Live Up Firesides

In writing editorials, one must continually guard against stepping on particular individuals' toes, but it is an accepted trick of the trade to occasionally trounce effectively and smartly on the toes of a whole lot of people. This week we feel inclined to do a little trouncing on a mass scale, and the object of our journalistic foot-crushing are all the men's halls and fraternities. And the reason for it is this: the lackadaisical manner in which the week-end firesides are held and conducted.

At too many of the firesides the host and hostesses are completely ignored and forgotten; they are left to play the roles of 18th-century chaperones, when they would like to "mix" as well as the rest of us. No attempts at even the simplest kind of decoration are made, when a few minutes' work would add greatly toward making an enjoyable evening.

A few refreshments, such as cookies and pop, would help make the evening a success—and in the long run, money doled out for this purpose would keep the boys from going broke buying sandwiches at the cafes when the fireside is over. Although dancing is a nice way to pass the time, we feel that some other entertainment, such as participation in stunts and songs by everyone present, could help make a more satisfying affair.

But the outstanding fault of the university's firesides as they are now conducted is in the small number of people present. A fireside should not be held unless an all-out affair is planned—the bareness of some of these recent get-togethers has left the students who did go to them with a feeling of being stranded in the middle of the Mojave desert.

So we will now gently lift our big shoes from where they have been resting for the past two paragraphs, with the firm hope that an imprint of no meager depth has been incalculated for posterity.

TIPS FOR VETS

By GEORGE

Married veterans living in the vets village could well take alarm at the news of the fire Sunday on the campus for it demonstrates what could happen to frame buildings if a fire should start. A small fire, fanned by one of Moscow's typical breezes could level the wood frame structures of the vets' housing project in short order, much as did the fire which swept through the agriculture buildings last Sunday evening. Reports from the vets' housing project on North Main street state that should a fire start in one of the frame buildings there no telephone would be available to report it. The telephone office says that no telephones are available. Surely fire prevention should be practiced in all vets' housing projects and fire alarm facilities provided especially since the houses are not too substantially constructed and grouped close together.

A program has been announced which will furnish Idaho veterans having service-connected disabilities with complete medical care from physicians of their own choice throughout the state. The contract for such a statewide program was recently approved by officials of the state medical association and representatives of the Veterans Administration in Boise. The lists of physicians will be available at all VA offices throughout the state.

Governor Promises Appropriations

Gov. Arnold Williams, candidate for reelection, said Friday in Moscow that his plans, if reelected, are for a four-year college at Pocatello, with courses "that do not compete with those offered here."

He said he promises not to "choke the school with lack of appropriations." He would like to see the schools of engineering, forestry, and agriculture built up to compete with the best in the nation.

Engineers Elect Program Heads

Chuck Hansen, Jack Barnes, Don Walker, Kenneth Neibauer, and Bob Fryer were elected program committeemen for social functions of the Associated Society of Mechanical Engineers at a meeting held Tuesday.

Here's More About Women's Grades

of a grade point higher than the pledges.

Springtime Grades
Springtime seems to be hard on sorority women's grades, while it spurs the men on to greater efforts. The difference between first and second semester grades tend to indicate this. The all-sorority average for the first semester of last year was 2.7 as compared with the second semester's 2.60. Non-sorority women brought their average up from 2.47 to 2.51 during this same period. Men, both independent and fraternity, succeeded in raising their grades during the year.

Feuds Prevalent On Idaho Campus

To an outsider, Idaho's campus appears to be a peaceful center of higher learning. The green lawns and imposing buildings convey the impression of solid, cultured dignity. Smiling students sauntering easily to classrooms make the stranger feel that nothing can happen here.

Little does the stranger know. Under this external covering lies a boiling pot of feuds. Compared with Idaho fraternities and sororities, the Martins and the Coys were pikers when it comes to feuding. They were rank amateurs.

Take the Pi Phi-Delta Tau feud, for instance. This feud centers around the Pi Phi "hot seat," which the girls love dearly. Life seems drab to them when it is gone.

Early last week the chair disappeared. A hurried conference, a reconnaissance party, and a group of troops preceded an attack on the Delta Tau house. Some of the Delta pledges are veterans but none of them had been through anything that equalled that battle. To paraphrase: All Hell Hath no Fury Like That of an Angry Pi Phi.

