

INTERVIEW

By GOTTA RUN

Unusual, but nice, is the hobby of Gustav Hickelovich, university student. Gustav, or "Gussie" as he is affectionally called, spends nearly all his waking hours improving the pile of statistics which he has, for the last 18 years, compiled.

What is this hobby? I know, and I'll let you in on it right off like. Gustav, or Gussie, as he is affectionately called, walks backwards at all times. While he walks backwards up and down the hills of the Idaho campus (yes, he has spent all of those 18 years here), counts his steps and whistles "Yankee Doodle Dandy" to the tune of "On, You Beautiful Doll."

Gustav, or Gussie, revealed the reason for this strange, but fascinating hobby to your reporter when he said: "You can't never tell when there'll be a need for all these dam sheets of paper I've used up figuring this out."

Hare Brained

Latest in shopping bags is demonstrated by this Ubangi Bangi headpiece which can also be used to whip up dry martinis.

Here's More About— JASON

a big long, white thing like the pigs drink out of—only you can get in and take a bath all over at once.

Over on the other side of the room is a little white gadget hanging on the wall, called a zink. That is for light washing, like face and hands. They also sent us a roll of writing paper, but its kind of cheap. I think it rips easy.

But over in the corner, "WOW" they got a thing there you put one foot in and scrub till it gets clean, then you pull a chain and git fresh water for the other foot. Two lids came with the darn thing and we ain't got no use for them, so Ma is using one for a bread board, and we framed grandpa's picture in the other.

Yours Truly
Foo.

Who Dares?

What certain boy from what certain house was seen going with what certain girl from a well known house on the campus toward what well known necking place last Saturday morning at 8 a.m.? Why did Susie Toggle walk home from a certain automobile ride the other night? Could it be the night air is damp, Susie, Huh?

Nicknames seem to be the Vogue around the campus lately, and among the more novel we find Skunk, Stinkpot, Affadello, Blood and Guts, Liver and Bacon, Barff and numerous more colorful and descriptive. It has been rumored that Frank Virile is going to the Sinister Skip with a two (oops, I mean tow-headed) brat from the Grabba Thigh house. When asked concerning the rumor, the certain party in question replied "Goo."

Seen boozin' at the Bistro: Tom Collins, Mickey Finn, Frankie and Johnnie, Barbara Allen, Sweet Genevieve and Kathleen, who went home early. What playful boys from the Tappa Swig house placed a stick of dynamite under the outhouse back of the Ad building last Friday night? Tch Tch. what will they think of next?

Seen sending in his 1932 income tax was what certain BMOC? That's what we would call passing one buck. One well-known professor was seen tearing up an exam yesterday which means "that's all brother" for a certain man student. Said the professor, "When I asked that question on heavenly bodies I was referring to the constellations and not your Friday night date."

Down dancing at the Nest every morning now are that steady couple of Kappa Alpha Pepsi Cola and Whadda Thadda houses. Could it be that dreamy look as they listen to "Doctor Lawyer Indian Chief" means romance on the way?

Speaking of favorite pieces . . . and who hasn't got one . . . why did the popularity of the Rusty Dusty arrangement of "Mee Me at Nine Twenty-Nine, Honey" drop from the top lists of sophomore women? Why did the someone provide women with parachutes and when it was ordered all fire escapes removed? Why did that certain Mays hall woman blush when confronted with the ten dates she accepted Friday night? Well, they didn't all have to come at the same time.

Well, that's all the dirt for now as the street cleaner said to the horse, "That'll be enough out of you." Look for me next week.

No Bugs Will Bother Us Guys, Says Prof.

Prof. Byron Mischelischevich of the zoology department, has announced the discovery of a new bug, which expected to revolutionize the world of insects. Prof. M. has indicated that this bug was formed by him through mutations of various kinds and will incorporate the stinger of the wasp, the buzz of the bee, the wings of a water skipper, the light

New Pledge

Tappa Nu Keg, men's sorority, announced the pledging of Horsnut Floozle, boy genius who at the age of six months could knock a fly off a spittoon at twelve feet with a gooper of tobacco juice.

No Red Tape For U. of I.

Returning recently from a hurried trip to Washington, D. C., Jonathan Mattias, head of the Organize To End Organizations League, has announced that after unwinding miles of red tape and almost getting stuck himself several times, he has secured permission from the highest authorities for University of Idaho students to refrain from filing an income tax.

