

Play To Be Given This Week-End By Drama Group

Closing on Broadway June 29 and opening its amateur run at the university auditorium Friday and Saturday nights will be one of the most popular dramatic successes of the past season in Miss Jean Collette's presentation of "I Remember Mama."

Reserve seat tickets are available now at the bookstore to ASUI book holders or for 50 cents. Tickets are also on sale at Hodgkin's drug and Book store.

The comedy's production here this week-end, with Marjorie Dean in the lead role, represents one of the most rapid transfers from the professional to the amateur stage. Script books have not been available, so the actors have had to rehearse from typed manuscripts.

A cast of 23 and a stage crew of 50 are putting finishing touches on the play this week. An elaborate setting and authentic costumes have provided major problems to the crew, as have accents and quick cues to the cast.

The play is a reminiscent account of family life in San Francisco, as told by Kathryn Forbes, in her novel, "Mama's Bank Account," from which the John Van Druten comedy is adapted. Darlene Henderson in the narrating role recalls the major joys and catastrophes in her Norwegian-American childhood, and especially in the philosophy of Mama.

Uncle Chris, one of the most colorful character roles in the play, is being enacted by Chip Walter. He is described by the author as a "black Norwegian," of whom the children and even the old aunts live in constant terror. However, he proves himself a kindly man under his boisterous ways, and also provides the show with a good many of its laughs.

Typical Family

The comedy is a portrayal of a fairly typical family. Mama struggles heroically with insecurity, never quite sure who has the upper hand. Lars must have money to go to high school, and Katrin wants to be a writer. Money, or the lack of it, soon becomes the motivating influence.

The actual form of the novel is preserved by the adapter in his play by spreading action all over the stage, using approximately 30 scenes, and an outdoor set which changes from a kitchen to a soda fountain to a hospital hall.

There are, of course, the usual two sides to the question. In the negative, effectively battled by the faculty and administration, the argument centers around the fact that in order to get academic credit we must attend school a certain number of days per year.

As the situation now stands, we are utilizing our registration and final examination days in order to meet the requirements for this credit. Officials say if we were to cut class time down, we would probably not be able to give credit for the courses of this semester—unless the time is made up at a later date by holding additional classes after completion of the present schedule.

The calendar was set up for a one-day holiday and, at this time, that is the way it stands.—A cheerful note for students: so was WSC's calendar.

The affirmative side can be given by nearly any student here. It contains the potent argument that transportation facilities are not as limited as in the past years so that it would be easier to travel longer distances. Also, veterans want to spend more than a single day at home.

Members of the academic council met in early November and voted for the one-day holiday. They will meet again tomorrow under the chairmanship of Dean T. S. Kerr, in the absence of President J. E. Buchanan. The council is the executive committee of the general faculty and acts as advisory group on academic policy.

The academic council is composed of 11 deans or acting deans, two faculty members, and a secretary—along with advisory members. Jason believes that an honest look into the situation at WSC by this committee should either provide us with an extended vacation as those students will have—or would give us all an explanation of why such a system cannot work on this campus.

Cuts Now Illegal

The 10 per cent cut rule for skipping classes immediately before and after vacations was abandoned by the academic council—but their rulings seem to have no effect upon certain instructors. These teachers have signified their willingness to apply the drastic cut regardless of rules passed by the administration.

Threats have been made in various classes, and Jason suggests that students who will be affected by application of the now void rule report such instances to President Buchanan. With adequate facts, protection to the student will be given.

Skiers Nominate Club Officers

Jack Numbers, Paul Wykert, and Bruce Hanson were nominated for the office of president of the university ski club at a meeting held Thursday. Elections will be held at this week's meeting.

Other nominations are: vice president: Larry Remaklus, Don Conley, Eileen Brewster, Jack Smith, Don Robertson; secretary: Barbara Spaeth, Bonnie Kuehl, Jo Anne Elam, Pat Kjosness; treasurer: Ella Marie Fornam, B. J. Ingraham, Bobbie Douglas, Betty Ann Craggs.

Another general work-party was held Sunday with approximately 10 women and 30 men volunteering. More of the hill was cleared and timbers were dragged down for the ski lift.

The lodge is being remodelled by the club members and should be ready for use in two weeks.

Magazine Names Blot Co-Editor To Board

Elizabeth Robinson was chosen as the Idaho college board editor by Mademoiselle magazine last week. She is to represent the university in features for the magazine through the year.

In making her application for the competition, she listed co-editorship of Blot, the campus magazine, as one of her activities.

Outstanding board members will receive the opportunity of being a guest editor during June, 1947, as well as participating in Mademoiselle's first career forum.

