Anyone passing by the door of the Bucket lounge last Saturday afternoon could have heard the sounds of music issuing forth. Upon further investigation he would have been able to discern several young ladies sitting idly about, with perhaps two or three on the floor dancing with servicemen. At a first glance this might not have seemed unusual. After all, the man shortage. . . . But reflecting upon the matter he would have recalled the fact that the Student Union Activities Board had introduced a plan whereby the women on the campus would act as hostesses to the servicemen in the Bucket lounge on Saturday afternoons.

Falling in readily with the plan, a number of women from one of the houses arrived at the Bucket. The ensuing scene faintly resembled a meeting of the "Young Ladies Afternoon Club." The servicemen whom they had been delegated to entertain were not very much in evidence. With dampened spirits the women returned home. The plan for which they had had so much enthusiasm had somehow not materialized.

Other Houses

There are eleven women's houses remaining to send representatives to the hostess dances. Will these women too be forced to spend an idle afternoon waiting for servicemen who never come? Not many women on the campus fancy themselves in the role of a Penelope, and if the plan continues as it began, it will last just about eleven weeks.

Perhaps there is an excuse for the men, perhaps they didn't know about the plan, perhaps they were at the football game, but as matters stand now it seems to be just another episode in the failure of the three student bodies to cooperate.

Football Spectators

Another episode of this same type was the football game last Saturday. Scattered here and there in Neale Stadium were the spectators—not numerous enough to warrant being called a crowd. During the first half of the game the pep band tried to promote some fighting spirit by the rendition of various school songs, but regarding the effort as futile, they gave up hope and departed at the half. The cheer leaders leaped and cavorted in the best cheer-leading manner but all to no avail. An occasional fan, carried away by excitement, rose and shouted advice to his favorite team, but feeling the stares of the other spectators, sat down abruptly and self-consciously. When a touchdown was made there was just a smattering of polite applause.

This then is the picture that is presented by the student body. The army will not attend the civilian functions, the students ignore the activities of the service men. . . . And all this among the three factions that are represented as a united student body!

AWS To Give Party For All Women Tonight

"All join hands and circle to the right," will be the call of Mrs. Frances Bascom, head of the women's physical education department, as she leads women students in the square dances at the second annual AWS "play party" to be held this evening in the old ballroom of the Student Union building from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m.

Almost all women students attended this party last year and attendance is expected to be even greater tonight.

Before the square dancing, a light lunch will be served by AWS council members. The serving will be under the chairmanship of Lorene Bales, assisted by Jean Bruins. AWS council will also make all sandwiches for the affair.

Committee Names Connie Hansen New Yell Queen

Connie Hansen, Gamma Phi Beta, was chosen Tuesday night by the executive board to serve as yell queen for this year. The queen was selected upon the recommendation of the rally committee. Assisting in leading yells will be Helen Morfitt, Mary Holden, Eleanor Andrew, Lorraine Brassfield, Donna Harding, and Betty Ring who were named yell duchesses. Those listed above attended the tryouts held last Thursday night at the Bucket and also performed at the football game held last Saturday.

New members of the rally committee announced Tuesday are Marvel Houx, chairman; Drexel Brown, student at large; Kathleen Woodworth, ASUI executive board; Dale Ablin, pep band; Ada Mae Rich, Spur, and Bill Hardin, IK.

Ruth Leth Speaks To Church Group

A meeting of Westminster Guild was held Tuesday evening at the L.D.S. Institute with Ruth Leth as speaker. Devotions were led by Jean Bruins.

Because of five vacant offices left last year, the following new officers were elected: Beverly Weber, vice president; Mary Brown, treasurer; Vera Anderson, secretary; Ruth Leth, international church council representative, and Shirley West, reporter.

Students already have started to practice so they won't get caught and have to appear before "Mar-ryin' Sam," who will be represented by Fred Keiper.

Students participating in the contest will appear in appropriate costume, Marvel Houx, chairman of the affair, said last night. The rally committee has charge of the event.

According to advance hints given out by the committee, the men and women will be lined up, with the men having a slight head start when the gun starts the race. After the official start, there will be no rules governing the contest, the committee said.

Contestants' Names

Professor Meets Legal Tangle

W. J. Brockelbank, law school professor, found no legal legs on which to stand when a stranger approached him during a wonderful hunting expedition. The stranger turned out to be Deputy Game Warden Herbert Huston, who informed the hunter that the hunting was so fine because it was on a game preserve.

Back From Camp Roberts!

