Criticism Must Not Die

Cooperation without reserve is essential to winning the war. Nothing should stand in the way of the fullest co-operation of Americans of all political beliefs toward this great concrete objective.

But once the American people have agreed to work toward this objective, there is no more reason in time of war than in time of peace that their beliefs on matters not directly related to the winning of the war should be uniform.

Nothing is so dangerous to freedom as uniformity of belief. Even though bombs fall on our cities, even though our coast is invaded by enemy troops, a free critical spirit must be protected and diverging opinions on social, political and economic matters must be permitted, or else America won't be a democracy any more.

It is right and natural for youth to be critical. When students in American colleges are willing to accept society as it is with only minor reservations, then it will really be time to worry about the future of the country. For that will mean that the universities have ceased to provide a stimulating intellectual environment, productive of a wide range of opinions.

The existence of extreme or "radical" views among a few students is an encouraging sign because it indicates that many students are thinking about political problems. Absence of such views will mean that the universities have nothing more to contribute toward social progress, for there can be no progress without criticism of things as they are.

As President Sproul himself has said: "Our only hope for the future progress of civilization rests on the individual freedom that is inherent in democracy."—The Daily Californian.

Have You Done War Work?

What about it? Have you been doing your part in this war? Or are you like the campus character who thinks that the whole affair is a personal affront to him; that the army is calling him just to make sure that he doesn't get to finish college, that the Red Cross is an organization that keeps interrupting dates, and that buying war bonds and stamps is a moron's way of spending coke money? Far too many students seem to want to shake the responsibility that confronts their generation.

With few exceptions, this school has been free of draft-dodgers, but have the campus units been able to do their utmost in the other war projects? Of 825 women students registered for Red Cross Work, less than seventy report for volunteer work each week. A great deal of work was necessary to get the university unit up on the campus and now more cooperation on the part of the other 250 women students is needed to merit the effort.

As for war bonds and stamps—what we need of the part of some, are fewer Friday-afternoon clubs and a little more patriotism in giving diners and quarters to Uncle Sam. The work of the Idaho Minute Maids has pioneered the way for similar organizations in other colleges, and they deserve and should have, the full support on their home grounds.

In the words of Dean Barkow, it is our place to make a better world than the world one our fathers handed to us. The first step in that direction is an all-out effort to win the present war, then prepare ourselves to live the future in such a way as to insure a democratic way of life. Are we heading toward building that kind of a future? Let's get in the boat, brother!—M. D.

UTAH ENROLLMENT STEADY. Winter quarter enrollment at the university highly exceeded expectations and the four per cent decrease in registration was one of the lowest in the country, according to a report released by Dr. Ronald B. Thompson, registrar, Wednesday.

"Fall enrollment for the nation was nine and one-half per cent lower than last year, but the university has only a four per cent drop from a year ago."

WOMEN TAKE OVER. The potential revolution which has been walking around Kerckhoff for the last semester has finally blossomed into the real thing. For the first time in the university's long history, a woman has been named editor of the Daily Bruin.

"Following a four hour executive session last night, the Student Executive Council named Jo Rosenfeld editor-in-chief for the spring semester.

"Continuing its tradition-breaking ways, the council also named Betty Carbee the second woman ever to hold the post of managing editor in the paper's history."

Daily California Bruin. "Due to the dim-out regulations, the main reading room of the library must be darkened at the regulation time. The wings of the library will remain as usual and the loan desk will continue to be lighted. Dr. Lamb felt that there would be no inconvenience since the wings will hold all the students remaining in the building at that time. Students are asked to cooperate so that the entire library will not have to be closed."

E.B. SCHOOL ADDS COURSE. Beginning this quarter a new course is being added to the curricula of the University of Washington. Post-war economic problems coupled with a study of current governmental issues will be offered. A study of the mobilization of resources for war is to be combined with discussions on labor relations, war finance, rationing, priorities, and government agencies in wartime.

SMALL COLLEGE LIFESAVER. "Many a small college finds itself cast into the night now that army-navy war manpower joint selection board has picked the schools to carry out the armed services' specialized training program. One promising plan came to Washington from a dean of students in Michigan college. He suggests such schools be used for rehabilitating and re-educating wounded fighters as they return from the front. The idea has gone to Manpower Commissioner McNutt.

Students To Play At Music Club. Students from the music department will be presented at the Moscow Music club on March 16, announced A. A. Beecher, head of the music department. The students appearing at the recital are Billie Byerlee, violinist, accompanied by Marguerite Rentrew; Virginia Eggan, soprano, accompanied by Marjorie Aeschliman, and Jean Gochmour, pianist.

