Disturbed last week by the appearance in this newspaper of an advertisement purporting to have been submitted by their organization, Independent party students declared that they had not inserted the piece, an announcement which, they said, was harmful to their own interests and not expressing the opinion of the Independent party. In a statement for the Argonaut, the party chairman wrote the following:

"In behalf of the Independent party, I, Barbara Bloomsburg, state that the Independent party, to the best of my knowledge, had no connection with or information concerning., the., advertisement., published in the Argonaut, signed by the Independent party, to the effect that we did not care for government run by veterans.

Too Many Greeks?

For the benefit of Independent party candidates who stumping the other night against the Argonaut, cried that there are 12 'Greek" staffmen on the newspaper against only one Independent, this editor would be delighted to point out a few facts.

First, these accusations (and we don't hesitate to admit it) are true except that the figures are 11 United Students and two Independents. But we don't believe that it's a sign of rotten government or porkbarrel politics, nor do we feel that here the Independent party has a campaign point. The Washington, D. C.; Dr. Esther fact is that this is precisely the ratio of fraternity and nonfraternity workers who have turned out for newspaper work and have done well enough at it to get a staff position.

In publications work of any kind, particularly of the type that must be turned out on a weekly or semi-weekly schedule al Director for the International which demands plenty of copy at the right time, the average Business Machines Company. editor is so harrassed by lack of efficient personnel that he After attending the confer is willing to fill a position with any reporter who demonstrates ability to do the job. The editor doesn't give a hoot whether a prospective staffman lives at the Campus Club or at Sigma Nu fraternity. He can't afford to, because his is the responsibility of getting the newspaper published, with as few errors and as complete coverage as possible. If he can't do this he gets the axe, and so regardless of his personal whims or political leanings he must, for his own sake, fill staff positions with people who can be depended upon to help him do his job.

It is probable that most fraternities and sororities "boost" their frosh into such activities as might, in time, prove valuable from a political or social point of view; these organizations usually take some pride in the number of men or women in their midst who are active either in publications, athletics or dramatics, and it is quite reasonable that they do. But in the last analysis, it is the quality of performance which counts and not the place of residence when appointments are made and promotions arranged.

If those who scream "Discrimination" were to fill this editorial chair for a few issues and apportion duties strictly according to merit, we are quite certain that the masthead's status quo would remain unchanged. If Independent party leaders want better representation on this newspaper it is suggested that more of their number haunt these offices with an eye to the editorship.

Until that happens let no one deplore the Argonaut's use of 11 "Greeks" and only two Independents-and let's have no more of this bickering, boys.

Agronomist Makes Study Of Weed Killer

Effectiveness of 2, 4-D as a selective weed-killer will be tested this year in the University of Idaho's special study of the new chemical and hormone herbicides. reports Lambert C. Erickson, associate agronomist, who is conducting this work. The weed investigation is one of six projects in the special research program authorized by the last session of the state legislature.

"The need for intensive research in weed control by the university becomes obvious in view of three factors," says Erickson in the first progress report on the weed research project. "First, farmers and land owners bought several hundred thousand dollars worth ot 2, 4-D during the 1946 growing season, although they had no positive evidence that this chemical would produce a complete kill of the weeds. Second sixteen of our 44 counties have county weed control organizations and more are in the process of organizing. Third, on the basis of the national estimates of reduced farm income due to weeds the loss in Idaho runs at least $100,000,000 a year."

Vandal baseballers, fresh from a 4-3 10-inning triumph Saturday over Washington, tangle with the Oregon Webfeet this afternoon at Eugene in the last of a two-game series. The two teams met, for the first time this year, yesterday. The Idaho club dropped their conference opener to the Huskies 3-0 Friday, then came back the following day to even the series.

After the completion of the Oregon series today, the Vandals move on to Corvallis for games with the Oregon State team Wednesday and Thursday to wind up their long road trip.

trated to the Palouse on the comparative strength of the Oregon Track Team; nine but current conference results show, them tied with Oregon State for top notch in the northern division diamond race. The Ducks walloped Buck Bailey's Washington State Cougars twice last week to get off to an auspicious start.

Frank Viro's big bat led the Vandals to victory in their Saturday battle with Washington. A single by the bulky catcher in the third inning drove in two runs to give Idaho a momentary lead. Washington tied the game up but Viro's single in the fifth inning score Irv Konopka and put the Wicksmen out in front by a 3-2 count. The Huskies evened the score again in the seventh with one run, but Viro broke up the ball game in the 10th inning with a double, which drove in the winning run. John Dailey and Frank Auer collaborated on the mound to hold the Huskies to six hits.

Rally Fails

In the first contest, the Vandals were unable to solve the slants of Max Soriano, frosh hurler for the Huskies, and the Washington team Ryan. He hopes to get these two walked off with a 3-0 decision. Idaho's hopes for a winning track team received a severe shock this week when it was learned that Bert Dingle has a badly sprained angle from a fall and will be on the sidelines for at least three weeks. Dingle is the most versitile man on the Vandal squad, being capable of competing in the sprints, hurdles, jumps and pole vault. His loss at this time will be sorely felt as Mike Ryan had planned on using him in four events in the relay meet with Washington State this Saturday.

