

Jason pauses in his quest of the golden fleece while on the mythical journey with the Argonauts to look around the campus and see what's in store that the students of the University of Idaho should know about.

First of all, how many of us know that several all-important university events are being held here this week end? The dramatics department, always good for a splendid performance, is offering "Lady Precious Stream," Chinese play extraordinary, which is one of the first of its kind to be given by the university. Casting occurred October 19, and after a month's concentrated rehearsal, its members are ready to entertain the student body, parents, townspeople and all who wish to enjoy this Oriental play. Students attending the first annual band clinic are invited to the public opening Friday night, and Navy personnel will preview it Thursday night at final dress rehearsal.

Band Clinic New

Which brings us around to another big event—the band clinic. Several years ago, music festivals were held on the campus and were pronounced a success, but the band clinic is something new this year, which the music faculty hopes will warrant return engagements annually. Eighty-five visiting students will be guests at halls and houses on the campus. A 145-piece band performance Saturday afternoon in Memorial gymnasium will culminate the clinic. It is open to the whole university and to all others interested.

Sports Fans, Rally Round

The Inland Empire Schoolboy Championship race will be run here Friday, with eight teams from Inland Empire high schools participating. A two-mile race, the event will take place on the golf course Friday at 3 p. m.

Saturday will bring more excitement when the Idaho track team meets Washington State, Whitman and the Navy at 1:30 p. m., also on the university golf course.

First basketball game of the season is set for Wednesday night, when the Idaho Vandals meet Gonzaga at Spokane. The Idaho sports department will again be represented in the Washington city on Thanksgiving day when the track team takes part in the annual Turkey day race.

What Will You Say?

There you are, students—there's a full schedule ahead, and what are you going to do about it? Ten years from now, someone may be checking through some newspaper files and ask you about some of these events—did Idaho beat Gonzaga at the initial game of the season in 1944? What was the first band clinic like? And, what will you say?

Many of us have the habit of hiding within our shells—of clinging to the house—of shutting out the immediate outside world entirely for the sake of some personal whims. And, in reality, we are missing the most important things—those closest to us, and the ones which we would remember probably the longest. The events planned for the near future at Idaho are a vital part of college life—they are the things that outsiders know about and expect, you, who were a student here at the time, to know about.

And don't think for a minute you'll be making a sacrifice by attending any university event—every one of them is planned carefully from an entertainment point of view as well as to provide outlets for student's ambitions and talents.

Your Money's Worth?

During the last weeks, we have had many outside speakers in all-school assemblies. They came to the university to give some of their hard-gained knowledge to students, to help them realize and prepare them for some of the things going on in this world. And, they were paid by the school—by you. Did you get your money's worth? These speakers contrasted countries and conditions in other parts of the world, stressing that many of them subsist on only a fraction of the amount of food, luxuries and everyday things that we in the United States have come to think of as necessary items. We don't know what a war-torn country is like and how extremely lucky we are to be able to go to school, have fun and enjoy group entertainment such as is offered here.

Have you missed the boat? Time to take off the rose-colored spectacles. (Continued on page 3, col. 6)

Curtain To Rise Friday On Unusual Oriental Play

High School Instrumentalists Gather For All-University Band Clinic

E. J. Marty, who will direct the 147-piece band in a concert to be given here Saturday afternoon, when 85 visiting students and university musicians participate in the first annual band clinic to be held on the Idaho campus.

"Learn to play the finest music—musically" will be the order of the day for students, directors and supervisors participating in the first band clinic, being held here November 17 and 18. The purpose of a band clinic is not necessarily to present to students and the public a perfected program of music, but to develop rehearsal technique and tuning methods, to acquaint students and directors with newly published music and large group performances, and to give those from smaller communities the opportunity to work in massed organizations, according to A. A. Beecher, head of the department of music.

Eligibility is determined by the individual's dependability, cooperation, rhythm, intonation, technique and tone, as well as the recommendation of his band director. Experience, contest ratings, and amount of training are also determining factors.

