Minute Maids Try Bond Thermometer

Idaho Minute Maids have inaugurated a new method to boost war bond and stamp sales.

Beginning this week, a thermometer will be placed in the main hall of the administration building with the total weekly sales purchased by each house.

This will be on a percentage basis, according to the number of students in the individual houses.

Each Wednesday the new sales will be totaled, and at the end of each month a new chart will be started.

This competitive method, it is hoped, will boost the lagging war stamp sales, and show the standing of each living group on the campus.

Students are urged to buy to their own capacity, and make every house one hundred per cent.

The All-Girl group shared the spotlight with Ruth Draper, distinguished actress, that night.

(Editor's note: The author of the following article is John Ikeda, a Japanese student recently discharged from the army and now attending the university. He is from Bonners Ferry, where his father settled several years ago.)

WHAT DO YOU think of the war, and how do you feel about it? That is a question that I have been asked on numerous occasions, so I will try to answer it.

Yes, I am an American of Japanese ancestry so I am believed to have a different outlook of the war. Actually I haven't.

I have only been recently discharged from the army after nearly three years of service. My company was being sent overseas at the time. They were composed of Japanese Americans so were sent to the European front but I'll wager they would have been just as eager to serve in the Pacific theater.

I have "buddies" on both fronts, Japanese Americans and Caucasians alike. Some I lived and trained with in the service and those with whom I grew up and went to school with. I can only hope now that they will win that sure victory as soon as it is possible and they can come home again and find a peaceful world to live in.

There are prejudices against us, I know, but it isn't noticeable here. As soon as the military fanatics and land-hungry rulers are eliminated I am sure all future differences can be settled without the use of arms.

IF REFLECTIONS on what you are fitted to do when you graduate from college worry you, if you're still changing your major from one school to another, if you'd like to take a defense job this summer, or if you graduate in June and want recent information on the opportunities in your field, Dean Lattig's office has some booklets that will interest you. Last week monographs on about 140 different occupations arrived for the use of students who want information on vocations.

Published in 1944 by the Institute for Research in Chicago, these illustrated booklets not only point out general qualifications and opportunities in a field but also describe "My Day" as an advertising copy writer, radio technician or one of the other workers described. Reliable information on jobs in war industry and advice on how to obtain them, on new fields available to women since the war, and on wages and salaries is presented in concise, readable form. You'll find one of these monographs well worth twenty minutes of your time! —B.E.

ALTHOUGH THE WAR has upset college time schedules for thousands of persons who would have ordinarily attended school or were forced to leave, it has not destroyed ambitions toward continuing work for a degree, according to a poll taken by the American College Publicity association.

The poll showed that students are anxious to get a college education and are inclined toward college being the same as it was prior to the war. The 4000 who were polled on 41 representative campi throughout the nation vetoed the "acceleration" of courses to accommodate students in a hurry to finish their education.

Students also voted against turning colleges into mere trade schools, asserting their belief in leisurely, academic, cultural education.

They were not, however, entirely in favor of colleges as they existed before the war. Ninety per cent of those voting were in favor of colleges instituting a combination curriculum in "Earning a Living" and "How to Live," a phase that was sadly neglected before the war. They voted against educational mills turning out students unfit to assume the responsibility of life outside ivy covered walls and applying coats of theory that wear off rapidly under the harsh light of reality.

A majority of students know what they want in college, according to the survey and the war has not altered their plans as to a career after school. Only five per cent said that they would abandon college permanently if their education were halted by the war.

Post-war colleges will be forced to expand their courses far beyond the theory that typifies them now, and make classrooms a part of everyday living rather than a separate function. —T.C.

Grannis In Pacific

Ensign Gordon Grannis, former S. A. E., at the University of Idaho, stationed in the southwest Pacific, is a supply officer on the U. S. S. Henry T. Allen. While the ship was in a port he had a chance meeting with Lt. (j. g.) Harry Benoit. Lt. Benoit, upon seeing Ensign Grannis' name on the register at an Officer's Club, was introduced to him and they had a long talk about days at good old Idaho and their mutual acquaintances here. They both agreed that it sure is swell to

ASUI Boasts Sgt. As Teacher Of English

By DAVE STIDLPH

During war times it isn't every college that can boast a former buck sergeant for an English instructor. However, the University claims a first by adding to its staff Dr. Walter Maneikis.

