In a heterogeneous nation of long noses and short ones, of broad faces and thin ones, and of colors ranging from white to black, Roy K. Funakoshi considered himself just another American. As such he also considered it his duty when the time came to bear arms in defense of his country, and so doing went overseas during World War II as a U. S. Army dogface, just like millions of other plain Americans.

But last week Mr. Funakoshi, bearing an honorable discharge, discovered that, contrary to a good many things he learned in the shadow of the flag, he is not just another American—he's not much of anything, in fact, because he's a Nisei, a young man of Japanese blood, a young man without a country.

He learned all this when he inadvertently applied for membership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars, ostensibly an organization of kindred spirits, at post number 51 in Spokane. He was blackballed, rejected as had been three other Nisei last year by that same post, on "technicalities."

To Mr. Funakoshi, Jason can only say this: You are not alone; you are but one of many caught in a swirling tide of race prejudice rising, quite inconsistently, at a time when most nations of the world are bending their efforts to the promotion of a "united nations," a fellowship among countries which implies a similar fellowship within them. But many even here in the United States, are still of the opinion that it is possible and proper that you and your three antecedents of last year live in harmony with the rest, regardless of the narrow bigotry of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. (And let's not confuse the organization with its individual members who were willing, for the most part, to welcome a fellow soldier.) By the same token, quite a few Americans who, regardless of the Ku Klux Klan, are willing to grant to Jews, Negroes and southern Catholics the anonymity which they themselves enjoy.

The unfortunate thing about your case, Mr. Funakoshi, is that you have been outlawed by an organization which, despite its common rallying call, is undemocratic at the base. Doubtless most members of post 51 of the VFW in Spokane have no more against you than against the rest of the soldiers they served with overseas, but there is at least one in the post who hates your guts because his own perspective is too narrow to allow for the shape of your face. He, like his fellows in the Klan, is a weak man, and an utterly insignificant one. This he realizes and so he must stab at you and your kind from the protection of the Maltese cross. There are many like him, and doubtless there always will be; he is responsible for the success of such organizations as Seattle's infamous Japanese Exclusion League, whose poison is spreading throughout the northwest and whose effect you recently felt.

It is this capacity of the VFW for serving as a convenient ambush for such snipers as he, that must prove its ultimate downfall, and makes it now a thorn in the side of a generally broad-minded society. The notion that a group of veterans is any more intelligent, democratic or far-sighted than other groups of U. S. citizens is a highly fallacious one. There is reason to doubt, then, that either the American Legion or the Veterans of Foreign Wars, of the numerous less powerful cliques should be allowed to form a dominating bloc of public opinion. By all means let the veteran have his say, but don't let his powers be inconsistent with his abilities.

It cannot be a pleasant thing to be blackballed by members of the army you fought with and Jason, as a member of the VFW, would like to apologize although it is senseless to offer up apologies for the action of a group which functions in such a manner that a majority of its members must be judged by the vindictive prejudices of a few.

Because the VFW like similar groups is such an organization, Jason intends to withdraw his membership.

Nearly 200 Seniors Ready To Don Caps, Gowns

Many Alumni To Attend Graduation Festivities

With travel restrictions no longer prevailing, the university's fifty-first commencement will bring a large number of alumni back to the campus to attend the university's first alumni commencement dinner since prewar days, according to A. B. Curtis, alumni president. Heading the class reunions will be the class of 1901, which will be observing its forty-fifth anniversary.

Women of the Moscow Grange will provide the meal for the banquet to be held at the Grange hall at 6:15 p. m. June 1, according to H. E. Lattig, chairman of the commencement alumni activities committee.

Dean Lattig reports the banquet will be over in time for alumni to attend the commencement play, "Brief Candle," to be presented under the direction of Miss Jean Collette, dramatic coach, in the university auditorium at 8:15 p. m. All alumni are to be guests of Curtain club, dramatics honorary, at the play.

A musical program for the banquet is being provided under the direction of A. A. Beecher, head of the music department. Featured will be marimba numbers by Prof. Joseph Brye, accompanied by Prof. Hall Macklin. Prof. Robert Walls will lead group singing of Idaho songs.

Honor guests at the alumni dinner will include Vice Adm. Robert Lee Gormley, class of 1903, now chairman of the navy general board, who will deliver the commencement address; Dean of Women Emeritus Perneal J. French, and the three faculty members who are retiring at the end of the current year, Dean J. G. Eldridge, Dr. Harold J. Axtell, and Bursar Frank Stanton. Also expected to attend the alumni dinner will be Arthur P. Adair of Long Island, N. Y., the first engineering graduate of the university. An honorary degree to Mr. Adair recently was approved by the university regents.

A. B. Curtis of Orofino, president of the alumni association, will be toastmaster. Members of the university board of regents, Gov. Arnold Williams, and other official commencement guests will be invited to the dinner.

Business Meeting
President Curtis has called the annual alumni association business meeting for Saturday noon at the Moscow hotel. Officers will be elected for the coming year and the alumni program outlined.

The committee in charge of tickets for the affair include Harold Cornelison, Robert Driscoll, James David, Mrs. Virgil Cherrington, Mrs. C. W. Hickman, Clarence Childs, Joe Brunzell, M. K. Cline, and Dean Lattig. Mrs. Glen Holm is in charge of decorations.

Committees participating in the day's activities are: nominating committee, John Montgomery, L. E. Huff, Joe McCowan, Earl David, Joe Brunzell, Cecil Hagan, and Ralph York.

Resolutions committee includes Adm. Robert L. Gormley, honorary chairman, George Beardmore, James David, L. A. Boas, Alvin Denman, Robert Brown, and C. Y. Garger.

Ag Club Selects New Officers

Marshall Le Baron, a junior in agronomy, was elected president of the Ag club at its last meeting of the year.

A member of the local guard unit that was mobilized as part of the 41st Infantry Division in 1940, Le Baron returned to school last fall after serving five years which included a tour of three and a half years as top sergeant in an artillery battalion in the Southwest Pacific.

Clarence Beckman was elected vice president, Russell Lindstrom, Little International manager of nest, Merrill Stucki and Keither Ralstin, assistant managers, Ross Lindstrom, secretary, and Harry Judd, treasurer.

EDITHA WARREN GOLF WINNER
Editha Warren, Kappa Alpha Theta, was winner of the WAA golf tournament played Saturday, and Rosemary Meehan, Delta Gamma, won second place.

Man And Woman Of The Year

Argonaut editors picked Keith Hardin and Ada Mae Rich as winners of the first annual Argonaut award for outstanding student achievement. (See story on page 4.)