Mass Band Concert
A full schedule for both days has been planned. Climaxing the session will be the clinic band concert at 2 p. m. Saturday in the Memorial gymnasium. The nucleus of the band will be the University of Idaho band. The band will be composed of 152 members, under the direction of Mr. E. J. Marty.

Other conductors will be chosen from the leading high school band directors attending the clinic. The public is invited to attend this concert, as it will be the only opportunity to hear the students and their work.

Housing for the women will be provided by the sororities and dormitories. Dean Louise Carter and Miriam Little have charge of the committee; Jean Armour is chairman of hostesses from each living group. The following have been appointed to act as hostesses for their groups: Jean Gochmour, Betty Jo Gregerson, Hays Hall; Sidney Buchanan, Winifred Toyne, Forney hall; Doris Adams, Barbara Ravenscroft, Ridenbaugh; Betty Cardwell, Jean Beveridge, Gamma Phi Beta; Lalene Cargill, Betty Scott, Kappa Alpha Theta; Elizabeth Sutton, Barbara Collins, Pi Beta Phi; Evelyn Fisher, Gloria Vosburgh, Alpha Phi; Jean Bonnevill, Clara Rowell, Delta Delta Delta; Donna Harding, Madelyn Sandberg, Alpha Chi Omega; Evelyn Thomas, Arty Powell, Kappa Kappa Gamma; and Lucille Thompson, Jean Armour, Delta Gamma. In charge of the men's housing are Dean H. E. Lattig,

Women Complete Preliminaries Of Intramurals

Women's intramural debate enters its final stage tonight with Gamma Phi Beta, Delta Gamma, Forney hall and Kappa Kappa Gamma remaining to compete in the final discussions. Kappa Alpha Theta received the second defeat necessary for her elimination at the hands of the Kappa's last night. Gamma Phi Beta maintained her undefeated status when she beat Delta Gamma last night. Delta Gamma, Forney hall, have suffered one loss.

The topic for discussion this year is: "Resolved that the Federal government should enact legislation for compulsory arbitration of labor disputes." Monday night Forney hall debating affirmative lost to Kappa Kappa Gamma's negative case. Kappa Alpha Theta upheld the affirmative over Pi Beta Phi, and Gamma Phi Beta's affirmative case prevailed over Ridenbaugh hall's arguments. On Tuesday, Ridenbaugh Hall and Pi Beta Phi were eliminated when their affirmative cases fell to Forney hall and Gamma Phi Beta respectively. Delta Gamma defeated Kappa Alpha Theta.

War Maps Record Geographic Study

War maps are playing an important part in geography classes of both civilian and army students, according to Virgil R. Baker, professor of geography and geology. The war is being followed and recorded on these National Geographic Magazine maps with pins. The whole military and geographic situation is made clearer in this way. Student interest is noticeably stepped up through use of this current geography. "Americans are geographically illiterate," says Mr. Baker, "and these geography courses should probably be more popular than they are at present."

Phi Chi Theta Taps

Phi Chi Theta, national business honorary for women, tapped Velma Wilkerson, Alpha Phi, at their fall tapping November 9th. To be eligible for the group a woman must have a 2.8 grade average, attend the university three semesters, and show a professional interest.

H. E. Lattig Gives Names of Vets Attending The U.

Pem Club to Begin "Play Nights"

Pem club, an organization for all men and women majoring or minoring in physical education, is being organized for the coming year, according to Muriel Whitman, secretary.

Next Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. in the men's gymnasium, the club will hold its first meeting, at which time election of officers will take place. The group plans to have "play nights" this semester as they proved to be quite successful last year. Every student is invited to attend these evening events and join in the various games offered. Volleyball, swimming, shuffleboard and ping-pong will be among those offered. Exact dates for the parties will be announced when final arrangements have been made.

