Since 450 ASTU students left yesterday, the number of students to be found in the halls of the buildings, the Bucket lounge, and on the campus walks seems to have shrunk overnight until the casual observer might think that this was the day after school had been let out for Christmas vacation instead of an ordinary spring Thursday. With their leaving a general spirit of gloom has settled over the campus and Idaho's 700 co-eds are pessimistically anticipating not only dateless Fridays, but dateless Saturdays and Sundays also. A sad situation, isn't it?

But cheer up gals—the future really isn't so black. For example, we still have approximately 75 civilian students in school. The navy radio training station could supply about 400 dates. Perhaps you'd forgotten about them; A total of 100 pre-medical and army reserve students will be stationed here in Forney hall under the ASTP.

Count Your Blessings

That makes over 500 men to about 600 women. Before you prepare to retreat to a quiet spot with a book on week-ends, look around you! Idaho will have men who won't want to sit home and knit Saturday nights either. The situation isn't hopeless.

Meet Other Women

There are many women whose hearts have gone with the ASTP, who don't care about dates. This is a good opportunity for them to get acquainted with other women on the campus! In the past, the only women you knew well were the women you own hall or sorority. It's high time you got really acquainted. Bridge tournaments, dinner exchanges with other sororities and halls, or joint dances are excellent ways of meeting other women. College is the place to build lasting friendships—so get busy!

Senior Receives National Award

Following the luncheon was a short business meeting at which it was decided to hold a song practice each afternoon at 5 p.m. for their annual serenade. These practices will be conducted at the Alpha Chi Omega house for about two weeks.

Phi Deltas Boast New Arrivals On Campus

Last Friday night the campus was blessed with the addition of long awaited new members. George, campus greet extraordinary, gave birth to one, no, just a minute, three kittens in the junior sleeping porch of the House of Phi.

During the days previous the Phis had been making and placing their bets as to the number and time of the blessed event. George, now re-christened Georgia, however fooled all of the amateur obstetricians and midwives when she came in the home stretch with three on Friday.

Soon to be launched is a campus-wide contest for the best names to the new residents of the house with the door of blue. For details of this big contest see this paper next week.

Whereas Georgia is truly a campus character living at the House of Phi, working as a mouser at the Ad. building and eating at the Bucket, plus numerous visits to other fraternity and sorority houses, and whereas, all good creatures should be named it was decided to use the contest in order to secure the names more better suited to the campus at large. Naming will start soon so put your thinking caps on and locate the top to a box of Wheaties for enclosure.

A serenade is scheduled for the evening of the twentieth, with Jean Armour in charge. On April 21, the traditional junior prom will be held in the Blue Bucket ballroom, with Red Jensen's orchestra playing. It will be semi-formal, with no corsages in keeping with the university's wartime ruling.

The yearbook editor, Pfc. Henry Santiestevan, was unable to enjoy the sight of seeing his book circulated since he was in the hospital recovering from an appendectomy.

Hepworth Returns

Miss Marian Hepworth, state home demonstration leader, has recently returned from San Francisco where she attended a three-day meeting of western states nutrition chairmen.

Pre-Meds Arrive To Commence College Training

Nineteen pre-medical students arrived at the university Tuesday from Montana State college at Bozeman, Lt. Col. W. A. Hale, commandant of the army training unit, said. This is all that the Idaho unit has orders on, at the moment, but more are expected—when and from where, the colonel didn't know.

Wednesday saw the last of the AST unit which has been on the campus leave as over 400 left on a special train. Thirty-five language men who left Monday will go to a station in the middlewest. Colonel Hale said. One group of language students left Wednesday afternoon for an Oregon station. The main bulk of over 400 who left yesterday all are assigned to posts in California.

Most of these men are going into combat divisions and it is logical to assume that they will be in line for overseas duty within a reasonable amount of time, Colonel Hale said. Men who are members of the unit which left and who were selected to stay for pre-medical training are John J. McCormick, Robert B. Goodman, John R. McGrath, Erick M. Grasnopolosky, Gilbert F. Norwood, George Garland and John J. Gillette.

