

WHAT HAPPENED—WHEN

Most of the freshmen have heard remarks from the few upper classmen left who knew Idaho in "the good old days."

Let's take a peak at the Argonaut in the year 1908-09. Debate in those days occupied a big space on the front page, with Idaho and Washington State meeting each other several times.

Editors were writing editorials in those days, too, and on such subjects as college spirit and campus organizations. Ridenbaugh hall was the only dormitory for girls, and the Greek groups were nearly all locals.

Billy Sunday, well-known evangelist, held two meetings here for students; according to the Argonaut he was criticized for his slang, but was extremely popular in spite of his peculiarities of speech.

Ten years later takes us to World War I, and let's see what Idaho was doing during that war. Nearly 450 men were enrolled in the SATC, student's army training corps, and their barracks included Sigma Nu, Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta, and Beta houses.

Extension service changes announced by President Harrison C. Dale will place a Moscow man in a district extension service office and will bring here a new county agent. Both changes take place tomorrow.

The Agriculture Judging Day had taken its place among yearly campus events. All the seniors "sneaked" out to Hadden's Grove for a picnic, and undergraduates were severely reprimanded for taking the day off, too.

Three years later the campus was really swinging into normal again, and the first Idaho "special" made the trip from Pocatello, carrying 187 students to the campus.

Dean Hungerford has temporarily given up his work as head of the department of plant pathology, turning over the responsibilities to Prof. J. M. Raeder. Dean Hungerford's work as dean of the graduate school will be assumed by the graduate council, of which Prof. John H. Cushman has been named acting chairman.

Idaho tied Oregon in football for the first time since 1901. The Pep Band show included a tumbling act, a saxophone sextet, and a minstrel show. The Junior Prom, with its Dante theme and solid red decorations, was the land-

Campi Push War Loan Drive With Variety Of Themes

Americans throughout the country are responding to the Sixth War Loan Drive as they did during former drives. Not to be outdone, college and university campi are promoting various contests, assemblies, and parades to push the drive "over the top," and to send supplies to their classmates who are doing their part on the battlefield.

The home front shows the University of Utah using "Japan Next" as their theme for a $10,000 bond drive. Booths have been set up on the campus, and special displays and appeals are being presented at different functions.

According to the "University of Washington Daily," the slogan for the drive is to be "A Stamp a Day," with all houses selling them every day, and with booths set up throughout the campus. Their goal has been set at $35,000.

Oregon State college and the University of Oregon had planned to run a per capita competition during this drive, but the idea was later dropped. Oregon Staters ran an editorial in the "Barometer" entitled "Overseas Team Rally Tonight," explaining that we are out to win this game of war, and "what they need is support from the grandstands, cheers from the fans." A songfest, serpentine and rally in regular football season fashion are being held for the "Yankee team" and an overwhelming victory.

"The Oregon Daily Emerald" reports a really big drive with a "Snow Ball Rally" led by the yell squad. Each living group selected a candidate for "Bonds Away Girl," with each cent in war loan investments counting as one vote. The competition is stirring up a lot of interest, and the first day resulted in the purchase of bonds totaling $2,400.

The Sixth War Loan drive is vitally important since the war is now in a crucial stage and equipment is needed badly. Our American campi are not letting down, and they are to be commended for their original ideas and their efforts to help.

Idea Hits Snag With Idaho Stag!

Once again one of the masses has been misled by editorial phantoms (if I may use so harsh a term). This sad debacle began with an editorial relating that numerous sweet girls were sitting alone by the fireside for lack of some sprightly lad to take them to dances, shows, and things like that. On the same page ran a story relating the exceptional merits of the forthcoming "Lady Precious Stream."

A wave of enthusiasm pushed me through the door and toward the nearest telephone. For years I had remained a wallflower; now was my golden opportunity. An hour later I sank back, my face a lovely ashen hue, with enough self-confidence left to lick a postage stamp. The statistics, as tabulated by the Wolfe research bureau showed that 50 per cent of the girls available were engaged in the play as actresses, stage hands, makeup crew, properties, advertising, etc. 35 per cent had previous dates with soldiers or sailors, 10 per cent with civilians, and five per cent was in the uncomfortable situation of having something important that might or might not come up. Period.

