Students May Get Time Schedules for Summer Term

Time schedules are available at the registrar's office now for the 12-week summer term and the regular summer school. Admission requirements for high school graduates who enroll in the summer are the same as for those who begin in September. Graduate students enrolling this summer may attend either the six-week summer school or the 12-week summer term. The first six weeks are primarily for graduate students but there will also be courses for undergraduate students.

Several of the regular dormitories will be in operation during the summer with the university dining board at cost. The price board will be determined by current food prices this summer. The university library and infirmary will be open throughout the summer.

Lattig Announces War Loans are Available

Student war loans will be available for those attending the summer term, and possibly next year, was learned this week from letters received by Dean of Men E. Lattig from the federal security agency.

By amendment to the regulations, authority to permit use of funds from current appropriations to meet the expenses of tuition and maintenance ($25 a month) has been allowed. The student must attend a summer session beginning prior to July 1, 1943. Loans must be advanced on or before June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

Any Idaho students interested in taking advantage of the student loan fund should contact the dean of men.

In regard to the possibility of war loans for the academic year 1943-44, the letter to Dean Lattig read:

"As negotiations have progressed on the subject of appropriations for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1943, it has become evident that there is an unexpected amount of interest in the congress in reappropriating the unexpended balance of the 1942-43 appropriation for the student war loan. It now appears likely that this program will be continued on its present basis for the coming fiscal year, but limited to those borrowers who entered the program during the current fiscal year.

There has been no official action or statement making this program definite for next year.

WSC Mascot Visits Idaho

Butch, WSC mascot, mysteriously appeared on the lawn of the Beta house Sunday morning. He was moved out of the sun onto the porch of the fraternity house and was visited throughout the day by many curious Idaho students.

Sigma Nu-Fiji May House Independent Women

Arrangements are being made for university use of the Sigma Nu and Phi Gamma Delta houses as women's dormitory residences next year, President Dale announced yesterday. These two houses, Ridenbaugh hall, and the Beta Theta Pi house which has already been converted into Forney hall, will comprise the non-sorority women's living arrangements for the coming year.

In addition to Forney hall which has been occupied by the army for the last few weeks, Hays hall will be taken over immediately after graduation by the Star unit, composed of approximately 400 soldiers at present.

This will vacate the Campus club and Lindley hall which, besides the Idaho club, will be used exclusively for civilian men students' living places next year.

Eating arrangements are still uncertain for the women's dormitory groups, although there is a possibility that a University Commons will be constructed where all residents of the three fraternity house-women's halls will eat. It is likewise possible that another house will be taken over to provide eating facilities.

Montanans Visit Idaho Campus

Marjorie Harrison, AWS president at the University of Montana, and Pat McHale, Panhellenic representative from that university, visited the University of Idaho campus Tuesday, with their dean of women, Dean Mary Ferguson. They were on an inspection tour of the University of Idaho and Washington State college campuses, and returned to Missoula on Wednesday.

Artists Will Show Annual Exhibit Of Students Work

The department of art and architecture will present its usual commencement exhibit of student drawings, designs, and paintings this year May 29 and 30, reports T. J. Prichard, department head.

Architectural designs and models by upperclassmen will be featured. For the first time during a commencement season a traveling art show will be available, this feature being sponsored jointly with the American Association of University Women. This exhibit of silk screen prints, a medium fast becoming a distinguished technique in the art world, will present the work of some of America's most accomplished artists.

Edgar Lukens, a junior in architecture, will show a model and drawings for a proposed women's building for the University of Idaho. This is a student problem in which a theoretical program has been integrated with actual campus work. (Cont. on page 2, col. 2)

GEMS

Gems will be ready for distribution in the Bucket Saturday morning at 9 a.m., Don Carlson, editor, announced last night.

The first shipment of the 1943 yearbook is already on its way, with additional shipments coming. Unless held up unexpectedly en route, they will be here Saturday, and may be obtained throughout the coming week.