Most of the effort of the track men this week has been directed toward obtaining team strength for the relay meet as the Vandals will have to put four men on the field in each of the fifteen events.

With Dingle out, the job becomes increasingly difficult. To bolster his team's chances, Coach Ryan this week recruited Fred Nichols from Babe Brown's football squad and basketballer Bob in shape to substitute for Dingle in the sprints and hurdles. Nichols has had previous experience as a sprinter, but hasn't run for over six years and thus will be far from top condition. Ryan held the Bi-State record in the track sport.

All wasn't bad news in the Vandal camp, however, as the veteran Klink and Viro: Soriano and coach had words of praise for several of his men. A more than fair Idaho baseball team is facing a crucial For Vandal Fans test this week in the baseball minded Oregon territory. After splitting a two-game series with Washington the Vandals are clashing with the Webfeet and have yet to finish a grueling road trip which consists of six games in seven days. Both Oregon teams are leading the conference after taking turns at dumping the nearby Cougars four games. The University Neale stadium when the Ida of Oregon has consistently been in first or second place and will probably do the same again this year. The Vandals displayed a lack of hitting power in an otherwise fine team in early games, but have seemed to be upsurging in that particular department in the last three games. If, and it's a mighty big "if," Idaho can go through the Oregon junket with an even split in wins and losses, that is boasting a percentage of 500, this column predicts that, by playing reasoable heads-up ball during the home games, the Vandals will find themselves at the end of the season in second and possibly first place.

One reason for this column's optimitsm is that the Idaho team has about the best pitching staff in the conference and, with a little support for the pitchers, games will be won. With reasonable support some of those pitchers are capable of pitching one-hit shutouts. The opposition can't score if they don't hit. Dailey, Auer, Klink, and Linehan, with Parks and Carbaugh as good four or five inning relief pitchers, compose the mound staff and if it is necessary for Wicks to send his infield to the field bedecked in aprons to prevent grounders from going between their legs it is certainly advisable that he do so.

Spectators may be surprised to see Catcher Irv Konopka standing out in left field shagging fly balls. Konopka is the best catcher on the Idaho squad and, unfortunately, Viro who batted in all Idaho's winning runs against Washington, can't cover ground fast enough in the outfield and is doing most of the receiving behind the plate. Viro fortunately can hit long and hard and has to in order to reach first base. At any rate he certainly isn't the man to bunt. Against Vic-toria, Viro, bunting to advance a runner to second base, was the second out of a double play.

Oregon has had some fine men on her teams, namely Joe Gordon, Yankee infielder, and Dick Whitman now playing outfield for the Brooklyn Dodgers. Lefty Car-baugh covers the center field like a professional and is probably as good a defensive player as Whitman. Carbaugh's hitting may not be on an even part with the Brooklyn fielder, but he takes a nice cut at the ball and after seeing his triple against Victoria which landed in the bleachers and unluckily bounced back on the field even that might be debateable.

According to an Associated Press report the Northern Division of the Pacific Coast conference was second only to the Big Ten conference in attendance records. Complete sellouts in small gyms limited attendance a great deal this year. Washington and Oregon were the attendance leaders but Idaho's attendance record trailed that of Southern California by a scant 800. Idaho led Washington State 33,400 to 21,737. Idaho had the greatest percentage increase in the conference.

Everyone wishing a ride from downtown to the campus might as well take advantage of the Independent party's generous free taxi service on Wednesday. It's no strain to spend another man's money and it's a wonderful opportunity to test the old adage that a fool and his money are soon parted.

"T" Formation

Another intra-squad contest } been scheduled for next Saturd and an additional one the follow ing week-end. A large cro watched the game last week as t Vandals went through two hou of scrimmage, Approximately 60 men ha been turning out for spring for ball including many pre-war erans. The team is catching quickly to the intricacies of "T" formation, Brown said. added that he expected to Idaho win it's share of games n fall.

Backfield men who have be showing up well are John Chr tenson, Carl Munson, Jim Hat Bill Micklick, Fred Nichols, I Weeks, and Joe Malta. Prese of Micklich and Malta e Brown's worries about the fu back slot. Micklick captured B cific Coast scoring honors dur the 1941 season, tallying touchdowns in one game agai Montana State. Malta, a two-y leterman, understudied Mickl at fullback on the Francis Schm coached teams.

Most promising of the linem thus far have been Merlin Al and Larry McCabe, ends; Mo Hathbun, guard; Merrill Barn Ralph Paasch and Bill Boad. red is another pre-war lettern while Barnes and Paasch ear awards last year.

Inauguration of the "T" for tion here adds Idaho to the gm ing list of teams wheih are ut ing this tricky grid system. Davis, new Vandal assistant coa gained experience in the "T" w playing with the national cha pionship Notre Dame team 1943. After starring for Idaho three years, Davis played one s son for the Irish, the same y Angelo Bertelli was starring.
