Once again the time of year approaches when electioneering and politicking is about all that can be said for coke table conversations.

In the history of campus politics, it has been a rare occasion for a woman to be entered as a party candidate for the presidency. Never before has a woman been elected to fill that office. It's obvious that this year will see a change in precedence.

By use of proportional representation, the candidates most acceptable to the most voters fill the nine positions on the A.S.U.I. executive board. This year both parties made a play to practically defeat the purpose of proportional representation by not nominating a complete slate, the idea being to concentrate on drawing more first votes to fewer candidates and obtaining a clear majority on the board. However, such efforts fell through for both parties; though both are backing fewer candidates, the same number of acceptances of nomination were filed from each party.

Politicians Still Active
It's still true that while T. N. E. is out of the picture except for a few possible strays, the party nominations are shoved through by a few in the separate caucuses. And party handbills smeared across the campus in the wee morning hours will probably be destroyed by opposite party members in even lighter hours. No matter how strong and loud the promise of party chairman is for a "nice, clean election," a mud-slinging campaign with traditional flying knives generally results.

However, it is not upon this type of political tricks that the outcome of the election will depend. Both parties are practically equal in number. The outcome of the election will rest upon a few individual votes—it may include yours. Yes, the you who thinks that you needn't vote, that your one vote will carry no weight. It is your right and privilege to vote, and it is you who is affected by the result.

Members of the election board, which is bi-partisan, are the sole judges for election, other party representatives being excluded unless they can present a petition from the executive board. In previous years, party politicians have tried to shove themselves in on the counting. If they want to be there, Jason suggests that they try passing the exam given by the election committee with a grade that justifies their membership on the election board.

Students Eligible For Scholarships

Young women and young men who have had at least two years of college and have had training in differential and integral calculus are eligible for full tuition scholarships for professional training in meteorology, according to a government bulletin received by the registrar's office last week. Selected students will enter a 35-week training program which will fit them to enter government service at annual salaries ranging from $1800 to $2000 per year.

While all tuition expenses will be paid by the government, students must pay their own living expenses and transportation costs. New York university, University of Chicago, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology are the three schools selected for the training program.

Students who are interested should apply to the head of the meteorology department of the university of his choice, submitting a statement of qualifications and a transcript of college credits.

Honorary Pledges Music Students

Beta Sigma, Idaho chapter of Phi Mu Alpha, national music fraternity for men, pledged three members at a special meeting held last week in Hall Macklin's studio. Pledges are Dr. Gerhard Wiens, Dale Dunn and Jim Defenbach.

Dr. Wiens is a professor in the school of modern languages and his appreciation for music dates back to the days of the Russian revolution, when as a child in a small Russian village he first learned to pick out tunes on the balalaika. His familiarity with Russian folk songs was brought out in the ASTP concert he directed, when his Russian students, known as the "Snake River Costacks," sang songs he had taught them.

Jim Defenbach and Dale Dunn both play in the pep band and in campus orchestras.

An addition to the faculty members of the Idaho chapter is Joseph Brye, pianist and new assistant professor of music, who became a member of Phi Mu Alpha at Northwestern university, where he received his B.M. and M.M. degrees in music.

Communique Comment

German attempts to break up concentrations of Russian troops in the vicinity of Stanislawow have failed, and military observers expect the Red Army soon to open a three-pronged attack converging on the railway center of Lwow. Such a drive would probably be the preparation for a major offensive designed to wrest the Lwow-Lublin-Krakow triangle in southern Poland from the Wehrmacht.

Russian success in a push toward Krakow would open a path for the Red Army into the industrial centers of Silesia and Czechoslovakia. By striking toward Krakow, the Soviet columns would keep to the valley of the upper Vistula and would bypass the barrier of the Carpathian mountains. Capture of Lublin would outflank the defenses which the Germans have prepared along the Polish Bug River. It would also pave the way for thrusts at Warsaw and Brest-Litovsk that would threaten the communication lines of the German divisions in White Russia and northeastern Poland.

The Russian offensive in the Lwow sector will probably be accompanied by drives toward the oil region of southern Rumania by the armies of Konev and Malinovsky that have crossed the Pruth and the Dnestr. We can also expect the Russians to launch holding attacks in the Carpathian mountain passes that lead to the Plain of Hungary—and to start thrusts north and south of the Pripet Marshes aimed at Minsk and Brest-Litovsk. Such a strategy would make it difficult for the German army to hold at all points with its limited reserves.