Registrar Re-takes Frosh Photos

The mystery of "who broke the camera" probably won't be solved, according to D. D. DuSault, registrar, but repairs have been made and this week identograph pictures are being re-taken for the registrar's file. Nearly 110 pictures taken during new students' registration in September were ruined, the registrar explained, when one side of the film split and rolled up in front of the lens. These pictures are used, DuSault pointed out, in identifying students after they leave the university, often when they write for recommendations.

Heiden Reveals New Slant On Defeated Germany

Konrad Heiden, German-born journalist and author who has made a life's work of combating nazism and fascism, declared at the public events assembly yesterday morning that Germany will begin to decline as a world power as soon as the present conflict is ended. He based this statement on figures which point to a decline in population of Germany from the present 67 million to 45 million in 1960.

Mr. Heiden was born in Munich in 1901 and there began his study and opposition of the Nazi party. He is author of "Der Fuehrer," Book-of-the-month club selection, and "History of the National Socialist Party." This latter book caused his exile from Germany and took him to the Saarland to continue his campaign against Hitler.

He warned his audience against counting completely on the decline of Germany and not making other plans for the control of the beaten Nazis. He pointed out several ways in which Germany could maintain strength as a world power.

"By associating herself with strong allies," Mr. Heiden said, "Germany could still hold her place in the world. Similarly, controversy within the United Nations would give the German people a chance to regain their strength and re-arm themselves as was the case after the last war."

Nazism will not die with Hitler, the speaker declared, but will instead live on for perhaps two generations in the German people. He pointed out that Napoleon had the glory of the country for 40 years after his defeat and that many movements were formed to return to that form of government. Many plans for the control of post-war Germany by the allied nations have no sound basis, according to Mr. Heiden. One of these plans is to kill all the Germans as beasts. Mr. Heiden disagreed with this theory arguing that "they should be punished only after a fair trial and because they" (Continued on page 2, col. 2)

Pres. Dale Speaks In U. Program On Armistice Day

Celebration of the twenty-sixth anniversary of the Armistice as a memorial to those who gave their lives in World War I and II, was held Saturday, November 11, at 11 a. m. in the auditorium under the auspices of the American Legion.

Main speaker was President Harrison C. Dale, who spoke on "the unfinished task" that this generation must complete. The President urged that we avoid the smug, self-confident pacifism that followed the last war and look, instead, to our potential force as a means to prevent the enemy from taking advantage of our good will. He concluded: "Resolved: That this generation dedicate themselves to the unfinished task remaining before them."

Immediately following, the Moscow American Legion Auxiliary, under the direction of Mrs. G. O. Baker, lit memorial candles. During the ceremony Professor Robert Walls sang "There Is No Death." A talk by Reverend Walter Armentage, on the sacrifice we must make to pay our debt for the great price being paid for our freedom concluded the program.

Opening and closing services were handled by the Army and Navy units stationed here. Members of the Moscow American Legion post, headed by Commander R. O. Stillenger, planned the Armistice program.

Students Schedule Home Ec Meeting

Business Opportunities in Home Economics will be the theme of the home economics program scheduled for Monday at 4 p. m. in Ad 304. Appearing at the meeting as guest speakers will be Miss Marion Lage, nutritionist for Washington State dairy council; Mrs. Sylvia Hemingway, home service representative for Washington Water Power at Moscow; and Mrs. Emma States, known to the Inland Empire as Dorothy Dean of the "Spokesman Review."

Women Will Trade At Dinner Hour, Says Cardinal Key

Dinner exchanges for women sponsored by Cardinal Key will begin Tuesday, according to Patricia Hagan, president. Last year the plan of women's dinner exchanges was practiced successfully at the initiative of individual group houses, but this year for the first time dinner exchanges are being organized on an all-campus basis.

To become better acquainted with other university women, 10 members of each campus living group will be exchanged with an equal number from another. Dinner will last from 6 p. m. until 7 p. m.

To help meet the urgent need for finishing remaining dressings before the closure of the Moscow Red Cross bandage rolling unit in January, members of Cardinal Key will devote an hour each Tuesday evening to Red Cross work.