Engineers Speak To Local Group

From the college of engineering comes news of visiting speakers and an article of a former faculty member.

Bill Hughes, city engineer at Lewiston and chairman of the Idaho state board of examiners, gave a talk to the ASCE on the Lewiston air port March 22.

Dean E. W. Shilling, college of engineers of Montana State, and vice president of the AIEEC gave a talk to the local student branch March 22. Dean Shilling was here looking over student affairs. He left for Portland immediately after his informal talk.

An article on ASTP and Navy courses written by Dean Crawford of the College of Engineering of Michigan, appeared three weeks ago in the Engineering News Society, Dean Crawford was a former member of the faculty of the college of engineering here at the university.

Professor Speaks On Preservative

Prof. Vernon Ravenscroft, extension forester, has returned from a trip from southern Idaho where he demonstrated and introduced a new type of wood preservative known as chlorinated phenol. This preservative can be used to preserve the posts and prevents their rapid decay. It does not require heat as do the other types of wood preservatives and will prove very helpful in lessening the pole shortage in southern Idaho, Professor Ravenscroft said.

Group Will Elect New Officers

Members of Lambda Delta Sigma will elect both chapter and executive officers at a meeting to be held next Sunday at the L.D.S. chapel at 7 p. m. It is imperative that all members be present and are up to date in payment of dues, Bruce Jepson, president, said. Second semester pledging will be held soon.

One of the biggest gatherings during the year was witnessed Wednesday afternoon when approximately all of the University of Idaho students and many townspeople turned out to say farewell to the A.S.T.U. Headed by the pep band, a procession of the student body, preceded by the Spurs, paraded from the student union to the railway depot.

Traditional Spirit

The rally was an exhibition of the traditional Vandal spirit which the campus has kept in spite of war conditions. The weather man seemed to give his wishes for good luck, too, because the rally was held on the first real day of spring. Onlookers noticed that many a tough and hardened soldier had a tear in his eye as he stepped on the train taking him away from "Little Idaho."

Dr. F. Monk Talks At IRC Meeting

The International Relations club had a two-day conference in Spokane Friday and Saturday of last week. Topics under discussion were: Global War and its Consequences; First Steps Toward Peace; and Problems of Global Peace.

The conference speakers were Dr. Frank Monk, lecturer in economics at the University of California in Berkeley, and Dr. Wilson Leon Godshall, professor of international relations and diplomatic history at Lehigh university, Bethlehem, Pa.

The university was among the participating clubs. Representing this institution were: Marion Franson, discussion leader of the panel; Ada Mae Rich, Lucille Cummings, Helen Hamilton, Frances Freeman, Marjorie Monk, and Professors C. Bragdon, R. E. Hosack and B. A. Martin.

The northwest regional conference is sponsored by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Arneinan Speaks At Exercises

Col. George E. Arneinan, general staff corps, and director of military training in the Ninth Service Command, was the principal speaker. Saturday morning when approximately 250 AST men received their diplomas at the graduation exercises held at the university auditorium.

Colonel Arneinan, who was here from Fort Douglas, described the vast amount of preparation needed to open a major offensive. He told the trainees that their work would prove itself as the men went into other units and into combat service.

While in Moscow, Colonel Arneinan was a guest of Lt. Col. and Mrs. W. A. Hale.

Bragdon Will Lead News Discussion

Resumes of speeches given at the conference of international relations clubs last Friday and Saturday in Spokane will highlight the program of the international relations club meeting this Friday night at 7:30.

In addition, the program will include a discussion of news of the week led by Mr. Chandler Bragdon, a summary of Dr. Frank Monk's speech at the Spokane conference, and a panel discussion led by Mr. Robert E. Hosack.

