They Showed the Inspector Artificial Respiration

A group of "basic" military students are shown here demonstrating artificial respiration for the annual military inspection. Major Morrison, professor of military science and tactics at Washington State college, reviewed the ROTC unit yesterday.

First Shipment of Gems To Arrive May 30, Editor Wethern Says

The first shipment of the 1942 Gem of the Mountains will arrive and be ready for distribution on the morning of May 30, a telephone conversation between officials of Syms-York Printing company and the ASUI Graduate Manager's office disclosed yesterday.

Delivery of 1200 books will be made at that time and the remaining 800 will follow as soon as they can be bound and wrapped for mailing. Initial delivery for this year's annual had at first been set for May 20.

"Biggest reason for the delay has been the increasing shortage of labor at both the engraving and printing firms," said Editor Bob Wethern. "The engraving firm suffered a labor setback in late winter and the printing company has lost three men to the army during the year. It's just a situation which could neither be avoided or remedied to any great extent."

Ship By C.O.D.

Students leaving school before May 30 can have their Gems shipped to them by leaving their address at the Graduate Manager's office. Seniors and other students remaining will be able to secure their yearbooks at the Graduate Manager's office through the usual distribution system.

"Yearbooks will be mailed to absentee students through the C.O.D. postage plan which has been used in past years," Wethern says. "A record Gem mailing list has been anticipated for some time because of the many students who have been leaving school throughout the year for military service and other reasons."

Featuring the 1942 Gem is a natural color campus scene reproduced upon the cover in a manner unique to yearbook production. A profuse use of candid pictures and color work throughout the book are other features of the 1942 annual.

SAI To Present Final Musical

Carolyn Norris, pianist, and Jo Ann Tretner, coloratura soprano, accompanied by Helen Bullock, will give the last Sigma Alpha Iota musical recital of the year tonight at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Carl Claus.

This recital will be the senior farewell service for the senior members of Sigma Alpha Iota, women's musical honorary. SAI annual awards will be made after the recital.

Northup To Give Music Recital

Eunice Northup, dramatic soprano, will give a graduate recital Thursday, May 21, at 8 p.m. in the university auditorium. Miss Northup will be assisted by Carolyn Norris, flutist, and Marie Gordon, accompanist.

Among the arrangements included on the program will be "Freudovoll und Leidvoll" and "Wonne der Wehmut" by Beethoven; "Meine Liebe ist grün" and "Von Ewiger Liebe" by Brahms; "Japanisches Regenlied," "Der Bescheidene Schafer," "Waldseligkeit," and "Hat dich die Liebe Berührt" by Joseph Marx.

Assisted by Carolyn Norris, Miss Northup will sing "Le temps des lilas" by Chaussin and "La Flue Enchantee" by Ravel. Other numbers on the program will be "Non la Sospiri" and "Vissi d'Arte-vissi d'Amore" from Puccini's Tosca, and "De Fleur" by Debussy; "The Cry of Rachel" by Mary Turner Salter; "The Table and the Chair" by George Harris; "Moonlight" an original composition by Miss Northup; "Lullaby a la Mode" by Russell Wragg; and "Song of the Sea" by Walter Golde.

Judge Budge Gets Honorary Degree

Justice Alfred Budge, a member of Idaho's supreme court since 1914, will be granted an honorary degree of doctor of laws at the commencement exercises June 1, President Harrison C. Dale revealed here yesterday. Justice Budge is a former chief justice of the state supreme court.

"This is the highest honor which the university can bestow," President Dale said in a letter to the veteran jurist. Justice Budge, now associate justice of the supreme court, is the son of William Budge, who served on the university board of regents from 1895 to 1897.

Four of Justice Budge's children have received degrees from the university. Hamer and Walter were graduated from the college of law in 1936 and 1939 respectively. Belva was graduated in 1939 and Ora received a bachelor's degree in 1926 and a master's degree the following year.

Since 1935, he has been a non-resident instructor in law. Each year he delivers a series of lectures on professional ethics.

This will be the only honorary degree to be granted at this year's commencement, according to President Dale.

Littlefield Awarded Cadet Drill Medal

The Pershing Rifle drill medal, given by regimental head quarters to the best drilled cadet of the local unit, was won this year by Clyde Littlefield, Captain Allan Foster announced last Thursday.

The medal was presented to Cadet Littlefield by President Harrison C. Dale during his inspection of the cadet corps last Thursday.