Receipts are unnecessary for obtaining the books, Carlson stated, although to avoid question of payment it is advisable to bring them along.

Combined commencement exercises for the University of Idaho and for the University Naval Training school will be held Monday, May 31, in the Memorial gymnasium. The academic procession will begin from the Administration building at 9:45 a. m., and the commencement address will be delivered by Harrison C. Dale, president of the university, in the gym at 10 a. m.

Saturday, May 29, is alumni day, and there will be an alumni luncheon at 12 a. m. at Hotel Moscow. At 8:15 that evening there will be a repeat performance of the ASUI play "Ring Around Elizabeth," in the university auditorium for the graduating students and their parents and friends.

Baccalaureate exercises will be held Sunday, May 30, at 10:45 in Memorial gymnasium. Rev. Frank Warren, president of Whitworth college will deliver the baccalaureate sermon. At 12:15 p. m. a luncheon for the board of regents will be held at Hays hall, and at 2 p. m. there will be an informal reception for the class of graduates and their parents, also at Hays hall.

Saturday and Sunday afternoons from 2 to 5 p. m. there will be a flower show in the botany department of Science hall, an art exhibit in the Art building, a library exhibit in the first floor library in the Administration building, and open house at Kirtley engineering building and the Dairy science building.

Group To Present A.S.U.I. Play Saturday Night

Reproduction of "Ring Around Elizabeth," A.S.U.I. play first presented April 9 and 10, will be given this Saturday at 8:00 in the auditorium. The play will be presented free of charge as entertainment for parents and visitors here on the campus for the Commencement exercises. Students are also invited to attend.

The cast, directed by Miss Jean Collette, includes: Meredyth Bowler in the title role; Dick Ryan as Ralph; Drexel Brown as Laurette, the elderly grandmother; and Jim Watson as the father-in-law. Virginia Barrows portrays the managing cook; Elaine Anderson, the child prodigy; and Joanne Hunter, the love-struck daughter.

The part of the young adventurer is played by J. T. Peterson. Mary Kay Drumheller is the visiting friend, Jackie Morefield, the town gossip, and Ben Schmidt, the policeman. A change from the former production, is the part of the Doctor, which will be played by Kenneth Lemon.

Acting in charge of the various production crews are: Beverly Bistline, Ellen Cox, Marie Chaney, Marjorie Mock, Jean Beadles, Barbara Jo Smith, and Bob Leeper.

Communique Comment

Conclusion of the Churchill-Roosevelt talks leaves millions of Americans confidently expecting large-scale Allied military action against Japan in 1943. In his address to Congress and in his frank discourse at Tuesday's White House press conference, Churchill made it clear that the Far Eastern theatre of war received something more than cursory attention in the recent Anglo-American parleys.

The position of Free China as an ally of Britain and the U.S. is becoming more insecure each month. If the Allies do not invade Burma in force when the monsoon rains end in the fall, the "appeasement" wing of the Chungking government may force Chiang Kai-shek to conclude an armistice with Japan. The Chinese showed interest in Churchill's words to the U.S. Congress about the necessity for offensive Anglo-American action in the Orient, but they want something more concrete than oratory. Substantial aid to China can come only by the reconquest of Burma and the reopening of the Burma Road.

British reverses in western Burma this spring testify to the strength of Nippon's grip on the territory east of India; a sizable Allied expeditionary force with adequate naval and air support will be necessary for any such push into Burma that would have a chance of success. Naval and air support of the required dimensions will not be available for such a drive until the U-boats have been whipped in the Atlantic and until our side has won complete control of the Mediterranean. Shipping is the No. 1 problem in any Anglo-American attempt to retake Burma; the United Nations do not yet possess enough merchant tonnage to undertake major offensives in the European and Asiatic zones at the same time.