Communique Comment

In his speech on Sunday, Churchill was a shadow of the leader who called his countrymen to the ramparts in the dark hours of 1940. The Conservative Party chief bidding for support for his coalition cabinet, was a far cry from the wearer of the mantle of the two Pitts who promised his people only blood, sweat and tears as the Nazi tide engulfed the Low Countries and France. The defeat of the Churchill government on a minor issue on Tuesday showed that the veteran Tory now holds on parliament a grip less firm than in 1942 or 1943.

More than a few Britons wonder today whether the man who possesses the tenacity to stave off national defeat is the ideal leader for their island in the period of post-war reconstruction. They believe that Churchill, who has been in politics since 1900, lacks the breadth of vision needed in the complex tasks of national recovery. In addition, they resent the manner in which Churchill interferred personally to aid government-sponsored candidates in the February by-elections in Brighton and West Derbyshire. In the House of Commons, younger M. P.'s are protesting against the premier's willingness to be influenced by the views of older party leaders.

In recent months, the coalition government has cut down its popularity in the nation by its efforts to stifle criticism and by its attempt to rush by-elections—and thus hamper the campaigns of anti-government Independents. The younger generation of British voters, disfranchised since 1935 by the accident of war and the party trace, resents the timid compromises which characterizes the domestic policies of the cabinet. In particular, the younger people under the Liberal and Labor banners are bitter at the refusal of the government to take a progressive attitude toward social and economic issues raised by the Beveridge and other reports.

Churchill's emphasis on the housing problem in his talk on Sunday was in line with his speech of last November at the Lord Mayor's Banquet, when he declared that "no airy visions" should obstruct the winning of Food, Work and Homes for Britain's millions. The Tory premier realizes that the British public wants progress in efforts to relieve the housing shortage more strongly than the creation of any socialistic New Order. Building of homes has been almost at a standstill in England since the start of the war.

Something Is Missing

A part of Idaho is missing today. You can describe that part quite easily if you want to. The orders read something like: "450 ASTP trainees to be moved from Moscow to other destinations." Figures are easy to mouth but describing the aftermath is something else again.

It's true that 450 ASTP trainees departed yesterday... that's easy enough to say. But say that 450 people... Say that 450 personalities have left the Idaho scene in a body... it becomes more of a task. When you talk about people, things get all mixed up.

You don't remember that as in all "groups" of two or more, you find your "jerks" and your "good joes"... and some too vague to be classified. They all stand out as one giant personality... maybe a little contradictory... like all personalities.

It comes back to you that GI Joe, the ASTP, was the guy that you had a coke date with... that was in on the Saturday "afternoon club"... that worked on the Argonaut. It was GI Joe who gave you football in the fall... "Gee-Eyes Right" in the winter... and a lot of laughs and maybe some heartaches.

Maybe GI Joe's last name ended in "ski" or "son"... it didn't really matter. It doesn't really matter that he often exercised his privilege of "gripping"... that he often said Idaho didn't show him much.

What mattered was that when he left yesterday, he said he was sorry to go... and he meant it. Yes, a part of Idaho is missing today... and a part of Idaho is missed.

Home Ec Department Boasts Highly Skilled Staff

Few people realize what a lot of learning goes on in those rooms set aside for Home Economics students on the third floor of the Ad building. There are few courses that are so taken for granted by those not in the know, especially where men are concerned, and few courses that require so much special training and knowledge.

To Miss Margaret Ritchie, head of the Home Economics department, goes much of the credit for the smooth-running, well-organized courses in a highly specialized field. Miss Ritchie received both a B.S. and M.A. at Columbia University, New York. Before coming to Idaho in 1938, she was director of Home Economics at Battle Creek college, Battle Creek, Mich. A very active woman in associations outside the university, Miss Ritchie is counselor of the Inland Empire for the American Home Economic association, and a member of the Scholarship Awards committee for that organization. She is the News Letter for the Idaho Home Economics association, and a member of the Idaho State Nutrition committee. She is now president of the A.A.U.W. at Moscow. Miss Ritchie has written, and is now chairman for Abstracts for the Journal of Home Economics.