The program will begin with Billie Byerlee playing "Romance" by Wieniawski, "Estrellita" by Ponc-Helfetz, "Hymn to the Sun" by Rimsky-Korsakoff-Franko, and "From the Canebrake" by Gardener.

Virginia Eggan will sing "Night in the Desert" by Ross, "Come Unto These Yellow Sands" by La-Forge, "The Hills of Gruzia" by Gretchanioff, "The Street Organ" and "Girometta," both by Sibella.

The program will be concluded with Jean Gochmour playing "Sonata in E minor" by Grieg and Chopin's "Etude in A flat major."

LAWYERS TO INITIATE. Phi Alpha Delta will have their initiation Monday at the Moscow hotel. Election of officers will follow the initiation. Bud Doane, the present justice, has been called to active military duty and expects to leave this month.

Education Elsewhere. "Education" on Nazi terms has become a major interest of Vidkun Quisling, the Norwegian quisling. Smuggled reports reveal the puppet premier has put the scientific works of Marie Curie and all books by authors of Polish origin on the "verboten volume" list. At the same time, libraries were ordered to display "large pictures" of Vidkun Quisling.

Quisling has a juvenile delinquency problem, too. He's using police to force Norwegian youngsters to attend youth service meetings, fining parents if the kids play hooky.

Curricula are being expanded in occupied Holland. According to Het Nationale Dagblad of Utrecht, one of the first pro-Nazi papers in Holland, the Burgomaster of Harlem has supplemented technical courses — with classes in national socialism.

Radio monitors have picked up a report that Italy's "schools of higher learning" will close for good April 30. All students will be drafted for army duty or farm work.

Credits in Uniform. Educators are studying a plan for giving academic credit to soldiers, WAACs, marines, sailors, et al for education acquired in service. The plan was developed by the American Council on Education in cooperation with the Joint Army and Navy Committee on Welfare and Recreation.

With the same goal in view, Army Air Forces recently wrote college and university presidents asking commitments to give credit for the proposed basic Air Force training program. But work in this program is part of the overall record and measurement program developed by the U. S. Armed Forces Institute, formerly the Army Institute. Since the Institute is part of the Council's plan, the Air Forces agreed to withdraw their request until the broader plan could be acted upon.

The Marines Have a Word. Probably no news story in the history of the war has been re-told more times than the yarn about how union seamen refused to unload a ship at Guadalcanal because it was Sunday.

Soon after the report was published, it was denied by Joe Curran, president of the National Maritime Union, who pointed out none of his union's agreements prohibit Sunday work. Other denials came from Lt. Col. Lewis B. Puller, Marine veteran of Guadalcanal; Maj. Gen. Alexander Vandergrift, commander at Guadalcanal, and Admiral William F. Halsey. Finally a House naval subcommittee probed the charge and found it false.

So far the refutations have had much less effect than the original baseless story. Many still think union seamen refused to unload a vessel at Guadalcanal because it was Sunday.

The Marines themselves have an undignified word for such rumors. It's "scuttlebutt."

Hickman Returns From Sale. Professor C. W. Hickman, head of the animal husbandry department, returned last Saturday from Spokane where he attended the Inland Empire Twenty-eighth Annual Shorthorn Breeders Sale and the Northwest Hereford Breeders Sale, March 4 and 5.

At the sale the university consigned one shorthorn female, judged reserve champion, for $410, and three hereford bulls, one of which also was judged reserve champion and sold for $1000.

Professor Hickman together with Professor M. E. Ensminger of Washington State college judged at the hereford sale, while Dr. W. M. Beeson assisted in judging at the shorthorn sale.

Dr. Beeson's judging class accompanied him to Spokane in order to do some practice judging. Those making the trip included Michael Barclay, Arden Harris, Tad Neilson, James Meyer, Ward Stroschein, and Boyd Whittle.

Women To Compete In Tournament. Annual free-throw tournament for women will be staged next week beginning Monday, March 15. It is always held before and after the regular women's basketball tournament games.

Twenty free shots are required, anyone is eligible, and no practices are required. Twenty-five points will be given in WAA for those in the upper third; 15 for those in the middle third; and 10 for those in the lower third.