Larry Talbot, Jack Kemper, and Duane "Curley" Taylor led the group of decrepit ROTC juniors back to the campus last week. It was rugged, they moaned, but after being greeted so overwhelmingly in the Ad building halls Monday by their women, they decided that possibly it was worth it. (Drawn by Pvt. David Stone, University of Oregon.)

Bunk Fatigue

By Cpl. BILL SALTZMAN
He saluted and she saluted and then they kissed. A colonel passing by sputtered, but the WAC lieutenant only smiled. "It's all right, sir, he's my brother." . . . The brother: Pfc. Israel; his sister: a second loony and stationed at Presque Isle, Maine. Both were fortunate enough to have furloughs during the same week . . .

It was almost like being in Greenwich Village the other day when Russian Instructor Kairansky sketched a portrait of Pfc. Martin Bialy at Lindley hall annex. It is not true, however, that he plans to sketch Bashful Boy Ed Chambers wearing that mysterious Alpha Chi Omega pledge pin. . . .

WEDDING BELLS

Our brilliant French scholar, Cpl. Hank Austubel, and Miss Anne Weisinger of New York City will be married in the near future. Hank was formerly a history instructor at Brooklyn college, Brooklyn, N. Y. . . . And from Scoopster Harry Belinky of Co. A comes the news that Miss Doris Dean became the bride of Pvt. L. Kern last Saturday. Both are from Iowa. . . . Step up and get a cigar—Cpl. Chester Jones, of Co. A cadre, is now the father of Idaho's 1963 fullback. Or will he attend the University of Wyoming?

Pfc. Sol Schactman, of the German class, and 1st Lt. A. P. Graves, commanding officer of Co. A, were formerly classmates at the University of Chicago.

WAUKESHA SAGE

Ever see the "mad Professor" in the "Popular Science" moving pictures? The Waukesha Sage who invents those Goldbergerian inventions? . . . He was formerly a classmate and close friend of Co. B's Lloyd Stephany at Carroll college, Waukesha, Wis. . . . Which may account in some way for Stephany's hilarious and imaginative German recitations. . . . And speaking of coincidences, French Student Bill Riedly attended Stanford with Dr. Harold D. Cramer, university physician, and even ate in the same mess hall. . . .

Those two lads playing so gleefully in the snow last week were California's Arnie Garcia and Hesh Gillman, both of whom had never seen snow before (and at last reports, they never want to see it again.)

THE SQUELCH PROPER

He was a little fellow, the MP on the beat last Saturday, and the husky soldier thought he was safe in boasting about his football prowess. . . . "I've played a lot of football in my day," said the caveman, "and I can truthfully say it's a game for big men. Have you ever played football?" . . . "Yep," said the little fellow. . . . "Ever get hurt?" said the big fellow. . . . "Nope," said the little fellow. . . . "Must have been with a very small school," said the big fellow. . . . "Nope," said the little fellow. . . . "You playing here?" said the big fellow. . . . "Yep," said the little fellow. . . . "On the bench?" said the big fellow. . . . "Nope," said the little fellow. . . . "What's your name?" said the big fellow. . . . "VanDeWaa," said the little fellow. . . . "Holy Mackerel," said the big fellow. . . . "So long," said the little fellow. . . .

(To those unfortunate enough to have missed the game two weeks ago—Al VanDeWaa was the youngster who made that sensational 41-yard touchdown run for Co. C, the only score of the game.)

Red Cross Field Director Helps Solve GI's Problems

By PFC. HENRY L. NORTON

When a soldier who has missed a couple of paydays requires a small loan to get his uniform out of the cleaners for a Saturday formation, when a sailor suddenly is granted a leave he hadn't been expecting and needs extra money to take advantage of it, or when another soldier is suddenly confronted by his fiancée and her father prepared to stage an immediate wedding, it's Charles L. DeKlyen who gets an emergency visit, and it's usually Mr. DeKlyen who pays.

Mr. DeKlyen is field director here for the American Red Cross, having charge of assistance to soldiers in the AST units both at the University of Idaho and at Washington State college, Pullman, as well as to sailors in the navy radio school on the campus. His office is in Hays hall.

Before coming here in August, Mr. DeKlyen was field director more than a year at Geiger field and Fort George Wright, near Spokane. Prior to joining the Red Cross he had been a senior case worker for the Montana State Welfare department four years. His Montana experience in social welfare work plus the fact that he once had to deal with a recently foreclosed farmer who had a grudge against all "government men" and consequently threatened to shoot him, prepared him well for the emotional crisis he was to help clear up as a Red Cross worker.

