Minute Maids Sell War Stamps for Special Drive

Over $6,675 worth of war bonds and stamps have been sold on the campus this year, Evelyn Baskett, secretary of the Minute Maids, reported Wednesday.

A highlight of campus participation in the campaign of the United States government to raise a billion dollars, Delta Gamma Maids purchased three $1,000 bonds.

Twelve women will be tapped into the organization this evening, and will assume the duty of Minute Maids next year. Those being tapped will be introduced next week along with old members as they visit around the university. Initiation will be held at 6 at Forney hall.

Brazilian Speaks To Classes On Pan-America

"Latin America has only recently been discovered by the United States, and since most Americans have only a legendary knowledge of their sister republics, Pan-Americanism is a comparatively new field," Dr. Travares DeSe said in one of his several lectures to Idaho students this week.

"However," Dr. Travares continued, "since I have traveled through the United States and met the young men and women in American colleges and universities, I feel sure that future Pan-American relations could be in no better hands than theirs."

In other of his lectures, Dr. Travares discussed the Brazilian system of education, the political functioning of the government, and the South American attitude toward the war. Many of his topics were introduced by the questions asked by students in the audience, since Dr. Travares left a part of each lecture period open for discussion.

Dr. Travares, who received his degree as a doctor of medicine at Lavain, Belgium, is an instructor in the school of medicine at the University of Sao Paulo, Brazil, and a member of the Faculty of Philosophy at Sao Bento, Brazil. He is visiting the United States through a fellowship from the Institute of International Education, and was presented to Idaho students in connection with the public events program of the University of Idaho.

Communique Comment

By the Russo-Polish rupture, Britain and the U.S. have been warned that they can continue to refuse to work out a comprehensive policy for the post-war arrangement of eastern Europe only at the risk of ominous divisions in the anti-Axis coalition. This week's development will serve the Allied cause to advantage if it leads to careful study by Churchill and Roosevelt of the bases for support that such governments-in-exile as Poland's now hold in their home countries.

Molotov's sudden move on Monday may be part of an effort by the Soviet Union to force Britain and the U.S. to come out with an explicit declaration of their views in regard to the future of Poland and the Baltic and Danubian states. The Kremlin suspects that important elements in the British Foreign Office and in the U.S. State Department are obstructing the formation of a definite Anglo-American plan for the post-war status of Russia's western neighbors while working behind the scenes for the establishment after the conflict of a string of anti-Communist buffer states between the U.S.S.R. and central Europe. In such a "cordon sanitaire", the key position would be occupied by a conservative Poland under the control of the wealthy landowners and army officers who supported dictatorial rule at Warsaw from 1926 to the national collapse of 1939.

Churchill and Roosevelt are making strenuous efforts to heal the Russo-Polish schism without taking the side either of the Poles or the Russians. For the past eight months, Britain and the U.S. have been trying without success to narrow the widening rift between Moscow and the Sikorski regime at London. London and Washington fear that the Russo-Polish quarrel will have repercussions in the Baltic and in the Balkans that will work to Hitler's advantage. In addition, the split in the Allied ranks casts a shadow over hopes for the success of next month's United Nations food conference in Virginia.

One reason for the failure of Britain and the U.S. to bring Russia and Poland closely together seems to be divergence of opinion within both governments of the Anglo-American team. Prominent British and American diplomats of the old school want to save the Continent from communist revolution by backing semi-fascist leaders in Poland, France and elsewhere. They find themselves opposed by experts who have noticed the rising tide of pro-Russian sentiment among the peasant masses of central and eastern Europe and who do not wish to take moves that would increase Soviet distrust of the two great democracies at a time when Hitler is extending peace feelers to Moscow through Tokio.

JASON

There'll be happy surprises, and tears, and bitterness. There'll be joyous telegrams and sorrowful letters home. It will be the same old story at the May fete tapping next week—some are taken and some are left out.

A year of inspection is over and a quota has passed the scrutiny; others haven't. As Mortar Board, Cardinal Key, Spurs, even the remnants of the once all important Silver Lance, drew their heads into the sacred circle during the past month and cast their vote, the aspirations of all the Activities were boosted or squelched, and that's the end of it.

It happens every year, and every year there's criticism hailing the outcome. All the thrill that goes with the pledge ribbons has to be offset by those disappointed hopefuls that set their goals high and watched them fall. There's no remedy, from the point of view of the Honorary System . . . it's the old test of being good enough, plus the sway of personal prejudices and long-standing friendship.

Some Unaffected
On the other hand, there'll always be those composed few that are unaffected by any turn of events—they go home light-hearted whether or not the surveying elite stopped to pick them out or not. Those are the lucky ones; those are the ones that emerge from college without a warped idea of their own importance or inferiority. But unfortunately that class is in a minority; they don't all react in the ideal fashion—another afternoon of watching the elation and the depression that pervades every May Day festival will bear that out.

The whole thing is a reflection of the misguided condition that has arisen whereby the emphasis of a woman's (or man's) worth has come to be placed on the organization uniform she wears one day a week. And worse yet, the emphasis for the tapping has come to be placed solely on the number of activity points the prospective member sports behind her name. Frosh from the immemorial have

AWS Names Head Of May Tea

At a meeting of the AWS council last night, Arlene Deobald Watts was named chairman of the May Fete tea to be given May 8 at Hays hall.