Mr. Mattias based his argument against the income tax on the basis of gripes which he had heard while listening behind doors, standing behind trees in the Arboretum, and disguising himself as a cup of coffee at the Nest. "Our students," he told the authorities, "have enough figures on their minds now."

SOCIALLY SHRIEKING

Women of Alpha Alpha held a dinner exchange Sunday night with members of the newly formed ag fraternity, Whata Stink. Following the dinner, a dance was held with only six casualties reported to the social chairman, Regoura Blinkenstop. Commented Miss Blinkenstop: . . .

Sigma Delta Beta, janitor's honorary, will not meet tonight at 6:30 at the Sigma Li house. Members have been asked to contact the president, Reggie Rickenbacker, before applying for their old age pensions this month.

Zeta Gamma Delta held their annual firemen's ball Friday evening in the university hot house. Music was provided through the courtesy of the university cow barn, whose broadcasting facilities were recruited. Programs in the form of firemen's axes provided an atmosphere. Patron and patroness were lost in the shuffle, but not missed.

New pledges of Chi Phi Psi, prominent fraternity, were honored at a fire drill last night at the fraternity house. Total number of casualties has not been determined, said George Frankenstein, president, but a new house will be built on the ruins of the old one without delay as soon as they pledge a plumber.

National president of Hershey hall arrived Monday on her annual visit to pick up all loose dirt. Mrs. Smurchitz was accompanied by a vacuum cleaner. "The volume of dirt warrants the trip this year," Mrs. Smurchitz was heard to comment. President of Hershey hall, Lucille La, has not been heard from yet.

Gamma Kappa Alpha held open house this weekend in honor of the 34th anniversary of woman suffrage. Banners were displayed throughout the house with appropriate slogans attached. New campaign slogans which were adopted include "Let the Women Run

Pashion Notes

Irma Idjit, commonly known to her friends as Sweet Sal, has just returned from a fashion convention in Deary, Idaho. Commenting on the styles of the future Miss Idjit said, "Cottons will be shorter and briefer with less material and no buttons. Zippers are outmoded with the safety pin regaining its past popularity."

Of vast concern to many coeds is the apparent revolution of the cardigan sweater over the sloppy joe. A campus committee has been appointed to investigate sources of supply which are rumored to originate in one well known fraternity house.

Reeking Rummy, president of Associated Men Students, has announced a male ultimatum denouncing the use of Elizabeth Gibernstein's "Red-Red" lipstick. "It's simply subversive the way that stuff sticks," commented Rummy.

Concluding the four week convention was a beer bust. During the evening, appropriate convention slogans were adopted for next year's meeting which will be held at the Bucket of Blood.

Who was that lady I saw you with last night?
That was no lady, that was my wife.

the Campus," and "She Who Runs the Home Should Run the Brewery."

Ten pledges and 14 members of Phi Beta fraternity were dragged to an exchange with Omega Theta women last Tuesday. After struggling for an hour they finally tore themselves away, losing only four arms and three ribs in the fight. Dr. Jackson of the university infirmary reports that all men are recovering satisfactorily with the exception of one lad who developed hydrophobia from a bite.

Musician

Mr. Longfingers Spitoonski, imminent Russian Jew specialist, was recently added to the music staff of the University. Mr. Spitoonski has three years' experience as a turner for Hosay Disturbances. He notified of his appointment replied "Oh."

Prophecy Of Alex Comes Thorough

It is with deep regret that the passing of Junior week was announced. This week has been a tradition at Idaho since its founding—at which the class president, Alex Snitchabeersky, said long as there is a university shall be juniors. This I know, for there are some of them like me, who never get out."

Alex didn't know how long he was, for his prophecy came and he now reposes in a glass in Zo lab. However, this is beside the point.

Personality

The Week . . .

Rolling up the hill to that all important class in canoe paddling found the personality of the AWOL "Bigwheel" Trout. For his gruff "hello" and his snarl, "Bigwheel" is coming his tenth year in the school law. His list of activities, extending in length, include an sweater awarded by "Short" of the Nest and the Lilac which he received for designing a new method of pushing into the Administration building.

izzed on his favorite pastime, "wheel" modestly admitted to his leisure hours teaching women's physical education in the manly art of tap dancing. Just a playboy at heart, "wheel" says he enjoys little things such as reading mail still in the boxes at the post office. Men will be glad to hear that "wheel" still believes the way his heart is through his stomach and is looking for the right person to make mudpies with him. Summertime always finds "Bigwheel" touring the countryside looking for buttons to add to his collection. Happy to be back in fall, though, he quickly exchanges the summer's tan for the club palor.

