They Brought Home the Bacon

Legion To Present Flag At Assembly Friday

Samuel E. Vance, Jr., Hazelton, state commander of the American Legion, will present the university with a huge service flag to record the number of university students in the service at a special assembly Friday morning at 11 o'clock, President Harrison C. Dale announced yesterday. Classes will be shortened for the program.

Wunderlich Joins Navy; Olson To Fill Vacancy

President Harrison C. Dale yesterday announced the resignation of Dean of Men Herbert J. Wunderlich, who left Moscow last night for the Sand Point naval base at Seattle, to go into navy training. Succeeding him will be William Olson, alumni secretary, who will serve as acting dean of men for the remainder of the term, Dale disclosed.

President Dale's announcement yesterday offered the first public inkling of the turnover which has been pending since Wunderlich returned a navy questionnaire several weeks ago.

Olson, Idaho's first full-time alumni secretary, steps into Wunderlich's shoes immediately, and will continue in his present position, President Dale reported. The post of administrative secretary, which Wunderlich held, has been suspended.

Receives Commission.

Wunderlich recently received a commission as lieutenant in the navy air corps, to serve as member of the examining board for selection of cadets. Although it is not definite where he will be stationed, he said yesterday that he expects to return to Moscow to serve as recruiting officer in Moscow and Pullman.

Olson was graduated from Idaho in 1939 in accounting, worked for the Spokane Federal Land bank, then served as secretary to the Coeur d'Alene chamber of commerce before returning to Idaho as alumni secretary last summer.

A gift from the Americanism commission of the American Legion, and Blue Key, upperclassmen's service honorary, the flag will hang in the foyer of the Administration building. Hanging next to the World War II flag will be the tattered service flag used during the last war.

The flag, 19½ feet long and 12 feet wide, is being made by the Home Economics club under the direction of Margaret Batchellor. It will be white with a red border. A blue star will be sewed onto the flag everytime a university student joins the navy, army, marine corps, or coast guard.

Blue Key is planning to keep a permanent record of every student in the service on file near the flag, according to Nelson Park, president.

Independent Meet Postponed

Scheduled to be held this weekend the independent conference of northwestern schools has now been postponed indefinitely. Calendar conflicts have made it impossible to make a date that would be suitable to the five schools which would attend, according to Louis Parkinson, president of the association.

The conference was suggested as a means by which representatives from the independent groups on the various campuses could meet to discuss problems and future plans. Idaho will be host for the group if the conference is held later in the spring.

Schools that are included in the group are the University of Washington, WSC, University of Oregon, OSC and Idaho.

Dress To Bring Novel Program March 30

Miss Mary Hutchinson will bring this year's first touch of professional drama to Idaho when she presents her program "Shakespeare's Heroines" here, March 30 at 11 a.m. Tickets will be dismissed.

She will present an hour of quick character changes, acting parts of such famous make-believes as Portia, from "Merchant of Venice"; Ophelia from "Hamlet"; Juliet, from "Romeo and Juliet"; and several leaving the stage even to change costumes, Miss Hutchinson will keep her dialogue moving while transferring from Cleopatra in a tiny, transparent dressing room on the stage. As she changes, the audience will see her silhouette and hear her describe the plays she enacts. She has appeared in several away dramas and played with the Gay White Way's most famous stars—Walter Hampden, Craven, Gregory Ratoff, Stone and others. Radio has found spots for her in net-works, and her popular-summer stock has grown in the past few years.

Her presentation of "Shakespeare's Heroines" is the only one of its kind in the country and was produced under the direction of Percival Vivian, one of the most prominent of Shakespearean authorities.

3 Musicians Win Awards At Spokane Festival

Marian Partner

For the second consecutive year, three of the eight music awards given annually at the Spokane music festival held last week-end were won by university students. Cups were given to Marian Partner, contralto, for the women's aria division, Joanne Finley for the piano solos division, and Richard Sarles for the piano concerto's division. These were the same awards won by university students at the festival last year.

