However, one flaw marked the events. Students who dug up the $2.50 for Homecoming dance tickets were amazed to find that they had to dig a little deeper and pay an abusive price for checking their coats. Investigation so far shows that the check-room was turned over to individual students who were to receive all the profits in return for several hours work that night. The usual procedure is to give this responsibility to a student organization which ordinarily asks a 10 cent fee for each coat checked. To a bill-ridden veteran this is a far cry from the 25 cents he had to pay.

Responsibility has not yet been fixed for the mishap, but many are protesting this part of the week-end activities. Surely the campus organizations could have used the approximately $300 grossed by students who were given control of the cloak room by the committees or alumní.

Prejudice in Sports

The issue of racial prejudice has long been discussed in-both the northern and southern sections of the country but this year a new slant has been added—that of Negroes' right to play on our college athletic teams. There are institutions in the south expressly for Negroes but there are not nearly enough of them; consequently the overflow of colored stu-dents go to "white" schools. Some Negro youths are just trainer. Stan got off to a good Smith Elem, Walt M. Cranston, as good football players as Caucasian athletes and are as trainer. Stan got off to a good much in demand for membership of northern teams as are trimmed the Whitman harriers in lighter-skinned Americans. Thus, we find that in permitting recent meet.

Negroes on some of our squads, the stage has been set for Minor sports conflagrations with schools that discriminate against them.

The curtain dropped for Act One on October 12 when Oklahoma City played host to the invading Fresno State Bulldogs. The Oklahomans threatened to massacre Fresno State's lone Negro player if he dared to set foot on the field, and the publicity was so distasteful that an official of the California college stated that if he had known about the adverse welcome planned for that player, the game would have been cancelled. The University of Nevada travels to the southland to en-counter Mississippi State next month and already sports hacks of the area warn the Wolfpack to leave their star Negro players, Horace Gillom and Bill Bass, at home in Reno if they do not want them torn from limb to limb. Reports from below the Mason-Dixon line state that Gillom and Bass will be "spiked, tortured, and generally mangled" if they don uniforms for the game. In our opinion, southern colleges have no business scheduling athletic contests with northern schools if they intend to treat certain members of their opponents' teams unfairly. Idaho has no Negroes on its squad this year and it has no intersectional games with southern teams; nevertheless, as collegians we should be concerned about the matter. The Vandals meet Fresno State in Fresno on November 28 and we are sure that the Bulldogs' dark-skinned player will not be discriminated against during that clash.

A Negro played in Neale stadium last Saturday—he was Howe Shirtless not singled out as an object for calculated, cold-blooded carnage. We can recall how he was once helped from the ground after a tackle by the man who had brought him down. Such a major problem among the wordisplays of sportsmanship far outshadow the threats winding their way from the land of plantations.

The new law establishing ceilings on wages or earnings of Public 346 men outside of regular subsistence payments will cause some checks to be higher than they should be. This will happen because rather than cut out all subsistence payments until reports were in, checks were mailed out as before.

As coop as the figures are talked from the reports of para.

As soon as the figures are tallied from the reports of earnings filed by each 346 man, there may be some veterans who will find themselves owing money to the government since their outside earnings were above the $175 ceilings for single vets or $200 for married vets in training.

This will cause some of the September and October checks of trainees to be a partial or perhaps a complete overpayment. Say, for example, a veteran with no dependents attending the university earned $190 for the month of September on an after-school and Saturday job.

Since the ceiling for him is $175 a month he would not be entitled to any of his $65 subsistence for September. If he received the check it would be a complete over-payment and the VA suggests the following action be taken: return the entire check uncashed to the Seattle Regional Finance office. In the case of veterans with only a partial over-payment they are to wait until notified of the exact amount over-paid and how to pay it back.

The new law (Public Law 679) establishing ceilings on at that hour. wages and earnings above government payments has had a direct effect on many veterans attending college under the G. I. Bill throughout the country. It is estimated that in the state of Washington alone over 4500 students or trainees will be affected by the ceilings. After reports are in many Idaho students attending the university under the G. I. Bill will also feel the effects of Public Law 679.