GRANTS LOANS

Using the same sort of persuasion that helped him to mollify and later win the friendship of the enraged farmer, he has talked several soldiers out of going over the hill to see sick relatives (after they had been refused emergency furloughs.) Usually in such cases he has the illnesses, investigated by Red Cross home service workers in order to convince the soldier that his presence at home really is not needed.

However, when circumstances have warranted it, he has sometimes granted loans for as much as $200 so that a soldier might fly home when his presence was urgently required.

He has frequently made loans to soldiers who run out of money on their way back from furloughs. Once he helped finance a sergeant's return to Alaska after wiring to Alaska to get approval of the sergeant's commanding officer for the loan.

When loans are made to soldiers from other posts or when soldiers are unexpectedly transferred to new posts while their loans are still outstanding, the notes are "sold" to the field directors at the other posts, and the director who has made the loan is reimbursed from a revolving fund established for the purpose.

Mr. DeKlyen also occasionally checks, through international Red Cross headquarters in Switzerland, on the welfare of soldiers' relatives in other warring countries. Recently he was able to learn for a Filipino soldier that the latter's relatives living near Manila, whom he had not heard from since Pearl Harbor, were safe and well.

ON THE DOT

Despite the fact that he now has 3,500 soldiers and sailors under his "care," he has never failed to receive payment on a loan made here or at Pullman.

Before going to work for the Montana welfare department, Mr. DeKlyen had taught high school social science briefly in Reygate, Mont. In 1938 he had been graduated from Wesleyan university, Mitchell, S. D. He transferred from Wesleyan after having been literally shaken out of Intermountain Union college at Helena, Mont., in 1935, by an earthquake.

Three Army Cage Games Scheduled In Second Round

By Pvt. ANSON H. SMITH

With the first games of the basketball season under way the ASTU cagers worked out this week for the second round of play on Saturday afternoon when three contests are scheduled for Memorial gymnasium.

The Company C second crew will face the A-1 squad at 2 p.m., B-2 will tangle with A-2 at 3 p.m., and C-1 will meet B-1 at 4 p.m., Coach Rich Fox announced.

Chalking up a 52-38 victory, the B-2 outfit turned back the C-2 crew in the opening round, while C-1 upset A-1 by the count of 33-27. Center Morse led the B squad by hooping through 16 points and Forward Lopez dropped in 10 markers for the losers.

Paced by Stan Feingold who marked up 12 points, the C-1 team had its hands full in turning back a stubborn A five. Forward Pocrnich led the losers by tallying 10 markers.

Despite the fact that last week was the first competition of the season not many fouls were evident, Coach Fox said.

Moron: Pardon me for walking on your feet.
Ditto: Oh that's o. k., I often walk on them myself.

The earthquake had occurred during a school dance celebrating a football victory. He was one of 200 students attending the dance in the school gymnasium when a sidewall suddenly crumbled, dumping debris around a group of professors who were chaperoning the party. Though several other buildings also were damaged, no one, fortunately, was injured. The college, however, moved away shortly afterward.

Mr. DeKlyen is a native of Lewistown, Mont. His wife is the former Miss Loraine Thomas of Lewistown. They have a two-year-old son, Tommy. The family is at present living in Moscow.

British Have AST Program Similar To U.S.

By T/S RALPH BEHRENS

With the outbreak of World War II—and especially since the battle of Dunkirk—Britain, like the United States, has made use of colleges and universities to train technicians, specialists, and officers.

Even before the present war, Britain had used the university as a source of officer material. From the student training corps maintained in Britain's institutions of higher education, a substantial inflow of career officers as well as reserve personnel has been secured.

Selected youths are placed by the army, Royal navy and Royal air force in six-month courses conducted at the universities. Selection is based on the secondary school academic records of the candidates and the recommendations of headmasters and principals. Entering college at an age varying from 17½ to 18½, these trainees pursue an intensive academic course without prior military training. Military and physical training balance academic instruction roughly comparable to ASTP work in these fields.

SCIENTIFIC COURSES

Army and RAF trainees are required to take scientific and technical courses, while Royal navy men are encouraged to concentrate in the liberal arts. Upon completion of their courses, these men are returned to their respective major arm for their essential military training.

The British technical "trainee," after the completion of his academic work, is at the level of educational development roughly equal to that of the ASTP trainee at the end of Basic III.