A member of the faculty since 1923, Miss Adah Lewis was awarded a B.S. and M.S. from Kansas State college, where she also did extensive work in her field. She has done advanced work both at Columbia University, University of Chicago, and Peabody college. Before coming here, Miss Lewis was head of Home Economics at the State Normal in Springfield, Ill., and served as assistant professor at North Dakota State college. Miss Lewis is a member of Phi Upsilon Omicron, Home Economics honorary. She has traveled extensively in Europe, North Africa, Mexico and Alaska.

Miss Lucille Magruder was awarded her B.S. at Colorado State college and her M.S. at Iowa university. Additional training was taken at Columbia university and the University of Chicago. Miss Magruder taught in high schools, Texas State college for women, and at Eastern Illinois Teachers college before coming here in 1941. "Play School Equipment and Toys," "The Educational Opportunities in a School Lunch Program," and "The Teachers' Guide in Homemaking Education," written under her supervision, are among the articles Miss Magruder has written. She is chairman of the Home Economics division of the Inland Empire Educational association for the years 1943-44, and is also president of the Idaho Home Economics association.

A graduate of the University of Idaho, Miss Marion Featherstone attended the University of Southern California for her M.A., and has further studied at the Academy of Fine Arts, Chicago; the California School of Arts and Craft; UCLA; and Washington State college. Miss Featherstone lists as honors, Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Upsilon Omicron, and Winged Helmets. Before coming to teach at Idaho, she taught at Oceanside, Calif., Lewis & Clark high school in Spokane, and Oregon State Normal at La Grande. She also taught at one summer school session at the University of Washington. Her book, "Elementary Costume Design," written in collaboration with Dorothy Maack, has just been published.

Miss Elsie Nielson taught at Battle Creek, Mich.; Hillside college, Mich.; and North Dakota Agricultural college, before coming to Idaho in 1942. She received her B.S. at Utah state, and her M.S. at Iowa State college. Miss Nielson is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, education honorary for teachers. She is chairman of the clothing committee of the Idaho Home Economics association, and cooperated in a nation-wide survey on fabrics in war time. Last summer, Miss Nielson was a leader in the Vocational Home Making Workshop conference.

A native of Alabama, Miss Pearl Stroud won her B.S. at Montecelli, Ala., and her M.S. in nutrition and dietetics at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn. After teaching at the State Teachers' college at Troy, Ala., and serving with the army as a civilian dietitian, she came to the campus in 1943. Miss Stroud has traveled extensively in Mexico, Canada and the entire United States by car.

Pvt. Naylor Weds Arizona Girl

Miss Reva McBride, Globe, Arizona, became the bride of Ralph Veldon Naylor, Russian student of the ASTP stationed at Moscow, in ceremonies performed at the L.D.S. Institute, Saturday, March 25.

Miss McBride was accompanied to Moscow by the bridegroom's mother. The bride wore a gold ensemble with blue accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and white iris. Merrie Lu Klopffer, maid of honor, wore a pink suit with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Fred Mackay, ASTP student, was best man.

A wedding dinner at the Moscow hotel for the bride and bridegroom climaxed the evening.

ASTP Ball Proves Gala Finale For Campus Unit

The ASTP sponsored its last social event with a free dance held Friday evening, August 24, at the Student Union building. Capt. Lorin D. Larkin, special service officer, was in charge of the dance.

Over 300 couples attended the dance which proved to be one of the most successful social events since the advent of the ASTP on the University of Idaho campus. Music was furnished by Red Jensen's orchestra, and a large crowd danced in the student lounge to the nickelodion.

Stars of the musical comedy, "Gee-Eyes Right," were featured during the intermission. Virginia Eggen and Carey Alsop repeated their "Tomorrow and Tomorrow" duet. Virginia Chaney sang "I'm a Sucker for a Pucker," and Winton Wood vocalized on "I Wrote a Song for You."

