GOLDEN FLEECE gason

The war is just beginning. That is the message that we would send to the German people if we could. After four years of brutalitv. terrorizing, murdering, the Vol. 48, No. 2 war is just beginning to reach the German people. After four years man leaders. Every day, German their own homes. Every day, mile by mile Germans are coming closer to their own land-forced there by the inevitability of the power that opposes them.

After four years of fighting on foreign ground, bombing foreign cities, enslaving foreign peoples, the Germans are on their way home. For them, the war is just beginning. For them, the hell that they created is their homeward companion.

Warsaw, Remember? It was September 1, 1939. London. Remember? Coventry, Stalingrad, Leningrad-none of them is a German name. The Germans were headed outward, then, away from home. Nothing could stop them, then. France was crushed, England was helpless, Russia was destroyed, America was impotent boasted the Germans. Their boys were dying, then, too. But that was different. There weren't quite so many of them dving, and they were falling in glorious victories that would soon bring the war to an immortal and glorious conclusion.

That was four years ago, three years ago, two years ago, one year ago. Four long, horrible, unending years and still the war continued, and no decision. Slowly,

Balkan problems will be prominent in the agenda of the Anglo-Russian-American conferences. Crossing of the Dnepr River south of Kiev puts the Red Army within 200 miles of Rumania, while British capture of Foggia with its ring of airdromes brings the Jugoslay coast and the Danube valley into range for heavy and repeated attacks by the Allied air arm. Britain and the U.S. seem to be reconsidering their close ties with the Jugoslav and Greek governments-inexile. The heads of these regimes are politicians and generals who have been identified with dictatorial rule at Belgrade and Athens in the past; they are out of touch with the common people in their homelands and lack the prestige of the local anti-Nazi leaders who risk their lives in the fight for national freedom. The Jugoslav Partisans, who are not represented in King Peter's government-in-exile, have been adding to their popular following by standing up to some of Hitler's best divisions. General Mihailovich, King Peter's war minister, has brought discredit to the Jugoslav government-inexile by his willingness to hurl his forces against the Partisans rather than the Germans.