Dr. Maneikis, recently discharged from the army, is now assigned to teaching freshman English on the campus.

Now comes the point where I'm supposed to tell a long dry story of his schools and accomplishments, but just one thing is lacking—something dry to write about.

It seems Dr. Maneikis didn't follow the regular methods of working toward a Ph. D. degree in English.

You see, Dr. Maneikis was born 36 years ago and raised mainly in the windy city of Chicago and spent a brief part of his life in Duluth and New York.

It all started when he was forced to leave high school during the last depression.

He had just completed his sophomore year when he left school to work at odd jobs; such as drill press operator, general factory work, and oddly enough amateur boxing.

Jobs were scarce in the United States so with little fanfare he traveled to Brazil, then around Central America, and finally to Alaska.

When things began to look better back in the States, he decided to return to high school in Chicago, where he worked his way through school by doing amateur boxing on the side and completing over 100 rugged bouts.

Football Star
Upon entering the university of Chicago at the age of 22 Dr. Maneikis turned out for football and garnered himself three varsity letters under Coaches A. A. Stagg and Clark Shaughnessy, both of whom are famous throughout the football world.

Not being content with the nouns and verbs of freshman English in college, he decided to make it his major subject.

This, however, did not stop his steam-roller football playing, and, obtaining a berth on the Chicago Tribune's All-American team through popular vote, he was elected to play in the 1934 all-star football game against the Chicago Bears who were then the professional gridiron champions.

After Dr. Maneikis received his masters degree in English from the University of Chicago in 1935, he coached bang-up football for a brief spell at Western Illinois State Teachers college which is in the Little 19 conference. It wasn't long afterward that the call for more education seized him and he was off to the wilds of Northwestern, bitten by the English bug and a longing for his doctors degree in English, which he obtained in 1943.

Greetings From the President

The army put in its greeting call and soon after, Dr. Maneikis was made a buck sergeant and was assigned to instructing military law, and general administration work. Unfortunately his job ran out and before someone could whistle Jack Robinson, he was assigned to the Engineers and the now famous Alcan highway.

Dr. Maneikis admits his English didn't improve much while doing construction work on the Alaskan end of the Alcan, but the work certainly got him into fine physical shape.

Big Moment

When asked what his most exciting moment was in his past 36 years, Dr. Maneikis told me about his final football game in Chicago.

It seemed his team rated seventh in the Big Ten gridiron conference, and their opponents, Dartmouth college, ranked second best in the East. They met on Soldiers' field in Chicago.

Dr. Maneikis' team wasn't given a coffin-maker's chance, but just to show them that their team was still in the league the U. of C. knocked the New England team to

In Ancient Args

If you think for a minute that the junior class has not always been an outstanding organization on this fair campus, shine up those bi-focals and let's look at the record. Only a few years back, 37 to be exact, the junior class came out with a snazzy class badge which bore artistic likenesses of each member of the class, all eight of them.

But leave it to the freshmen to be the live wires of the school. Its 18 members put their skulls together and decided that no really large and progressive institution of higher learning was complete without a gymnasium. After reaching this decision, the fireballs of '98, selected a room on the third floor of the administration building, outfitted it with hand bars, a couple of tumbling mats, and a dumbbell and lo and behold, the U. of I. had its first gym.

The high cost of living worried one and all of the students, so a boarding club was organized where three good substantial meals a day, and house rent, cost the outrageous sum of two dollars per.

The less fortunate students who brought their lunch in a paper bag were allowed an hour for the girls to go to the boiler room, the boys to retire to the seed room, and eat their lunch without fear of being tardy.

History which will repeat itself soon, we hope, was presented in an item about the boys in Manila. This optimistic bit stated that the men would soon be home, and a memorial would be erected containing the names of all the university students who had enlisted. The citizens of Idaho were patting themselves on the back because the university had furnished more soldiers for the number of students enrolled, than any other like institution in the United States.