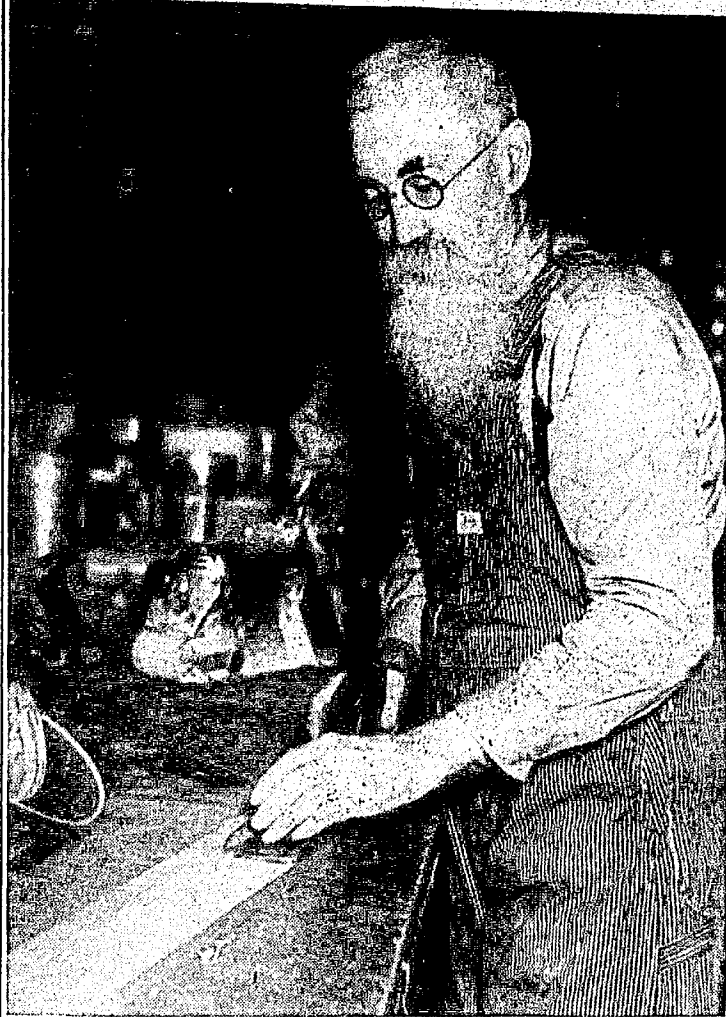

Adept at all parlor games, he frequently spends evenings quiet-amusing his fraternity brothers with variations of the sport. He hangs his hat at Rata Data, by the way, and for several years has held the house office of a trainer.

"Bigwheel," a native of Samoa, first saw the light of day (and dawned for him) on December 1889. Proud of being a Pearl Harbor day baby, he customarily wears red, white, and blue ankle-socks. Originally he planned to collect butterfly, until someone told him they had never seen a butterfly fly.

Future plans for Idaho's outstanding male include putting out a shingle and entering the carry business. He attributes all his success in life to the penny which he has always kept in his pocket. With such a past, it is certain to go places and this does not mean the Varisty.

Like a firefly, the bump of a mosquito, and the speed of a buzz-bomb. This experiment was made and succeeded, Prof. M. says, so instead of swatting a wasp, water skipper, firefly, mosquito, or buzz-bomb—one swing will do it.

Aircraft Manufacturer Retires

Mr. Douglas Fairchild Boeing, 25, recently announced his retirement from the aircraft field. He is shown demonstrating one of his latest planes. Other manufacturers when notified of his sudden retirement said "This leaves the industry up in the air."

Corn Specialist Is On Faculty Of University

New member of the University of Idaho faculty is Abner Higgenbotham who will conduct classes in the department of agriculture. Mr. Higgenbotham is a graduate of Peruna State College and obtained his masters degree in electrical engineering from Altoona U.