COMMUNIQUE COMMENT

Developments in Washington since Admiral Standley's outburst of last Monday show that the U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union did not possess adequate bases for his charge that the Russian official press had given no publicity to the Lend-Lease aid which has been moving from our shores to the U.S.S.R. But the impatient words of the American envoy at Moscow have brought into the open some of the problems involved in achieving improved collaboration between the U.S. and Russia at this time.

As the war goes on, it is becoming apparent that more efficient co-operation between our country and the Soviet Union cannot be obtained automatically by a series of United Nations conferences. Americans tend to forget that the U.S. was using military force against the infant Bolshevik regime in 1918-19 and was unwilling to recognize the Communist government until November 1933. Important elements in our two major political parties, in the U.S. armed services, and in the State Department look with alarm on the prospect of penetration by the Russian armies into Central Europe and the Balkans. These groups would regard with some approval a post-war Anglo-American policy in Europe that would follow the lines laid down by the British Conservatives in the years 1935-38—when Baldwin and Chamberlain acted in concert with the fascist powers in a program designed to unite the Continent against the "Red menace".

In his speech at Ohio Wesleyan university on Monday, Vice President Wallace warned against Anglo-American support being given to fascist and semi-fascist leaders in Europe in an effort to stop the expansion of Communism in that area during and after the war. Such a policy would swing liberal republicans and moderate socialists in the occupied regions to the support of the Communists, out of disillusionment with the democratic protestations of Britain and the U.S. The acceptance by Roosevelt and Churchill of an authoritarian regime in French North Africa seems to have started already a shift to the left in the ranks of the French underground workers—the men who this week are carrying on guerrilla warfare against German troops in the French industrial centers. The best way for Britain and the U.S. to preserve parliamentary government and check communism in Europe is by firm refusal to use as allies military and naval officers and politicians who are known to be anti-democratic.

OTHER EDITORS SAY

No Need To Worry . . .

Women welders, women taxi drivers, and now the prospect of women running the campus next year. Well, why not?

Certainly if anyone considers the record of AWS, there can be no doubt as to the ability of women in executive positions. This organization is one of the most smoothly run at Oregon State.

Last year the first step in this direction was made by the Independents when they nominated an outstanding co-ed for first vice-president of the student body. True, she was defeated, but not so much because she was a woman as the fact that the Greeks staged a victory landslide.

Journalistically, women are already in there this year making up a large part of both the Beaver and Barometer staffs, and the Lamplighter and Fuser's Guide editorial staffs are primarily women.

Sure, the men will be missed if they aren't here next year but they needn't spend the rest of the term in frantic worry fearing Oregon State will degenerate without them. The women of Oregon State are capable and ready to take a greater part in the government of the college.

Allen Michie tells this story: A favorite English joke concerns two Englishmen riding in the compartment of a London-bound train. The first one was engrossed in a newspaper. Shortly he turned to his comrade traveller, and remarked, "I say, we're doing rather well in this war, aren't we?"

"I say, old man," said the other, "You speak very good English for a Russian." —(Coronet)

The 48-hour week may seem like a heavier load to a civilian. To the veteran of Guadalcanal it would be a vacation.

Premeteorological training will be offered by the University of Michigan starting March 1 under direction and sponsorship of the army air forces.

A portrait of Henry Clay, after an original by Samuel F. B. Morse, has been presented to the University of Kentucky by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Co.

4-H Club Helps Red Cross

In helping to meet the need for Red Cross workers, members of the 4-H club rolled bandages last Monday night at their regular business meeting.

According to Betty Lou Kilpatrick, president, aiding in defense work has been the aim of this organization the last year. Letters have been written to men in the service who have attended the university, and money is being set aside to buy a defense bond from the Minute Maids.

Election of officers to fill the positions of vice president and historian will be held at the next meeting. These offices were left vacant after the withdrawal of Lowell Maughan, former president, and Rohaine Oliver, former historian of the organization.

Alpha Zeta Takes Five Neophytes

Five university men were pledged Wednesday evening to Alpha Zeta, national agricultural honorary, announced Melvin Ehlers, president. Those pledged were Arden Harris, Elmo Davis, Glen Hart, Jim Warren, and Tad Neilson.

Informal initiation will take place with the wearing of overalls and the carrying of hoes, rakes, etc., during the coming week. Formal initiation will take place next Thursday, March 18, Ehlers added.

Farmers Request Insect Fighters

A need for men to fight insects in pear orchards of the Pacific Northwest was announced this week by Prof. W. E. Shull, head of the department of entomology.

The fight against insects is being waged under the direction of the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine under the U. S. department of agriculture, Professor Shull said.