Everybody Pays But Sailors At SUB Dance Saturday

PICTURES

Gem living group panels are now available in the graduate manager's office to house or hall representatives wishing to keep them for records or other reasons, Editor Bob Wethern announced yesterday. There is no charge for the pictures.

Class panels, candid, and other miscellaneous Gem pictures have already been picked over by photo-collecting students, according to Wethern. They were made available late last week.

Availability of Gem engravings for student publicity organs will be announced as soon as the cuts arrive from the Boise printing firm.

Everybody pays! Everybody, that is, except the navy. A navy uniform means free admittance to the navy benefit dance to be given Saturday night, but otherwise everyone buys his own ticket, women included.

The dance is strictly a date affair but everyone goes "dutch" on expenses, Sennett Taylor, general chairman, disclosed yesterday. Tickets will be distributed in all students residences this week where each woman buys her half of the ticket and the men pay their way in too. Mixer dances will be featured so that the sailors will get a touch of college swing and Idaho women.

This week speakers will ballyhoo the campus living groups to urge everyone to attend this ASUI-sponsored affair. Individual tickets will be 55 cents, making the total admittance $1.10 a couple. Navy men, however, will be admitted free.

Proceeds from the dance will be used to buy recreational equipment for the navy men stationed on the campus. A downtown campaign will begin after a meeting of the chamber of commerce Wednesday night.

The SUB dance committee is assisting the ASUI executive board in arranging the dance. Committee chairmen include Jay Garner, advertising; Macey Mott and Ed English, ticket sales; Edith Jones, decorations. Red Jensen's orchestra will play for the benefit which will be given in the SUB ballrooms.

35 Men Take Oath For Advanced Military Course

Thirty-five men were sworn into the enlisted reserve corps Saturday morning prior to signing their contracts for the advanced military course, according to Lieut. Col Charles W. Jones. This is a new requirement for entrance into the advanced corps.

More Officers.

Kenneth Lemon, Clyde Littlefield, Jean Milar, Donald Milich, John Morris, Tad Nielson, John Numbers, Robert O'Conner, Gerald Pederson, Carl Pinson, Fred Seigfried, Donald Swan, Lawrence Talbot, Thomas Woods, William Zahora, Myron Nuffer.

The following men will be sworn in soon: Earl Chandler, Robert Obendorf, Hugh Sorenson, Robert Vonderharr, and William Williams.

All lockers at the Women's gymnasium must be cleared by 5 p. m. May 26, according to Miss Janette Wirt.

47 Sailors Arrive In First Group

Forty seven sailors marched up Sixth street Friday afternoon and two hours later attended their first class in the converted university classroom building, as the first contingent of navy communications trainees to arrive on the campus.

Others will arrive from time to time until capacity of training and housing facilities is reached, but officers cannot make public dates of arrival, since movement of troops in wartime is a military secret.

The men will live in Willis Sweet and Chrisman halls and will hold some of their classes in a new set of classrooms undergoing construction back of Sweet hall.

Everybody Pays

Communique Comment

Japan's sudden thrusts into the Chinese province of Yunnan may be the first part of a pincers movement against the key city of Kunming. The Japanese drive up the Burma Road from Lashio toward Kunming may be followed next week by an offensive from Japanese bases in the northern part of French Indo-China. The enemy push to the westward from Hangchow in Chekiang province seems to be designed to force Chiang Kai-shek to divert forces to eastern China at the moment that the threat to Kunming from the south and west takes form.

Tokio is using all the resources of Oriental diplomacy and constant military pressure to break Free China away from the United Nations. Informed observers in Asia report that the Japanese peace offers to Chungking are more generous in their terms each month. Meanwhile, the Nipponese columns in the extreme northern part of Burma are about to cut the one remaining land route from India to China. Emperor Hirohito's ministers realize the potential strength of China as an Allied bastion in the center of the circle of countries that Nippon has pruned away from the British, Dutch and American empires in the last five months. A Sino-Japanese armistice would deprive the Allies of the only airfields now available for bombing raids on the cities of Japan, and it would free enemy divisions and large stores of war equipment for use by Nippon against Russian Siberia, India, northern Australia or the Aleutian islands.