The dance was financed by the battalion fund and everything was free including refreshments.

Members of the faculty and military personnel were patrons and patronesses.

Former Idaho Man To Work For Ickes

Richard H. Rutledge, director of grazing in the department of interior for the past six years, will relinquish his office in Salt Lake City to become a special adviser to Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior.

Mr. Rutledge, a native of Idaho, had conferred upon him in 1933 an honorary degree in forest administration from the university.

Eldridges Fete ASTPs At Party

Students of Dr. J. G. Eldridge's ASTP German classes were guests at a buffet supper at the Eldridge home last week. The wives of the men and Marie Emma Jo Long were special guests.

They went for a ride and all she did was shake her head. After 50 miles she told him her nose was stuck in the windshield wiper.

Here's a very funny thing about War Bonds

IT'S A FUNNY THING, but many people still have the wrong slant on War Bonds.

These people think that when they buy a Bond, they're giving, or donating their money to the war.

You might say they have a grin-and-bear-it attitude about all their War Bond purchases.

Well, that's a strange attitude. Because while buying Bonds is patriotic, and while it is necessary to help the Government pay for planes and tanks and guns, it is not a personal sacrifice.

In fact, buying a War Bond is just about the most advantageous thing you can possibly do with your money.

Why?

You couldn't make a safer investment. The Government itself backs every dollar you invest.

And the Government pays a good, sound rate of interest—you get $4 back for every $3 you put in.

That means that when the war is over, everybody who's been buying War Bonds will have a comfortable financial backlog—a backlog that will help him do such things as build a home, send his children to school, and travel.

And, finally, by investing the money that otherwise would be burning a hole in our pockets these days, we're helping to keep down the cost of living.

So it's a very funny thing that some people still think they're giving their money when they invest it in a War Bond.

SPORTS SHORTS

By JACK GOETZ

As the track season swings into full stride the spotlight turns on Michael J. "Mike" Ryan, trainer and track coach for the Vandals. After 19 years of coaching at Colby college, Maine, Mike came to Idaho in 1935 and in his nine years here has a fine record behind him.

"Mike's" job has been to keep his athletes in condition and to turn out a fine track team each season. "Iron Mike" manages to develop and keep his athletes and himself in fine trim. While in high school and college days "Mike" was quite an athlete, capturing five worlds records and was a member of two Olympic teams in 1908 and 1912, as a long distance runner.

Army Coach

In 1914 "Mike" started his coaching career as athletic director and coach for the tenth regiment of the National Guards in New York. In 1917 he entered the U. S. army and spent two years as athletic director at Camp Upton, N. Y. After the war Mike went to Bates college, Maine, for three years and from there to Colby college. It was during this period that the master of the cinders, as a coach, accompanied four teams to Olympic meets; at Antwerp, Belgium, 1920; Paris, France, 1924; Amsterdam, Holland, 1928; and in Los Angeles in 1932.

MIKE RYAN

Coming to Idaho in 1935 the Idaho track coach not only brought himself but five athletic sons. Jerry, the oldest son, had ended his athletic career before coming to the Gem state. While at Colby he earned letters in football, hockey and track. After finishing his masters degree here at Idaho Jerry followed his father's footsteps and went into the coaching game himself coaching at Madison, Me., Idaho Falls, and Skagway, Alaska.

Mike's next two sons Ben and Paul earned letters in football and track while playing for the Vandals. Next came Bob and John who both earned letters in basketball and Bob earned his letter in cross country while John scored in baseball. Tom, Mike's sixth son and sports editor on this paper the first semester earned freshmen numerals in track and his major letter in golf.

The Ryan family is known as the "fighting family" of the University of Idaho as five of the six sons are serving in the armed forces at this time.

Not only has the Idaho coach brought fine athletes up but has kept the men at Idaho in fine condition. It is the wish and hope of every athlete of today that he might live as exciting a life as Idaho's famous coach.