Pre-Meds Receive Assignments

Dr. Edward S. West of the Oregon school of medicine at Portland, visited the campus recently as civilian interviewer of AST pre-medical trainees. These men were interviewed by a board comprised of Col. Benjamin S. Hensley, Lt. John H. Swain, classifications officer, and Dr. West. This was the final examination before recommendations assigning the AST men to medical school were given. The purpose of the interview was to ascertain whether these men were academically and personally prepared for medical school. Factors considered were personal stability and scholastic record.

AST pre-medical students who were found satisfactory will leave December 30 either to go directly to medical schools or to be assigned to general hospitals until openings in medical schools are available.

Rural Housing Is Postwar Plan

Rural dwelling construction and repair in Idaho may provide around 12,000 man years of employment during the first 10 years after the war, according to a report just issued by the University of Idaho agricultural experiment station. This would come from about 5,600 rural dwellings which will need replacement and about $20,000,000 in needed repairs.

"Idaho Postwar Rural Housing and Health Program," the title of the publication, is one of a series prepared by the Idaho postwar planning committee to provide the foundation for postwar programs in the state. This report was prepared by the committee on rural living conditions and represents contributions by farm security administration, public health department, bureau of vital statistics, anti-tuberculosis association, bureau of census, and the bureau of agricultural economics.

With an imperial clang of a gong, curtains will draw on the dramatic department's performance of the romantic and humorous comedy, "Lady Precious Stream," to be presented Friday and Saturday evening at 8:15 in the university auditorium. Wit, intrigue, and adventure are all predominant as the plot unravels the unusual love story of Precious Stream, favorite daughter of a powerful Chinese official, Wang Yun, for the gardener, Hsieh Ping Kieu.

Tickets for the production are on sale in the student union book store with final sales Friday afternoon. A special program for the naval unit stationed on the campus will be presented Thursday evening by the cast.

Carrying the main roles are Joanne Hunter of Pocatello and Ralph Joslyn of Boise. Joslyn portrays the role of the gardener hero who makes a fortune in the "western lands" and returns to China in time to ruin the plots of Wei, a part taken by Art Packenham of Moscow. Complications in the latter part of the script are presented with the arrival of a princess of the west played by Barbara Jo Smith, with whom Hsieh Ping Kieu has diverted himself injudiciously.

In vivid contrast to the dark and plain Chinese stage are the fantastically gay costumes of the actors. Many of the costumes are reproductions of the successful New York presentation of the same play. Miss Jean Collette, director of dramatics, pointed out that the 500 successful productions of "Lady Precious Stream" in New York and London may be partially attributed to the humor of the plot and the vivid contrasts of color.

Special Music
Typical Chinese music, amplified from special records, portrays and introduces the nature of each character or activity. Soft, shuffling steps and other Chinese mannerisms overshadow the absence of properties and hold the audience's interest with the unusual atmosphere created.

Other parts in the cast of 37 are taken by Lenore Mays, honorable reader who introduces the acts, dressed in blazing red satin, and Marian Krussman and Elaine Anderson as black-clad property "men." Oriental attendants are (Continued on page 2, col. 6)

Enlistments Open For Seniors In Army Reserve

Colonel B. H. Hensley, commanding of the Army specialized training reserve program at the University of Idaho, appealed to mid-year high school graduates for ERC enlistments under the same army educational program which is now being carried out on the Idaho campus. The group called for now would be in uniform and at the selected college not later than March 1. Military scholarships offered to the applicants provide free tuition, housing, subsistence, medical care, uniform, textbooks, and transportation to the college or university. Included in the required curricula are mathematics, physics, chemistry, history, English, geography, physical and military training, which are taught in classrooms separate from regular university courses.

Enlistments in the group will be suspended January 1, 1945, Colonel Hensley said. He stressed the ASTRP pre-induction training is intensive, demands responsibility, and sharpens the soldier's intelligence.

Sailors Evacuate Art Building

Navy personnel have vacated entirely their quarters in the Art building, according to an announcement made yesterday by Harrison C. Dale, president of the university. He said that rooms and offices will be restored to the former architectural arrangement and other departments which formerly were housed in the Art building will return to their rooms.