I looked sadly at the two tickets clutched in my grimy little fist. I knew another kid that I might have given one to, but heck, he was on the stage crew too.

MULBERRY BUSH

Well, here we are again, looking back on a few weeks full of pledge dances and frantic frivolities of a few feeble fellows feeling futilely forward in a field of fatal failure.

Frank Viro finally broke down and attended a dance. He had so much fun that a certain cute little Alpha Phi was his companion at the "Sigma Nu formal." Who's this "joker" that's giving "Jan Howard" such a rush over the Coffee Pot Parade lately?

That loud, crunching sound a couple of weeks back was the noise of a few breaking hearts when the news of Betty French's wedding plans was announced in the Argonaut. By now, all the girls on this campus should have noticed what fine looking guy is hanging out at the Fiji house. The Bush refers, of course, to one Paul Wykurt.

Orchids are especially due to three people this week. Frances Marshall for continuing to be a leading element in all ideas progressive. Carl Spalding for having the foresight to lay groundwork for an outstanding social event that will not take place until the second semester, and to another Phi Delt, Jerry Riddle, for his continuous willingness to help in positions that don't receive their share of credit. Onions on those people who ridicule the alma mater they have selected. You know what we mean!

Mulberry Bush would like to know if Charles Asgian of the Campus club is still trying to scare the night watchman. Jeanne Edwards and Joy Ferguson are sweet enough to be coed-ible (Or, brother). Willie Defenbach seems to be spending an awful lot of time with his father's book, "Red Heroines of the Northwest."

with orchids to the Caduceus wearers and their "old men" for the first organized serenade of this school year. Praises also to a uniquely decorated pledge dance this fall. When you are desirous of a short cig (you furnish your own these days) drop in at the house at 918 Blake, meet the men, and relax to the most popular phono platter on the hill, "Dirty Dozen."

Where's the Directory? We returners are looking forward to the directory, which by the way, is supposed to have been proof-read but is not yet printed. Quiz week gets in the blood or system so here we are again. Prize this week to the first two correct sets of answers will be 1 cigarette (LS/MFT), 2 matches (farmer), and an empty coke bottle. Question 1: Why do the Minute Maids always run out of 25c stamps on Wednesday nights? Q. 2: How many booths in the Bucket? Q. 3: What is the Chi Phi fraternity and what is the Epsilon Omega sorority. Grab those pens and let's hit the books!

Last quiz answers: Answer 1: The "Phi Delt house cat" or known to some as the Washington State cougar mascot; A. 2: Bob Wethern; A. 3: Darwin Brown.

Thanksgiving Proves Exciting In Many Ways On Campus

"Thanksgiving comes but once a year." That may be true in many places, but not in Idaho, where the Republicans celebrate one date, the Democrats another, and anyone who hates to show favoritism celebrates between.

Officially, Thanksgiving vacation began Wednesday evening when everyone who could borrow the price of bus, train or dog sled fare, pulled out for Spokane, Lewiston, Polatch, Post Falls, and points north. The southern-Idaho-unfortunates who stayed behind "chuckled maliciously" during their Thursday dinner at the thought of the mortal battle the home-lovers would be putting up with to secure transportation.

To all appearances it was quiet on the campus when holiday aspirants had been sent off at the station, but real excitement was in evidence in many houses. The Pi Phi, for example, played a charming game of "Murder" in which Leona Bales was strangled with her own head scarf. This gruesome sports, an annual custom with the girls of the red brick house, is climaxed when the murderer receives a thorough baptism when and if she is discovered. Barbara Miller, who claims she caught the victim filching a bobbin, committed the dastardly crime.

The Alpha Chi Omegas closed their kitchen and cleared out entirely, but the Kappas wanted a home cooked Thanksgiving dinner and they got it. With Margaret Gorman at the basing spoon, Pat Hagen wielding a wicked potato masher, Eileen Quinn at the cranberry crusher, and Mary Holden in charge of pies, the KKGs batted out a Thanksgiving dinner the likes of which has never been seen. The hashers were guinea-pardon me—guests and at the latest report were still enjoying good health. The turkey must have been well done because it was served two days after Thanksgiving.