For her performance Miss Partner sang "Adieu Foret" from Tchaikovsky's "Jeanne d'Arc." Miss Finley played Beethoven's "Appassionata Sonata."

Miss Partner, Miss Finley, Sarles, and Jean Armour were also rated superior by festival judges. Musicians for a program to be given in May by the university symphony orchestra will be chosen from these players.

Students attending the music festival were Jean Armour, Lucille Thompson, Joanne Finley, and Richard Sarles, pianists; Jo Anne Tretner, coloratura soprano; Marian Partner, contralto, Margaret Potter, dramatic soprano.

What We Need

What this campus needs is a tough traffic cop to straighten out the modus operandi of some of our motorists and pedestrians here on the hill. If we don't get that, one of these days we may have something worse—a nasty accident.

University officials have long recognized the potential dangers of the campus' narrow streets, bad turns, and blind corners. They have been aware of the 8 o'clock and noon rushes that find pedestrians and motorists alike in a hurry to get to their destinations. And they have made some regulations.

If you drive faster than 25 miles an hour on campus streets or 15 miles an hour through intersections, you are violating a campus regulation. If you park on the east side of narrow Deakin street, or the south side of University avenue and Sixth street, you are violating a campus regulation. If you carry passengers all over the outside of your car, you are breaking the law. And you're guilty of sloppy, dangerous driving when you take turns on the wrong side of the street, or fail to observe "slow" or "stop" signs.

All these rules have been violated. Parking rules have been more closely observed than in previous years, university officials report, but there are still too many who are careless. Pedestrians, motorists, both moving along narrow streets, both in a hurry, make a bad combination that will allow for few slips.

We still see too often cars parked on both sides of the street in front of the Student Union building, making a dangerously narrow bottleneck. Too often cars have been parked near the Theta turn making that dangerous curve even more dangerous. Too many times we have seen motorists whoop down the University avenue hill at far from safe rates of speed taking that same curve into Deakin by using both sides of the street.

Pedestrians cannot be held blameless. Their great fault is an overabundance of rugged individualism. The Fiji corner at 8 o'clock in the morning is a perfect example of that—students cross at any corner or point that suits convenience and inclination. True the pedestrian has at all times the right of way, but it has been abused to a degree where his own nimbleness is often the only factor that saves his skin.

What we probably need is a few sidewalk chats and running board lectures by a blue-coated man who talks out of the corner of his mouth, and doesn't stutter. Add to that a few stiff fines for the motorists who think going to college gives one special privileges with an automobile, and some parking tags that do more than just warn, and no doubt a good many of the careless symptoms we have been showing as pedestrians and motorists would clear up without further treatment.—K. C.

UNTAPPED TREASURE

Radio is a growing young field in industry, advertising, and public relations work. In fact radio was a growing young field in 1930, but today its wonders are still untapped—especially at the University of Idaho.

Radios are available to about 400,000 of Idaho's half million population. Seven thriving stations are scattered throughout the state to serve the maximum amount of the state's populace. Stations are located at Lewiston, Nampa, Boise, Twin Falls, Pocatello, Idaho Falls, and Wallace—geographically a near-perfect circuit for transcribed radio programs advertising the University of Idaho.

Undoubtedly the best thing that the university could do in the radio field would be set up its own five-watter and teach the essentials of announcing and the technical aspects of radio—all for classwork and university credit. But we students have been around for nearly a year—some of us more—and we realize that now that university purse strings are tightly drawn and hard to pry open.

But perhaps a suitable solution would be having students direct the transcription of 15-minute radio programs to send out to Idaho radio stations—a plan that would give students practical experience (seemingly a neglected factor in education), give the school good publicity, and give Idaho radio stations what they want.

The plan was tried out a few years ago under administrative regulation. Talks on the proper way to nurse a chicken through the brooding period and other such programs were sent out. Obviously beneficial to the farmer, it is not beneficial nor colorful to the prospective college student or the average radio listener. When the ASCAP ban stifled the radio, the program was dropped.