Sleep Needed By Students

Recently a request came to our attention. This request was made by the dean of women to representatives of the various group houses on the campus, and it bears repetition. Winter is almost here, and with it come the colds, flu, and other minor ailments that all of us usually have several times a year. It seems that already the infirmary is overflowing with cases that are not judged to be very serious. The best remedy for the minor ailments that we have is a good night's sleep and proper precaution. This was the point brought out by Dean Carter in her message to the students. With the shortage of equipment and medicinal aid, our infirmary is handicapped enough without having to take care of patients when their illnesses are not really serious. If students would plan an effective course of studies and rest, many small colds would be eliminated. The old-fashioned remedy when Mother used to shove you into bed with eight and ten blankets is still one of the best ways to banish a cold—And incidentally, it would leave the infirmary and its staff free to devote the majority of their time to more serious cases.

It's The Same Everywhere, According To The Papers

Now that the last colleges and universities have gotten under way in campus activities, their newspapers are full of dates and doings, big plans and plenty of new ideas for keeping up college spirit, this year. The "Oregon State, Barometer" urges OSC coeds to go ahead, and call fellows for their house dances even if they never had dates with them, since it is merely a friendly gesture on the girl's part, with no matrimony intended, and the rationing of men is now hand in hand with gasoline and shoe rations.

In Vancouver, B. C., the "Ubysee" announces the publication of its annual student directory, while the "University of Washington Daily" cries out in an editorial that one is really needed on their campus. Exchange, Dinners. Friendliness is the theme of women's exchange dinners on the Oregon State campus, with the women wearing name tags and sport clothes to dinner and following entertainment. The same plan is in operation at Washington State, with a column in "The Evergreen" devoted to the opinions (all favorable) of the houses and halls. Remember how Idaho students have complained about the army and navy fellows rooting for the other team in all Idaho's games? According to "Notes on Nothing" by Patty in the Washington "Daily," the same trouble is experienced there with the V-12 students, who were rooting for Whittman, even with Whittman's overwhelming number of loyal supporters.

Calendar Reveals Full Schedule For Musicians

Inspection of the music calendar reveals a busy season for members of the music department. The first event to attract attention is a concert of clarinet selections by Lee Gibson. Others on the program include Glenn Swan, and Ruth Gibson, violinists; William Bailey, violist; Miriam Little, violin-celloist; and Ruth Swan, pianist. Mr. Gibson was formerly a member of the university music faculty and was in charge of band and instrumental instruction. He is now an instructor at the Naval training school in Moscow.

On Thursday, December 14, the University Singers, under the direction of Ruth Erickson, will join with the university concert band, conducted by E. J. Marty, in presenting a candlelight concert in the auditorium. Educators Coater. Alvah A. Beecher, Robert Walls, E. J. Marty, Joseph Brye, Carl Claus and Hall M. Macklin of the university music faculty, will attend a meeting of the northwest music educators conference, planning board in Spokane, Saturday, November 25.

The first appearance of the All-Girl Singing Orchestra is scheduled for Tuesday evening, December 5 in the Blue Bucket.

Pep Girls To Cheer Vandal Team

Mary Holden, newly elected yell queen, has announced that regular practices are held each Monday and Friday from 4:30 to 5:45 p.m. Tentative plans are being made to obtain new uniforms for the cheer leaders. Dr. Gail Displays Extraordinary Milkweed

By Pat Shaw
 Room 110 in Science hall is the home of an African beauty. The pride and joy of Dr. Floyd W. Gail, head of the botany department, is a three-year-old African milkweed plant which he reared tenderly from a seed.

