Two Dances Will Climax Annual Junior Week

Junior activities highlight the week-end with two big dances scheduled for Friday and Saturday nights. Friday night the junior prom will be held at the Bucket, and tickets are on sale for $1.65 in all men's houses on the campus. Students may get their programs at the Bucket either Thursday or Friday afternoons between 4:30 and 6 p.m. Receiving line for the prom will begin at 8:45, and corsages will not be worn this year, according to junior committeemen.

Saturday night Junior week closes with the Cabaret dance at the Bucket. Jim Watson will act as master of ceremonies and several numbers have been arranged for the floor show. Tickets for the cabaret are on sale for $1.10 at men's houses, and the programs may be obtained Friday or Saturday afternoon at the Bucket. Earl Grimmett's orchestra will furnish the music for both nights.

Assembly
Lacking on this year's Junior week program will be the annual junior assembly, formerly scheduled for tonight. The assembly was cancelled at a meeting of the junior committeemen Monday night due to a lack of sufficient ticket and loss of the male lead at the last minute.

Last night a mixer was held at the Bucket and later the juniors renadened all of the residences on the campus.

Lattig Announces Examination For Reserves

Dean of Men H. E. Lattig announced yesterday that the navy-marine examination will be given April 20 from 9 to 11 a. m. in Ad 20, and from 2 to 4:15 p. m. in Ad 311. Doors will be closed at 9 p. m. and at 2 p. m. and no one will be admitted thereafter.

All freshmen and sophomores in the marine corps reserve, and sophomores in Navy V-1 are required to take this qualifying examination.

Sophomores in Navy V-1 include: Richard Adams, Ray Bofus, Charles Barnes, William P. Black, Paul Bronken, Claude Dalley, James Dess, Dale Dykman, John Erickson, Jack Fox, Rex Fox, William Freeburg, John Garber, Richard Green, William Harrison, Payne Harryman, Mitchell Hunt, Robert Kjosness, Frederick Leclair, Jacob Malin, John Mallery, Frederick Meech, Marion T. Merrill, James D. Miller, Charles Plashno, Phillip Presnell, James Roper, Harold Ryan, William Seims, Nelson Sept, Frank B. Smith, Thomas J. Smith, William A. Stewart, James Warren and Wayne Wilson.

WEINBERG ENTERS MARINES
Warren Weinberg as been accepted as a 2nd Lieutenant in the marine corps reserve, the military department announced this week. He is an advanced military student and a senior, but will not be called into active service for a short time.

Reporters

All Argonaut reporters meet in the publications office Monday afternoon, at 4:30 p. m. Mr. T. A. Sherman, graduate manager, will speak.

ERC Again Opened To Engineers In Two Classes

Word was received this week at the office of the dean of men that the enlisted reserve corps is now open to sophomores and juniors in approved engineering courses. This includes all classifications of engineering chemistry, physics and psychology.

The University of Idaho has been given a quota of 50 sophomores and 35 juniors. Students in the above classification who wish to enlist in the ERC are to contact the local draft board for instructions.

If the men are not registered with the local draft board, they are to ask for a transfer to this board. The local board will then provide them with application forms and send them to an induction center for enlistment. When enlistment has been completed, they will be returned to the campus to continue their studies until the end of the semester, when they will be called to active duty.

After 13 weeks of primary training, they will be sent to a college training unit. Application forms have been received at the office of the dean of men, and must be filled out and presented to the local draft board before induction can be effected.

Dr. Ford Visits Idaho Campus

Dr. J. L. Ford, dean of the Montana school of journalism, came to the Idaho campus Saturday as a national representative of the World Student Service Fund. He spoke at the Baptist church Sunday morning and to a general assembly of students at the Bucket at 6:30 p. m. Monday morning he talked to the political science, history, and philosophy classes. At a 12 o'clock luncheon in the Bucket, he addressed a group of students and answered their questions. Immediately afterwards he spoke to a journalism class.