Women Lose

However, the resolute women retreated wet, tired, and without their furniture, outclassed by superior weapons in the form of 50-caliber garden hoses.

Later in the week, the Pi Phi's turned out en masse to cheer for the Deltas in their intramural football game with Sigma Nu. Last reports indicate that the chair is on its way back.

Strong men have been known to pale when the Kappa Kappa Gamma-Sigma Chi feud is mentioned. For the fiercest in feuding look to this campaign.

Want Benches Back

The two white benches that usually adorn the Kappa front porch appeared on the Sigma Chi roof top last week. The porch remains barren of benches this week, but rumor has it that ominous plans are afoot. Kappa pledges are wearing a self-satisfied smile these days, which should be a warning to Sigma Chi.

Another battle of titanic proportions ensued recently at the Kappa Sig house when hordes of Irate Gamma Phi pledges attempted to regain some misplaced furniture which the fraternity men had mysteriously acquired.

The women pledges suffered casualties but, unlike the Pi Phi's, returned victorious with the furniture.

Hostages Taken

Hostages were taken last Thursday when the SAE-Tri-Delt feud flared up anew. A scouting party of four girls, looking for their crest which had disappeared, was regrettably captured.

The prisoners were returned later, branded with "SAE" in lip-

KUOI Auditions Announcers

Staff representatives of the radio club nominated to announce for the KUOI hook-up here have begun broadcasting until new club aspirants have been trained, Glenn Southworth announced recently.

Announcers are Sam Butterfield, Bob Kerr, Harry Lamson, Sharran Hart, and Greg Potvin.

Organization meetings are held on Thursdays at 5 p.m. at the Engineering building. Requirements for membership are 15 hours work at the local studio.

IR Club Discusses Medicine Problem

Discussion on the topic of Socialized Medicine will be held at the meeting of International Relations club Thursday night, according to Sylvan Jeppson, president. All interested students are invited to attend the meetings, at 7 p.m. in the Student Union building.

A panel discussion was held Thursday night on the subject: Do the Jews want to live in Palestine? Would they go to any other country? Members of the panel included Dr. C. J. Jefferies and Miss Jewell Tanner.

stick on their foreheads. A melee that shook the neighborhood followed. Results of the conflict were uncertain but a serenade by the women that night produced the crest.

Door Is Trophy

A front door was the battle trophy in the water fight that took place between the Alpha Chi and Sigma Nu houses. Alpha Chi pledges were drenched, but happy after a truce was declared and the vital portal restored to its hinges.

The Delta Gamma feud front is quiet at present. It is feared, however, that any night the ATOs will break out with one of their 4:30 a.m. serenades, thereby renewing hostilities in that sector.

Kappa Alpha Theta and Alpha Phi are not engaged in active feuding at the moment but then it has been said that the lull precedes the storm.

Fraternity Feuds

Most of the fraternities are engaged in feuds such as Phi Delta-Beta trays. The Betas have been looking longingly at the Phi Delt victory bell across the street, but so far attempts to abscond with it have proved unsuccessful.

Numerous other feuds are raging under Idaho's calm exterior, but many of them are too bloody, too brutal to mention. Let it suffice to warn the careless: Tread lightly lest you get caught in the cross fires of an inter-house feud.

Many Vets Enroll For Job Training

Of 2908 disabled veterans in the Pacific northwest, currently enrolled in institutional or on-the-job training, Joe P. Uberunga, veterans' administration contact representative in Moscow, announced Saturday that 1898 were taking job training, whereas only 1040 are pursuing their education in institutions.

The number of non-disabled veterans now in on-the-job training in the area is 19,494, while 9409 are taking institutional training, he said.

Officers To Meet At Legion Hall

All students who were officers during the war are invited to attend a meeting of the Reserve Officers Association at the American Legion hall Friday at 7 p.m. This will be the first meeting of the year and plans for the year's work will be outlined.

President of the organization is Fulton Gale and John Cook serves as secretary. The meeting will be short to allow members to attend the American Legion dance at the Memorial gymnasium the same evening.

Council Sponsors Church Project

In order that each living group on the campus is provided with a church directory, members of the Inter-Church Council will begin a project under the chairmanship of Garnet Storm.