The stalks of the plant resemble the ordinary cactus of our western plains, but the blossom is one of distinct beauty. The symmetrical pattern is a five point star of deep maroon. The middle portion of the bloom is noticeable for the maroon and gold zebra stripes. The petals are set with maroon-colored hairs, less than an inch long. The blossom usually lasts a week, but out of its native habitat, the edge of the Sahara desert, it holds its beauty for only four or five days. Dr. Gail has kept his plant in the university green house during the winter, and in his garden during the summer, as it requires warmth and sunshine in order to survive. Approximately two months after the blooming period, long pods are produced containing hundreds of flat little seeds. The African plant is a member of the milkweed family, a common plant variety grown in Idaho and the middle west.

in behalf of the guild. Joella Gage, Westminister Guild representative to Camp Seebek, Washington, gave a report of her trip last year and described the camp. The next meeting will be a church dinner held in the Presbyterian dining hall at 6 p. m. Tuesday, November 28.

Hit Parade Theme Of Theta Dance

With music staffs wound around the walls, Kappa Alpha Theta members entertained their pledges Saturday night at a formal dance. The theme was "Hit Parade of Pledges" and Theta pledge pins made up the notes with the nicknames of pledges written on the flags. Alice Woolter, recently initiated member, was honored at the affair, her name adorning the only Theta kite. Dance programs were in the shape of pledge pins. Frances Swantek was general chairman of the dance.

Patrons and patronesses were Mrs. Harry Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Swindler, Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Whitehead, and Lt. and Mrs. Charles Dostal, Miss Peggy Lyerla from Spokane was a special guest. Radio Station KWSC furnished the recorded music.

Gamma Phis Hold Peppermint Ball

"Peppermint Party" was the theme of the dance held to honor the pledges of the Gamma Phi Beta house, Saturday, November 11. Alternate streamers of red and white covered the ceiling. On the walls were drawings of "Peppermint girls," each one bearing the name of a pledge, and punch was served from a miniature candy shop.

In charge of the dance were co-chairmen Joyce Halley and June Williams. Assisting them were Betty Ring and Jean Parker, decoration; Jean Seymour, refreshments, and Judy Boon, programs.

Here's More About JASON
Enthusiasm Contagious
Need, Jason remind us Mother would before the company comes, that any, and we as students can give visitors here this week end and any encouragement we can give them in continuing their studies and further developing their interests will be greatly appreciated by them? By saying a cheerful "hello" or giving directions, their stay can be enlivened — and a toothpaste ad flash wouldn't be a waste of time either. A school is only as good as the students who comprise it, and if those students are interested in what's going on around them, their interest is reflected in those who visit there.
Jason goes on his merry way again—for the golden fleece is near at hand—most likely in our very back yard!

SPORT SHORTS

By TOM RYAN

Idaho basketball hopes took their second set-back of the season this week when the medics said, "No dice" to Paul Olson as far as the hoop sport was concerned. A Spokane doctor ruled against further strenuous activity for Olson, who was one of five returning lettermen trying for a position on the Idaho 1944-45 edition of basketball.

Brown Out

Darwin Brown was first to take the count for the Vandals by virtue of an appendectomy which has forced him into the spectator ranks for the season.

Olson received his ultimatum on the eve of the first squad cut, somewhat altering Coach Brown's plans in the segregation of talent. Though Olson didn't figure in the cut, Brown will have to move someone up to keep the squad at full complement.

Made Numerals

"Silent" Paul entered the university in the fall of '41 to study forestry and was a member of the undefeated frosh basketball team that year. In the spring he earned his numerals in baseball.

After the '41 season, Olson gave up sports until last year when he started as a reserve and worked his way into a starting position on the basketball team.

Coach Brown said he had planned to use Olson a lot this year as he was one of the few returning lettermen and had shown continual improvement in early season workouts.

PAUL OLSON

High Schools Run

Approximately 70 athletes representing seven high schools from the Inland Empire will be on the campus this Friday for the second annual schoolboy race sponsored by the Ad club of Moscow.

These school boys are prospective Idaho athletes and students; they will be guests of Idaho students and faculty.

Of the seven schools entered, it is interesting to note that Palouse and Genesee have failed, as yet, to send in entries though they are the closest schools to the scene of competition. Both were entered last year.