President Dale Announces Commencement Speakers

Speaking at the university's fifty-first graduation exercises on June 2 and 3 will be Dr. James Millar, executive officer for the Oregon council of churches at Portland, and Vice-Admiral Robert Lee Gormley, USN, graduate of the University of Idaho in 1902. President Harrison C. Dale has announced. Dr. Millar will deliver the baccalaureate address, Vice-Admiral Gormley will speak at commencement.

Completing courses at Cambridge and Oxford, Dr. Millar has filled pastorates in Colorado, Texas, and Idaho. From 1930 until 1940, he was head of religious education courses at the College of Idaho at Caldwell. After leaving Caldwell, he became director of the board of education of the Presbyterian church for Oregon and Washington, and in 1938 was vice president of the Northwest Association of Adult Education.

Spoke Here
Dr. Millar delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the university graduating class in 1939 and appeared before the agricultural extension worker's biennial conference at Moscow in February.

During World War I Vice Adm. Gormley served as assistant director of overseas division, naval overseas transportation service, and in the last war was commander of the Hawaiian sea frontier. From July to December, 1945, he was commander of the United States naval forces in Germany.

Fraternity Men Discuss Plans For Fall Rushing

With Dean of Men Herbert E. Lattig as guest speaker, Inter-Fraternity council members held their final meeting of the year yesterday Thursday. Discussion of next year's rushing program was held, with President Herman Renfrew explaining procedure.

Lattig spoke on various subjects of interest to fraternities, including the merits of pre-registration rushing. Pre-registration rushing will be held here for the first time in the school's history next fall.

Rushing will start with Monday dinner, September 16, and will officially end Thursday noon, September 19. Pledging will start Thursday noon and will continue throughout the semester. Each rushee who pledges next fall will be assessed one dollar to cover rushing expenses.

Rush cards were distributed Saturday to each of the houses, Renfrew stated, and additional cards, if needed, can be obtained from him.

New Plaque
Council members also voted to obtain a new scholarship plaque for next fall. The present cup has become the permanent possession of Phi Gamma Delta, for winning the scholarship award three times. Traditionally the award is a cup, but, since a replacement is unavailable at the present time, a plaque will be used in its place.

Women Take Tour Of Idaho Campus

Members of the Idaho Federation of Business and Professional Women toured the university campus Saturday afternoon, courtesy of the Chamber of Commerce, and attended an open house at the home management house of the home economics department.

Seniors To Receive Degrees At Commencement Exercises

Climaxing four years of college work, 198 seniors will receive their diplomas at commencement exercises in the memorial gymnasium on June 3. The academic procession of faculty members, the board of regents, and graduating seniors will start at the administration building at 9:45 a. m. Commencement exercises will begin at 10 a. m. with Vice-Admiral Robert Lee Gormley, USN, as speaker.

Plans Say Idaho To Have Navy Unit Next Year

Capt. S. H. Ambruster has announced that there will be NROTC on the campus next year, but a definite program has not been decided upon as yet. The present group in the V-12 program will be transferred June 6 to separation centers to return to civilian life. Many of the men will return to Idaho and other colleges in the fall to continue in the program as civilian students. They will wear civilian clothes except when engaged in special naval work and will provide for their own living quarters.

At the present time, there is a bill in the House of Representatives commonly known as the "Holloway Plan" through which 52 universities which now have Naval ROTC units will continue their units. The civilians selected for trainees will receive $50 a month to cover their subsistence and living expenses, and their tuition and books will be paid for. In return the navy will require these trainees to sign a contract stating that they will serve a year and a half after graduation as ensigns in the United States naval reserve. At the end of this period they will be given the opportunity to either go into active duty as reserve officers with a $1,000 bonus or change over to ensigns in the regular navy and make the navy their career.

Yell Leaders Gain Board's Approval For Awards

Sweaters were awarded to Yell King Dean Moser and Yell Queen Barbara Morris by the outgoing executive board at their last meeting Tuesday evening. Upon the recommendation of Barbara Morris, the yell king for next year will not be chosen until next fall when open tryouts will be held. Clarification of the purpose of the money subscribed by the ASUI for university band uniforms was recommended by ASUI President Darwin Brown. The money is being donated to the university band for uniforms, not to the music department.

It was also recommended that the status of the pep band of next fall be cleared. Until the executive board appoints a member of the former pep band to reorganize the group there will be no official ASUI pep band, Brown announced. All appointments to the musical organization must be approved by the executive board according to constitutional provision. The statement was deemed necessary due to the unofficial announcement at the May fete that the group had been selected as a nucleus for next year's band.

Final Action

Final action of the old board members consisted of voting sweater awards for members of the governing body in future years. Board members stressed the awards would be different from any now given under the constitution. The action took the form of a recommendation for a constitutional amendment to appear on the fall election ballot.

Paper Announces Appointments

Several students have recently been appointed to positions on the Argonaut staff for next semester. Frances Rhea will act as news editor for another term, with Geneva Ferguson as assistant news editor. Joyce McMahon will continue as day editor, while Geraldine Wren becomes the new night editor. Sports editor will be Clark Chandler, with Martha Rigby and Caroline Clear acting as re-write editors. Women's page editor will be Helen Herndon. Doris Ring continues as copy desk editor, while Boz Zollinger and Verna Kelly will be feature editors.

Instructor Moves To New Post

Mrs. Glenn Jacoby and son, Michael, will leave tomorrow to join Mr. Jacoby, who was appointed athletic director this spring at the University of Wyoming at Laramie. Mr. Jacoby was connected with the university athletic department for 10 years before entering the army. A colonel, he received his discharge last fall.

Registrar Announces More Summer School Information

Students admitted to the university for the summer school are required to file the same credentials and follow the same procedure as those who enroll during the fall and spring semesters, the registrar has announced. The first term opens June 17 and closes July 26; the second term opens July 29 and closes September 6. According to Dean J. Frederick Weltzin, director of summer school, a wide range of outside talent including lectures, panel discussions, informal assemblies, and musical affairs will comprise the entertainment program for the summer terms. Courses offered include art, law, English composition, freshman mathematics, general chemistry, and physical education. Courses in economics and education are on the tentative list for the second term. Courses offered during the second term will include literature, calculus, general physics, American government, psychology, and engineering.

Dean J. F. Weltzin will direct summer school program.

Moscow Observes Memorial Day

Moscow Memorial Day services began today at ten o'clock with band music at Third street and Main, and will continue with an assembling around the monument at the Moscow cemetery, according to Paul A. Eke, chairman of the arrangements and program committee.