Shown up at the initial turnouts for the Big Three—Gem, WAA, Argonaut. Then if they showed up occasionally for the next eight months and pushed themselves ahead consistently, they were In Line for the next three years. There's been that temptation of falling in trail with the self-seeking publicity hounds, stepping over the back-shop drone work, and in the final roll-call to be eager for admittance to the Honorary ranks.

Until this motive of working towards the end of making Spurs or Cardinal Key or Mortar Board or Silver Lance can be eliminated from the activity set-up, the entire purpose of that set-up will continue to be defeated. The honor of the tapping is won only if it is earned.

Dressing Output Falls Low; Director Pleads For Aid

The university Red Cross rooms were practically deserted this week, and the total output dropped lower than for any other week since the first, when only about 600 dressings were made.

The new quota, due April 30, will be 2400 4"x8" dressings, Director Mrs. Felton said. She stated that "due to a lack of workers for the past two weeks, and with spring vacation, it will take the efforts of everyone to complete these dressings. As yet the university unit has not failed to fill its quota.

"At present our plans for closing the unit are incomplete due to this material on hand. As soon as we have finished this quota, we will close if the girls so wish."

Twelve Spurs, who turned out Monday night, set a new record. They completed 118 dressings in one hour, with not a single dressing having to be remade.

The work room will be closed during spring vacation and on each Wednesday afternoon.

Infirmary To Give Annual Tick Shots

Dr. Harold D. Cramer reports that the infirmary is prepared to give injections for immunization from Rocky Mountain fever again this year. The fever, if contracted, proves fatal to one out of every three cases, demonstrating the necessity for prevention.

'Mural Sports Program To Be Cancelled

Greene Says Action Due To War Conditions

Athletic Director George Greene announced Tuesday that the intramural sports program will probably be cancelled for the remainder of the school year. War conditions were given as the main reasons for the probable action.

"Due to the fact that many of the group houses are broken up because of the war situation, and because many of the intramural officials have been taken by the armed forces, we will probably be forced to discontinue the program," Greene said in a statement to the Argonaut yesterday.

"The army and navy contingents on the campus have taken over many of our fields for drill purposes," he went on to say, "and make it impossible for us to find the place to hold the contests."

Perhaps the strongest non-war-time reason was the lack of interest among the students, and even this may be attributed in part to the war, Greene said.

Managers to Meet

Alpha Phi Chi, intramural managers organization, will meet Tuesday to vote on the matter, Greene said. It will also decide whether or not to crown an intramural champion based on the sports already finished, he said.

Thinclads Bow To WSC By 89-42

Weakened by the loss of three key men, Idaho's thinclads fell before a strong Washington State aggregation Saturday by a score of 89-42.

Earl Chandler, weight man, Bob Vonderhaar, pole vaulter and Bill Zahora, hurdler, were absent from the team with the ROTC group being processed at Fort Lewis. Chapman High Scorer

LaMarr Chapman was high scorer for the Vandals in addition to being the only double winner for the team. He scored nine points in winning the mile run and tying the first in the two-mile grind with teammate Ward Stroehein.

The thinclads won five of the 15 events on the program and tied for a sixth first. John Thomas was the half-mile run, Dean Larsen won the high hurdles, and Bill Moutat was victorious in the javelin throw, in addition to Chapman's two victories. Ward Gano tied two WSC men for first in the high jump with a leap of 5 feet 7 inches.

Baseballers Drop Two To WSC, 9-3 and 13-5

NORTHERN DIVISION

	Won	Lost	Pct
Oregon	7	1	.875
Oregon State....	6	2	.750
Washington	4	3	.556
W. S. C.	2	6	.250
Idaho	0	8	.000

The Vandal baseball nine moved deeper into the cellar this week with two losses to Washington State.

The first game, played in Moscow, ended in a 9-3 victory for the Cougars. The game was decided in the first two innings, largely on Idaho errors. Six Cougar runs crossed the plate in these two stanzas to clinch the game.

Idaho's strongest bid came in the second when a homer by Ray Davis started a two run rally. However, when John Ryan was caught off third, the rally died.

Tuesday's contest was a field day for the Cougar batters, as two Idaho pitchers gave up 16 hits in losing 13-5.

Idaho clustered its five runs in the sixth on three walks, three singles, and an infield error.

Cal Schools Draw Grid Schedule

George Greene, Idaho's athletic director, yesterday expressed surprise at Tuesday's "premature" drawing of a tentative southern division football schedule by the California PCC schools.

Greene indicated that, although the move was long expected, it was surprising that the northern division members of the conference were not notified.

The tentative schedule, calling for home and home games next fall between the four California members of the conference, will be submitted to the June 14 meeting of the conference. It is proposed that the northern division members draw up a similar schedule, and that the winner of the northern division crown meet the southern winner in a post-season game.

The winner of the post-season game would be crowned conference champion. The move was adopted to save traveling.

Net Team Breaks Losing Streak, Defeats OSC 5-2

Vandal netmen won their first victory in two years last Friday when they defeated Oregon State 5-2. Idaho won three of the single and swept the doubles matches.

The netmen were playing without the services of the three top-seeded men of the squad. Don Carlson and Dale Reynolds, No. 1 and 2 respectively, were at Fort Lewis with the ROTC contingent, while Kent Barber, No. 3 man, was out with a sprained ankle.

The OSC squad was also handicapped in that their first string was prevented from making the trip to Moscow.

Lang, Douglass, and Sayre were winners for Idaho in the singles, with Lang and Seaberg doubling up to win the first doubles match and Douglass and Sayre winning the second.