Anyone interested in this work may secure further details by contacting the university entomology department.

Ex-Students Meet On Indian Front

Capt. Clayton Campbell, 1940, and Maj. D. E. Bailey, 1933, both members of the Moscow chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon, met for the first time in India recently, according to word received here. Captain Campbell participated in the famous Doolittle raid. Both men were trained by the Pan American School of Navigation but had never met until this time.

It has been estimated that 63,000 telephone calls are necessary in the building of one 10,000-ton cargo ship. And America is sending these vessels down the ways by the hundreds.

We cannot build additional facilities because materials for telephone equipment are going into war weapons. Yet today the men and women of the Bell System are handling more telephone calls than ever before—about 90 million conversations a day. It's an important wartime job. It will continue to be done well.

Guests Receive Dominant Spot On Week's Social Calendar

By JACKIE EVERLY

Guests again rate the spotlight with an unusually large number being entertained at campus living quarters this week. Alpha Tau Omega members were hosts to ten girls at their annual sweetheart dinner last Sunday. They included Helen Foster, Molly McMahon, Ruth Ellen Jackson, Hilary Ann Corrigan, Helen Jean Brink, Eileen Hawley, Mary McCabe, Maxine Mulrone, Kathleen Woodworth, and Marge Cruijkshank. Other guests at this house for the weekend include Mrs. Leslie Hoobing, Mrs. James D. Pence, Mrs. Glenn Garner, and Mrs. George Smith, all of Buhl. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Pence were honored at a party Thursday night.

Other guests this week were reported at the following houses: Miss Peggy Massey, Wallace, at Alpha Chi Omega; Miss Mary Jean Shipman, Twin Falls, at Kappa Gamma; Dick Nelson and Scotty Patterson, rushing guests at the Delta Tau Delta; Floyd Dillon, Moscow, at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Only four exchanges are scheduled for this week. They are between the Delta Delta Delta members and a group of Navy men, Saturday; Kappa Alpha Theta and Idaho club, Wednesday; Pi Beta Phi and Lindley hall, Thursday; Delta Tau Delta and Pi Beta Phi, Wednesday.

Presides will be held at the houses of Delta Chi, Sigma Chi, and Sigma Nu, Friday night; and Alpha Tau Omega and Phi Delta Theta, Saturday.

Two pledges were announced this week by the fraternities: Bob Dalton, of Coeur d'Alene, at the Delta Tau Delta house, and Fred Brown, of Kamiah, Idaho, at the house of Kappa Sigma.

Initiation dances are scheduled at the houses of Alpha Chi Omega and Gamma Phi Beta Saturday night. Special dinners are planned for three groups this week. Hays and Forney halls are both having formal dinners Wednesday evening. Men living at Lindley hall will entertain their friends and the wives of former residents of the hall, Sunday.

Fan Mail Follows Virginia Greif's Sketch in Ripley

A bet made when she was in high school is now bringing Virginia Greif, sophomore in sociology, loads of fan mail. She attended a public school near Uniontown, Wash., for eight years without a classmate. On a dare from her friends, she sent this unusual item to "Believe It Or Not Ripley."

Last week, four years after she had entered the story, Ripley's cartoon featured a short sketch of her life and a drawing (which, incidentally, bore no resemblance to the girl here on the campus.) Since then—in one week—Virginia has received letters from people all over the country. Several persons have written to her thinking that they were long-lost relatives—people with whom she has absolutely no connection; some have written to her seemingly just for the pure joy of striking up an acquaintance. Then there was the 19-year-old boy whose letter carried a love-lorn tone and an appeal for a reply to his letter.

Such is fame!
KAPPAS ELECT OFFICERS
In last week's election of Kappa Kappa Gamma officers, Virginia Newton was elected house president; Gloria Dyer, house manager; Joyce Miller, treasurer. They took office immediately, replacing Mary Fran Marshall, house president; Doris Johnson, house manager, and Virginia Newton, treasurer.

Dr. Montonna was brought to Moscow under the auspices of the American Chemical society.

His subject was "The Action of Light on Cellulose and Its Derivatives" and dealt with the deleterious effects of light upon commercial articles made from cellulose or its derivatives, as exemplified by the tendering of cloth and paper, the discoloration of safety glass, and the disintegration of lacquer films.

Dr. Montonna is a graduate of Syracuse and Yale universities, and has been in the department of chemical engineering of the University of Minnesota since 1924. In 1937 he spent a year in European research centers and was a special lecturer at the University of Birmingham.