Direction of the process of national mobilization in Britain was placed under the control of the Ministry of Labour. Its decisions are binding as to the selection and assignment of individuals into the channels of education, armed forces; war industry, or state service.

In its employment of colleges and universities in the war effort, the British government uses a combination of the deferment method for certain groups of college men with a system of short courses for students of superior capacity (the system described above and comparable to our ASTP). In addition the facilities of certain universities are used in part for the housing, messing, and training of men in the armed services who are instructed wholly by service personnel.

Information is not available on the number of men in the British armed forces now studying in colleges and universities. However, in September of this year, there were more than 100,000 soldier-trainees in 209 ASTP units in the United States, according to information released by army officials. In addition there were approximately 16,000 men in STAR units in this country.

Rough And Ready Rosell Stills Smiles Sans Stripes

By T/4 JOHN P. SHEA

As hard to believe as a GI dance with enough girls to go around . . . as incredible as a USO show in which the Dollies look like the advance posters, that's Tom Rosell, the chunky, snub-nosed, Irish-panned ASTUDE who is currently the boast and toast of Company A.

Tom, you see, dropped stripes enough to give any baby zebra a good stake in life, to comply with the W.D. ruling that only the seventh-pay-grade soldiers can take basic engineering. Although he has been an O.D. wearer only a year, he bucked out a top-kick rating after only six months' service. His outfit, a motor-pool in the armored forces, spent enough time in the Mojave desert to leave him with a dislike for sand, even when tastefully camouflaged with mess hall spinach.

Like the fun-loving Rover who bore the same first name, Tom is an ardent believer in the joke, mis-called practical. A short-sheeted or even a hot-foot, admittedly unimaginative pranks, are not always disdained by the "Joker."

since the press of facts, figures and football occupy most of his waking hours.

Fortified by experience on high school and collegiate teams at Omaha, Neb., and later at Iowa State U., Tom knocked off a starting post at guard of his company team.

Pleasantly modest, our GI Joe of Hays hall has so far not found a co-ed who can slow his step at mail-call.

Take it easy boys—his strength is as of ten, for he is pure of heart.

Language Group Attends Party

Prof. Boyd Martin of the political science department and Mrs. Martin entertained a group of language and area students from Company B, Forney hall, at their home in Moscow Sunday afternoon.

Guests were Raymond Del Tufo, Jr., William Scott, James Warnock, Joe Huntley, Howard Breskin, T. O. Steinke, H. N. M. Win-ton and L. M. Woodworth.

Army Men To Cooperate With Student Committee

Social Committees from the three companies of ASTU 3926 have been chosen to work with members of the ASUI student activities in connection with dances and other social activities on the campus.

James Sanchey is chairman of the committee from Company "A," Hays hall, and is aided by Alan Petrie and Charles Elder.

Ben Kaplan, Ray Cohen and Elin Whysong comprise the Company "C," Lindley hall, group, with Kaplan as chairman.

The chairman of the committees met with 1st Lt. Lorin D. Parkin, the unit's special service officer to plan campus events. They also attend meetings of the UI student activity board.

Formation of the committees was carried out to promote student-soldier relations on the campus, Parkin stated.

Army Wives Club Plans Fall Party

Getting acquainted and planning for a fall party to be held within the next few weeks were highlights of the Army Specialized Training wives' meeting at the Student Union Tuesday night. The group has been organized since August and now has over 300 active members, according to Mrs. Mona Fisher, secretary of the club.

Mrs. Dorothy Miller is president. Other officers include: Mrs. Sue Mack, program chairman; and Mrs. Mary Behrens, publicity chairman.

Future activities of the organization are teas, parties, Red Cross work, book reviews and talks to be given by faculty members.

Meetings are held each Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the Student Union. The purpose of the club as outlined by Mrs. Miller, president, is to provide a worthwhile organization for enlisted men's wives which will include both a social and educational program.

A DURATION DO!

Your shirts are valuable items these days and appreciate special handling.

Turn up your shirt collar before sending it to the laundry. A collar washed flat doesn't fray so easily at the crease.

Have your shirts laundered frequently. A too-soiled shirt requires more scrubbing and consequently wears out more quickly.

Go easy on the starch. Starching stiffens fabric, so that it breaks instead of bending.

Communique Comment

At the opening session of the French Consultative Assembly at Algiers, General de Gaulle spoke yesterday for "the people of France." In blunt words, he expressed the determination of his countrymen to restore their nation to the rank of a great power and to win a place for the French National Committee in the supreme caucus of the Allies.