Specializing in corn culture, Higgenbotham has devoted many years of study to the eradication of Noxious Sulfanious, or common garden weed. Says Mr. Higgenbotham, "I think I have the solution now for the destruction of this menace in the newly developed garden hoe." Great strides in corn development are expected as a result of this startling announcement.

Prof. Names Star After Wifey

Prof. Henry Ytisrevinu emerged from ten years temporary retirement to announce the discovery of a new constellation. Giving the group of stars the name Notginhsaw Etats Egellac, Prof. Ytisrevinu explained, "It's my wife's name and after she left me eight years ago I took up star gazing."

Prof. Ytisrevinu is well known in campus circles, having originated a few of his own in his younger days. He formerly conducted

News Flashes

According to a recent announcement, spontaneous serenades will be held every night in order to establish the delightful custom on the campus. As it is now, only a few of the men's houses have made a practice of this, but as soon as the others get in the groove and look like they're 21, this fine old custom will hit the Idaho campus—as will the serenades, probably.

Mr. Cantilever Borst, 42, retired hole-biter from a doughnut factory, was arrested and brought before Police Judge SternWay Soakum when neighbors reported he had been pounding on one note on the piano for 27 consecutive hours. When questioned about his strange behavior, Mr. Borst replied "Why play any others, I've found the right one."

Diadem Milkpot, retired hoboe, was taken into protective custody by police this morning when he was found sitting on the I bench, reading a newspaper upside down. When interrogated concerning this unusual habit he barked, "Any damn fool can read it the other way."

Students To Be Higher Than A Kite

Revolutionary to the Idaho campus will be the establishment of a flying school on Ad hill. Runway will be parallel to the present sidewalk up the hill, as it is figured that in winter planes may take off easily on skis or merely skid into the Delta Pi house, with little damage to everyone concerned except maybe a latent couple still necking in the living room.

A squad of several hundred planes will be housed in what is now the first floor of the Administration building, with pre-flight training taking place in the auditorium. Grease monkeys for the outfit will be professors who have agreed to give up their classes in order to better serve the students' wishes.

Ground school is tentatively scheduled to take place in the Arboretum, and several hundred ceds have already signed up for it. The following courses will be offered: principles of flight, comparative anatomy, meteorology and campusology.

Through mass participation, the administration has secured the low price of 5½¢ per hour, instead of the usual $10.50. According to a recent statement by a high official, "Now no one can say this university ain't modern. We believe in going whole hog."

Classes in astronomy, meteorology, and submarine warfare in night school.

As a result of his discovery the Professor has been invited to attend the national convention of the Astro Astronomy Association, commonly known as the AAA, next May in New York.

In the interest of public safety we have decided to eliminate the fifth column.

Veterans Housing Completed

Foxhole 7, as it has been named by university officials, is the site of the recently completed veterans' housing project completed just miles east of the campus. Though much of the housing remains unfinished, Garrison D. Hale, founder of the project, declared, "Be so humble, it shouldn't happen to a dog . . ."

Sports, Dope

Hello there fans, this is your sports commentator (no relation to sweet pertator) Formcliffe Gelandesprung bringing you news and views of the sporting schene.

An amusing occurrence happened at the university golf course the other day when an aspirant for the golf team swung mightily twice without touching the ball. He looked around and said "Tough course."

On the diamond it looks from this corner as if Meathook la Pad, the Vandals' imported Egyptian catcher, is almost a sure bet for the first team. It is rumored that he is receiving $40 a month for playing and is currently dallying with a contract from the Houston Heifers, pro la crosse squad.

On the cinders, the newest arrival is Samson Dungeheaver who is throwing his weight around in the shotput. Samson achieved his strength by picking up a small calf each day and throwing it as far as he could. By the time the calf was two years old, Samson could throw the bull as well as anyone. On the track it looks like another brilliant season for Gazelle Yorgusen, Sweedish Swiftly, who this season will run without a cane.

The track is shaping up fast, and will be in perfect condition by the first meet held on November 9. Workmen are at present constructing steps up out of the pothole left by the trench mortar squad in practice.

A possible replay of the Idaho-California basketball series is in the offing, says Figurehead Trig, statistician for the Vandal sports team. He has uncovered a glaring error in the score of the first game. It seems California did not win by a score of 107 to 3, as a Vandal basket scored when a near-sighted guard threw a bald-headed man through the net by mistake was held to be legal at a meeting of the Pacific coast conference.

We see by the papers that majoing will be a Varsity sport next season.

