Next fall women's rushing will be completed and new pledges will have moved into the sorority house before classes begin on Monday morning, according to the new system set up by Panhellenic this spring.

Under the old system, rushing, which is strenuous at best, became hectic. Women were expected to attend classes and prepare assignments while at the same time the sorority demanded that they be present for dinners, teas, and firesides, and stay up most of the night at hash sessions. Rushing was even harder on the bewildered freshmen who had the confusion of new surroundings, their first trip through the technicalities of registration, and physical examinations to contend with as well as classes and rush parties.

Having rushing over before school starts will be much easier for everyone concerned. For once teachers will be able to hold classes with a knowledge that most of the female students will not be absent at rush parties.

With today's Argonaut the 1944-45 school year, with the exception of quizz week, is over.

Looking back, it was a successful year with a few minor exceptions. The exceptions have always been the same at the university McAllister, Dean of the Caand can almost be discounted in an appraisal of the past nine months. One thing stands out concerning the past year. It has marked the beginning of the rambling trip back to pre-war standards. The "what-the-hell" attitude of past war years is beginning to die out. A steadying influence has set in and university life, again with a few exceptions, is becoming saner. The Argonaut has attempted during the past semester to print all the news it could lay its hands on, reflect student life and uphold what it considered the right attitude through the editorial section and this column. Although no one has ever made a point blank accusation of either one of the Jasons, there have been distant rumblings among students that could be heard by accident.

Despite the critics, the Argonaut believes that it has stood for majority of the students on whatever issues it has discussed through the Jason column, and the same system will be in effect next year. It is to the working staff of the Argonaut that the credit for the

The issues of the election will be largely on domestic policy. Churchill will bank on the success of his war leadership, to some extent, and plead that the war is not yet over; but the British people are concerned, after six years of war, with the reconstruction of their battered island, with social security, and with the promise of a solid post-war economy. The Labor party's position will be somewhat weakened by the fact that the war continues in the Pacific, but Churchill will lose or win the election on domestic issues.

Neoprene, koroseal and thickel are the three synthetic rubbers exhibited. Neoprene is almost nonwere made for next year's proinflammable and very resistant to solvents and acids, and, therefore has many uses in work with corrosive materials. It has the added advantage of being worked by the same machinery as natural rubber. Koroseal is used in making molds for plaster of paris casts and in coating fabrics for use in shower curtains and raincoats. It is also an excellent insulator and is used in wiring. Thiokol is known for its flexibility and is used extensively in balloon fabrics.

This display was arranged by Dr. D. A. Gustafson and Mr. Herbert Reese.

Flying Vandals Lose To Washington In Two Games, Mountain Home

Idaho's slumping Vandals, suffering from the worst batting and fielding slump of the season, extended their streak -a losing one, though-to three straight Monday after-noon by dropping a 3 to 1 game to the army air base nine at Mountain Home. Previous to this, Washington State made it three in a row for the season by copping both ends of a Saturday twinbill, 4-2 and 6-0.

In only one of the three tilts did the Vandals make a fight of it. Behind, 0-4, in the sixth inning of the first Cougar game, Idaho came through with a pair of runs on hits by Chuck Schiferl, Bill Carbaugh, Jeff Overholser, plus two free passes, but Jerry Isaacson was called out on a disputed pitch Final definitions and Overholser was caught off first to end an underdeveloped rally.

The Vandals' plane ride to Mountain Home proved disastrous in that the squad, many of whom showed the effects of the trip, were able to produce only four blows, resulting in a 3 to 1 loss.

ber of your coaching staff here at the University of Idaho. "I have enjoyed my associations with the faculty, athletic Board Approves department, military department, and student body. "I am sorry that I am leaving the university but I have accepted another position in the East.

"I want to wish Idaho's coaches and teams success in the uture years." —David Strong awards for tennis and golf and defuture years."

Just what the position in the East is will not be announced cided to give track awards to those until the middle of the summer. Until then Dave will move men who have 'complied with all his family back to Montana and from there on to the east.