In the past four months, Gallic sensitivity over the powers of the French National Committee and the post-war status of France has hampered relations between British and American statesmen and Algiers. De Gaulle and his colleagues do not forget that France was vanquished by the Germans in 1870 and in 1940—and owed final victory in 1918 to the intervention of foreign allies. These are bitter memories for the citizens of the state that set the model for Prussia in militant nationalism and terrified Europe in the time of Louis XIV and the first Napoleon.

Today, French patriots fear that their nation will be freed from its chains by an Anglo-American army only to be given nothing better than a junior partnership in a post-war coalition of the Allied great powers. De Gaulle himself evidently hopes for France in a closer diplomatic alignment between the Algiers regime and the Soviet Union. The British public resents the cold shoulder turned to de Gaulle by official Washington. In time, Russian influence and the pressure of British opinion may force Churchill and Roosevelt to grant de Gaulle's demand for French representation on the Big Three's new Advisory Committee for European Affairs.

Gallophiles in the U. S. must face the stark fact that the France of 1943 lacks the population, the developed resources, and the industrial strength necessary to keep her in the front rank among the nations of the world. The debacle of 1940 was the inevitable result of the marked French inferiority to Germany in man-power and industrial production. The internal disunity that weakened the Third Republic in its final trial can be traced to the lack of equilibrium in a national economy that exalted unscientific agriculture and failed to modernize France's backward industrial machine.

Engineers Plan Activities; Still Seek Column Name

Now we have two of our members in high places! Congratulations from all engineers is offered to Jud Guernsey—present senior president. Of course, it was no surprise to the engineers that Jud was elected. The family type, Jud, if given a chance, will drag out pictures of his beetle—even take you for a ride, if he thinks you'll enjoy it—and he has the gas to spare—and the "beetle" will run.

At the ATEE meeting last week, Russ Conrad, president, and Dean Johnson, described their trip to the convention at Salt Lake City last summer. The group, small but well organized, would like better attendance from the underclassmen, and announce to all soldiers in the EE school here, that they are cordially invited to join the chapter. They are planning lots of social activities for the current year, as who isn't. When there aren't too many quizzes in the offering.

Bird-Hunting
With the advent of the bird-hunting season, many of the big and small-shots have been out on the trail of the Mongolian ring-neck—Chink, to you. The Wednesday lab of the Chem E's Op course has been changed to another day in the week until the end of the season. Of course, if it is really raining on Wednesday, come to lab.

The day that Bob LaRue, M.E. extraordinary, decided to go hunting up Bovill way, the nasty old Burns people decided to stop running the bus.

C'mon, Conrad, get to them these classes. And the Chem Engineers have decided to take a field trip. There is only a rub or two—where to go and how to get there. I can see a schedule of their time if they go to Spokane. Go to brewery—now to the gas works—back to the brewery—out to the flour mill—back to the brewery—time out for lunch—back to the brewery—and so on, and on, for two days. Well we want to find out all about it, don't we?

Since last week this column has been without a name—and it's still without one. The reward or prize, for the winning name has been doubled for this week, and will increase each week by the original amount until a good name comes in. Or until the column acquires one gratis, from an unsatisfied customer.

CHALLENGE

We, the members of the unquestionably superior pledge class of the Phi Delt-Fiji House do hereby offer a challenge to any groups of Greek pledges who consider themselves worthy to match their feeble forces with the prowess and skill of our invincible assemblage in any class of athletics whatsoever. We have yet to emerge victorious from any similar contest and will welcome an acceptance of this offer by any group having courage enough in their miserable souls to attempt such an undertaking, should there be such a group among the pack of rabble which we have encountered on the campus.

This challenge applies particularly to a band of youngsters known in some circles as the "Sigma Chi Boys"—a gathering of riff-raff particularly notorious for their abject tendencies. We realize, however, that they undoubtedly "will not choose" to meet us; therefore, this is being issued as a blanket challenge to any group of pledges foolish enough to accept this invitation to match forces.

PHI DELT-FIJI PLEDGES

As usual, there were several exchanges this week, most of which took place last night, Wednesday. Alpha Chi held one with ATO, Beta and Sigma Nu. The SAE's were invited to the Tri-Delt house; the Phi Delt-Fijis and Mary House had an exchange; and the Gamma Phis invited the Sigma Chis to their exchange.

The only firesides scheduled for this week-end are to be given by the Phi Delt-Fijis and Sigma Chis Saturday evening, and the Kappa Sigs on Friday evening.