Measles Claim No. 1 Spot On U. of I. Sick Parade

By BETTY ANN CRAGGS

That the University of Idaho students, in all of their superior adulthood, are not above having childhood diseases is shown clearly in infirmary reports for the past two months. Red measles, German measles, three-day measles, ten-day measles are number one on the sick parade. Head Nurse Buchanan, at the infirmary, said that there were about 15 measles cases among the GIs and U.I.s within the last 60 days, but admitted they come and go so fast that she couldn't keep the figures straight.

Mumps are a poor second on the casualty list, causing only three quarantines — two of these soldiers. Measles and mumps are bad enough when taken separately, but consider the case of the girl who suffered from a case of swollen jaws, then after being released only a few days, came back with a flaming case of measles. Oh, sweet justice . . . where art thou? Scarlet Fever Enters

Last, but not least, to coin a phrase, was the case of acute contagious disease caused by a steppe-cosill and causing a scarlet rash and followed by a disarrangement of the skin—scarlet fever to youse guys. The Gamma Phi victim is reported "nicely recovered."

At the approach of spring (?) fewer cases are reporting for hospitalization but during the lull, the infirmary staff is busily preparing for the epidemic of that dangerous and extremely contagious disease, spring fever.

Babe Brown Announces Vandal Squad For 1944 Baseball Season

Fifteen candidates for the University of Idaho's Vandal baseball squad checked out suits Monday night but cold weather kept the diamond candidates inside Memorial gymnasium where only limbering up drills were possible. Coach J. A. "Babe" Brown expected a few more prospects to check out suits before official outside practice gets under way.

McLean field's diamond is being worked on under the supervision of Frank James, university golf course caretaker, and will be in good shape for outdoor drills as soon as the weather permits.

Preliminaries Show Skill

Those checking out suits this week included: Russell Conrad, Kellogg, catcher; Gordon Harke, Chicago, Ill., pitcher and catcher; John Collins, Chicago, pitcher and catcher; Dee Harris, Portland, Ore., pitcher and outfielder; Chuck Kerr, Boise, catcher and infielder.

Ed Putnam, Hermiston, Ore., infielder; and Manfred Morris, Spokane, Jim Brown, Weiser, and John Kuroda, Nampa, all outfielders. Ted Watanabo, Moscow, and Stan Barnhart, Harrison, utility.

Weather Hampers Tennis Practice

Cold, wet weather has hampered practice for the university tennis team during the past week, according to Coach Bill Ramsey. Coach Ramsey said that he had five men out during the week and expected another one or two in a few days.

J. Bryan Anderson and Larry Douglas, two members of last year's team, have been showing promise during early workouts. Other men out include Cecil Saunders, Dean Dinnison and David Schwalbe.

Dr. W. M. Beeson, associate professor of animal husbandry, was elected secretary-treasurer of the Latah county swine growers association.

The extension service of the agricultural department of the university has been doing its part in increasing the production of food for use both here and abroad. The department has issued some 34 various pamphlets on "Food Production for War." These pamphlets are four pages, and can easily be read in 10 or 15 minutes. All of these bulletins have been written by some member of the faculty on varied subjects. Some 40,000 copies of one of these pamphlets were printed for distribution to the various farmers throughout the state of Idaho.

Another bulletin published by the agriculture department and written by W. E. Shull of the department's staff is "Idaho Recom-

Group Sponsors Farewell Party

Members of the Lambda Delta Sigma sponsored a farewell party for all ASTP students leaving the campus. It was held at the L.D.S. institute Sunday, March 26, from 3 to 5:30 p. m. Entertainment and refreshments were provided.

From the Butler Collegian comes the definition, "Her head is like a doorknob. Any man can turn it." Or "a coordinator is the man who brings organized chaos out of regimented confusion." The DePaul tells us that pay day is the day set aside once a month for transfer of money from one officer to another by media of enlisted men—how about that?