The university still has the recorder equipment—hidden in the physics room in Science hall. It is available to students, but every time it's used it has to be transported to the auditorium, rigged up again and the program cut. True, the delicate mechanism can't be left in the auditorium, but how about the upper lounge of the Student Union building? The check room in the upper lounge could easily be shut off and there is ample storage place for the recorder. Acoustics in the SUB upper lounge are good; conducive to good broadcasting.

Radio stations throughout the state have asked for recorded programs from the university emphasizing the student angle; the color of college life and student activity. Alumni associations have written in request of recording of Idaho songs. The talent is here. The Vandaleers and Pep band would be good "sendoffs" for a 15-minute program. Events that would be good subjects for transcribed broadcasts include the songfest, savory portions of the Pep band show, homecoming rallies, and others. Sure, they'd have

Communique Comme

At the moment when Sir Stafford Cripps landed on soil, a Chungking spokesman made a demand for the of a Pacific Charter by Roosevelt and Churchill—a charter which freedom and self-government are promised to French Indo-China, Burma and India. This is a plain thing to London that Chinese troops are not defending from the Japanese in order to preserve the British Empire in Asia on a pre-1939 basis. If Sir Stafford fails to get agreement on a plan for India's future from the Indian leaders this month, a serious rift between the Chiang shek government and the Churchill cabinet may develop.

Japanese seizure of the lower end of the Burma leaves China without an inlet for heavy supplies from the U. S. The new route from Sadiya to Chungking will not be ready for several months at least. War materials are being rushed to Chungking by air from India, but the number of transport planes available is not large. The government is already directing peace feelers toward the elements of Chiang Kai-shek's government that doubt the wisdom of continuing the Sino-Japanese war. London and Washington must make every effort to keep Free China in the through the dark year of 1942, when Chiang's army have to rely almost entirely on the output of their own factories for arms.

Chiang Kai-shek cannot speak for a united China. The of the British and U. S. governments to back him up render more unstable his position in his own country. On the left, his Communist allies look with suspicion on the conservative war lords in the Chungking councils: the Communists ended their ten-year-old civil war with Chiang Kai-shek only in order to present a common front against the Japanese. On the right, a reactionary clique headed by Wang Hsiang-shan is known to be considering an armistice with Nippon. In 1940, after Churchill ordered the closure of the Burma Road for three months, Ho Ying-chin entered peace talks with Tokio through the German ambassador in Chungking.

Since its founding by Dr. Sun Yat-sen in 1905, the Kuomintang Party has stood for the ousting of European imperialism from China and all Asia. The Free China spokesmen now trying to arouse their fellow-Asiatic peoples to a crusade against the Japanese monster describe the United Nations as one that will win freedom and democracy for the peoples of all races. If Cripps can get a formula that spells freedom for India to Nehru this month, Chiang Kai-shek will be able to say to the 800 million of China and India that Britain and the U. S. fight for the ideals of the Atlantic Charter.

to be censored and approved by administrative big wigs, but at least they would be student programs.

Another easy expansion in the rapidly building radio set-up (theoretically at least) would be a remote amplifier, which would enable Lewiston, Pullman, and Spokane radio stations to get direct broadcasts without much difficulty. A remote amplifier can be purchased for as low as $75. Perhaps out of the maze of public address microphones, a remote amplifier could be built even cheaper. A telephone line could be installed into the upper lounge of the Student Union building for about $15 or less. When a direct broadcast of a pep rally, Junior prom, Senior ball, football game, etc., is desired, all that would be necessary is plug in the line.

Progressive universities and colleges throughout the country already have realized the untapped wonders of radio. Washington State, our next door neighbor, has one of the best college-owned radio stations in the United States. Several years ago, Idaho was offered a share in the project. Idaho refused. Meanwhile Washington State progresses.

Even our little brother, the southern branch, has far outdistanced Idaho in radio. The students have installed a recorder in the Student Union building and

Business Students May Be Exempted

Students enrolled in business administration curricula with junior or senior standing can now obtain almost immediate exemption from the draft which is good until they complete their college work by enrolling as a probationary ensign in a new classification in the naval reserve, according to word received by Acting Dean W. J. Wilde.