Assembly will be sounded by buglers Don Thompson, Sig Norman, and Thelma Beesley. The officer of the day will give the call to order, and Rev. Harold T. Masted will give the prayer and invocation. "God Bless America" will be played and sung, under the direction of Edmund J. Marty and Robert Laurence.

The Memorial address will be given by Rev. R. M. Lemmex, and the band will play "America, the Beautiful." A floral ceremony will be led by Mrs. W. R. Melgard of the Legion Auxiliary, and Mrs. Reta Neely of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary. "Anchors Aweigh" and "Great Blue Yonder" will be presented by the band; Roy F. Handlin, squad commander, will lead the firing squad; the buglers will sound taps, and "Star-Spangled Banner" will be played. Benediction will be given by Rev. Masted.

Calendar Commitments . . .

Noticeable during the spring semester was the overcrowded schedule during the week-ends so that each group could get in its annual dances and affairs before the termination of the year. We believe that this crowding directly resulted in the loss of considerable sums of money to these groups because the dances were not attended by a large enough percentage of the student body. While the ASUI sponsored one dance, a group living house and an organization would be holding similar affairs—culminating in no benefit to any group.

In order to avoid such a "seasonal rush" next year, Jason proposes a reorganization of the calendar committee—giving it full powers to determine the number of dances to be scheduled for each week-end. This would entail the scheduling of all house affairs, firesides, etc., by each group. The committee would receive proposals early in the week, meet, and determine which groups were to be allowed to hold dances on the same night. An unviolable rule should be "no firesides or other affairs could be held on the same night as an ASUI dance"—a rule which was consistently violated this term.

The calendar committee should also have the power to divide group living houses into two groups: one would hold two dances in the fall, one in the spring; the other group would schedule opposite numbers of dances for these periods. The groups would then be alternated annually. This would directly relieve the congestion caused when house dances are over-heavily scheduled in the spring.

ASUI dances should be given date preferences but they should be scheduled early enough to avoid situations which occurred this year when class weeks were scheduled so late that other groups had to postpone affairs already on the agenda.

We believe that the calendar committee could become one of the most powerful and worthwhile committees in existence if it took definite steps to actually perform these functions. As it is, the committee is nothing but a vague formality which can easily be circumvented. Evidence, for this is the fact that as many as six dances have been scheduled for one evening, and various and sundry firesides held the same night.

We don't propose a stifling of social life—the contrary, a powerful calendar committee would result in a well-balanced schedule of social activities wherein no group, house, or ASUI-sponsored dance would end up in the hole.

Needed: An Alumni Secretary

Jason cherishes the hope that one day, barring sabotage, he may be an alumnus. And as a former student of the University of Idaho he would like, when that time comes, to maintain a continuing interest in his alma mater as a reminder of and a tribute to his many checkered semesters here.

To help him continue in the future to enjoy the happy relations which have marked his past, he submits the proposal that the University of Idaho Alumni Association elect to fill the empty post of Alumni Secretary when that group meets in Moscow on Saturday.

The office has been vacant since 1942 when Bill Olson, first and last Idaho alumni secretary, joined the navy. Since that time there has been set aside in the general university budget, each biennium, approximately $8,000 for the support of an alumni office. In addition to this sum, if the former plan is followed, students would each contribute 50c per semester for its operation and part of the publications appropriations would also be channeled in that direction. There is no bottleneck as far as cash is concerned.

The advantages accruing to both alums and undergraduates through the services of a full-time secretary in cementing and maintaining active relations between the two groups cannot be over-emphasized, and those services can be many if the program is properly organized.

An adequate program would include (1) a placement service, supplemented by placement literature, (2) frequent trips throughout the state to maintain constant touch with Idaho alumni clubs wherever they exist, (3) active cooperation with O. A. Fitzgerald's publicity office in keeping alumni informed, and (4) promoting, among alumni groups, the sort of cohesive action which would make Idaho, rather than bordering colleges, the mecca of Idaho high school graduates.

The many instances when high school athletes graduated only to skip out of the state to greener athletic pastures, form a sad record; it is within the power of Idaho's alumni to lure these prospective grid and basketball stars to their own state college, if those alumni are organized and in pursuit of a definite program. It is Jason's prediction that Idaho athletics are in for the palmiest boom days in history, but the ever-faithful alumni are going to have to do their share of the backing.

To insure this backing and the many other benefits to be derived from employment of an alumni secretary, Jason fervently hopes that Idaho's alums will carry the ball now as they have on so many occasions in the past, and vote to fill that all-important post.

TIPS FOR VETS

By GEORGE

Earlier in the year a proposal was discussed in this column concerning a learn-to-fly program which was to be given under the provisions of the G. I. Bill. A thorough investigation of all phases of the matter has been underway for some time. University officials have found that since the margin of money available under the G. I. Bill for flight training is too small after the normal tuition, books, and other expenses are taken out to finance such a program, veterans will find it impracticable to combine a flight training program with their academic work in the university.

However, college vets can take part in such a program during their summer vacation. A system has been worked out whereby a veteran can interrupt his training here in the university and after doing this can file application to the VA for a new letter of entitlement which will qualify him for flight training under the G. I. Bill at any approved flight school. The point being that you can not have more than one letter of entitlement for training at any one time. Upon completion of his flight training he will then obtain a new letter of entitlement for his re-admission into the university in the fall. Another interesting point is the fact that a certain amount of credit will be given by the university for the training.

A tentative list of courses for pre-registration for the second term of summer school is out. Veterans should check this list and decide which courses they need if they are planning to go to both of the summer terms. The pre-registration which will take place during the first weeks of summer school will decide the second term courses.

Students Look Back On Past Commencements

Ten years ago this week the talk of the campus was—as it is now—mainly concerned with commencement exercises. This was Idaho's largest graduating class up to that time.

Another item being discussed over cokes and between final exams was the arrival of the Gen of the Mountains. The yearbook arrived only two days late in 1936. Built around a Vandal theme the annual predicted an upturn in Idaho athletics in the near future.

The Vandaleers had given their final concert of the season Wednesday evening, appearing in their new maroon-colored robes. The group had made over fifty appearances during the year.

In the field of sports, Idaho had an unbeaten cinder team. Idaho also had a baseball nine that was holding the cellar position, but the first game with WSC was scheduled for Saturday.

Five years ago campus talk centered mainly on the ASUI's plan to buy the Student Union book store from the co-op that owned it at the time.

Cottage Moved
Craig cottage was being moved from its location south of the heating plant to make room for the engineering laboratory which would be constructed that summer. The Dairy Science building was also to be built during the summer but the site had not been selected.