Few Attend Classes On Friday, classes met and were attended with all the enthusiasm which accompanies funerals. If you did meet a straggler on the Ad building hill, you exchanged "Well, why didn't you get an invitation out for the week-end" looks. The chief week-end diversions were eating turkey hash, walking in the rain, eating turkey soup, going to the picture show, eating turkey sandwiches and counting up the days until Christmas. On Sunday, the travelers began to return, full of stories about buses breaking down, trains being hours late, of standing for miles, etc. Now, if not before, a surge of thanksgiving swept over those who were campus-bound. And no small consolation is the fact that at least no one can ask us if we had a nice vacation at home.

Frazier Lectures Ivan Frazier, sanitarian with the Latah Public Health Unit, spoke Tuesday to the members of the home nursing class. His talk dealt with sanitation problems in restaurants and water supplies. Mr. Frazier has his offices located in Lewiston.

G. I. REPORT

By Pvs. David Greenbaum

Topic for conversation, now that Thanksgiving is past, and December's nearing, with Christmas, is what plans have been made for Christmas? The Thanksgiving observance, particularly the dinner, was, by all means, a complete success, and the mess staff hopes to make a Christmas dinner just as fine as the excellent Thanksgiving dinner of last Thursday. Latest reports indicate that all other plans for a full and complete Christmas observance are still in the tentative stage; however, by next week, plans may be more definite.

A large percentage of the men in Company A are from California. Just how it started, we aren't quite sure, but judging from noises coming from a certain room on the second floor in Lindley Hall yesterday noon, a heated debate was in progress. The subject: California vs. the United States. Everyone had something different to say, and they all said it at once. The Kappa Kappa Gammas have extended an invitation to Company A for an exchange to be held Friday, December 1, 7:30 to 9 p.m. Only 35 men will be permitted to go. Judging by the speed which the men are signing the invitation list, we'd appreciate more of the same.

Pvt. George Freeman and Dick Thornburgh left the program for their homes, both in Santa Barbara, Calif., last Friday. Pvt. Jack Chestnut will also leave the program soon for his home in Seattle, Wash.

Personals Pvt. Charles Littlejohn was taken to the Gritman Memorial hospital early this week for an emergency appendicitis operation.

Frosh Pass Time But No Exams In Library

By LOUISE COSGRIF

Looking up from a library table cluttered with books, my weary eyes wander over the conglomerated "craniums" concentrating on studying. Certain heads are aimed in degrees which invite suspicion. Is it really possible to learn French by burying your nose in the book? Does it really make you a psychologist if you can hypnotize yourself into unconsciousness when surrounded by people? Is it an aid to physical fitness to wind your legs into parts of chairs which certainly weren't meant for that purpose?

Why are those heads bobbing up and down at the rate of ten times a minute? Could watching both the door and the clock while writing letters under the cover of a shorthand book account for any of the unnecessary activity?

Oh, jolly, jumping, jelly-beans! What's the matter with that girl—looks like she's chewing gum with her tootsies. Oh I see—she's telling me something. What? Did I tell Honey about it? About what? Who's honey? You're not what? Not talking to me? Oh—I wonder what it was she was supposed to tell Honey about?

Hm, seems quiet! Strange! There's a girl sitting with her coat and kerchief on and her books stacked. There's boy standing up to stretch. There's the bell. Pandemonium breaks loose. Mass action begins. Books fall, pens come apart. The buzzing of voices belongs to those who were ready to leave fifteen minutes ago. Discussions range from Freud's theory to the absorbing topic of who's going to wear Suzie's saddles to the next mixer—poor Suzie!

Heads, crammed to the holes on top with an hour's studying, are gently lifted from the table top. Sleepy eyes glance with an air of boredom at the wide awake people who are leaving. Assorted limbs are disengaged from the chair opposite so the girl sitting in it may leave.