Enrollees for the DV(P) classification need not take an accelerated program of study and have no special duties nor requirements for training while in college. They receive no pay until they are graduated but immediately enter the service as an ensign at a base pay of $1500.

For further information, students may notify the nearest district office of the U.S. Navy reserve or the Director of Office Procurement, U. S. Navy reserve, Washington, D.C.

Students To Take Bus to Pullman

A university bus will leave Neely's garage Friday night at 6:30 p.m. for Pullman, where "The Marriage of Figaro" will be presented in the WSC gymnasium. Round trip tickets will cost 40 cents and reservations may be made at the music hall office. Since it is a community concert, Idaho students will be admitted on their ASU tickets.

The opera, presented by the Nine O'clock Opera company, will be enacted in modern dress, and has been hailed as a 20th century masterpiece. Its producers use the "Our Town" staging technique, utilizing only tables and benches for scenery, leaving the setting up to the narrator who wanders on and off the stage throughout the entire production, chattering in a friendly manner with the audience.

Eight Singers. The cast of "Figaro" is composed of eight energetic young opera singers who enjoy their presentation apparently as much as the audience. John Tyers plays the dashing Figaro, the barber who scampers through the opera getting out of scrapes and jumping through second-story windows. Helen Van Loon is Susanni, who is betrothed to the barber, but whose charms have caught the roving eye of her master, Count Almaviva.

Equally entertaining are Robert Stuart as Basilla, John McCrae as the Count, Vera Weikel as Cherubino, Gertrude Gibson as the Countess, and David Otto as Antonio and the Narrator.

Students planning to attend the opera are advised to read the story before going, in order to appreciate more the hilarious antics of Figaro and his colleagues.

Cadets To Dance At Ball Friday

Morrey O'Donnel and his orchestra will play for the dance.

Blue Key Collects Many Magazines

Blue Key's paper drive, held last Saturday, resulted in a large collection of magazines and papers, Nelson Park announced yesterday.

Another drive will be made soon, possibly the week following Easter vacation.

The papers will be stored at the fairground until delivered to a wholesale buyer from Spokane. The supply will be remade into fresh paper to be used again.

Blue Key plans to use money made from sale of the magazines to help the American Legion buy a service flag for the university.

Board To Continue Weekly Dances

It was decided at the Student Union activities board meeting last Friday evening to continue the weekly Bucket dances. Plans were formulated for the home economics style show, to be held in the Bucket on All-University day, May 2.

Attempts are being made by the board to get some Idaho talent on the weekly Fred Allen show, according to Harry Mosman, chairman.

Miss Blink Comes To Interview

Maybelle Blink of the consumer division of the office of price administration will be on the campus Wednesday to see student leaders and faculty on the promotion of consumer education on nutrition, according to Dean Beatrice Olson, dean of women.

Miss Blink will hold a conference with the home economics faculty between 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. and will meet students from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the old ballroom of the Blue Bucket.

Housemothers and representatives from all group houses are requested to attend the meetings, according to Dean Olson.

Choir Will Enter Choral Contest

Thirty members of the men's choir will enter the Fred Waring National Pleasuretime glee club contest, Prof. Robert Walls, of the music department, announced last night.

Idaho is entered in the western region, which contains approximately 18 glee clubs. The regional winner will travel to New York city to compete in the national finals with the winners from each of the seven other regions.

The Idaho chorus will go to Spokane April 13 to have a phonograph recording made of its songs. A recording expert from Fred Waring's organization will assist and will send the records to the central judging office.

Songs to be judged consist of a number chosen by Fred Waring, one selected by the chorus, and a school song.

Regional judging will be based entirely on the phonograph recordings. The only personal appearance of the glee clubs will be the winners who enter the national finals.

En route to Spokane the group will give short programs at several high schools. Maurice Ritchey will be a cello soloist for these performances.