During his stay, Dean Ford was a luncheon and dinner guest of several campus residences.

Launching the World Student Service Fund campaign, representatives from each group residence went to each hall and house Tuesday night during dinner for contributions to this fund. Those who wish to give to the fund now should see their group representatives. Kenneth Downing is chairman of the committee.

17 To Run For Executive Board At Elections On Thursday

Week-end Marks Exodus Of Advanced ROTC Men

Junior and senior advanced military men will leave the campus this week-end for Fort Lewis, Wash., to be processed by the army, and then sent back to continue this semester's work at the university. Definite travel orders for the men have not yet been received, according to Lt. Col. W. A. Hale.

When the men return to the campus, they will be under military regulations, and will be housed together, probably at the Campus club or the Idaho club. All will be privates, and will receive the regular pay of $50 a month for army privates.

No statement could be obtained from the military department as to the extent of the restrictions to be placed on the ROTC men, in regard to their activities on the campus.

Senior men will be sent to officer candidate schools at the end of the semester, and juniors will go to some other unit for the army specialized training program, after which they will go into officers' training.

U. Students Win Awards In Contest

University advertising class members under the direction of Prof. Stewart M. McKinnon have won first prize three times, second prize three times and third prize twice in three contests sponsored by the Washington Water Power company that they have entered. The students have collected $28 dollars of the $30 available in prize money.

The contest is a monthly contest, and has now been entered for the fourth time by the University of Idaho.

The principles of advertising class entered two contests and won first prize twice, second prize twice and third prize once. The retail advertising and sales promotion class entered, once and won one first, second and third place prizes.

In the most recent contest Ralph Hughes was first prize winner, Gordon Grannis won second, and Robert Rosenberry won third. In the other two contests first prize winners were Helen Wilson and Lorene Rach. Second prize winners were Lois Johnson and Bob White, and third Dallas Hartwell.

Lattig Announces Plans For V-7

Men in V-7 naval reserve who have federal loans will not have to attend summer school, unless they care to do so, it was announced Tuesday by Dean of Men H. E. Lattig. It is understood that these men will be called to active duty on approximately July 1. This information was received in the dean of men's office from the director of student war loans in Washington, D. C.

Group To Present Concert Before Easter

An Easter concert, to be given by the Vandaleers, will be presented the Tuesday before Easter recess, announced A. A. Beecher, head of the music department. The concert will begin at 8:00 and will be in the university auditorium.

Hall Macklin, at the organ, will play the Processional, "Easter Hymn, Lyna Davidica" (1708), Saughton's "Dreams," "Intermezzo," by Calanto and "Twilight at Fiesale," by Bingham.

The Vandeleers, under the direction of A. A. Beecher, will sing "Easter Music," from Handel's "Messiah," "Christ Went Up Into the Hills," by Richard Hageman, "Crucifixus" from "Mass in B Minor" by Bach, and "Prayer," from "Cavalleria Rusticana" by Mascagni.

Besides Mr. Macklin and the Vandaleers, the university brass sextet, and the university madrigal singers, making their first appearance, will be on the program.

Miss Wirt Attends P.E. Convention

Miss Janette L. Wirt, head of the women's athletics department, is attending the national convention for health, physical education and recreation at Cincinnati, O. She is representing the women's and men's physical education departments. Broader views of what is being done in the war effort in physical education will be discussed at the convention.

Hays Leads Again In Red Cross With 45 Hours

Hays hall again led the list of women's groups reporting at the university unit of the Red Cross last week, with a total number of 45 hours, or almost two hours each for the 24 women reporting.

Pi Beta Phi was second, the 35 women turning in a total of 41 1/2 hours for the week. Dressings completed numbered 2166 during the week, Mrs. Robert Felton, director, said. She added that this is better than it first seems because they have been working with the largest size dressings, the 4"x8".