Those who remain through the next period seem to feel it their duty to go out into the hall and promenade down to the fountain—usually eight abreast, sweeping unwary and innocent passers by into the various doorways. After this mental "airing out" the full-fledged members of the "Presence In Library Assures Studying" club return to headquarters. The president retires behind the farthest

Social Activities Return To Normal After Thanksgiving Holidays Slump

After last week's lapse of Thanksgiving holidays, things have taken on a brighter tinge so far as social events go for this week-end. Phi Delta Theta and Hays Hall have scheduled semi-formal dances for Saturday night. The Gamma Phi Betas are holding an exchange with Company A the same evening.

Phi Beta Phi have invited their escorts to a fireside to be held on Friday, while Company A will be entertained by the Kappa Kappa Gamma at a two-hour exchange. Wednesday night exchanges included Sigma Alpha Epsilon with Delta Gamma and Kappa Sigma with Forney hall.

Mr. and Mrs. John Burg of Kalispell, Mont., were Friday dinner guests of Kappa Alpha Theta. Guests Tuesday noon at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd West and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Murphy, both of Boise.

Miss Olive Baker, National Province President of Sigma Alpha Iota, of Cedar Falls, Iowa, was a dinner guest of Ridenbaugh hall Sunday. Monday and Tuesday she was entertained at Hays hall. "Visitor of Forney hall" over the Thanksgiving holidays was Wayman Williams. Miss Nancy Atkinson was a dinner guest Thursday and a guest of Forney hall on Tuesday was Miss Marybelle Carnie of Coeur d'Alene who stopped in Moscow en route to Chicago, where she will attend the National 4-H Congress. Miss Carnie is Idaho state 4-H Canning Champion for this year.

Pvt. James Jones of Wallace was visiting friends on the campus last week-end. He was a former student, attending the university in 1942.

Clifton Stauff, former Idaho Sigma Nu, now a lieutenant bombardier in the air corps, visited the campus last week. Lieutenant Stauff, who is stationed at Fort George Wright in Spokane, was recently hospitalized for flank wounds received overseas.

Guest at the Alpha Chi Omega house for dinner this Sunday will be Dean Louise Carter.

The Sigma Chi held a dinner exchange last night at WSC with Alpha Gamma Delta.

Guests last week of Phi Gamma Delta were Don Bullock of Seattle and Lt. Charles Luke of Santa Rosa, Calif.

Another service man to visit the campus last week was Second Lt. Elma Davis, who is affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon and a former member of ROTC. Lieutenant Davis was on a short furlough after just having completed his O.C. school at Fort Benning, Georgia.

FIRE DRILL

Who would imagine that one needed to be a professional trapeze artist to navigate the fire escapes found on our campus—for fire drills, that is. Practicing for these drills has become an "escape" on this depopulated campus where such exercise is considered sufficient amusement for the girls who live only for their books. Unlike the tame drills of yesterday, where one could retain both her poise and dignity, today's consist of everything from a lecture by the town's fire chief to dangling dangerously from the ladders of a dozen or so feet above terra firma.

We've found another reason for the fire escapes to suddenly end eight feet from the ground. It means that the firemen can dash gallantly to the rescue, hoist a ladder, and prepare for the ensuing drama, while we wrestle with a severe case of stage fright.

Mid giggles, shrieks, and heartfelt moans comes an occasional hysterical, "Oh! I won't do it. I'm a psychochondriac or something." "You would if the house were burning," answers a brave soul, as she swings out the window with a Tarzan-like leap. She is also the one who leaps gleefully from below as the next one in line is given a final prod. And that's another thing—even the most timid can assume a brave attitude after she has safely reached her destination and beam with the best of them as the last few descend.

That wasn't so bad, was it? And besides, the fire chief said it took just 12 minutes and 59 seconds, but he thinks we can do better next time. Next time? Quick, the smelling salts, pliz.

The formal will be held sometime before Christmas vacation, and further arrangements will be made at future meetings of the campus organization.

The 11 members will, meanwhile, continue their visits to group houses during Wednesday dinner hours.

Guild Holds Dinner

Westminster Guild held their first regular dinner meeting last Tuesday evening at the Presbyterian church, and more will be given in the future, announced Beverly Weber, president.

These dinners are sponsored by the church women for the guild members.