Alpha Phi is holding its formal pledge and initiation dance Saturday night. They are also invited to a party at the Phi Delt-Fiji, Friday.

The L.D.S. group held their annual barn dance last Saturday with the ATO's as guests. Patrons were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Marty, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Tanner, and Mr. and Mrs. Chapman.

Mrs. Mardi Cox, field secretary, visited the Kappa Kappa Gamma house last week from Wednesday to Sunday. The Kappas also held their pledge dance last Saturday. Bill Mowat, Hank Noel and Gordon Gannis, all former Idaho SAE members, spent a few days at the SAE house last week.

It was an entirely different team that turned back A company last Saturday by the score of 26 to 6 than the one which bowed in the season's opener. But don't let the score mislead you. It wasn't a push over and it wasn't until the final few minutes of the game that the Hayesmen were doomed to defeat.

Showing a well-balanced attack the winners worked as a team and some timely substitutions throughout the game was in a measure responsible for the victory. Joe Sweeney, B center who was injured in the opener, took over the duties as bench coach and he used his head in making the proper replacements at the right time.

Settling a Score

There have been a few questions on the Hayesmen's score in the second period.

According to Referee Babe Brown the ball which End Bob Christiansen snaggged out of the air after it had bounced off the official's head is not a violation of the rules. In other words, when a ball strikes an official on the playing field and does not touch the ground, it is still in play. At least that was the interpretation of Referee Brown.

And in the opening period when the Hayesmen blocked a punt and it went out of bounds Company B was given the ball because the pigskin had not traveled over the line of scrimmage. Since it was only a third down, the Forneymen still had one more attempt because the rule says that the punt must cross the line of scrimmage. However, had it been on a fourth down, the Hayesmen would have taken over.

Plenty of Sports

While the football game was in progress last Saturday the opening round of the basketball season got under way over in the gymnasium. Two games were run off with C-1 topping A-1, and B-2 trampling C-2. There were plenty of good shots and some fine floor work throughout both contests and the league should develop into some red-hot competition.

In the cross country field, the ASTU's put up a fine show as they went down to a two point defeat before the Idaho varsity. One of the chief difficulties with the distance men is that they have very little time for conditioning. It has been pointed out that with some practice time the men would be able to develop a better clicking outfit. The soldier runners have some more meets with local competition before they travel to Spokane for the Round Table Invitational on Turkey Day.

Comes the colder months and sports are forced indoors, I think it would be a good idea to develop some boxing talent around here. There seems to be plenty of material available, and inter-company matches could be easily arranged. It's worth thinking about.

More Football?

After my two punk predictions on the first two games I'll make one more try at getting a winner.

So going on a statistics' hunch I'll guardedly pick the Engineers of Company C to chalk up their second victory of the season. But the Lindleyemen are not going to have an easy time with the game and the A men are determined to throw the league play into a three-way scramble.

Athletic Director Brown told me that as long as the weather holds out play will continue among the ASTUs. And if Company C takes Saturday's game they will be the winners of the first round. The B boys are itching for another crack at the Engineers, I have been told, and they claim they have hit their stride now and should be able to trample the Lindleyemen.

But the C crew is just as confident on a win and should the season go into its second round you can expect a tight battle when the two teams clash. It's all up to Old Lady Nature and the Idaho weatherman.

Here and There—

Paul Barkal, 200 pound right tackle for Company A, who got his gridiron experience at Michigan State college and the University of Washington, was told that he was through with football a couple of years ago. It all came as a result of a brain concussion suffered in a Michigan State-Michigan game. But Barkal disregarded the advice of physicians and went right on playing. He got banged up last Saturday, but he snapped out of it. A good player and plenty of courage. The cheerleaders from the University added a lot of color to the game, but the cold wind which swept through the stands was a little too much, for the crowd couldn't keep warm and most of the spectators left before the final whistle. Question of the year—Who's going to stop Notre Dame? No Answer.

Lindleyemen Seek Second Win In Tussle With A-21

By HAROLD SHAW

Hoping to chalk up its second win of the season, Company C will face Company A in the third game of the season at 2 p. m. Saturday at Neale stadium.

A win for C would give the Lindleyemen the first round title, while an A victory would throw the race into a three-way tie.