Australian spokesmen warn once again today that the Battle of the Coral Sea was a preliminary skirmish and could not achieve a decisive result. In spite of the losses suffered in that naval encounter, the Japanese have been able to occupy points in the Louisiade islands, southeast of New Guinea. Possession of these outposts gives to Nipponese bombers springboards within 600 miles of the northeastern coast of Australia and Port Moresby in New Guinea—and within 800 miles of New Caledonia. Fighter planes operating from the Louisiades will be able to protect the expected advance of an enemy naval squadron southward from the Bismarck archipelago toward Australia or Port Moresby or New Caledonia. If the supply routes to Australia are to be kept secure, the warriors of Hirohito must not be allowed to seize island stepping-stones across the southwestern Pacific as they did in the Dutch East Indies last winter.

37 Men Join Army Air Corps; Take Oath at Inspection

Women Work Out Key Exercises

Due to a defect in the camera, many of the movies of this year's Taps and Terps will need to be taken again. It is hoped that dancers will meet promptly all schedules as announced in the calendar.

The methods class in the women's physical education department has been working on a course of key exercises designed to develop physical fitness for the war emergency. Various classes have acted as "guinea pigs" to test the reaction of the series as planned with the view of having a mimeographed copy available both to women on the campus and throughout the state. "Still" pictures are to be taken of some of these exercises on Thursday morning at 11 p.m.

Maybe it's the band and the stirring military music. Perhaps it's the rhythmic click of heels and the "hep hep" of cadet officers. Perhaps it's the colorful setting of 13 red and white stripes and a field of blue waving against an azure sky. Maybe it's the white hats of the Pershing Riflemen bobbing up and down against an emerald MacLean field. Maybe it's something else.

Whatever makes one's heart jump to his mouth and stick there was abundant yesterday during the annual military inspection. It was the same old inspection as last year, but something new was added. Probably the largest crowd in several years saw yesterday's review. Tittering and cracks about crooked lines and un-dressed rifles were at a minimum. The crowd was solemn. It realized this year that this military inspection was no joke and that before long many of the men on MacLean field would be on the battlefield. It was business.

During last year's inspection, the majority of khaki-clad "basics" wondered what was the use of war and preparation for war. They looked with scorn upon the whole world situation and wondered why they should fight England's battle, why they should risk their lives for Standard Oil. This year's inspection seemed different. It reflected a growing feeling of patriotism, emotionalism, and seriousness about the job confronting them. Sure, some of them won't be in the army, but the majority of yesterday's "basics" will be the backbone of the U.S. army in another year. They showed it.

But despite the added "atmosphere" of the inspection—even the color provided by attendance of a body of sailors—something still was lacking. How odd it seemed to hear the order "present arms" and not see rifles whipped into position. It seemed odd to miss the clickety-clack of snapping rifles as the inspecting officer passed squads of "basics." Something was lacking, but something else was added.

We Suspend Animation Over

This is the time of the year when everything runs out—time, news, activities. We have reached our annual period of suspended animation.

Officially school does not end for a couple of weeks yet, but there's the matter of final examinations and graduation exercises. Actually the end is here.

What else is there left? All the pledges have been pledged, the keys hung, and the honors proclaimed. The outstanding have been rewarded, the runners-up consoled.

Socially, we are practically washed up. Houses have been holding spring formals for weeks now, and about all there's left to come is spring. Of course, you can never draw any definite closing dates on pin passing, but we sort of feel that year's peak has been passed.

Scholastically what do we have? Due dates for term papers have come and gone. Nothing is left but cramming and final. If you have studied hard all year and kept up, a final is merely a formality; if you haven't studied for months—well, it's still apt to be a mere formality. Either way, you're just waiting.

Yes, it's that time of the year; everything's run out—time, activity, news. Everything, that is, but the crying, horrible need for words to fill awful, blank white spaces.

Messenger To Give Horse Show Film

The engagement of Erma Koffel, sophomore, to Dale Reynolds, junior, was announced Saturday at the Pi Beta Phi spring formal. Miss Koffel, who is a member of Pi Beta Phi, left school Sunday to accept a secretarial position at Bayview. Future plans of the couple have not been announced.

And Who Is Being Abused? Nurses Raise Question

They're a long-suffering lot, the white-garbed, stiff starched nurses at the infirmary. Taking care of not-too-sick students, running their errands, trying to keep the convalescents in bed, and keeping a professional disposition is often a thankless task.

In a recent Argonaut story was presented the student viewpoint on infirmary life; it seems only fair to give the nurses an opportunity to tell their side of the story.

Visiting hours, it seems, have no meaning for the average student who feels it is his privilege to dash in for a visit with roomie Joe or Jane at any hour of the day or night. And it frequently happens that the trespasser on infirmary hours succeeds with loud talk and guffaws to wake not only everyone else in the room, but the patients in the adjoining rooms, and those on the floors above and below.