Publication Board Picks Campbell

The publications board Saturday recommended the appointment of Bill Campbell as assistant business manager of the Gem for this year. Campbell has been serving in this capacity since last fall but the appointment had never been approved by the board. His appointment is still subject to approval of the executive board.

The board agreed to interview candidates for the business managership of the Gem and Argonaut and the managing editorship of the Argonaut at the next meeting. Three or four candidates for each position will be questioned by members of the board before the positions are filled for next year.

Berllus and Williams Win Pacific Coast Titles

With veteran Vic Berllus and sophomore Bill Williams winning individual boxing crowns, Idaho mittmen fought their way to third place in the annual Pacific Coast boxing meet at Sacramento last weekend. Berllus won the heavy-weight title and Williams the 145-pound honors.

Washington State captured the team crown with 22 points, followed by San Jose with 19 and Idaho with 16. Two Cougars won individual titles.

Berllus knocked out Warren Simas, Oregon State football star, in the first round to move into the finals. The rangy 200-pound star then outpunched Frank Minini of San Jose in the finals. Berllus is still undefeated in competition this year.

Williams Undefeated.

Williams, also undefeated in his first year of varsity competition, won his opening match by decisioning Dalton Clark of Oregon State. He was an easy winner in decisioning Jack Shamberger of the California Aggies in the semifinals. In the final Williams won by a decision over Frank Hewitt, Stanford's lone entrant.

Idaho's three other entrants failed to survive the first round. Chace Anderson, one of the favorites in the 165-pound division, was eliminated in his opening match by Jack Wells of Oregon State. Gordon Ross, Vandal 120-pounder, was knocked out in the third round of the semifinal match by champion Merle Vannoy, WSC. Warren Briggs, Idaho 175-pound entrant, was knocked out in 1:12 of the second round by Lou King, UCLA.

Golfers Will Begin Ladder Tourney

Places on the golf ladder will be determined by scores recorded this weekend. Bill Holzer, golf captain, said last night. Holzer asked that all men interested in competing in the ladder tournament sign up at the clubhouse this week.

High six men at the end of ladder competition will be the golf team. First meet scheduled for the golfers will be against Washington State here April 11. Both varsity and freshmen will compete.

Schmidt Plans Workout For Football Squad

Idaho's 1942 football season begins this afternoon as Coach Francis Schmidt meets men turning out for spring football on the practice field after 3:30 o'clock. Coach Schmidt said that he expects organized practice to get underway about 4:15 and that a general review of the fundamentals is scheduled for today.

"Spring practice is very very important this year because we shall have to learn most of our football this spring," said Schmidt as he emphasized the heavy opening schedule for the Vandal 1942 season.

Urge Big Turnout.

PCC Heads Talk Curtailments

Pacific Coast conference athletic directors and coaches have been discussing possible curtailments and the many other war-time problems that face the Coast college's athletic program at the meetings in Portland yesterday and Sunday. Gale Mix, graduate manager, last night received a report from Portland and said that no definite decisions had yet been reached regarding possible curtailments.

The freshman competition question has also been much discussed, he said, but that no formal decision has been reached. Among the possible curtailments discussed were limitations of the size of football traveling squads, and the curtailment of football team travel.

"These matters are being discussed, but no decisions have been reached," Mix emphasized. "Curtilment of some activity is certain, however."

Thinclads Begin Outdoor Drills

Vandal trackmen began work outdoors on the still damp turf of McLean field yesterday. With two meets cut off the Idaho schedule, training for the Vandals will have to be slightly revised.

Last week the Inland Empire relay meet at Pullman was cancelled by Washington State officials. Vandal entry into the Hill Military meet at Portland this week was also cancelled. First Idaho meet will be a dual affair with Whitman at Walla Walla April 11, but the Vandals will hold their annual outdoor handicap meet April 4.

Work was started smoothing the track yesterday for use this year.

come football players are urged by Idaho's head coach to report this afternoon. Schmidt pointed out that some schools require most men to report for practice and that spring practice is also a good chance for men to harden themselves for service in the armed forces.