Soldiers To Enter Advanced ASTP
Fifteen men of Company A learned that they had achieved the required scholastic average for eligibility to participate in advanced ASTP in personal interviews before the classification board Monday. Men are admitted on the basis of quotas available in advanced ASTP after the completion of basic training, Capt. William C. Wideman explained.

Men who will be accepted into advanced ASTP are: Pvt. Bill Coburn, Marshall Cohen, Lou Coupe, Jack Farquhar, Don Pack, John Smith, John Burnham, Monty Draper, Loren Majeres, Merle Smith, Ben Dake, Joe Lavigne, Don Womack, Bill Dickson, and Glen Thrush.

MYSTERY REPORTED SOLVED
The associated collegiate press tells us that the mystery has finally been solved. When Elizabeth Schultz, Michigan State college sophomore engineer, said her greatest ambition was to wear a slide rule on her belt, a frush exclaimed, "Is that what those are? I always thought they carried knives."

the tune of 41-0. Dr. Maneikis looked quietly around, then whispered, "But don't worry, Dave, I ate plenty of mud and grabbed as many legs as I could that day."

After interviewing Dr. Maneikis it seems to me as if English is the only thing he never really liked to tackle.

G.I. REPORT

Art Returns
Tall, lean, blonde, blue-eyed Pvt. Arthur Glenn has recently returned to Lindley hall after a long illness during which time he was in Baxter general hospital. Art is one of Lindley hall's veterans, having been here from July to October of last year, and having been center on Company A's football team.

Contracting Commission
Perhaps you may have wondered why there have been so many army officers on the campus for the past several days. Capt. Arnold G. Egers, Capt. William T. McGinnis, and S/Sgt. Harold N. Albert are the members of an auditing and contracting board from Headquarters, Ninth Service Command. They are visiting here to audit and re-negotiate the present term contract.

Pvt. Don Rapp
Pvt. Don Rapp was born April 19, 1927, in Bakersfield, Calif. He has played the piano ever since he was five. His mother taught him the classics, and he picked up boogie-woogie himself. Sounds a lot like the Art Tatum-Earl Hines school—terrific!

Before Don came here last July, he was teaching the piano. A De Molay, and active in scouting, he has missed no opportunity to be of service to his community. He majored in science at East Bakersfield high school and hopes to enter the field of neuro-surgery when he's out of the army. Don will go a long way. The keel is laid, and the materials are of the best.

FROM CO. B
Pvt. Jack Nettleship has been perplexed all week. It seems a certain girl from his home town arrived in Moscow Saturday afternoon along with his folks in their car. They say it's love that makes the world go around but a good swallow of tobacco juice will accomplish similar results.

"Who has a nickel? I'll trade anyone a dime for a nickel so I can get into the coke machine." A good business has been done by the "nickle-monopoly" of the Idaho club. Pvt. Donald Gores says 50 per cent is a good profit but the rest of us claim a coke is worth 10 cents.

Pvt. Bob "Hollywood" McNamara thinks he is in the navy now. He has his bed made so it looks like a lifeboat. The rest of us are under the impression that snow is a new thing to "Hollywood" and it may scare him a bit.

Piano Player
Can anyone play the piano? Out of 115 fellows, someone ought to have the ability to pound out a few notes on the ivories. So far, no one has demonstrated his knowledge of piano playing. A few one-fingere musicians—yes, but anything else—no. Anyone is assured of a good audience if they can beat out boogie-woogie here. The first four-weeks finals are

SPECIAL COURSES OFFERED

The Minot State Teachers College is planning a short course for girls living on farms who might be interested in coming to college for two or three weeks studying such subjects as homemaking, dress, consumer education, cooperation, and general education for more successful living. Opportunity will also be given for some work in music and art as well as a course in recreation and entertainment.