Talk of War
War was, of course, an ever-present topic of discussion. Many students would be entering the service during the summer months. The ROTC unit had occupied a

Carbaugh Named On All-Opponent Team
University of Idaho outfielder, "Lefty" Bill Carbaugh, was named to the University of Washington's all-opponent baseball team this week. Carbaugh, who also shared some mound duties, is a junior outfielder this season.

Others named to the squad include: Hal Saltzman, Oregon, and Charles Sauvain, Oregon State, pitchers; John Wilburn, Washington State, catcher; Dorwood Cecil, Oregon State, first base; Walter Kirsch, Oregon, second base; Harry Richards, Oregon State, shortstop; Fred Brayton, Washington State, third base; and Dick Kohler, Oregon State, and Walt Lozowski, Oregon, were named for the other outfield posts along with Carbaugh.

bership and is certain that he will not be alone.
And you, Mr. Funakoshi, may consider yourself well out of it.

Jason would like to add a word of congratulations to the ASUI executive board of this year for its constant use of that oft-forgotten elusive substance called "fair play." We believe that we have witnessed the actions of one of the least prejudiced executive boards ever elected by the ASUI. Their example is a good one for posterity. To President Brown and his associates we offer our congratulations.

BOOKIN' WITH BOOTH

I was seated at my Chippendale cupola desk feverishly meandering through the pages of history in preparation for a forthcoming final when I suddenly found history taking on new form, and this time it was not the supine form of Johanna the Mad, nor the fiery one of Lucrezia Borgia. At times I wondered . . . but no it wasn't Borgia! At long last I made my way to the class room, where I was to take my exam, sat myself down briskly and wrote all I knew of the material I had read.

My professor, a wizened pedagogue of the old school, was overjoyed with my results. After briefly reviewing my blue book, he clasped me by the ears, kissed me on all cheeks and in a fit of joy threw me from the window of his third floor office. As I flew through the melee of splintered glass and text books, I noted coyly that he had recorded a large crimson F in his roll book. I presumed (of course) that in his hysterical joy he had forgotten what he was doing.

When I looked at my "pseudo" history book I found that in my feverish haste to grasp my copy of "A Political and Cultural History of Modern Europe," I had neglected to wipe the heavy layer of dust and cobwebs from it and had in turn read and assimilated the knowledge of Rosamund Marshall's "Kitty!"

Thence, I made my way tearfully to the "Place Vendome" of Moscow, in search of some alcoholic surcease to the palpitations that were plaguing my innermost self. Finally in tearful blindness I groped my way to a brightly lighted facade and staggered into the darkness that offered itself to me. It was only after I had been approached by a young woman, who clouted me with a flashlight, and was greeted with howls of derision, that I realized I was in a theatre. I seated myself in a back row of the movie house and muffled my sobs to a soft snuffle.

I watched the story enacted on the screen.
I was amazed to see that the play taking place bore a slight resemblance to the novel that had caused my downfall in History 27. The beauty on the screen however was a poor weech who had been forced to steal for a living, whereas the "Kitty" of Miss Marshall's tale employed herself at the oldest and most lucrative profession. It amazed my addled brain to see that the characters of this cinematic were almost identical with those in the portentous volume, but the "hero-villain" of the piece was interested in the reformation of the streetwalker only as a means of acquiring wealth whereas as the tome's Hugh had a more libidinous aspect in mind.

The entire story as presented to the Hollywood consumer had an attitude of "Oh well, she's only doing it because she loves the 'Beaste!'" The book heroine, it seems, had a mind of her own and not only employed her charms in the boudoir, but in the house of parliament. In the last throes of each story, we find an even more intriguing incongruity. The book's heroine decides that the man she loves is too good for her in marriage; but after all, what's a little thing like that, between friends? While the picture's heroine marries the villain because as I mentioned before, "She loved the 'beaste!'"

Leaving the theatre, I couldn't help but be disquieted by the resemblance between the two stories and the disparities between them. It was when I perceived the glittering signs over the door that I became really astounded at the

Buchanan Attends Convention

Dean J. E. Buchanan of the college of engineering will represent the university at the 1946 summer convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers to be held in Spokane, Wash., July 19-20. G. A. Riedesel, A. S. Jansen, and James Dalton will accompany him. Dean Buchanan is a member of the committee providing transportation for the convention, and Mr. Riedesel is on the hotel and registration committee.

Meetings for the 93-year-old society, the oldest national engineering organization in the country, will be held in Spokane's Davenport hotel. Nine technical sessions, at which irrigation, power, hydraulics, and other civil engineering matters will be discussed, will mark the convention. Tours of the engineering and historic interest spots in the Spokane vicinity are being arranged for the visiting engineers and their wives.

DEAR JASON

Mr. Ladd Hamilton, Editor The Argonaut
Dear Ladd:

You have invited me to say a word or two in the final issue of this year's Argonaut.

One of the real joys of being president of the University of Idaho is the association with the thousands of young people for whom this institution exists. Without them there could be no university; with them there is a continuing refreshment of spirit, continuing faith in American youth, and continuing admiration for the sort of folk who are attracted to this university and who in later years become its loyal alumni. I shall miss you keenly.

Finally, just a personal word. I have enjoyed your weekly visit to the office in search of news. Sometimes there has not been much but always it has been a pleasure for me to chat with you as we settled the affairs of the universe—I almost said the university.

Cordially yours,
Harrison C. Dale,
President.

realization that the two were the same story, by the same author, but not by the same producer and whereby hangs a tale and whereby hangs a producer—I often wish! I trod the weary way home from downtown Moscow and set about the task of finishing my psychology lab book, but fate deemed that impossible. Something about the Montgomery Ward Catalog . . . or something.

But Summer's almost here and it won't be long until I leap upon the old pogo stick and it'll be "over the hill and far away," but I hope not to grandmother's house! And to all those who waded through the miasmas of "Bookin'" . . . Thanx. E. B.

Seniors Struggle To Pack Four Years' Accumulation

By GARNET STORMS
"It's a great day in the mornin'!" for the seniors when the last final is over, and the packing is almost done. Even enforced quiet hours don't daunt them.

Hallways are piled high with boxes, and between trying to find a place to put that long treasured "first flunk paper" of the freshman year, and "last flunk paper" of the senior year, more and more boxes have to be added to the pile. There is not one bit of junk accumulated during four years. Anyone can tell you that. It might be that the rabbit paw packed so tenderly away, (well, you did manage to pass enough courses to graduate while you had it . . .) and the "T" club pin; the many snapshots, all taken of the same people; and the balloon from that last dance, will someday do no more than catch dust in the back of some attic, but they certainly are not junk. No one could call them that!