During the meeting held Thursday afternoon at the LDS Institute, Rev. Neil Nelson, representative of the Moscow Ministerial association, asked that a committee be appointed to work with him on publicity for the proposed new Idaho Institute of Christian Education building. Howard Morgan, Jacqueline Shiell, and June Sutop were appointed to that committee.

Discussion was held on activities for the coming year. It was suggested that the traditional Easter Sunrise Service, World Student Service Fund Drive, and a religious emphasis week be undertaken.

Faculty advisor to the council is Dean D. S. Jeffers; Ministerial association advisors are Mr. G. S. Tanner and Rev. Nelson. Verna Greenlee is president; Geneva Ferguson, vice president; June Carnie, secretary-treasurer.

Drive like hell and you will probably get there.

Amateurs Elect New Officers

Herb Dodge was elected president and trustee for the university station at the meeting of radio amateurs Monday night in the Engineering building. Elmer Clayton was elected secretary of the newly formed club.

The university station is expected to be back on the air as soon as the station license is renewed by the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D. C.

Band Makes Tour

Senhett Taylor, appointed manager of the Pep band recently, announced the scheduling of a three day tour of northwest cities, the purpose of the tour being to advertise Homecoming day. Orofino was visited yesterday. Other cities on the tour are Coeur d'Alene, Kellogg, Wallace, and Spokane.

Two Games At Neale Stadium This Week; Vandals Score!

Vandals Meet Spartans On Gridiron Saturday

Football plenty is slated for football-minded fans in the Palouse area with two games offered this week at Neale stadium. Friday, October 18, the Idaho junior varsity tackles the WSC Kittens and the next day, Saturday, the three-time losing Vandal grid machine will tangle with the San Jose Spartans. The Idaho team bowed in defeat to Marquette University 46 to 6 last Saturday.

The consensus is that the Spartans will be plenty tough and Coach J. A. (Babe) Brown made a statement to that effect when

Some 12,000 fans watched the Marquette Hilltoppers trounce the luckless Vandals 46 to 6 at Milwaukee Saturday. Marquette scored four times in the first half and once in the second half via the aerial route. The brewery town boys completed 13 of 21 passes for a total of 198 yards against the Idaho team.

On the last play of the third quarter Idaho advanced the ball past the fifty yard line for the first time during the game. With the start of the fourth quarter Idaho advanced to inside Marquette's five yard line on three passes from Hammond to Hatch. Hammond then carried the ball on a quarterback sneak scoring Idaho's lone tally.

Several Idaho players were injured in the Marquette farcous. Bill Miklich, fullback, received an ankle injury, Frank Viro, tackle, was taken from the game with a knee injury and Ralph Paasch, center, hurt a leg.

"TAKE FIVE"

BY CLARK CHANDLER

Any fool can criticize, most fools do!—U. S. Navy. Disregarding the above adage we'll flip the old lid again and hope we don't step on too many toes. It is indeed discouraging to be sports editor of the Argonaut during the football season. Without fail, the editor always gets the feeling of being a first cousin to an undertaker. Anyway, we can take heart—for some poorly informed people may have fixed the idea in their minds that there is no more meat shortage after reading of the Milwaukee slaughter in Saturday's headlines. Idaho scored six points, but it isn't the type of upset at which we can rejoice.

Something is wrong with Idaho and maybe the Vandals are too slow for the T formation. Al Barackman, Idahoan sportswriter, is chasing down the rumor that Coach Babe Brown is going to return to a wing back formation. Leahy, Notre Dame coach, writes in True magazine that a coach should study the T formation thoroughly for a full year before endeavoring to employ that type of offense. A few plays originating from a wing back formation mixed in with a T formation offense may present a more dangerous attack.

Howard E. Stein, Idaho '07, of Houston, Texas, writes: "I played center for Idaho in 1907 when the vandals won from WSC 5 to 4. Halves were 35 minutes long then and that was the first year of the forward pass. We also scored differently. John Middleton, Idaho '06, was coach; Gus Larson, Idaho '07, was captain." Incidentally, Stein reads the Argonaut sports page now.

Swimming Is Next On Mural Slate

Leon Green, director of intramural athletics, announced yesterday that swimming instead of the regularly scheduled volleyball, would be next on the intramural sports list.

Immediately after the football playoffs the gymnasium will be open on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays to living groups in order that they might practice and select their participants for the oncoming swim season.

There will be a meeting of the Alpha Phi Chi next week in order to determine the entrance lists and eligibility rules for intramural swimming, Green added.