Cow'm I Doin'? Says Olive

University farm officials today were frantically consulting authorities in the department of labor as Idaho Veeman Olive, state-champion bovine milk producer, went into her fourth day of complete inaction.

Picketed by 23 members of the Dairyman's local number 14, Olive has been unable to deliver a single drop of milk since Thursday when her total output for the year was published in the Argonaut. Fearing that she will flood the market with butterfat, labor authorities at the state capital advised in a night letter last week that the champion cow be allowed to turn on only one faucet at a time, until peak production is past.

Commenting on the recommendation this morning, Olive issued the following statement to the press: "How udderly ridiculous!"

off the court atop the shoulders of 12 Idaho rooters—but on with the game! Btlfsk made a beautiful shot straight into the arms of Iotta Barff and after she made off with the ball and seven mallets this too was called off.

The game's tie will be played off or at such time as the FBI catches up with Barff.

Women In Sports Tourney

The woman's sports opened the spring season with a resonant thud, as the croquet and drop the handkerchief tourney dominated the athletic scene. Karlotta Krud lead off with the dropping of a severely tailored crepe du chene bandanna and the game was off. It was eagerly grasped by the opposition's star dropper and the game was degenerated in a melee of shrieks and cries of, "Oh, you witch!" and "get in there and drop!"

The referees condescended to stop the game momentarily while they dealt a new hand and when the girls were assembled in compact groups of two droppers and twenty-seven pick ups, the game went on. Substituting for Krud was Will-ah Doo, recently recruited from the Alabama Polymorphus Institute, who until this meet has been a dark horse in the Idaho line up.

She dealt the opposition a severe blow when she unexpectedly stopped to wipe her nose. The match again was a chorus of screams, but the referees failed to inter-

Vandals Wallop E.I.I.C.A.I. In Ball Game

Vandal baseballers under the mis-direction of Buy Hicks, wallop the Eastern Idaho Institute for the Correction of Abnormal Infants recently. Using only 12 players, the horsehide belters held the "Slobs," as the Institute lovingly calls its athletic representatives, in check throughout most of the first round. Later on, however, Bratski began to punch holes in the wallpaper and later became the first Indian to score 47 over par.

Bean Ball Carblehooper, Vandal hurler, threw his arm away late in the first inning, but small boys looking for pop bottles under the grandstand found it and returned it to him later in the locker room between halves.

Olaf Yensen, doughty Irish first sacker, scoring hitting honors for the day, lashed 27 balls over the fence, but was called back when it was discovered he was only trying to get all his relatives in free.

Big Gun for the "Stinkers," as the Institute named its team, was Ima Jerk, who found three four-leaf clovers under a cow pie in left field. Rubber Arm McSlortnik, baffled Vandal batters in the first quarter with a wide breaking curce ball which crossed the plate with the speed of a bullet.

Manager Wilmont NoWitt declared that small round holes appearing in the catcher's knee pads were not made by Hymoptrus lepedoptrus, but were caused by termites which had made a home in the catcher's wooden leg.

vene inasmuch as the rubber hadn't been finished. Lucretia "Speed" Sexe immediately leaped into the tyrade and made off with the slightly soiled hankie . . . but at that moment the whistle broke up the match. One of the referees had a coke hand.

The drop the hankie match finished and the Amazons lined up in their respective positions for the croquet match and it began relatively quiet until Lana Btlfsk clouted Idaho's "Gorgan" Cronkase and they hauled her briskly

NO SCHOOL

Due to the speed with which students of the university have simulated, absorbed, or cheated through their classes, school will be dismissed April 2, and it will be the first time in the history of the university that all school grades have been "A".

The cause for this is not as known, but speculations are running thick and fast on reasons for the high intelligence easily known. Most current rumor is that the registrar had an afflicted student which some student or other was aged trickily to permit movement only in the direction of an "A".

Some are inclined to believe that quizzes are becoming due largely to benevolence of instructors in most courses. The of the newer quizzes in Chemistry was this specially designed for football players.

Prof: The exam will consist of two questions. You will be required to get at least 50 percent for a passing mark.

Question 1: What color is vitrol?

FBP: Uh er Hmmm well it's—oh! pink.

Prof: That is wrong. Question 2: Do you know how to make dium Chloride?

FBP: No.

Prof: That is right, allow me to be the first to congratulate