Steady streams of empty boxes are carried from the stores to the living groups. Notices go up on all the bulletin boards stating "We move trunks, boxes, hatboxes, bags, golf clubs, and pianos CHEAP." Steady streams of trunks and boxes packed to capacity are carried out of the houses.

The hard part of packing comes when everything is put away except the few necessities needed to "sustain life" until graduation is over. There was one hardy soul who even packed all the blankets on the bed, saying that the weather is bound to turn warm any way. Most people pack the towels, soap, and toothbrush instead, giving a sense of freedom.

Even packing can't go on forever. When it is finally done, the seniors really relax. No more classes, no more finals, no more packing. . . gosh! What is left to do?

Traditions Are Numerous For Senior Farewells

Qualifying the theory that seniors live a hard life are traditions of each living group on the campus which ascertain alums of future years will have a memorable send-off from university life. Contrary to the common belief that all is happy for the learned graduates is the age-old affair of tubbing, one thing which the majority of houses and halls still carry on.

In pre-war years when the Sigma Chi had senior men, the plan of the house members was to escort their bewildered upperclassmen to Robinson lake where they were properly drenched in the cold waters. To add insult to injury, the seniors then trudged back on their own locomotion to the campus. Delta Gamma, Alpha Phi, Alpha Chi Omega, and Kappa Alpha Theta women also join the ranks of tubbers when they get ready to don an Oxford cap and gown.

Believing that freshmen may have a more definite grudge against the graduates, Hays and Forney halls as well as the women of Pi Beta Phi turn the tubbing situation over to them.

Hearts and Flowers
Gamma Phi Beta and Kappa Kappa Gamma women, with kinder hearts, feel graduation time is also meant for romance and for them the senior breakfast is the traditional moment to announce engagements. The idea proved worthwhile for both groups this year when wedding announcements were made at both houses.

Campus club men make the "rough and tough" life predominate for their seniors with a thorough tubbing. This year the proceedings were quite strenuous for the tubbers—with one senior to handle they had a hard time.

A majority of the living groups, however, give presents to the seniors which make the preliminaries to their graduation more easy to suffer. Delta Gamma women feel anything worth getting should be hard to find and send their seniors on a treasure hunt. Each Hays hall senior is presented with an Idaho plate and a carnation at the group's annual formal dinner at which the dean of women is always an honor guest. A handprinted senior book containing a story about each individual senior and pictures of the campus is given to Forney hall seniors.

"For Canoe of Life"
Delta Tau Delta men believe in giving a typical gift which will represent four hard years at the university, so to each senior goes an autographed paddle.

Two living groups let the seniors do the entertaining. Tau Kappa Epsilon men listen to speeches by the seniors at their traditional banquet and Delta Delta Delta women attend a breakfast given by the seniors each spring.

Stunting for the seniors often brings out important episodes in the lives of each which should best be forgotten, and both the Kappa and Delta Gamma houses won't let this drop from their senior traditions.

So with all this behind them, seniors may assume a happier expression Monday as they receive diplomas.

JOB'S DAUGHTERS ELECT
Alice Davies was recently elected president of Beta chapter of Delta Mu, newly organized Job's Daughters group, at a dinner held at the home of Mrs. R. W. Melgard. Other officers are: vice president, Marie Lampman; recording secretary, Bonnie Miller; corresponding secretary, Jerry Stanfield; treasurer, Margaret Anderson; historian, Dolores Gooby; musician, Yvonne Whiting; chaplain, Edith Shock; marshal, Pat Colvard.

Art Students Plan Annual Exhibit For Graduation

One of the features planned for Commencement guests will be the annual art and architecture exhibition. The exhibit will be held in the main lobby and studios of the newly renovated art building which will be open Sunday and Monday from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. according to T. J. Pritchard, department head.

Work done by art students during the year, including oil paintings, both landscapes and portraits, drawings, water colors, designs, commercial art, ceramics, and architectural drawings will make up the display.

The exhibition climaxes a series of displays which have been set up every two weeks in the main lobby of the art building for the benefit of university students and the general public. These exhibits have included the paintings and drawings of Lucia Wiley, the works of Oscar Kokoscha, noted Austrian painter, drawings and water colors of the South Seas by Lester Walker, Jr., a former Idaho student, architectural water colors by Edwin J. Peterson, and an exhibit of housing in the Netherlands, circulated by the Dutch government.

Music Honorary Initiates Sixteen

Phi Mu Alpha, men's music honorary, initiated nine men from the Washington State college chapter and seven men from the Idaho chapter Sunday at 5 p. m. The schools held a joint initiation because WSC had insufficient members to conduct the ceremony. Alvah A. Beecher, head of the Idaho music department and supreme national president of Phi Mu Alpha, took part in the ceremonies.

Those initiated into the Idaho chapter were Norman Logan, Joe Schmidt, John Schleick, Ralph Hoyt, Don Thompson, Dick Helmick and Arthur Williams.

Tuesday night the honorary held its final meeting for the year to discuss plans for music activities next fall.

New Club Selects Officers

Mrs. Albert Slipp was elected president of the Moscow Fine Arts club, formerly the 23-year-old Moscow Music club, at a dinner meeting held May 21 at the Moscow hotel.

Mrs. C. L. Woodward, former president, presented the names of the new officers and a unanimous vote was cast for them. They are Mary Kirkwood, vice president and program chairman; Mrs. H. D. Martin, treasurer; Mrs. Alfred Dunn, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert Walls, recording secretary; and Mrs. Harry Bailey, historian.

Between courses Betty Meagher sang a group of four songs. Mrs. William C. Banks gave the closing number on current musical events.

Neeb-Gardner
Announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Betty Neeb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Neeb of Boise, to Robert Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gardner of Cascade, has been made.

The betrothal was revealed at a fireside held Sunday at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house, of which Miss Neeb is a pledge.

Miss Neeb is a freshman majoring in business, and Mr. Gardner, former president of Delta Tau Delta, is a sophomore majoring in business.

Oxley-Feeny
Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Oxley of Boise have announced the engagement of their daughter, Harriet, to Thomas Feeny, son of Mr.

Thomas Feeny of Cascade. The wedding of the couple will take place in Boise next August.

Miss Oxley, a sophomore majoring in psychology, is a member of Gamma Phi Beta. The engagement was announced to women of the sorority Tuesday. Mr. Feeny, a member of Alpha Tau Omega, is a freshman majoring in pre-law.

Powell-Stauff
Announcement of the engagement of Artys Marie Powell and Clifford Stauff was made known to women of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sunday morning.

