program was stressed by Roger Guernsey, who is in charge. Only one set of weights is available for the large number of students who have turned out.

Two Cougar Pacific Coast champions, a forfeit, and two close decisions coupled with two technical knockouts were the overpowering factors that carried Washington State college to a 6-2 win over the Idaho Vandal in Pullman last Friday night. Chace Anderson and Bill Williams were the winning Vandals.

Commenting on the fights, Bob Knox, Idaho ring coach, said, "Most of the fights were very close, and in several cases the inexperienced men on the Idaho team did much better than was expected.'