"What the hell are you getting me up in the middle of the night for?" is the usual reply to the gentle shaking required to awaken most patients at 6 o'clock each morning. Students seldom realize that the nurse has been up for more than an hour, must start her rounds at the crack of dawn in order to get her work done. It Really Isn't Fun.

NEED 8 WOMEN

The women's archery tournament has been extended for another week according to Mrs. W. H. Boyer, advisor. Eight women are needed for competition and any woman who is interested is urged to sign up with Mrs. Boyer at the Women's gym.

yawning mouths every few hours is another task that most inmates believe to be done solely for the amusement of the nurses.

"Tain't true, though," declare the modern counterparts of Patron Saint Florence Nightengale, "taking temperatures is just one of those things that must be done, and a rather boring job it is."

With breakfast comes another round of complaints. Typical complaint is "This hay isn't fit for a horse to eat; the toast is burned; why don't they give a guy something to eat? what are they trying to do, starve us to death? we're paying board here aren't we?" Most patients don't seem to realize that meals are prepared in the kitchen, and instead of trying to make a profit from the meal charge the menus are prepared on the basis of patients' needs.

Nurses wear holes in their rubber soled shoes running errands and answering buzzer calls for students. Far from unusual is the request; "Nurse, would you please call my roommate at the house and ask her to bring over my manicure set; and say, I wonder if you'd call Joe at the Alpha Beta house and tell him that I won't be able to keep our date tonight?"

Struggle With Stragglers.

During visiting hours the infirmary swarms with students. They haunt the corridors, they flock into the second floor office asking in which room their friends are staying, they wander aimlessly from room to room looking for a chance acquaintance. After visiting hours are over, comes the inevitable job of visiting each room and convincing the stragglers that visiting hours are really over, and that they can come back in a few hours and continue their hand holding. Convincing the dwellers is sometimes an annoying and time-consuming job, declare the staff members.

So maybe the students aren't the objects of sadistic tendencies on the part of the nurses; maybe the inconveniences the patients endure are a necessary part of hospital routine. And while the inmates are free to give loud voice to their complaints, the nurses, well, there is a professional attitude to be maintained, you know.

Anderson Sets Discus Record; Montana Wins Track Meet

Vandal trackmen, their dual meet season completed last Saturday in a 66 9/10 to 64 1/10 loss to Montana at Missoula, began preparations yesterday for the northern division cinder meet at Seattle Saturday. The Idaho thinclads broke even in a season of four dual meets.

The Vandals will hold light workouts this week before leaving for Seattle. Personnel of the travelling squad has not yet been announced but conference rules limit the number of team entrants to 18. Last year the Vandals finished third in the division race.

Anderson Beats Clawson.

Milo Anderson, strong-armed discus thrower, set a new Idaho and new meet record in that event Saturday when he tossed the platter 155 feet 7 7/8 inches to edge Montana's Gene Clawson by three-eighths of an inch. The old record was 152 feet 2 1/4 inches set by Don Johnson, one-man Vandal track squad, in 1938. Johnson's throw won first place in the division meet that year. Anderson's best previous throw was a 150-foot 2 inch toss last season when he lost to Clawson by three inches.

Idaho's LaVern Bell broke the meet shotput record with a throw of 48 feet 7 1/2 inches, only one-half inch under the all-time Idaho record of 48 feet eight inches, also set by Johnson in 1938 when he won first place in the northern division. The old mark for the Idaho-Montana meet was 47 feet 10 1/2 inches set by Bell last year.

Third Straight.

It was the third consecutive year the Grizzlies have defeated the Vandal tracksters. Outcome of the meet was in doubt until the final event when Montana's crack relay team gave them their margin of victory.

Despite cold weather times were generally fast. Dale Clark won the 100-yard dash in 9.9 seconds. Dean Lewis continued undefeated in the high hurdles with a 15.3 effort, and Gene Read won the pole vault with a leap of 12 feet 8 inches. Other Vandal winners were Jack Ragland in the half-mile, Vic Dyrvall in the mile and two mile, Richie Walton and Bob Pace, who tied for first in the high jump.

The summary:
100-yard dash—Won by Clark, Idaho; second, Scott, Montana; third, Kampf, Montana. Time, 9.9.
220-yard dash—Won by Kampf, Montana; second, White, Idaho; third, Rangitsch, Montana. Time, 21.8.
440-yard dash—Won by Kampf, Montana; second, Fairbanks, Montana; third, Scott, Montana. Time, 51.2.
880-yard dash—Won by Ragland, Idaho; second, White, Idaho; third, Thomas, Idaho. Time, 2:06.2.
1 mile run—Won by Dyrvall, Idaho; second, Dwyer, Idaho; third, White, Idaho. Time 4:32.1.