Russian advances in the Ukraine in the past winter showed the ability of Stalin's commanders to outmaneuver the German generals even when the latter were defending prepared positions along natural barriers. The fighting in the Ukraine also testified to the superiority of the Red Army over Hitler's legions in quality and quantity of mechanized equipment—and particularly in tanks. Marshal Zhukov, who commands in the Lwow sector, has already demonstrated his ability in the tactics of rapid movement and envelopment that would be suitable for a Russian drive toward Krakow and Lublin.

"I'm sorry
I invented
the pocket!"

IF I had known that some Americans would be using pockets to hold all the extra money they're making these days, I never would have invented them.

POCKETS are good places to keep hands warm. Pockets are good places to hold keys ... and loose change for carfare and newspapers.

But pockets are no place for any kind of money except actual expense money these days.

The place—the only place—for money above living expenses is in War Bonds.

Bonds buy bullets for soldiers.

Bonds buy security for your old age.

Bonds buy education for your kids.

Bonds buy things you'll need later—that you can't buy now.

Bonds buy peace of mind—knowing that your money is in the fight.

Reach into the pocket I invented. Take out all that extra cash. Invest it in interest-bearing War Bonds.

You'll make me very happy if you do.

You'll be happy too.

SPORTS SHORTS

DIDRICKSON IN COMEBACK

Babe Didrickson (now Mrs. Zaharias), probably the greatest woman athlete the United States has ever had, is now taking up a new sport—tennis. At the age of 30, she is going after some new records, having started playing tennis three short months ago. Her coach, Eleanor Tennant, says that she is ready to play in tournaments now, and in two years can be a champion. Mrs. Zaharias plans on entering the national amateur tennis championships at Forest Hills, California, if the tennis authorities will give her an amateur rating. If she enters this tournament she may add some new records to her extensive list. Here's why.

In 1932, she set two Olympic championship records in the hurdles and javelin. That same year, in the A.A.U. championships she placed first in the broad jump, hurdles, shot put, javelin and high jump. The Babe, a native Texan triumphed through 635 amateur competitions out of 636 during one stretch in her career.

PLAYERS IMMUNE TO DRAFT

Last week we mentioned that several Latin-American baseball players upon whom the Washington Senators were depending would have to register for the draft by June 12 or return home. This week selective service officials stated that persons in this country on six-month visas could not be drafted and might remain the full time, return to their native land and return to the United States next year without a draft threat.

It looks as though Clark Griffith, owner of the Senators, has pulled a fast one on the rest of the teams in the majors after all.

NATIONAL PASTIME RESUMES PLAY

Major league baseball got under way Tuesday with its third successive wartime season. Most teams are minus many of their 1943 players, and this may prove to even things up this season.

Crystal gazing will be difficult this year because many players may come and go but here's the way the clubs stack up now.

National League

1. St. Louis—Little change from 1943 champs that won pennant by 18 games. Best looking club in either league.
2. Cincinnati—Can press Cards if pitchers aren't drafted. Rest of team mostly proven veterans.
3. Pittsburgh—Good veteran infield and outfield. Capable catching staff, but pitching may collapse.
4. Brooklyn—Infield undecided, good outfield. Good catching and a fair mound staff.
5. Chicago—Could surprise. Strong outfield, but only one infield holdover. Catching hard hit and pitching fair.
6. New York—Infield strengthened from last year, but pitching very weak. Good hitting outfield and two veteran catchers.
7. Philadelphia—Chance to climb out of cellar. One half of infield and catching staff untried. Experienced outfield, but pitching may prove to be downfall.
8. Boston—Lacks punch all around. Has fair outfield and catching. Pitching will probably be strongest point.