The boy to watch in the schoolboy class is Don Nepean of Moscow. Nepean placed second last year and is going even stronger in competition this season.

Prospects Better

Mike Ryan was a little more enthusiastic about his cross country prospects this week as a result of the showing made by the Idaho harriers against Whitman last Saturday. Gordon Meacham, Tom Kauffman, and Dan Strmac found their stride in the Saturday jaunt, and Mike thinks they will be ready for the big races slated for the next two weeks.

Smith a Threat

Walt Smith also rated favorable comment from the veteran Idaho coach. With this week's competition, Ryan thinks Smith will gain the needed condition and experience to make him a threat in the coast championships Thanksgiving Day.

Davis and Army

Whether Army is trying to keep up with Glenn Davis or Davis up with Army is hard to figure but together they are setting a pace more torrid than any seen in the history of Army football. When the Army mule got through kicking Notre Dame around Yankee stadium last week followers of the "Green" had to admit that any team strong enough to do that to the Irish had something.

By virtue of three "T. D.s" against Notre Dame, Glen Davis zoomed into the lead in college football's high scoring race. The question of stopping him has the Navy worried this week. Why not? How are they going to stop Army!

Hutson Rolling

In the national professional football picture, Don Hutson of Alabama fame is setting a record with each pass he catches and each score he makes. Hutson, who was on the receiving end for Alabama in the 1934 Rose Bowl game, with Dixie Howell doing the throwing, is rated as the greatest end of all time.

He has been in pro-ball for nine seasons and is the only player in the "play for pay" ranks who has made over 100 points in a season. And he has done it twice playing end! Last week he made 17 points for Green Bay by virtue of two touchdowns and five conversions.

Hutson holds the record for pass receiving and scoring in the pro game which means each pass he catches and each score he makes extends his record. Not a bad 175 pounds worth to have on your team! Against the Chicago Bears Hutson went scoreless for the first time in over 35 games.

Service Clubs Aid

Arrangements of the events have not been limited to the music faculty and students. Many of the campus organizations including Spurs, Intercollegiate nights and Sigma Alpha Iota alumnae have cooperated wholeheartedly, Mr. Beecher said.

Friday night, all members of the band clinic have been invited by the ASUI and dramatics staff to be their guests at the first performance of "Lady Precious Stream." Friday at 6 p. m. a banquet will be held at the Blue Bucket. Spurs will act as waitresses. A program committee under the chairmanship of Joseph Brye, has planned entertainment in contrast to the type of thing studied and performed at the clinic. "From the sublime to the near ridiculous" seems to be the contrasting keynote for the program planned by this committee," Mr. Brye said.

Mrs. Doris Snodgrass, Mrs. Glenn Jacoby, Mary Lou Scott, Mary Stanek, and Dorothy Tibury are assisting Mr. Brye. Towns Represented

Idaho Vandals Outrun Whitman Missionaries

Idaho's unpredictable harriers somewhat redeemed themselves last Saturday by outrunning the Whitman hill-and-dalers 16 to 46 at Walla. The 16 posted by Idaho is just one short of a perfect score, something rare in cross-country running.

"Antelope" Jack Anderson of Idaho more firmly established himself as the man to beat in the coast championships by showing up nearly three minutes ahead of the field. The Idaho team also posted itself as a strong contender for the coast title—something that couldn't have been said on the basis of the showing made against the Navy team in two previous races.

In winning, Idaho placed five men in the first six to cross the finish line. P. E. Grove slipped into fifth place for Whitman, keeping the Vandals from going home with a perfect score.

Smith Shows Talent

Walt Smith from Glens Falls, N. Y., took sixth, giving Idaho the necessary five places for a team score. Smith had never run before entering Idaho, and Coach Mike Ryan predicts he will develop into a capable distance runner before his spikes are turned in.

The improvement of Tom Kauffman, Dan Strmac and Gordon Meacham, all first-year men, has provided Idaho with a fair team balance and was considered by Coach Ryan the important factor in Saturday's victory.