Foresters Gather

Attending the barbecue held Tuesday, November 21, were 25 forestry students and the staff of the school of forestry. The barbecue was held at the old CCC camp near the experimental forest north of Troy. Chief chef for the evening was Dr. M. E. Deters.

SAI Director Exuberates Over Idaho's Campus

By CLARA BETH YOUNG

"I am thrilled with your campus, your traditions, and your friendliness," remarked Miss Olive L. Barker, province director of Sigma Alpha Iota, national professional music fraternity for women, in an interview Tuesday afternoon. Miss Barker, professor of voice at Iowa State Teacher's college and recently appointed Epsilon province president made her first visit to the Idaho campus Monday and Tuesday. While here she held conferences with SAI officers.

Expressing her enthusiastic impressions of Idaho campus life Miss Barker said, "I was especially pleased to see girls being able to eat together 'family style' in dining rooms and not having to dine cafeteria fashion as the war has forced so many college students to do. The girls here on the Idaho campus have unusual social poise, and are perfect hostesses."

Takes Photographs

Miss Barker is especially eager to bind the chapters of SAI closer together "and really have the girls feel they know one another." To help accomplish this she is taking colored photographs of SAI's and their activities in the eight chapters of the province which she will show to each campus she visits. "I snapped shots of Idaho campus buildings, SAI members and alumnae and (with a jovial laugh) one of Professor Beecher, National Phi Mu Alpha president, to show other colleges how Idaho is treating him," said Miss Barker.

"Idaho has indeed a strong chapter of SAI. The girls are extremely active and fine musicians. I was especially pleased with the group singing of fraternity songs at the formal business meeting Monday," she added when speaking of Idaho's Sigma Zeta chapter.

Round Table Discussion

This formal business meeting was one in a series of SAI round table discussions on "know your fraternity." Following the meeting musical numbers were given by Jean Armour, Marjorie Aeschliman, Lucile Thompson, and Betty Scott.

SAI alumnae and patronesses entertained Miss Barker at a luncheon Tuesday noon at the hotel and there, as Miss Barker explains, "I learned all the history and fascinating traditions of Sigma Zeta chapter."

After completing her visit at Idaho Miss Barker goes next to North Dakota, where there are

Cardinal Key Plans Service Project

President Pat Hagan reported Tuesday that Cardinal Key plans to roll bandages for the Red Cross as their new service project. She announced that the Red Cross is in need of help and each member plans to spend at least one hour each week in doing her part.

The first women's dinner exchanges of the year sponsored by Cardinal Key proved to be so successful, Miss Hagan reported, that plans have been made to continue them regularly two nights out of every month.

Red Cross Wraps Xmas Packages

Soldiers and sailors wishing packages gift wrapped and packed for mailing may take them to the Washington Water Power company on South Main street Saturday afternoons from 3 to 5:30. The wrapping will be done by the Red Cross and will start December 2, continuing through until Christmas. Mrs. H. Walter Steffens will be in charge.

Concluding the interview she remarked, "Your method of tapping members for honoraries during the dinner hour is unusual. Students should realize how fortunate they are to be attending such a fine university. I'm really looking forward to my visit here next year."

SPORT SHORTS

By TOM RYAN

It remained for Lenny Pyne to clinch a game against Gonzaga last week with a "prayer shot" from the middle of the floor to give Idaho a one-point advantage in the scoring. Pyne's heave hit the net just as the gun sounded to give himself high point honors for the evening and Idaho her first victory of the year.

"Lightfoot" Len is one of the two returning lettermen holding down a spot on the Idaho varsity (Bill Carbaugh is the other) and from his guard spot he will lead the Vandal attack this winter. Last year Pyne was the leading scorer on the team and finished fifth in the conference race. He received the honor of being chosen on the Oregonian all-conference team and on the Oregon State all-opponent team. Washington State gave Pyne and Tom Collins credit for dumping the Cougars four times. Pyne and Collins will admit that Dale Ablin, Jay Gano and Paul Olson had a lot to do with the four victories.