ARMY ANNOUNCES TRANSFERS
Pvt. Bill Christensen, Lewis Schumacher, Pat McDevitt, Bob Bennett, Bob Schwartz, Ted Roe, Don Nagler, and Dick Russell have requested to be transferred to active duty.

Pvt. Don Irish and John Derby have been transferred to the University of Utah, Salt Lake City.

over now and a few are waiting anxiously for the report cards. As one fellow said, "I didn't like it here, but now I sure would hate to leave."

Mail call, the only call which the fellows get to in a rush. The main reason for this is Pvt. Walter Duffy's bright and sometimes odd expressions when he hears his name called. Also it seems Walter had a detail of men marching back from chow with their arms extended at right angles, and also breathing in unison. In fact, he has had a number of character traits which set him off from the rest of the army.

Sigma Chi at the University of Washington had a novel way of choosing their finalists for the coveted title "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi." The mothers of the active Sigma Chi chose the 10 candidates, and the fellows have decided that their mothers know a beautiful girl when they see one. At least the girls chosen left the fellows "tossing restlessly in sweetheart-studded dreams."

Oregon State is also right in there pitching to win this war. Their latest project is an Afghan Drive. All of the women's living groups are participating, and each organization is asked to complete at least one blanket. Last year the girls completed 30 afghans, and hopes are high for even better results for this year's drive.

At Whitman college being a taxi driver would be a nice line of work to be in. We read that Mr. McCane, the registrar, acted as a taxi driver between terms. Seven coeds had to catch a train so Mr. McCane answered the call and poured all seven girls and their luggage into his car. They raced to the station and got there just in time so the girls leaped onto the train and he threw their suitcases in after them. The payoff came when as payment for the ride the grateful coeds sent him a carton of cigarettes!

The Montana State Kaimin has an editorial recently that reads like the nail on the head. Does the have a familiar sound? "You see—but there are already too many activities on the campus! Perhaps there are, but why couldn't some of those non-essential club meetings be replaced with some best-est-to-goodness contributions to the war effort. Certainly such activities rate more Spur points than some other non-essential organizations!"

Kappa Kappa Gamma and Sigma Chi held an exchange last night. There will be a fireside at the Sigma Chi house tomorrow night with Mrs. J. E. Gardner as the chaperone. An exchange with the WSC Alpha Gamma Delta has been planned, but no definite date has been set.

Guests at Phi Delta Theta this week are William Brooke from Twin Falls, who is stationed at Baxter hospital in Spokane, and Frank Bales. Both are former students of the university.

Executive boards of the home economics clubs of this university and WSC will hold a joint meeting on Thursday, March 8, to discuss plans for the province college club workshop.

The workshop will be held in Spokane on April 6 and 7, according to Margaret Ritchie, province advisor and head of the home economics department.

BENCH NOTES

By JACK ANDERSON

While wandering aimlessly around Mike Ryan's training emporium the other day, I noticed the many clippings on Idaho athletics that he had gathered in the past few years.

I asked him casually if he knew where one of the gents in a clipping was, and to my surprise he gave me complete information as to his whereabouts. Mike has contacts with nearly every ex-Idaho athlete who is at present in the service.

Bob Haworth is in a hospital in France, Ikey Minata is also in a hospital somewhere on the French coast. Okey O'Connor is in the Pacific area, as is Chuck Thomas. Tom Collins is at sea, as is Ensign Wes Deist. Lt. Vic Berlus and Dick Favaro are with the 5th Infantry Marines on Iwo Jima.

Dale Clark is now a marine lieutenant also in the South Pacific. Cy Atkins, Hoyt Anderson and Sam Auger are at Ward Island Radar Station. Ned Thurston, Chuck Ohms, Harold Davis and Dale Dunn are at Treasure Island Navy Base.

Bill Cramer is lieutenant in the marines. Ray Turner is a sergeant in charge of PE instruction at Leberal, Kansas. Fred Quinn is a bombardier on a B-17. Bob Eyestone is a turret gunner, Bill Micklick has been permanently stationed on Saipan.

You will also probably notice that the greater part of these men are officers, which should prove a little that athletics must instill something desirable in its participants.