Tom Collins Lifts Basketball Team Expectations

Coach Babe Brown isn't promising anybody a basketball championship, but he claims that Idaho's chances are as good as the next school's. With the return of Tom Collins, who is the only remaining member from last year's team, Idaho's stock has definitely gone up. Along with Collins there are several men who have caught Brown's eye in practice sessions. Babe wasn't ready to name any individuals who looked particularly good as yet, but he contends that if the present attitude of the whole squad is maintained and their willingness to learn carry through it will be hard for him to pick his first five.

There is still a discouraging note to be added to this story, however. There are men in school who are good varsity basketball material who should be turning out for the team. You men are urged to see Coach Brown if you have been anticipating turning out "pretty soon." There is less than a month before the first game and it will take that long for newcomers to get the swing of things and making it possible for Idaho to put her best possible team on the floor at that time.

The pre season schedule has definitely been arranged and awaits only the approval of the executive board. There are eight games, four of which are to be in Moscow.

Dec. 3—Whidby Island Navy Base, at Moscow.
Dec. 4—Eastern Washington College of Education, at Moscow.
Dec. 9—Eastern Washington College of Education, at Cheney.
Dec. 10—Gonzaga, at Spokane.
Dec. 15—Whitman, at Walla Walla.

Dec. 17—Gonzaga, at Moscow.
Dec. 18—Whitman, at Moscow.
There are still four tentative dates to be filled if possible. They are: November 26 and 27, and December 29 and 30.

Both teams went through stiff workouts all this week in preparation for the tilt, and it was expected that the two elevens would throw a lot of deception into the offensive attacks.

Still on the sidelines for the Lindleyemen was Captain Ed Austin, recovering from a dislocated elbow he received in the opening tilt. There were a few injuries to mar the A attack after last week's game.

A fast charging line plus a clicking backfield will probably be the Lindleyemen's hopes for victory, while a passing attack and quick stepping runners will put the Basics in the battle.

Ray Agee, who displayed a powerful accurate arm in last week's game, will probably get the pitching nod for the A crew, while the slippery Al VanDeWaa stands out as the offensive threat for the Advanced Engineers.

Probable starters for the Hayesmen still isn't certain but Captain Jim Ferry will probably use Ben Jones and Tom Burke at ends; Barkal and Cy Stadler at tackles; Tom Rosell and George Burton at guards; Bob Shrum at center; Vernon Bergland at quarterback; Elmer Graces and George McIngvale at halves, and Ferry at fullback.

The two teams will be evenly matched in the weight department, although the C backfield will be a little lighter than the Hayesmen quartet. But the Lindleyemen are out to keep their record clean and have been pointing for the tilt to make a clean sweep of the first round.

Moreover, the C men have had the advantage of a week's rest and this should aid the crew in the coming contest. However, the A squad has now had some battle experience and may prove too tough for the C men.

Football Forecasts

By TOM RYAN

Last week Penn won a moral victory over the Army to give this column its first taste of defeat on the National scene. The game ended in a 13-13 tie but since I picked the Army to win I'll have to accept that as a defeat. The box score is now 37 right, one wrong and you know what Company C did when we picked Company B for a victory!

This week will probably add some more to the defeat column since so many possible "upset" games are being played. Notre Dame is playing the headline game again this week but this time it is without the capable Vic Bertelli and to make things worse they are playing Army. Northwestern and Wisconsin are playing one of those traditional games that could go either way in spite of previous records.

1: Notre Dame vs. Army—The Irish are going to lead the Army mule to water and make him drink it. This game means too much to the boys from South Bend to let anything happen now. If any team could stop them it is Army but I don't think that they will.

2: Purdue vs. Minnesota—Purdue is second in the nation and Minnesota isn't in the running. Purdue by any score that she wants to run up.

3: Michigan vs. Illinois—Michigan has had most of her tough games and Illinois isn't the team to stop her winning ways. Michigan to win.

4: Penn vs. Navy—Here is one of the best games of the day. Last week Penn held a much heralded Army team to a tie while Navy was being torpedoes by Notre Dame. The confidence that Penn gained in holding Army and the revenge that Navy is going to be seeking after being embarrassed by Notre Dame will make this a bloody battle. With my eyes closed I'll pick Navy catching Penn on the rebound.

5: Northwestern vs. Wisconsin—Wisconsin hasn't got it, Northwestern has. The Wildcats to win.

6: Tulsa vs. Oklahoma A. & M.—Little Tulsa has always been the giant killers of their conference. Last year they went undefeated and this year are 19th of the nation. The Golden Hurricanes to win.