Allied observers report that the fighting spirit of the Indian troops in the British army in India has been affected adversely by the political deadlock in their homeland. The Chinese feel that Churchill should make concessions at this time to the Indian party leaders, in order to remedy this situation. Chungking realizes that the bulk of any Allied army that invades Burma will be Indian rather than British or American. A large part of the British army in India cannot be concentrated on the Burmese frontier because it must guard against anti-British uprisings inside India. To Chinese liberals, the Anglo-American team seems to be fighting two wars in the Orient—one against Asiatic nationalism and one against Japanese imperialism.

JASON

What lies ahead for the university next year? We've seen the changes and problems that have come with the past nine months, and the future looms up even more mistily and confused.

There's a summer's vacation between now and the time this institution and its ASUI begins rolling again, and there's plenty to be done, or at least to be thought out. Next year is going to call for better organization, better planning, than was available this school term when sudden and unannounced changes revolutionized student activities overnight.

That means that arrangements must be made for meeting the increased difficulties of keeping college as usual when the enrollment is cut to a minimum, when all the men who have been trained to run student affairs are off to the army. It means that pinch-hitting must be developed to a fine art and that cooperation will either come through or the tradition won't.

Unless this is accomplished there will be a mass of inactive organizations, no dances or athletic programs or Gems or Argonauts. The plans must be laid this next year for the type of student body activity that will emerge after this war is over... the type of school the University of Idaho will be. If it's going to be second-rate on the way it meets its war-time problems then it will be second-rate after the war. It's been so easy this year to fall into that mood of let next year's kids worry about it all—and the apathy circulating over the campus bears witness to it.

So there is a big job ahead for campus leaders.

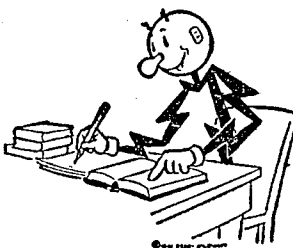

HISTORY

In closing up this year's Argonaut files and in pouring out a last editorial, it's nice now to lean back and look this past year over. It has been, perhaps, as dynamic a term as any student body has ever studied through, and it will make good history.

It will mark the end to Homecoming games where the governor tosses the coin for the kickoff; of politics laced into party lines; of senior balls with all the old traditional "weeks."

At the same time the last year records a list of praise-worthy projects: there was the origination of the Minute Maids which cut a good swathe through student war projects; the surgical dressing units where the faithfuls and the conscientious held out; the women's military unit.

The year marks, too, the advent of the army engineers, changes in the Bucket and the Nest, a high point in political excitement, even a dating bureau with the army and navy.

Today, more than ever before, we must preserve good eyesight. Let us help you be wise:

Honorary Elects Miss Marshall

At the initial meeting of the 1943-44 Cardinal Key group Monday new officers were selected. Florence Marshall will serve as president, Helen Jones as vice president, Bette French, treasurer, and Merrie Lu Kloefer, secretary.

Initiation for the new members was held last week at the Delta Delta house, followed by a banquet at the Nobby cafe.

COUNCIL ELECTS OFFICERS

Recently elected Independent Council officers are Edith Jones, president; Bruce Jepsen, vice president; Ellen Shear, secretary; and Frances Freeman, treasurer.

This year has also seen five editors for the Idaho Argonaut, and as the surviving two finish up the dummy for the last edition there's a word of commendation due a few directions: the students who swallowed a weekly tabloid and discounted the cut to the war, the reporters and the copy desk writers who stayed around to do the dirty work, the Idahoian crew that bore with mistakes and late stories, the foresters who diligently brought copy that somehow always seemed to miss the final printing, and Mr. Bragdon with his unfailing column.

This year is over; the future is uncertain. Paper and labor shortages curtail optimistic predictions, but as long as there is will and drive coming from the student body in favor of a news sheet there promises to be one.