With the nomination of Barbara Long by the Associated party and Carl Minden by the United party, the race for the ASUI presidency began last night, and will terminate with the ASUI elections to be held next Thursday, April 22.

Miss Long, president of Forney hall, and a junior in physical education, was unanimously elected by members of the Associated Student's caucus, deviating from the established Idaho tradition of a man for president.

Minden is president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, and a junior in chemical engineering.

Completing the slate for the forthcoming election are the Executive board nominees. Marion Franson, Forney hall; Rey Reinhardt, Idaho club; Barbara Ravenscroft, Lindenbaugh hall; Russ Conrad, Lindley hall; Edith Jones, Hays hall; Frances Larsen, Dalda Tau Gamma; Jerry Skiles, LDS; and Bob Blandford, Beta Theta Pi, were selected by the Associated students.

United party candidates are Kathleen Woodworth, Tri-Delt; Billie Keeton, Alpha Phi; Jim Roper, Phi Delta Theta; Tom Collins, Kappa Sigma; Bette French, Alpha Chi Omega; Dee Gray, Delta Tau Delta; Bill Spaeth, Delta Chi; Claire Bracken, Delta Gamma; and Bill Lang, Sigma Nu.

The election committee, directing the printing of the ballots, will consist of Earl Aldrich, John Krier, and Dee Gray.

The election board will be chosen on the basis of the scores of the examination to be given tonight at 7:15 p. m. in room 208 of the Administration building. Information on proportional representation, which the examination will cover, may be obtained at the reference desk at the library.

Dance To Feature Dating Bureau For Service Men

Student Union Activities Board has scheduled the first recreation dance for April 24 at 9:00 in the Student Union ballroom. Card games and ping pong will be featured as well as dancing. All army engineers and navy men who have dates with university women are invited to come.

Personnel cards for the dating bureau are being sent out to the houses and halls. The number of the cards for each house is to be limited, and the cards must be filled out by this Saturday, April 17.

The dating bureau will provide dates for the army engineers, navy, and former ROTC men who are going into uniform. The ASUI office will be open from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m., Sunday, April 19, and from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m., Wednesday April 21. Any men who would like a date for the dance may either come to the office or telephone during those hours.

Standley Leaves For Kansas

Capt. Willfred B. Standley of the military department left yesterday for command and staff instruction school at Fort Leavenworth, Kas. His orders stated that after completing his work at Fort Leavenworth he will be returned to his present position.

Communique Comment

Publication of the details of the Morgenthau and Keynes plans for post-war currency stabilization shows that both the U.S. and Britain are ready to discuss and to undertake limited commitments that will bind them to collaboration with the other United Nations after the conflict. Differences of opinion concerning methods between the head of the American Treasury and the noted adviser to the British Exchequer, should not obscure the fact that London and Washington are in substantial agreement concerning long-range objectives in the field of international economic controls.

Bilateral and multilateral accords between the United Nations in regard to specific economic problems during the war years probably offer more hope for permanent peace after the fighting than the various projects for a second League of Nations or for a world police force to thwart aggression. In the swing back toward isolationism that may follow the present world struggle, the U.S. public might reject any plan for the beginning of world federation as a dangerous limitation on our national sovereignty. But such instruments as the Lend-Lease agreements and the proposed currency compact will tie Uncle Sam to a post-war Good Neighbor policy toward the countries of both hemispheres more effectively than most Americans realize at this time.

Morgenthau's suggestions for currency stabilization should not worry those who fear that post-war co-operation with our present allies will mean the subordination of our national interests to those of Britain or Russia or China. Under the Treasury plan, the U.S. would possess veto power over all decisions of the international board of directors of the stabilization fund—by virtue of the contribution by our government of 40 per cent of the $5,000,000,000 sum required to guard the world's currency systems against depreciation. In fact, fears have been expressed overseas that the Morgenthau scheme amounts to a front for U.S. supervision of the government finances of all nations.