LEN PYNE

High School "Hot Shot"
Pyne attended Central Valley high school in suburban Spokane where he was a three sport man and made the all-city basketball team. By virtue of this, he received generous letters from the leading colleges in the northwest. The Idaho note must have been most appealing because Lenny came to Vandalville as one of the few gifts to Idaho from Washington athletic circles. And don't think the schools in the Evergreen state didn't envy Idaho for picking up their wandering son—he was high point man against WSC twice last year and was a major factor in the Washington University rout by the Vandals.

Pyne is majoring in physical education and hopes, someday, to become a coach. It is this ambition that accounts for the conscientious enthusiasm with which he participates in sports. He says you can't coach 'em unless you can play 'em so he plays 'em for all they are worth.

The "Lightfoot" is an ex-Navy man and is now a member of the American Legion. Last year Pyne shared Servicemen's honors with Darwin Brown, who is out this year, leaving Pyne the distinction of being the only ex-serviceman on the team.

PACIFIC CONFERENCE

Three University of Idaho faculty members are attending the annual meeting of Pacific coast conference athletic officials at Pasadena, California, to discuss the future of coast sports this week. Babe Brown, acting athletic director, left for the meeting after the Gonzaga game Thursday night.

Before leaving Brown said he would advocate a change in the code of ethics for the conference and endeavor to bring northwest football into the open again by scheduling games for next fall. This might not be possible because most of the schools are as bad off for material as Idaho, but the Babe thinks next fall would be the desirable time to start rebuilding.

Dean Kerr and Ted Sherman are the other faculty representatives attending the meeting.

IDAHO STARS—AGAIN

From the Golden State comes word that Dale Ablin and John Rudy Ryan are candidates for the University of Southern California basketball team. Rudy writes and says that Ablin will make it easy and Abe writes to say that Ryan can't miss. Fans who remember the two won't hesitate to say that both will make the Trojan squad.

At Idaho Ablin and Ryan were starters and both made the all-conference team for the Northern division. George Varnell of the Seattle Times, at different times, said Ablin and Ryan could make any team. We'll accept that.

WATCH LYNN

Watch the sport pages for the name of Bob Lynn who runs under the colors of the Central Washington College of Education. Sport authorities in Spokane were so impressed with the showing Lynn made in the third annual Pacific coast cross country championships that they are promoting the idea of sending him east for the indoor season.

Lynn won the race last year which didn't create such a sensation, but when he churned in 300 yards ahead of the field on Thanksgiving day people started thinking of the possibilities. If it is possible for Lynn to go east for the big meets this winter he might not win all his races but no one is going to embarrass him in the running game.

mark of the year. President Harrison C. Dale was, at that time, head of the department of economics and political science. Idaho's basketball team won two conferences, and went to the national tournament where they lost the most brilliant game of the tournament to Kalamazoo, and by only four points. Students from WSC joined Idahoans in an intercollegiate "bury the hatchet" picnic in the spring.

600 Fresh Register
Six hundred fresh were registered at the university for the year 1934-35. The Pi Beta Phi and Kappa Alpha Theta houses and Hays hall were under construction, while the site for the new Memorial gymnasium was dedicated. One of the biggest fall dances was the Ag Bawl, with its farmer costumes. A special train took spirited rooters to Seattle to the football game with the U. of W. Gem sales goal was set at 1200.

men for future screen contracts. "Twelfth Night" was the theme of Junior Week and the title of the all-college play, directed by John Cushman. The annual Campus Day was held, this being the day when school was dismissed and the men did odd jobs around the campus, a little construction work, and were fed by the various women's groups.

'36-7 Highlights
And now, dear students, we see our campus in one of its biggest years, 1936-37, when women students were given 12:30 permission on week-ends, the Tau Kappa Epsilon house was started, and the United Students party took all the class elections. That was the year, too, when our present infirmary was completed, and the two big all-college dances were the Dads' Day dance and the winter sports dance. A. W. S. sponsored a talent assembly for women in the auditorium, and the Idaho pep band gained fame with its "hot swing" version of "Dark Eyes" and "Chinatown."