American League

1. New York—Wonderful pitching staff, fair infield and outfield. One veteran and one rookie catcher. Plan on tight play and good pitching to take league.
2. Washington—Pitching strong suit, fair infield, good outfield and a veteran catcher.
3. Chicago—Should have sweet pitching staff and is strong in numbers.
4. Cleveland—Catching is problem, but five good pitchers on hand at present. Fair infield and if outfield comes around the Indians may be a tough club to beat.
5. Boston—Might end up in first division. Fine infield and a group of young flychasers in outer garden. Pitching and catching will be fair.
6. Detroit—Good 4-F pitching staff. Looks like fair outfield, infield, and catching.
7. St. Louis—Weak outfield, but strong 4-F infield. Catching will be fair, but pitching weak spot.
8. Philadelphia—Could be dark horse and surprise. Rookie outfield and infield. Catching good, but will probably lose part of veteran pitching staff.

Idaho Sharpshooters Win National ROTC Rifle Meet

University of Idaho sharpshooters have proved themselves the best in the nation by winning the national ROTC rifle competition for the William Randolph Hearst trophy, Lt. Col. William A. Hale announced yesterday.

The competition, which was held in January, found the Idaho rifle team winners superior in three categories: Ninth Service Command, ROTC intercollegiate championship, and the William Randolph Hearst service trophy.

Idaho's team score was 941. Other high ranking schools were Fordham university, 932; University of Illinois, 924; University of Maryland, 917; Culver Military academy, 914. The contest included those schools throughout the country having ROTC units.

Though Idaho riflemen have won many contests before, this is the first time that the national Hearst trophy has come to Idaho. A cup will be permanently awarded to the school, and the team members will receive individual medals. Captain Hugh M. Rutledge coached the team, assisted by Sgt. Jefferson D. Morgan.

Members of Idaho's rifle team were Earl Crea, Clyde Littlefield, Donald Grey, Robert O'Connor and Herman Johnson. All are members of last year's junior class, who as members of the ROTC, were called into the army in the spring of their junior year and sent back to the Idaho campus last fall for additional college training.

"This is the most successful year the rifle team has had since 1935, when it won the international ROTC championship," Colonel Hale commented.

Vandals Compete In Trial Races

This Saturday will find the Vandal trackmen getting the season underway in the first inter-squad time trial meet. Coach "Mike" Ryan said "The boys are not in the condition that they should be in this late in the season, but Idaho will be on the same level of competition as other schools." April showers have slowed down track so far this year.

Babe Brown Gives Intensive Workout

Coach J. A. "Babe" Brown gave Vandal diamond men intensive workouts on indoor baseball during the first part of this week's turnouts. Coach Brown also placed special emphasis on hitting and fielding during the week. Reserves have been doing a fair amount of hitting with the first squad taking the field in order to work out probable game difficulties.

Coach Brown has been using Chuck Kerr and Russell Conrad behind the plate and "Lefty" Bill Carbaugh on the mound for the regulars. Possible infield men at present are "Spike" Morris and Darwin Brown on first base, John Kuroda at second, Len Pyne playing shortstop, and Dale Ablin on third base. In the outfield, Jim Brown is left fielder, Sumner Johnson is a fixture in center field, with Ed Putnam and Gordon Hanke battling for the right field position. Darwin Brown, newcomer on the squad, has been showing a lot of hustle around the hot corner, as well as making his first try at the initial sack.

Among the reserves that are showing increased ability are Ted Watanabe, Dick Lavine and Dee Harris. Lavine has a good hitting eye and may press some of the regulars with a little more fielding practice under his belt.

A little time was devoted to sliding practice in the sawdust pits during Tuesday's workout. More stress will be put on this during the rest of the week, according to Coach Brown.

Last week's practice game with the navy radio school was postponed because of rain. The game may be played this week-end if arrangements can be made for the navy boys.

Ryan Boys Receive High Recognition

Captains Paul and Ben Ryan, former Vandal athletes and sons of Mike Ryan, Idaho track coach, have again received recognition for exceptional soldiering ability. According to the "Bayonet," camp newspaper of Fort Benning, Ga., Lt. Col. Joseph A. McDonald, who commanded the assault on Makin, praised Paul and Ben in a speech addressed to five, high ranking officers who were also in the Makin engagement.

The battle for Makin, notable for its small number of casualties, introduced a new phase of warfare. Colonel McDonald credited the success of the Makin engagement to the ability of the infantrymen to demolish pillboxes with dynamite, a technique in which the Ryans have had much training during their stay in Hawaii. In fact, Capt. Paul Ryan is now in charge of a training school in Hawaii—his own project from the beginning—where such methods are being taught.