Miss Powell is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Powell of Lewiston, and Mr. Stauff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Stauff of Payette.

Miss Powell is a senior majoring in English, while civil engineering is Mr. Stauff's major. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Mr. Stauff is a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

Kemmerly-Ross
The engagement of Kathleen Kemmerly, Delta Delta Delta, to Gordon Ross, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, was recently announced.

The wedding ceremony will be performed at St. John's cathedral, Spokane, on June 22.

Psychology is the major of Miss Kemmerly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Kemmerly of Spokane, while political science is Mr. Ross's. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Ross, also of Spokane.

Riddle-Brewer
Announced recently to women of Kappa Alpha Theta was the engagement of Roslyn Riddle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Riddle of Boise, to William Brewer, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Brewer of Whitefish, Mont.

Miss Riddle, a sophomore majoring in journalism, has been connected with the circulation staff of The Argonaut. Mr. Brewer, formerly connected with the NROTC unit, returned to the university as a civilian student after receiving his navy discharge in February. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

No wedding plans have been announced.

Honorary Chooses New Officers

Evelyn Fisher was elected president of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon. Other officers of the organization include Joyce McMahon, vice president; Lucile Thompson, secretary; Betty Ann Craggs, treasurer; Geraldine Merrill, editor; and Madelyn Sanberg, song leader.

Principles and purposes of the organization were explained by Lois Deobald, former Mortar Board president. Uniforms are to be ordered this spring by the new members. Another meeting was scheduled for tonight at 5 p. m.

ASUI Board Holds First Meeting

Recently elected executive board members held their first meeting as the student body's governing group Tuesday following the final meeting of the outgoing board. The nine new members with Norm Fredekind, ASUI president, elected Boyd Hanson as vice president and Ann Price as secretary.

This evening the group will hold a special meeting at 7:00 at which Hanson will preside.

DOORWAY TO OPPORTUNITY
When you're making plans for a job after graduation, think of the Telephone Company.
There are unusual opportunities this year for graduating girls as business office representatives. Among the qualifications for the job are a sincere interest in people, good judgment and willingness to maintain accurate records, combined with the ability to express oneself well over the telephone or in person.
This type of work is a distinct challenge to the college woman who will find in it a wide variety of situations which call for the exercise of all of her college training and business ability. The pay is better than that of most clerical jobs and opportunities for promotion are excellent.

Local Businessman Finds Old Spokane Newspaper

A 54-year-old copy of "The Spokane Review," forerunner of the present "Spokesman-Review," found recently in the walls of a Moscow house, urged students to attend the University of Idaho, which would be open by September 5, 1892.

The old newspaper, found by A. I. Rollefson when a local residence was being remodeled, was addressed to L. Stannua. Four pages of the eight-page edition were missing.

Centered on the front page was the advertisement of the board of regents announcing the opening of the university. It was signed by Willis Sweet, president of the board, and H. B. Blake, secretary. The University of Idaho will be open for the reception of students on Monday, September 5, 1892, and will be second to none in the Northwest in educational facilities," the advertisement read. Tuition was "free to all students resident one year in the state."

Final Performance For Graduates

A repeat performance of the dramatic department's spring play, "Brief Candle," will be given Saturday as part of the commencement program. The play, a romantic comedy by Robert Tare Powel, was produced May 17-18 under the direction of Miss Jean Collette.

Roles in the play are taken by Marina Dochios, Ned Bowler, Gayle Manion, Ed Dalva, Enid Almquist, Marvin Trigero, Gene Roth and Karleen Randall.

Argonaut Chooses 'Man And Woman Of The Year'

Double honors go to Ada Mae Rich and Keith Hardin who have been chosen "man and woman of the year" and whose names will be engraved on an Argonaut plaque in recognition of their services to the university.

The two seniors were chosen on the basis of service and on recommendations received by the Argonaut staff. Since this is the first award given for such achievements by the paper, their names will head the roster of important Idaho students. The plaque will be engraved and placed in the student union lounge at the beginning of the fall semester. The "man and woman of the year" will also each be presented with a two years subscription to the Argonaut.

Ada Mae hails from Blackfoot and has been extremely active in extra-curricular work. She was president of Spurs, a member of Cardinal Key, and of Mortar Board. Chosen for "Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities" twice, during her junior and senior year, she is a Phi Beta Kappa, and has worked on the Gem.

Ada Mae has also been a member of ASUI executive board. Recently she received the American Brotherhood week award for "outstanding service in the promotion of human relations and fair play" on the Idaho campus.

Last week she received an appointment to the National Institute of Public Affairs, and will carry on in her chosen profession—political science. Due to the annual Alpha Phi senior sneak she could not be reached for a statement.

Keith Hardin, the Argonaut "man of the year" has been around the Idaho campus since 1937 when he started as a freshman. That year he worked on the Idaho Engineer and, incidentally, met the woman who was to become his wife. During his next two years at Idaho he was active in intramural debate, Independent council, and dramatics, and inaugurated a schedule of open-house dances. He was chairman of the Junior Prom in 1940.

Keith stayed out of school a semester after he was married—the date was Friday, December 13, 1940. He returned in 1941 and hit the books when he wasn't working in a sawmill in Pottlatch.

Several years passed, and Keith once again came back to the Idaho campus—this time to gain his degree. This year he has been president of the Campus club, organized the first cooperative eating house on the campus, and hobbled around with revitalizing the Independent party. He has three kids at home in Portland, is 27 years old, and was born at Paul, Idaho. When asked how it felt to be finally graduating, he replied, "It's kind of an anti-climax!"

The Argonaut extends its congratulations to these two representative students whom we feel deserve extra recognition for their services to the university.

Sailors Announce Navy Queen

Bonnie Bennett was named queen of the navy ball at the NROTC unit's formal dinner-dance last Saturday night, and was presented with a cup by Captain S. H. Ambruster, commanding officer. Her attendants were Clare Hale and Helen Herndon.

Two hundred couples attended the affair, an impressive send-off for the navy unit, being disbanded next week. Use was made of the colorfully decorated Willis Sweet lounge and dining room and Chrisman dining room. Dinner music as well as dance music was supplied by the "Gentlemen of Note," with a vocal solo by Lt. Comdr. W. Welt' as a special number.

The dance was followed by a serenade of women's houses by members of the unit.

Ten Faculty Members To Leave University

Resignation and retirement will claim 10 university faculty members this spring, according to a list released by President Harrison C. Dale.

Retiring are Dean J. G. Eldridge and Dr. H. L. Axtell, heads of the modern and classical language departments, respectively, and Frank Stanton, bursar.