Luxurious Hall
Willis Sweet hall, with its built-in radios and separate sleeping rooms and other luxurious conveniences, was the most modern and up-to-date dormitory on the campus. One of the two college formals was the Senior Ball, with its tuxedos and corsages. And the ratio of men to women was nearly 3 to 1. Women escorted the men-on the Spinster Skip and

The University of Idaho split with Gonzaga university in the first basketball series of the current season at Spokane last week. Gonzaga took the Wednesday night game 40-35 but the Vandals bounced back behind the sharp shooting Lenny Pyne to win 47-46 in the Thanksgiving night game.

Wednesday night the Idaho team went ahead in the first few minutes and held a slight lead until late in the first half when the Gonzagans took over and were never headed for the rest of the game.

Play was of the early season variety with both teams missing the easy ones and throwing the ball away occasionally. Bob O'Connor and Lenny Pyne were the offensive threats in the first game and Jeff Overholser made himself known around the backboards. O'Connor tallied 10 for Idaho and high point honors, while Pyne gathered 9 for the runner up spot in the scoring department.

Coach Brown substituted generously to find the best playing combination as he said he would continue to do in these pre-conference games. He said he was satisfied with the showing of all the men and winning the early games didn't concern him as much as giving the whole squad game experience.

A smoother working Idaho five matched the Boon Street Boys basketball for basket and point for point in the second game and came out the winner by virtue of a long howitzer shot by Lenny Pyne from the middle of the floor at gun time. With 15 seconds to go Gonzaga's one point lead was looking pretty big and the Vandals knew their only chance was to get the ball for a desperation shot. Idaho got the ball out of bounds and Pyne got the shot. It was good for two and a 47 to 46 victory for the Brownmen.

Scoring Honors
Pyne shared game scoring honors with Bill Tredwell of Gonzaga; each tallied 13. Dale Bly of Gonzaga rang up 9 for second, followed by Max Call and Jeff Overholser of Idaho with 8 each.

Monday and Tuesday nights Idaho will meet Whitman at Walla Walla for the opening of the annual series between the two schools. Bill Ramsey is putting the Vandals through the paces this week since Babe Brown is attending a meeting of the athletic heads of the Pacific Coast conference in Pasadena. Brown will be back in town in time to take the team to Walla Walla for the Whitman games.

Following the Whitman series Idaho will move over to meet the Eastern Washington College of Education at Cheney in a two-game series Friday and Saturday nights.

Idaho Runs Last In Pacific Meet Thanksgiving Day

The University of Idaho cross country team closed the season with last place in the third annual running of the Pacific coast cross country championships at Spokane Thanksgiving day. University of British Columbia took first prize back across the border for the second year in a row with a team score of 27.

Individual honors went to Bob Lynn, Central Washington College of Education runner, for the second time in two years. Lynn was only six seconds off the course record established by Bob White of Idaho. Lynn's time was 21:26 for the four-mile run.

Jack Anderson got the third spot for the University of Idaho but his team mates were far behind, giving Idaho last in the race and her poorest showing in the running of the annual affair.

Idaho's Navy trainees won first in the servicemen's division to complete their season with only one defeat. In pre-season races the Navy beat both Idaho and Washington State. Washington State college ran second to the University of British Columbia in the college division.

Pvt. Ray Sears of the marine base at San Diego loped over the finish line in 23:17, nearly a quarter of a mile ahead of the field in the service division.

Moscow high school dethroned Rogers High of Spokane for the prep title. Don Nepean, Moscow, who hadn't lost a race all year found the going tough on the cement course laid out for the schoolboys and finished third, four seconds behind the winner.

Coach Ryan expressed his satisfaction on the handling of the meet sponsored by the Athletic Round Table which drew over 200 runners. In commenting on the showing of the Idaho team, Ryan said that inexperience accounted for the poor Vandal showing this year. The loss of five out of the top seven men in the middle of the season crippled Idaho's team balance.

The veteran coach, however, was far from disappointed in the future outlook for the hill and dale sport. "There have been an increasing number of entries in each of the annual races and cross country is coming into its own in the Northwest," the Idaho coach said.

Servicemen's race: Idaho Naval Trainees, 29; Gonzaga, 37; Whitman, 64.

Campus Club Takes 2 Games To Lead Intramural Series

After a year's absence, intra-mural basketball returned to the list of Idaho students' activities last Monday night. J. A. (Babe) Brown is handling the play, which will consist of a two-game round robin series. The Campus club is currently in the lead with two victories and no losses.