Top Student Wins Scholastic Award

Gilbert Carl Norris, Payette, has recently been announced winner of the 1946 Phi Alpha Delta award, conferred annually upon the student who has attained the highest scholastic average during the entire three years in the college of law. Mr. Norris's name will be engraved on the bronze plaque in the law library, which was presented and maintained by Phi Alpha Delta, law honorary.

The Bureau of National Affairs in Washington, D.C., is presenting an award at the end of the school year to the student who, in the judgment of the faculty, has made the most satisfactory progress during his final year in the school of law. The prize will consist of a year's subscription to the "United States Law Week," a national survey of current law.

Jensen Swims Again

Denmark C. Jensen of Emmett, Idaho, and a graduate of the University of Idaho, recently placed 4th in the 200 yard breaststroke and swam on the Fort Knox, Ky., medley relay team in 2nd army swimming championships. He also coached the 2nd army championship team at Fort Knox.

Jensen, holder of four battle stars, the bronze star and the purple heart, now heads the office of public relations at Fort Knox.

Idaho Grads Visit On Campus

Homecoming may still be in the future to most of the university, but last week was homecoming for four graduates in chemical engineering who also received M. S. degrees from the university.

Visiting on the campus while on vacation were Dr. Osborne Ashcraft, research chemist for National Aniline company, Buffalo, N. Y., accompanied by his wife, the former Margaret Hansen. Amasa Cornish, chemist with Shell Chemical company, Los Angeles, and his wife, the former Marion Partner, were here from California. From San Francisco came Sherman Kelly, supervisor of the lacquer department of DuPont's south San Francisco plant, and his wife, the former Margaret Ogilvie. Harvey Edelblute, patent attorney from the American Cyanamide corporation, was here from Stamford, Conn.

A bunch of stoos were on the way home from a party. They stopped in front of the frat house wherein lived one of the stoos, and howled for the prey. He stuck his head out of a window.

Golfers Battling Hard For Finals

"I'm well pleased with the progress of the 1946 all-university golf tournament and the display of talent that has appeared on the campus this fall," Frank James, golf coach, stated today. James added that all tourney entrants should finish their matches before bad weather sets in.

With excellent weather prevailing last week the tournament moved well into its final stages. Feature match of the week was Saturday afternoon when John Morley defeated Bill Severson one up in nineteen holes, to move into the finals for the championship. They both carded scores in the low seventies. Morley's opponent for the championship will be either Perry Miller or the winner of the Bullock-Kendall match.

Jack Keenan reached the finals of the first flight by defeating Bud Harris and his opponent will be either Taylor or Weitz. In the second flight, Harris, Rodwas, Peterson and Turnbull moved into the semi finals. The third flight has been Thomas the rest, with Chuck Flowers being the only one to reach the semi finals in that group. Bob Rosenberry and Russ Morbeck moved into the fourth flight finals and their match will determine the winner of the last flight.

PHOSPHATE DISPLAYED

Idaho phosphate products are featured in a new display this week in the chemistry department show case in the Science building. The display was prepared by the display committee, directed by Prof. Herman Swettersen.

IC MEETING

The first meeting of the Independent Council will be held in Forney hall on Thursday evening at 7:30. All Independent Council representatives are urged to attend.

Vandal Babes Clash With WSC Kittens Friday

The Vandal Babes are rapidly rounding into shape and a fair team should be on hand this Friday when the Idaho junior varsity mixes it up with the Washington State Kittens at Neale stadium in the opening contest of the year for both squads, Steve Belko, junior varsity coach, said last night.

The junior varsity consists of a large part of the 128 men that turned out for the varsity early this fall. On one occasion the J.V.s defeated their bigger brothers in a scrimmage.

"The starting lineup will be decided largely on the performances turned in during scrimmage last week, but the starting lineup against Washington State will not be announced until this Friday," Belko said.

Almost certain to start at end is Warren Briggs, who played against USC while with a marine service team. It is reported that Briggs prefers playing junior varsity ball to sitting on the varsity bench.

Washington State's coach, Bill Sewell, reports that he has had a difficult time cutting 165 prospects down to a workable 40-man squad. He says that in spite of a large turnout he is still in need of a good center.

Both teams will use the T formation and plays borrowed from the varsity teams of both schools.