Resignations have been handed in by the following:

Hobart Beresford, head of the agricultural engineering department, who will take a similar position at Iowa State college, Ames, Iowa. Mr. Beresford, who came here from Iowa, was formerly with the Idaho Power company as agricultural engineer and in charge of the firm's rural service. He returned here in 1928 as department head.

Dr. William F. Swindler, head of the department of journalism for the past six years, resigned to become director of the school of journalism of the University of Nebraska. Dr. Swindler, a graduate of Washington University at St. Louis, came to Idaho in 1940 from the University of Missouri where he was a faculty member.

Olaf E. Stamberg, former head of the agricultural chemistry department, is now employed with a firm in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Clair L. Woodward was former professor of secondary education. Milton C. Albrecht, former assistant professor of English, has been a faculty member here for nine years. Mr. Albrecht received his Ph.D. at the University of California.

Walter B. Dobbs, member of the men's physical education department, came here to take Walt Price's place in the faculty. Mr. Dobbs is planning to take his family to their former home in Wakesburg, Wash., but his future plans are indefinite.

Robert L. Gee, former assistant professor of law, has been at the university since February.

At Idaho Since 1902

Dr. H. L. Axtell accepted a position here as instructor and principal of the university preparatory school in 1902. After receiving his Ph.D. in 1906 at the University of Chicago, Axtell became a professor of classical language at the university. He has served in this capacity ever since, with only a year's absence to study at Harvard in 1927. Retiring doesn't mean giving up his work to Professor Axtell for he plans to keep busy. On leaving the university, he stated: "... My years at Idaho have been interesting and pleasant. I believe that if I had spent my life teaching in any other educational institution, I could not have been treated with more courtesy and genuine friendship by students and faculty than at Idaho."

Dean J. G. Eldridge is retiring with the longest teaching record of any university faculty member. Dr. Eldridge accepted the chair of modern languages at Idaho in 1901. In 1903, then the youngest member of the faculty, he was elected dean of the faculty. This

AMONG THOSE MISSING next year will be Dr. William Swindler, journalism, and Olaf E. Stamberg, agricultural chemistry. Both are resigning.

Engineers Wanted For Summer Jobs

Students interested in summer employment on survey or construction crews should put their names and qualifications on file at once in the office of the dean of the college of engineering, Dean J. E. Buchanan has announced. Persons with training in either surveying or drafting are especially needed, he said.

Numerous requests for employees have been received at the engineering office already, and other similar requests are expected to develop during the summer. A list of the persons available for such employment is necessary so that employers may contact prospective employees.

On retiring, he stated: "I am thankful that it fell to my lot to spend all my 50 years of teaching with college boys and girls. I like them and I love to teach."

Bursar Frank Stanton, who graduated from Drake university in Des Moines, Iowa, has been "running the business end" of the university since 1920. The Stantons, parents of a son and daughter, plan to remain in Moscow.

College Library To Display Gold And Silver Book

A gold and silver book, Moscow's representative in the Idaho building at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago, 1893, will be one of the features of the exhibition in the university library on June 1 and 2.

Precious metals from the Coeur d'Alene mines and rubies and opals from Latah county were used to make the book. The materials were gathered by the women of Moscow, and the work done to order by Gorham's of New York. Franklin Gault, first president of the university, designed the book, aided by Miss Harriet Cushman, "preceptress," and Miss Annette Bowman, "instructor in freehand drawing." The designs on the cover and edges of the book represent the industries and transportation associated with the history of Idaho, which was a three-year-old state at the time.

When the Columbian Exposition closed, the book was brought back to Moscow and later presented to the university. In 1906, when the Administration building burned, the book was one item saved from the fire by the university president then in office, James A. MacLean. It was the only thing in his office that could not possibly be replaced.

In addition to this historic volume, the university library will have on display a wide variety of illustrated books from its collection. These books are not usually seen, because there is no satisfactory room to store them. Flower, bird, and costume prints, a map of Idaho in the days when it was

WHETHER it's baseball or business, Americans expect fair play all the way.

In baseball, the umpire sees to it that the game is played according to the rules. But he is not a player.

In business, government should be the umpire who enforces fair rules.

But when government goes into business and competes with its own citizens, the American tradition of fair play is set aside. The umpire then becomes a player, and he enjoys advantages that are denied to all the other players.

For example, government and municipal power-plants are not required to pay federal taxes; often get money from the U. S. Treasury at little or no interest; make up losses out of the pockets of the taxpayers.

Maybe you run a store or service station or beauty shop. Would you like to have a next-door competitor who has little or no rent, or taxes, or interest to pay, and who is kept in business partly by your tax money?

Fortunately for America today, over 80% of the tremendous electric power in this country is produced by tax-paying, self-supporting electric light and power companies, owned and operated by several million folks like you.

These business-managed companies are a big reason why there is enough electricity to meet even the gigantic demands of war—and why, when most things cost more, electricity is still delivered at low pre-war prices.

"ON THE INSIDE"

By JACK GOETZ

Here it is May 30 and the final issue of this column for the sporting year. A lot has happened in the past nine months at Idaho as far as athletics go. Let's go back to the beginning of the year and start from there.

Idaho presented its first football team for competition since having to abandon the sport at the outbreak of war. The season was a mediocre one, but at least gave Vandal football fans a few thrills. The big day for the Vandal grid machine was the licking the Montana Grizzlies carried home from the homecoming battle fought on our own Neale turf.

Next came the unforgettable maplecourt season. It was a great season. In fact, one of the finest since 1923 when Idaho was then at the top of the win and loss column. We all were fortunate enough to see some mighty fine basketball talent in action throughout the season. For the first time since the days of Al Fox, Idaho cropped up with another All-American, that being big, genial Fred Quinn, who showed some fine talent throughout the season.

Next came the track and baseball season. They were both good seasons and well worth remembering. For those of us who were able to get out and see some of those games and meets, our time was well spent.

Idaho has been fortunate to have some excellent mentors at the coaching helms this year. Yes, such as "Babe" Brown, Guy Wicks, and "Irish" Mike Ryan will live a long time in the memories of Vandal athletic fans.

To you graduating senior athletes—we will definitely miss you. You have given your all for your alma mater for four solid years. We wish you were coming back another year, but as things go, you must find yourselves a place in life. Lots of luck, you senior wearers of the big "I."

A lot has been planned as far as remodeling of the athletic plant goes, for this summer. The repainting of Neale Stadium and the building of the track in the stadium is a part of the program. We all know this work is certainly necessary in order to be able to, at least, look the part when it comes to keeping up to the level of the other schools in the northern division conference.