Here's how they stand.

	W	L	Pct.
Campus club	2	0	1.000
SAE	1	0	1.000
Sigma Nu	1	0	1.000
Delta Tau Delta	1	0	1.000
Phi Gamma Delta	0	1	0.000
LDS	0	1	0.000
Sigma Chi	0	1	0.000
Phi Delta Theta	0	2	0.000

SAE 23, Phi Delta Theta 19
Paced by Cliff Streeter's 10 points, SAE nosed out DTD in a rough contest. Naylor bucketed 9 points for the losers. Dan Strmac and Gene Miller showed smooth play at forward spots for the victors.

Campus Club 24, LDS 16
Led by Ron Walker with 7 points, the Campus club rolled over LDS with ease. Using 11 men, including the coach, the club showed lots of power. Cook and Mellor scored six each for LDS.

DTD 23, Kappa Sigma 19
Bob Gardner with 8 points showed the way for a victory over the Kappa Sigs. Sam Johnson sank 6 for the losers. Play was typically early season, with teamwork lacking polish.

Campus Club 20, Phi Delta Theta 18
The Phi Deltas seem to be the bad luck club in the league, with 2 losses by one basket. A last minute toss gave the Campus club their second victory. Jim Brown and Bob Nelson shared scoring honors with 11 points each. Naylor again was high for the Phi Deltas with 8.

Sigma Nu 33, Sigma Chi 7
Frank Viro dropped 16 points through the hoop to lead the black-clad boys to an impressive win over Sigma Chi. Dick Ohm had 4 for the Sig Chi's. Sigma Nu showed some teamwork, but play for both sides was ragged.

Phi Gamma Delta, Kappa Sigma
Both teams forfeited.

Schedule of next week's games.

By RUSS WARD

Hey, don't go away. Have you heard the latest? If not, let us say it is now official that Army will sink the Navy in their annual military shindig Saturday. Who told us? Well, if you must know it was Kaastad Schumchyk, a big flatfooted tackle, who played against both teams back in '06.

But before this week's selections, a brief summarization of results last week. Our percentage was .917 on 22 right, two wrong and a couple of ties in 26 attempts. Only Mississippi and Pittsburgh were able to slug us, but what a wallop of Miss. carries. Season's mark now stands at 64 right, nine wrong, percentage .877.

Now for this week's ticklish business. Even our old two-headed coin seems worn out:

Army 20, Navy 7—Middies get a real ducking from rival cadets after kicking Mule around for last five clashes. Army's point-a-minute grid machine may be stalled somewhat, but we can't see it completely bogged down.

Notre Dame 14, Great Lakes 12—Irish remembering last season's 19-14 setback.

Georgia Tech 20, Georgia 6—You all didn't think we'd pick Gaw-ga did ya?

Texas Christian 13, Southern Methodist 0—Mustangs tamed again.

Coach Ryan's Son Returns Home From Pacific Duty

By DARWIN BROWN

After three and one-half years of service in the south Pacific, Captain Bernard F. Ryan returned to his home in Moscow Tuesday. He is the son of Mike Ryan, Idaho's track coach and trainer.

Captain Ben, with his brother, Paul, also a captain, formed a famous fighting combination for 34 months before Paul was killed in action on Saipan. Ben was badly wounded a few days later. The two brothers were members of the 165th infantry, the famous old New York 69th regiment of World War I fame. They joined the regiment in California immediately after Pearl Harbor and went with it overseas the next spring.

Ben was awarded the bronze star recently for exceptional bravery on Saipan. Before that he had received the legion of merit award during the threat to the Hawaiian islands which culminated in the Japanese reversal at Midway. The brothers, Paul and Ben, were cited by Lt. Col. John F. McDonough, now colonel of the regiment, as "the kind of soldiers who had made the 165th famous" after their achievements on Makin island.

Bernard was born at Lewiston, Me., but attended Moscow high school for his last two years. With Paul he participated in four sports as a university freshman, but thereafter confined his activities to track. He was assistant to Mike as athletic trainer for two years, and aided the elder Ryan as track and cross country coach.