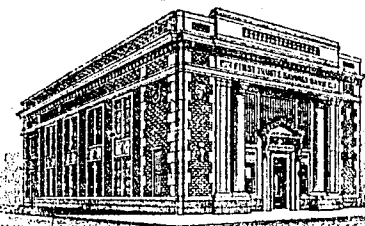

Musicians Honor Senior SAI's

A farewell musicale in honor Sigma Alpha Iota seniors was held last week at the home of Mrs. F. L. Kennard, patroness of SAI. After the musicale a "farewell seniors" service was held and awards were presented. Olive Holmes received a certificate of the senior having the highest scholastic average, and Marvel Housh received the "Mirian Kennard ring," presented each year to the most outstanding SAI member.

On the program were Jo Ann Tretner Leonard and Billie Byerlee, who played a Bach double concerto for violins, accompanied by Jean Armour; Jean Bonneville pianist; Eloise Deobald and Evelyn Thomas, who played a clarinet duet, accompanied by Jean Gochour; and Doris Adams, pianist.

Soldier Gives Impressions Of Moscow Campus

(Editor's note: This story was written by Pfc. Ralf E. Koehn of the S. T. A. R. unit especially for the Argonaut. Before submission to the Argonaut, the article received the okay of the military staff in charge.)

One day not so long ago a few Army and Navy personnel started filtering into Moscow—the vanguard of many who were to follow. Away out here beyond these hills of Idaho, a town was going to see a lot of uniformed men.

Now, Moscow isn't such a large town and—although it has sent many of her own sons into the service—would probably never have seen so many service men all at once if it hadn't been for the University of Idaho. And if so many other small and large towns all over the country had not sent multitudes of their own sons out to win "The War," maybe the thousands who are to pass through Moscow via the U. of I. would never have seen this hill-surrounded college town.

Since the main industry of Moscow is this factory up on the hill which produces learned minds and healthy bodies from America's most valuable natural resource—American youth—the stockholders are quite interested in this influx of uniformed raw materials with dialects. And the service men are interested in Moscow. Since you all know the attitude of Moscow toward us, let's attempt to show the serviceman's impression of you people and your town.

"Frankly, I had heard of the U. of I. before coming here," admits Pvt. David Firestone of S. T. A. R. Unit 3902, Lindley hall. "I seem to recall a famous football team they had here about three years ago—it went scoreless all season long." Firestone is from Missouri.

Hardly any of the other temporarily stationed group of soldiers had heard of the U. of I., less had heard of Moscow and probably one or two weren't even sure where Idaho was. So it was interesting for us to see what our new environment was like. Most of us have just spent a week-end in your town—dancing with your young ladies, eating at your restaurants, attending your churches, crowding your theatres, playing ball on your campus, cavorting at your U. S. O., bicycling over your town, buying out your stores, over-working your cleaners and pressers and patrolling the town to see that no over-anxious boys got filled with spirit. We've brought back our own impressions and talked them over and here is a composite of them for posterity, and for you to file away in the Argonaut annals.

THE TOWN. There is some discussion on this subject. Some say it is one of the largest small towns they have ever seen. Others agree that it is the smallest large town. Others just laugh and say, "What town?" All agree that it is a typical town—although they can't think of what it is typical. It is a clean town, more or less, isn't it!

THE COLLEGE. We have a disagreement here, too. Some say it's a large, or a small, or a new, or an old, or a narrow- or broad-

Miss Gano To Wed Veto Berllus Friday Evening

Miss Mary Gano will become the bride of Veto (Vic) Berllus this evening at 8 p. m. at St. Mary's Catholic church. Father Earl A. Stokoe will perform the ceremony.

Both the bride and bridegroom will graduate from the university this week-end. Berllus has been a football and baseball player for Idaho for four years.

Marjory Cruickshank, sorority sister of the bride, will be maid of honor, and Irvin Konopka will be best man. Ushers are John White, Jay Gano and Bob Desaulniers.