Cougars Sweep Vandal Series With Double Victory

Avening four straight setbacks at the hands of last year's Vandal hoopsters, the W.S.C. Cougars twice trounced the luckless Idahoans in their quest for the Northern Division crown. Led by record breaking Vince Hansen, the Cougarites were unbeatable, and as in previous games, were in complete control of the backboard.

Hansen, skyscraping Cougar center, led the scoring both evenings with 14 and 15 points respectively, thus raising his conference total to 253 and shattering two records—Gail Bishop's 16 game mark of 224 points and the 2 game record of 249 tallies formerly held by Oregon's Laddie Gale.

Bill Carbaugh with 9 points and Len Pyne with 8, led the Vandals in the first game, while Pyne scored 8 at Pullman for high honors.

At Moscow: W. S. C. 48, Idaho 33. A spirited second half drive carried the Vandals within one point of the ravaging Cougars, but inevitably, Vince Hansen, who was held without a field goal in the first half, started connecting and pulled the Pullmanites into a marginal lead, which was held throughout the remainder of the game.

As the 27 fouls indicate, it was a rough game. John Taylor countered first with a swisher from the corner, but fouled Hansen while shooting. Vince promptly dropped in the record breaking point which came in exactly one minute and thirty-five seconds from gametime.

From then until halftime, it was all W. S. C., and they left at halftime with a comfortable 24 to 16 lead.

The Vandals gave the Pullmanites many an uneasy moment in the second half with Pyne, Carbaugh and Schiferl potting them from all angles.

Although beaten by 15 points, it was a much closer offensive game than the score indicates.

At Pullman: W. S. C. 49, Idaho 30. A determined, but outclassed Vandal five left the maple court 14 points deficit at halftime and 19 when the final gun went off.

Superior height again told the tale as Vince Hansen proved master of the backboard. Hansen, who broke all Northern Division scoring records in this final Idaho series, could not be checked and was continually being fed by his teammates.

Rennick and Hamilton helped the Cougar cause as they swished them from almost any place on the floor. The Vandals, in losing put up a great battle, with Carbaugh, Pyne, Overholser, Taylor and Schiferl playing driving ball.

Taylor, who had done a close job of checking Hansen the night before, fouled out early, which left no one tall enough to cope with 6 ft. 8 Vince.

The win put W. S. C. in the playoffs with Oregon, with the winner going to the N. C. A. A. tournament in Kansas City.

Sympathy: Our sympathy to Idaho yell leaders who exhausted themselves at Saturday's game at WSC trying to coax an appreciable volume of sound from Idaho students who had to scatter throughout the balcony of Pullman's gymnasium to find seats.

Faculty Wives Meet: Nominations of new officers for the Faculty Wives club were made during its monthly business meeting held Tuesday at the Student Union building. Mrs. D. E. Corless, president, was in charge. Dr. Boyd Martin spoke to the group.

Northern Division Standings table with columns for team, wins, losses, points, and games played.

By RUSS WARD (Sports Statistician) One of those rarities has happened in northern division play. We're speaking of the tie which now exists between Oregon's offensive minded Ducks and the equally aggressive Cougars of Washington State.

Thus, a best two-out-of-three playoff series is in the offing. It opens Saturday night at Pullman, and will be resumed the following Friday, March 16, in Eugene.

Two Top Old Mark: Record-breaking Vince Hansen, Washington State lanky "Evergreen," not only surpassed Gail Bishop's former mark by 23 points, now placing it at 253, but also broke the field goal record with his 98. This was a trio more than Bishop could account for in '43.

Individual scoring follows: Hansen, WSC 16 98 57 37 253. Rocha, OSC 16 93 39 54 225. Wilkins, Ore 16 90 27 49 207.

Cold Feet: Last Monday was a cold night. Statistics aren't available as to the temperature on most of the group house sleeping porches, but Doris Ring found her hot water bottle frozen solid the next day.

Barlett, Ore. 16 45 22 54 112. McGrath, OSC 16 41 22 19 104. Labhart, OSC 16 39 18 28 96.