U.S. industrial and agricultural interests would be helped by the adoption of the Morgenthau or Keynes proposals. American factories and farms will need world markets after the war boom is over. By means of stabilized systems of international exchange, the buying power of foreign countries can be kept up in relation to the dollar and overseas sales can be assured for U.S. foodstuffs, raw materials and manufacturers.

JASON

Year after year it becomes trite—this annual harangue on the students' duty to vote. Yet, overlooking the hackneyed character of the theme, there's a punch behind it this spring.

It's not simply a matter of exercising a privilege that on a national scale has been defended and fought for since the 18th century. It is a matter, this time, of scratching a ballot that will represent a new college order. We're voting next Thursday on a new pattern of college life . . . a pattern that is the inevitable result of war-time pressure.

The political significance of this election's outcome will be nil by September . . . campus politics cracked a year ago; they will be practically demolished by June. The governing forces of the student body from here out will not be embroidering the party handiwork—it will, instead, be laying the foundations for all-student policy during and after the war period.

Party background will mean little when the powers that be decide the fate of rally committees, publication problems, student ownership of the bookstore. It is evident that party lines have to go under, whether they wait until the politicians head into the army or whether they go a few months prematurely.

This election in a weakish sort of way is the nucleus for the factors that will combine to set down the campus post-war strategy. The glamour of college is wearing off with each successive out-go of classmates and faculty members, and with each influx of uniformed men. And the revival of that glamour will ooze from what organization can be kept going on a semi-normal basis during the forthcoming year or two.

But before the return to normality can be brought about through the medium of a conscientious student governing body, the campus can prepare itself for its new pattern of life. Football games with their chrysanthemums and their rain; unconcerned, lackadaisical students sauntering across the Ad building lawn in droves with the advent of spring; Christmas Specials with no holds barred: All those traditions have been shoved to the nostalgia shelves, with new customs, new attitudes taking their places.

Everything of the old regime is gone, and the participation of the student body in an election that will symbolize as well as determine the coming 'college order' is a duty as well as an opportunity.

Dinner Guests Highlight Campus Social Events

Approximately 30 guests were entertained by members of Beta Theta Pi at their farewell dinner held Tuesday evening. Mrs. Lenora Scott, housemother of the group was the guest of honor. J. G. Mattmiller of Kellogg was a guest at the Alpha Tau Omega house last Saturday. Mrs. Frank Evans, Sandpoint, and Mrs. Tom Evendrom, Coeur d'Alene, were guests of the members of Gamma Phi Beta last week-end.

Members of Alpha Chi Omega entertained Mr. Stubend Thomas from Portland last week-end. Five guests were entertained at the Kappa Alpha Theta house at different times last week. They included Mrs. W. O. Rosebaugh, Bonners Ferry, Miss Peggy Rosebaugh, Lewiston, Miss Helen Hepworth, Bonners Ferry, and Miss Mary Ellen Ripley and her mother, from Orofino. Mrs. Louise Platt and Lt. Beatrice Ringgold of the WAACs were guests of Kappa Kappa Gamma at dinner last Sunday.

Donald Riley of Montana was the guest of Sigma Alpha Epsilon members last Sunday and Monday. Dean James L. C. Ford of the University of Montana journalism department was a dinner guest last Sunday of the men living at Lindley hall. Women living at Hays hall were hostesses last week-end to Miss Dorothy Robinson from the Lewiston business college.

Kappa Alpha Theta and Lindley hall held the only exchange reported this week on Tuesday evening.

IKs Hold Elections For Officers

IKs elected their new officers last night. Herb Reese was named honorable duke and Dick Colquhoun, junior IK. Usually five junior IKs are chosen but this year only one junior was left. Other officers are Harl Aldrich, royal scribe; Ed Woodruff, historian and treasurer. Thirty members have left since the beginning of the year.

Bill Campbell, present duke, was named national viceroy at a meeting of the national officers in Spokane two weeks ago. He will serve as regional head of the chapters in northern Idaho, Washington, and Montana.