Mrs. Jo Anne Tretner Leonard will sing, and Jean Armour will play the organ and accompany Mrs. Leonard. Both are sorority sisters of the bride. A reception will be held at the bride's home in Moscow immediately following the ceremony.

Berllus is in the marine corps reserve, and will leave for active duty sometime this summer. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. The bride is affiliated with Delta Gamma sorority.

Teachers Will Hold Home Ec Meet

The Home Economics Teachers' conference, usually held at Sun Valley, will be held this year at the university on June 14 through June 26.

Home economics teachers from all the state will meet here and participate in a planned work shop. Emphasis will be given to the various war time problems affecting the home.

minded college. We're all wrong here—it's a University. The students seem like a fine lot; they are friendly, but dubious. They don't trust us at times, we believe. Why is this? Discuss.

THE PEOPLE. The people of Moscow are also typical. They are men and women with children. They are quiet, clean, church-going, farm-type civilians. All soldiers like all clean people; mostly because soldiers are fundamentally people themselves and have a vague idea that they are going to fight to keep you and all other people clean and free and free to keep clean and free. Or, to coin a phrase, "This is worth fighting for."

THE NAVY. They're people, too.

THE R. O. T. C. Heh! Just wait until they get the uniforms without the blue lapels. Heh!

THE ARMY. A fine bunch of boys. This is one point on which all agree.

There, we've covered everything and haven't disclosed one military secret. So we'll sum up our whole opinion of the vicinity of Moscow in one terse sentence by simply saying, "We like it here; don't you?"

Foresters Climax Activities With Barbecue

The Idaho Foresters closed their year of many activities May 15 with their annual barbecue. A cold wind and intermittent showers failed to keep the hardy foresters from carrying out their usual events of chopping, sawing, pacing, loggers' race, sack race, pole climbing and eating contests.

Each year a new Kelly axe is presented to the man making the greatest number of points for the day's activities. This year big Roger Guernsey repeated last year's performance by amassing 12 points for first place. However, the Kelly axe will be presented to the second place winner, Bob Stillinger, with 9½ points, since it has been a tradition that the axe will not be presented to the same man twice. Third and fourth place winners were Jerry O'Connor and Dave Seaburg.

Monday afternoon, May 24, a party was held in honor of the seniors in the school of forestry in the forestry library. The following men were honored: Vernon Burlison, Richard Campana, Marshall Spencer, Bob Stillinger, Harold Thomson, Jerry O'Connor, Frank Dillon, Roger Guernsey, Vernon Ravenscroft, George Engler, Ed Zielinski, Warren Randall, James Girard and Nels Petermann. The two forestry school stenographers, Mrs. Jean McNaughton and Miss Edith Jones, poured.

Cougar Startles Women; Found On Beta Porch

Have you ever at 5:15 on Sunday morning been awakened by the incessant ringing of telephones? Well, I have. Of course, no one wanted me at that hour of the morning, but some other person who resided in the same house. Being a kind-hearted soul, in a sense, I started for the sleeping porch where my victim lay in deep slumber.

On the way to the steps leading upstairs, I happened to glance out of the Beta house window as I heard a snarl of some sort. There on the porch to my amazement stood a huge cage covered with blankets. I went closer to the window and observed the contents of the cage. It appeared to be some form of cat, but as I was fresh out of bed, I rubbed my eyes to make sure that it was really what I saw or if my eyes were deceiving me.

Roommate Called

Being a rather timid soul, I dashed madly to the sleeping porch and tore my roommate from her bed, and incidentally, got the gal for whom the phone call was intended. My roommate said I was bluffing and that I had just seen a yellow cat, due to a hard night before. I insisted that she take a look at the porch. She did, and she saw the same thing I did.

In front of the cage, we found signs telling us part of the story of the beast's arrival. We finally came to the conclusion that the animal was WSC's mascot a little out of place.

After making such a find, it was an impossibility to contain our emotions so the rest of the house was awakened from slumber to view the scene.

