Users of the libe come in for a bit of verbal barrage this week. To discuss the subject intelligently (who said, "How could they?), we must have an idea of what the library was designed to be. Contrary to public opinion, there are a few souls on the campus who smite the volumes occasionally. The library is intended as a sanctuary of silence, where the erstwhile may roam unmolested along the paths of intellectual pursuit, not as a gathering of the clan or a grandstand seat at a sweater

Representative of the university at a conference for men in charge of the course on "The Foundations of National Power" was Dr. F. C. Church. The conference was held in Princeton, N. J., September 24-27, and some 50 people were present. Representatives were sent by UCLA, University of California, OSC, University of Washington, University of Utah, and University of Idaho, all of which have navy ROTC units, for which the course is required for upper division students.

Dr. Church reports seeing much of Carol H. Foster, Idaho 1905, now counsul general and chief of training services in the department of state, who still thinks of this campus and of his fraternity, Phi Delta Theta.

Dean Oppenheimer of the University of Louisville was present on behalf of his institution; he asked about various friends at Idaho where he taught in summer session some years ago. He also had news of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Vitrue, who were well-known members of this community when Dr. Vitrue was the colleague of the late Professor Chenoweth in the

"ON THE INSIDE"

The student body assembly which was held Tuesday morn ing, was very enlightening to yours truly, and all the other new students on this campus, who were uninformed as to the scholastic awards which are annually presented to the students who earn them.

One interesting sidelight, which we believe should be a headlight, was the awarding of the Freshman Trophy for the highest Scholastic standing. This trophy was awarded to John Taylor, who is now serving in the U. S. Navy, with a grade average of 3.91. Not only was John a superlative student, but he was one of the outstanding athletes of the 1944 track season.

John Taylor and Jack Anderson were the only track men in the Pacific Northwest, who were invited and attended the Central Collegiate Track Meet at Chicago, Ill., and the National Collegiate Track Beet at Milwaukee, Wis. Both of these men, accompanied by Coach Mike Ryan, travelled to these two meets representing the University of Idaho and th Pacific Northwest.

John, who was seventeen years old at the time, won the nervous tension which is natural at the first attempt in the "Big Time," John hit three hurdles in this same event and finished in fifth place. Although winding up with fifth Ex-College Stars place in this event, it is interesting to note that the men who finished one, two, three, four the work proving Featured by Gobs the same order, only behind him, the week previous.

We feel that John has proven himself not only a grade "A" student, but an outstanding athlete. His accomplishments should be an incentive to other athletes, to achieve an end not only in athletics, but also in scholastic standing.

Practically all other schools on the Pacific Coast have he submits: adopted this method of organized seating, and rooting sections. It has been very effective for these other schoolswhy can't it be for us?

There seems to be a lot of chitter-chatter on the campus these days about the need of uniformity in various things. A spasmodic and unorganized method of cheering is worse than none at all. Let's get together and send those boys out of their huddles with a cheer. When they come on the field, let them know there are some students in the stands, and when our Alma Mater is sung at the end of the game, let's all be there to sing it.

From all indications, it appears that the trend for attire at the football games consists of that last pair of nylons, high heels, and strictly the up-trend on the hair-do. Come on gang! Let's let that hair down, don the saddles and hit that stadium with the attire, spirit, and enthusiasm that has always been indicative of a college student. You know, the cash customers come to the ball games expecting to see more than spirit on the field alone.