This Week's Windup

Tomorrow and Saturday, cross country will wind up the pre-conference season with 12 teams entering more than 80 men in the Inland Empire schoolboy race and a quadrangular meet between the university, Whitman, Washington State and the Idaho Navy trainees.

Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p. m. Idaho will be running her last race before the Pacific coast championship a week from today. Competition will be keen in Saturday's race since Idaho has split with the Navy trainees and won from Whitman. Navy has beaten Washington State and Idaho on successive week ends and Whitman is running with one defeat against her.

Navy announced yesterday that it will have a team running in the servicemen's division of the Pacific coast championships at Spokane.

Babe Brown Tells Squad Chosen For Basketball

Twenty men survived the first cut on the Idaho basketball team this week with Moscow and Spokane each placing six men. From Moscow John Taylor, Bill Schull, Bob Smith, Bob O'Conner, Steve Shelton and Max Call will play and Spokane boasts Len Pyne, Bill Carbaugh, Jeff Overholser, Dick McKeivitt, Jim Pieroni and Wally Warner.

Other squad members are: Rich Morse, Hollywood; Jack Boder, Hollywood; Chuck Henderson, Bay City, Michigan; Keith Finlyson, Murtaugh, Oscar Orstein, Murtaugh; Bob Pierce, Kellogg; Chuck Schiferl, Boise; and Ned Stewart, American Falls.

Gonzaga will provide the first competition for the Vandals at Spokane Wednesday night. The Bulldogs are admittedly weaker than they were last season, though they still have the Navy men to draw from on the campus.

Idaho is depending on the run-of-the-mill to produce her team and Babe Brown would make no predictions as to what to expect from the Vandals this year.

Fifteen men will make the trip to Spokane, but, as yet, haven't been named by Mr. Brown.

Track Men Meet In Friday Race

Eight high school teams from the Inland Empire will run off their championship race on the University of Idaho golf course Friday at 3 p. m. Possibly, two more schools may enter teams before starting time for the two-mile plod.

Don Nepean of Moscow, who was beaten by Oliver Fix of Clarkston in the schoolboy race last year, has established himself as the favorite this year by defeating Fix in the North Idaho district meet last spring and again this fall in cross country.

It takes four to five years for a lobster to reach maturity.

Ward Forecasts Outcome Of Nation's Football Tilts

By RUSS WARD

Hold your seat folks, again it's that old proverbial limb for us, and a mighty decrepit twig it does seem, too.

Last week we managed to squeeze through with a .833 percentage, based on twenty wins and a tie in 25 attempts, but received swift kicks to the pants from UCLA, Minnesota, TCU and Oklahoma A & M. So, once more we lead with our chin, feeling in much the same position as Notre Dame at the moment.

USC 26, California 6—Tommie Trojan rides again. 2nd Air Force 20, Washington 7—Glenn Dobbs and Billy Sewell quiet Huskies' bark.

Other winners, we hope: Cornell 20, Dartmouth 6; Yale 13, North Carolina 7; Brown 13,

WSC Harriers Bow To Navy, West Coast Favorites

The Naval trainees' cross country team completed their victory march against Inland Empire collegians by outrunning Washington State 33-22 Saturday at Pullman. Navy bunched six men behind R. Paeth and R. Nuchollis who finished first and second for the Cougars.

Last week the sailors gave the Vandals of Idaho first and third but finished with five men in the first seven to win the race. Coach Shultz is capitalizing on team balance to win his races and has now dumped both schools in the Inland Empire.

Richard Paeth, WSC, finished in 24 minutes, 42 seconds over the muddy course followed by teammate Roy Nuchollis. Paeth was the half-mile prep titlist from Vancouver last year.

Navy Threat

By virtue of these wins the Navy is definitely the team to beat for the servicemen's title in the Pacific coast championships at Spokane on Thanksgiving day. Geiger field will enter a team of unknown quality, as will the Navy runners from Whitman college, but Coach Shultz's team gets the nod on the basis of past performance.