7: Missouri vs. Iowa State—Missouri hasn't got the team that they used to have but I look for them to win the Big Six again this year. Iowa State is a conference game and it looks like a Missouri stair step.

Swimmers Needed By Coach Ramsey

By TOM RYAN

Somebody intercepted last week's story on swimming and fumbled it at the "dead line" so I have been asked to write it again.

Twelve men are turning out regularly in preparation for the coming season. This is only about half the number that originally stated their intention to turn out. Coach Ramsey is anxious for the prospective mermen to start turning out right away. It takes time to develop swimmers and divers and with the limited time before the swimming season those with aquatic ambitions can't overdo themselves in the way of preparation.

Idaho will maintain her usual schedule of meets providing enough interest is shown and enough capable men turn out. This doesn't mean to say that you have to be Johnnie Weismuller to break into the lineup. The important thing is to have enough men on the team to make it worthwhile. Every school is going to be short on talent and our chances will be as good as the general run as war as winning meets is concerned.

Coach Bill Ramsey pointed out that those turning out now show promise of developing into a capable and representative group with a little seasoning. He pointed out further that to really develop swimmers a coach needs more than one season. Divers need at least three years to reach their optimum peak of ability.

The following is a list of the men now turning out regularly: Dennison, Woods, Mowrey, Morris, LaFranz, Newport, Ogsburg, Renner, Dingle, Pointer, Lindberg and McDonald.

UP's Outrun GI's In First Cross-Country Meander

In the first cross country meet of the season, the university varsity turned back the ASTUs 27 to 29, while the Moscow high school team upset the Navy 27 to 31.

For the varsity it was Anderson who crossed the tape first, covering the 2.2 mile course in 12:50. Roman Snow of Company B was the first Army man across in 13:04.

The winners held down first and second spots, while the soldier crew came in third and fourth, with the first ten men in counting towards the final score.

Meanwhile the Army crew was working for its next encounter on Friday when they meet the Moscow, high school aggregation. Runners from all three companies are again scheduled to run, Track Coach Mike Ryan said.

Forneymen Display Offensive Power In Trampling Company A, 26 To 6

By HAROLD SHAW

Displaying a well-balanced offensive, Company B chalked up its first win of the season by toppling Company A, 26 to 6, last Saturday afternoon at Neale stadium before a wind-swept crowd of 1,000.

Johnny Ryan, big Forney fullback, turned in two of the markers, one on a 32 yard jaunt around his own right end and the other on a buck over his own right guard from the three-yard stripe.

The Forneymen's other two markers were counted by Harold Kuhl, flashy left halfback, and Gordon Bungeard, former Texas Christian university player, who turned in a fine all-around performance.

For the Basics it was lanky Bob Christiansen who snagged a blocked pass and scampered 30 yards across the goal line in the second period. Paul Barkal, playing a top notch defensive game, broke through the line to get his hands on the attempted pass and the ball flew into the air. It struck Referee Babe Brown but Christiansen caught the ball out of the air and traveled for the score.

In the opening period the Forneymen marked up their first tally with Kuhl and Ryan lugging the ball, Ryan going over for the touchdown. He also plunged for the extra point.

Early in the second stanza Ryan put the ball into scoring territory when he twisted for 30 yards behind some flashy blocking. Then with the big boy and Kuhl hammering at the line, the Forneymen drove down to the eight-yard stripe, with Kuhl knifing over tackle for the counter.

Coming into the second half with a 13 to 6 lead, the B boys were unable to click in the third period as the A crew's defense stiffened and the Hayesmen managed to take over the offensive with some fancy passing.

But in the final quarter Paul Neiter, B center, recovered a blocked punt on the A 12-yard line and Bungeard pounded at the losers' wall and finally pushed it over from the 6-inch line, after a stiff goal line defense of the Hayesmen crumbled.

Whites Beat Blues In Soccer Match

Scoring twice before the Whites had enough time to wipe the mud from their eyes, the Blue won a 3-1 victory over the Whites in a well matched soccer game played between the halves of the football game last Saturday afternoon.

Led by Captain Ray Jones, who scored twice, and Scott Findlay, the Blues kept White goalie, Otto Stern, busy all afternoon.

Going through gyrations that would have done justice to any ballet troupe, the Whites, in an effort to prevent a whitewash, tried desperately to control the ball on a damp field. Late in the second period on passes from wingmen Lloyd Davis and Julius Nesse and center half Charles Schulman, Werner Reis, center forward and captain of the Whites, clipped one that sailed high over the head of goalie Frank Whyson.