Before long the whole campus, including soldiers and sailors without the marines, swarmed on the Beta lawn to take in the scene.

The press even came.

Feeding the cougar was quite a task, but the Phi Deltas managed it beautifully after finding out that the beast liked his meat well done.

The fun ended at about 4 Sunday afternoon when WSC came to take their mascot home. Since that time, the keepers have been on the trail of the culprits who played the prank. Do you know who did it? Probably not, but you wouldn't tell if you did.

Cindermen Place Fifth In Conference Meet

Thomas, Chapman Mile King Win Events

Led by John Thomas and LaMar Chapman, Idaho's two three-year lettermen, Vandal thinclads scored 15 1/3 points to place fifth in the northern division track and field meet last Saturday.

Washington retained its division crown with a total of 54 1/3 points, a 22 1/3-point margin over the second place Oregon State Beavers who scored 32. Oregon placed third with 31 points, Washington State fourth with 30 1/3, and Montana sixth with 1 point.

Thomas Wins Mile

Thomas upset the predictions of most experts by winning the mile run in his first competitive race at that distance. In winning, he ran the distance in 4:31.3 and finished 15 yards ahead of his nearest rival.

It was the third time in four years that a Vandal has won the mile crown. Phil Leibowitz won the title in 1940 and 1941.

Chapman 2-Mile Winner

Chapman, a veteran Vandal distance and cross-country ace, easily outdistanced the cream of the northern division 2-milers to win his specialty in the time of 10:05.5. It was the third Vandal victory in the distance in as many years, Vic Dyrge having won the crown last year and in 1941.

The Idaho mile relay team of Bill Fallis, Mike Dalley, Dick Green and Tom Smith took third place in the event won by a team from the champion Washington Huskies. Bob Hayworth placed fourth in the 880-yard run, Ward Strochein fourth in the 2-mile run, Dick Favaro fourth in the low hurdles, and Ward Gano tied for fourth in the high jump.

Sigma Nu Annexes Softball Championship

Sigma Nu defeated the Idaho club softballers last week 14-7, to annex the university intramural softball crown. It was the first loss for the clubmen in five games and the fourth win for the Greeks in as many games.

Sigma Nu diamondmen pounded the pitching of the clubmen in every inning to win easily, while Dale Dykeman, fraternity pitcher, held the foes under control most of the game. The clubmen had previously won the League I title and the champions had reached the playoffs by winning the League II crown.

Playoff Games

In other playoff games held the same night, Lindley hall defeated the Tekes to garner third place in the final standings, Kappa Sigma beat LDS for fifth, the Fijis won seventh place by a forfeit from Sigma Chi.

The final standings released by John Thomas, student director of intramurals, showed the following placings: Sigma Nu, Idaho club, Lindley hall, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Kappa Sigma, LDS, Phi Gamma Delta, Sigma Chi, Alpha Tau Omega, and Delta Chi.

The playoff contests marked the end of the intramural program for the year, John Thomas said.

Chapman Awarded Dingle Trophy

LaMar Chapman, northern division 2-mile king and veteran Vandal distance and cross-country ace, was recently announced as the winner of the Douglas Dingle memorial award.

Chapman recently won the 2-mile crown in a meet at Seattle and previously had placed third in the Coast Intercollegiate Cross-Country championships last November. He has been active in Idaho track since his enrollment here in the fall of 1939. He is one of Idaho's two three-year lettermen this year.

Awarded in memory of Doug Dingle, a javelin thrower in 1940 who was killed in an automobile accident the next year, the trophy is awarded "annually to the senior track or field man who, in his teammates' estimation, was outstanding in competitive achievement, sportsmanship, and character throughout his college career." The trophy is offered by the Phi Delta Theta chapter house on the campus, where Dingle was a member.

Chapman is the third distance man to win the award. Phil Leibowitz, mile king in 1941, was the first winner in that year, and Vic Dyrge, 2-mile title-holder last year, won the award in 1942.