Vandals Prepare For Net Meet

Facing the northern division conference tournament at Pullman next weekend, Idaho tennis players will spend this week preparing for the meet, Elmer Jordan, team captain, said last night. Four Idaho men will compete in the tourney.

Entering teams will be limited to four men each, but the Idaho team has not yet been announced, Jordan said. Pairings for the singles and doubles will be determined at drawings Friday morning in Pullman.

Jordan said that Idaho would go into the meet minus the services of Bud Doane and Sumner Delana, law students, who will be tangled up with finals during the tournament.

Teams representing WSC, Washington, OSC and Oregon will enter the meet, and Montana may send a team.

Canterbury Society To Hold Picnic

Canterbury society will be host to the Pullman chapter at its annual picnic Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The Rev. John R. Bill will accompany the group.

All Episcopalians are invited to meet at the home of the Rev. Mr. Bill at 1 o'clock. Each person attending the picnic is asked to bring 10 cents, a guest, cup, spoon, and their own sandwiches. Salad, pop, and ice cream will be furnished.

Freshmen "Dunk" Sophomores In Annual Tug of War

It was with a three to one advantage that the freshmen dragged the sophomores through Paradise creek last Friday for the first half of their double victory in the annual frosh-sophomore water fight, but the second conquest was a more evenly matched battle.

After pulling their rivals through the muddy water in ten seconds, a new record time, the freshmen slashed their membership until both teams had an equal force. It took a little longer on the second trial, but not more than a minute elapsed before the sophomores again were struggling through the mud and water.

Freshman class president Frank Jacobs took the rap for the triumph, however, for the losers yanked him back across the water on their way to home territory.

Materials Needed For Completion

Lack of sufficient building materials for the completion of the naval and agriculture buildings seemed to be the main reason for their relatively slow progress, according to R. W. Lind, director of buildings and grounds.

The Spokane and Pend Oreille projects and similar defense programs are absorbing the greater part of the available building material, leaving the smaller and somewhat less important programs to be completed with whatever building material they might obtain, Lind said.

Idaho To Forsake Golf Tournament

That Idaho would not send a team to compete in the northern division golf tournament was announced yesterday by Frank James, golf coach. Transportation problems and exigencies of the times were given as reasons for the cancelling of Idaho's entry. No other meets are on the Idaho schedule.

Montana cancelled a meet scheduled for the Idaho course last Saturday.

NYA

Contrary to previous announcements, NYA work will not be suspended before the end of the school year, according to the dean of men's office. It was announced earlier in the year that all NYA work would end May 15.

Students working on NYA jobs should continue their work until June 1 unless otherwise notified by their supervisor or the dean of men's office.

Army Opens Glider Pilot Training

Students who have successfully completed at least the elementary civilian pilot training course are now eligible to volunteer for army glider training, according to a telegram received by Dean J. E. Buchanan of the college of engineering from the director of CPT at Washington, D.C. The army air forces have requested a weekly quota of volunteers, and eligible trainees will be taken from those either already enlisted as army air corps reserves, or from those eligible to enlist as such reserves.

Further detailed information covering specific requirements for this training can be obtained from Dean Buchanan. All volunteers successfully completing army glider training will be appointed

Dean Reveals Plan To Speed Up Engineers' Work

A change in curriculum whereby engineering students achieve senior standing at the end of the current semester may be granted a degree by completing their work during the summer term and one more regular semester was announced Wednesday by Jesse E. Buchanan, dean of college of engineering. Recommendation of the engineering faculty is also a requisite for graduation under the newly announced plan, which would graduate engineering students with a minimum of 139 academic credits instead of the usual 145.

"The difference of not more than six credit hours would be made up by acceptable work experience during the semester following completion of academic work, the graduation requirements of 145 credits thus remains unchanged," explained Dean Buchanan.

Aid Underclassmen.

In all probability some similar formula will be devised to assist present sophomores and freshmen who elect to accelerate their programs by attending summer term, announced Dean Buchanan. Such formulas or special actions will be devised and announced when they present freshmen and sophomore approach graduation.

All students who plan on attending summer term are requested to come to the office of the dean of engineering as soon as possible to fill out application for registration cards so the final plans for course offerings may be made.