An exchange is being scheduled between the IKs and the Spurs to enable the IKs to choose their "Spur of the moment." She will be announced at the annual Spur dance May 7.

15 Diamondmen Leave On Conference Road Trip

Fifteen Vandal diamondmen left Moscow Tuesday afternoon on the first conference road trip of the season. They opened against Oregon State yesterday and will play the same team again today.

Tomorrow and Saturday they meet Oregon at Eugene in a two-game series and finish the trip with two games against Washington Monday and Tuesday. The team returns to Moscow Wednesday.

Last Game For Four

Saturday's game against Oregon will probably be the last appearance of at least four players in Idaho uniforms. Irv Konopka, Tom Woods, Jerry Pederson, and Matt Lewis are scheduled to enter the army with the ROTC contingent next week. It is doubtful whether they will be allowed to participate in the Washington series.

Those making the trip were Irv Konopka, Jack Newell, Veto Berllus, Tom Woods, Charles Plastico, Rich Gardner, John Evans, John White, Howard Cooper, Leonard Pyne, Ray Davis, Bob Barbour, John Ryan, Matt Lewis, Jerry Pederson, and Manager Pearle Monroe.

Loss To Whitman

In their last pre-conference game Thursday, the Vandals dropped a 4-3 decision to Whitman on MacLean field. A three-run Missionary rally in the fifth inning won the game for them after Idaho had gone ahead 2-1 with a run in the third and one in the fourth.

Netmen, Golfers To Oppose WSC Saturday

Vandal netmen and golfers will oppose Washington State here Saturday in their first taste of competition this year.

Net Coach Babe Brown yesterday named a five-man team to take the courts against the Cougars at 1 p. m. Named on the first five were Don Carlson, Bill Lang, Kent Barber, Dale Reynolds, and either Dave Seeburg or Lawrence Douglas.

Brown is trying to schedule three additional matches to take care of the overflow of the team. The Idaho players for these extra matches will be chosen from among Dave Seeburg, Lawrence Douglas, Lowell Sayre, Frank Takatori and Byron Anderson.

James Prepares Course

Golf Mentor Frank James continued work on the course this week in preparation for the meet with the Cougars. Originally scheduled to be played at Pullman, the meet was transferred here due to the extremely poor condition of the WSC course.

Optimistic over the chances of his charges, James will name a team from among Boyd Walker, Jack Ogsbury, Tom Ryan, Jim Roper, Joe Petillo, Howard Manson, Von Hopkins, and Bob Rosenberg.

The meet will start at 9 a. m., James said.

James was impressed with the number of players on the links this past week.

Pros Draft

Three Vandal football players were among those drafted in the annual National professional football league draft last week.

Veto Berllus, three-year Vandal end, was drafted by the New York Giants, Irv Konopka, three-year veteran tackle, by the Detroit Lions, and Pete Hecomovitch, quarterback, by the Chicago Cardinals.

The three gridgers will not be given a chance to play, however, until the war is over. Berllus is a marine reserve, Konopka enters the army with the R.O.T.C. contingent next week, while Hecomovitch is already in the army.

Should these three wish to play pro ball after the war, they will have to deal with the teams which drafted them.

Hits off: Thompson 7, Newell 3. Balk: Newell. Wild pitches: Thompson 2. Passed balls: Kimmel 2. Winning pitcher: Thompson. Losing pitcher: Newell.

Washington State Cancels Meet

Mike Ryan, Vandal track coach, reported Tuesday that the relay meet scheduled with Washington State had been cancelled by that school.

Ryan originally asked for a postponement because of the poor condition of his charges. However, since WSC had something scheduled for Saturday, they were forced to cancel the meet. Ryan is now working his charges in preparation for the conference dual meet with the Cougars next Saturday.

Ryan reported that the poor condition of the track has held the thinclads back in their workouts. In addition, the team was hurt by the loss of Earl Chandler, Bob