This writer would like to suggest a few things which could stand a bit of improvement as long as a building program may be in progress in the very near future. The bleachers in MacLean field could stand a coat of paint or two. Possibly a dark green color as an aid to the baseball players when fielding the ball. Also, the cracks in the bleachers through which so many balls have been lost in the past season could be patched. Those balls cost a pretty penny and the saving of one or two would certainly pay in the long run.

Well, readers, this year of sports is a thing of the past. I've enjoyed bringing you the Vandalville sports ups and downs. Casting an eager eye toward next fall's coming events, things are beginning to look mighty promising. So until September, here's wishing all of you Vandal sports fans a very promising summer.

Sigma Nu Is Winner Of Intra-Mural Trophy

Winners in three sports events of the intra-mural program this year, Sigma Nu fraternity is now the proud possessor of the intra-mural trophy. The trophy was awarded to the Sigma Nu's for leading the mural program for three consecutive years. Of this year's mural sports, the Sigma Nu's captured firsts in touch football and basketball.

To the other first place winners plaques were awarded. Other first places went to the following organizations: swimming, Sigma Chi; softball, Kappa Sigma, and volley ball, Campus club.

Leading in intra-mural points with 900, the Sigma Nu's were followed by Kappa Sigma with 875, Sigma Chi with 705, Phi Gamma Delta with 615, Campus club with 525, Alpha Tau Omega with 525, Phi Delta Theta with 520, Delta Tau Delta with 505, Delta Chi with 480, Chrisman hall with 455, Tau Kappa Epsilon with 400, Navy 4 team with 370, Idaho club with 280, Sigma Alpha Epsilon with 280, Navy 2 team with 185, Navy 1 team with 130, Lindley hall with 100, Navy 3 team with 95, Beta Theta Pi with 35, and L.D.S. with 20 points.

Ralph Paasch and Fred Quinn, who have been working under the direction of Coach Guy Wicks, declared a full intra-mural program would be in progress next fall.

Oregon State Is Track Winner Of Northern Division

Coming from behind in the final discus throw, the Oregon State Beavers were the winners of the northern division track meet held in Seattle last Saturday.

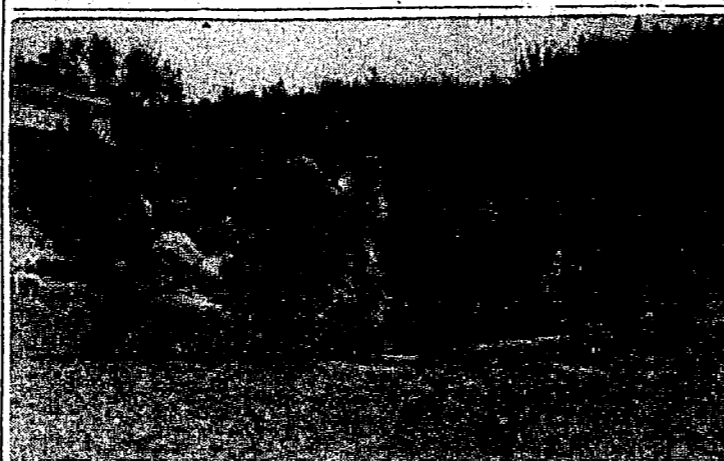

The Beavers, who were trailing the University of Washington 29-31½, going into the last event, gained seven points by placing third and fourth in the discus while Washington failed to place. The final points were divided among the following schools: Oregon State, 32; Washington, 31½; Oregon, 31 1-10; Washington State, 27 4-10; Montana, 22 3-10, and Idaho with 21 points.

The Vandals' only first came from pole vaulter Max Lattig who won the event with a 12 foot six inch jump. Other Vandal point gatherers were Pruitt, Lake, Matthews, Dexter, Merry, Bowler and Smith.

The northern division meet concluded the Vandal cinder squad's 1946 season.

Vandals Split Final Series Against Cougars

Homecoming Is Announced By Graduate Mgr. Mix

Graduate Manager Gale Mix today announced that the homecoming date for next fall has been set for October 26. The homecoming gridiron program will feature the University of Oregon tangling with the Idaho Vandals on Neale stadium turf.

Other home games announced by Mix included San Jose State here October 19, and the University of Portland here, November 16.

The Idaho Vandal grid machine will travel to Palo Alto to play the Stanford Indians in their opening game of the 1946 season. Their second game will be with the Washington State Cougars there. Following the Cougar clash, the Vandals will entrain for Marquette University for an October 12 contest. Next will be Montana at Missoula, November 2, followed with Oregon State at Corvallis, November 9. The Vandals end their season in a Thanksgiving day game with Fresno State college at Fresno.

Fall football turnout has been set for September 7. Coach "Babe" Brown is expecting a large turnout and states he expects a fine showing on the turf next fall.

After edging Washington State 4-3 with a Frank Merriwell finish Friday, the Vandal baseballers saw the tables turned Saturday when they dropped a 9-3 decision to the Cougars at Pullman. Conclusion of the 16-game season saw the Idaho club in undisputed possession of the cellar position, one-half game behind W.S.C.

With the score knotted at 3-3 in the ninth of Friday's game, big Irv Konopka, Idaho catcher and leading hitter of the northern division, hammered out a long double to left center to score Bill Sweet from second base with the winning run.

Fine defensive work, timely hitting, and good pitching by John Dailey and Bill Carbaugh played the chief role in the Idaho victory. The Cougars got only nine scattered bingles off the Vandal chockers, while two double plays stymied potential W.S.C. scoring threats. Fielding gem of the day came when Vandal outfielder Bill Ames went up on the left field bank to catch a fly ball, then threw out the Cougar base-runner at third base.

Idaho opened the scoring in the second inning when Frank Viro singled, then scored on a Cougar misplay. In the third Len Pyne stole home when Viro was caught in a hot-box between first and second.

W.S.C. got their first run in the fifth, but Idaho came back in the last half of the stanza, with Konopka scoring on Viro's long triple. The Cougars scored again in the eighth, but Carbaugh came in to snuff out the rally. However, W.S.C. tied the game in the ninth on a triple and a single.

Sweet singled to open the Vandal half of the inning, was sacrificed to score by Carbaugh, then tallied when Konopka caught hold of one of Marier's knuckle balls. Contest Saturday was a Washington State show as the Cougars pounded Fred Klink and Lefty Auer for 11 hits and nine runs. The Wicksmen, meanwhile, were held to five bingles by Cougar hurler Lefty Foster, and counted all their runs in the first three innings.