Students Choose Top Ten Tunes

Campus Hit Parade, which was inaugurated four weeks ago, is conducted and broadcasted by Wayne Tripp and Orval Hansen over KUOI every Friday from 7 to 7:30 p.m. The results for this week, as broadcast over KUOI follows:

1. Rumors Are Flying;
2. Ole Buttermilk Sky;
3. The Girl That I Marry;
4. To Each His Own;
5. Five Minutes More;
6. The Things We Did Last Summer;
7. This Is Always;
8. Squeeze Me;
9. Surrender;
10. Star Dust.

To determine the "Top Ten," a poll is conducted among the living groups each week. These results are then compiled on a point basis. Among the tunes that have been included in the first ten since the beginning are "Rumors Are Flying," which has been number one twice; "To Each His Own," "The Girl That I Marry," "Ole Buttermilk Sky," and "Star Dust."

Stage Workers Complete Arrangements For Play

Faculty Members Speak Before Idaho Chamber

The first morning session of the North Idaho Chamber of Commerce which convenes Thursday in Moscow will hear President J. E. Buchanan speak on "Higher Education Looks Ahead." He will outline to the assembly of north Idaho industrial and educational leaders plans for maintaining the University of Idaho as one of the outstanding institutions of the country.

Every session of the two day meeting will feature a speaker from the university faculty. D. S. Jeffers, dean of the school of forestry and Vernon Ravenscroft of the forest extension service will appear on the program Thursday afternoon.

Dr. William E. Folz, school of business administration, will speak at the Friday morning meeting with Dean D. R. Theophilus of the school of agriculture, listed as the first to address the group Friday afternoon.

Delegates Attend Portland Meeting Of IR Convention

Dr. Frank Munk of Reed College, formerly head of UNRRA administrative personnel and later economic advisor to the Czechoslovakian and Austrian governments, addressed delegates to the International Relations club convention held at Marylhurst College in Oregon last week-end on the topic, "The United Nations From the Inside."

Dr. Munk stated that although only in the framework stage now, UN's strong test will come in the next five to 10 years. If we can get through them, we will have a United Nations in spirit as well as in writing. "Special working organizations such as ITO (International Trade) and UNESCO (Education, Scientific, and Cultural) are the real backbone of UN and are of much more importance than the political groups," he added.

Seven university student delegates and their advisor, Prof. Robert E. Hosack, of the political science department, attended the convention.

Question Discussed

The conference question "Does the United Nations provide the means to insure peace?" was divided into three parts—political, social, and economic problems—for the purpose of round table discussions.

Pacific Clubs Hear Dr. Wood Tonight

Tonight the joint chapters of Washington State college and the University of Idaho Institute of Pacific Relations will listen to Dr. Herbert Wood, professor of history at WSC, speak on the character and the personality of the Chinese people. Several others will offer additional information on the subject.

The institute which includes in its membership faculty members and students especially interested in Pacific relations will meet in the Faculty club rooms.

Students

Special arrangements have been made with Hutchison's and Serner's studios to have pictures taken for the Gem up to Dec. 10. Students desiring sittings should make appointments with the studios.

This has become necessary because of students who have been ill, out-of-town, or who entered beard growing contest.

Scribe Makes Hay; Cockroaches Play

Approximately 110 "Dads" registered over the week-end as attending the Dad's Day activities held for them, according to Carl Neiwirth, chairman.

Officers Conjure Plans For Gala Holly Week

Initial plans for the sophomore "Holly Week" to be held December 9 to 14 were made Friday afternoon in the lounge of the LDS institute when the newly-elected sophomore class officers met to outline the coming "traditional festive week."

Sophomore class officers for the year are John Morley, president; Otis Walter, vice president; Robert Pettijohn, secretary; and Herbert Greenberg, treasurer.

It was decided that a representative sophomore would be chosen from each of the living groups to serve on a general planning committee. The first meeting of this group was held last night in the small ballroom of the Student Union building.

From this group of representatives, committee heads will be appointed. The theme of the event will be announced this week.

The outline of the events of "Holly Week" includes several gala affairs, among which are a serenade, assembly, and the semi-formal dance highlighted by the crowning of the Holly Queen.

Last year's dance with the theme of "Sleigh Ride" was postponed until January 12 when a large number of students left the campus early. Margaret Arnold reigns as Holly Queen.

In keeping with the current trend the sophomore class officers firmly pledge themselves to the perpetration of a bigger and better "Holly Week."

Josh White Will Present Ballad Concert Friday

Josh White, nationally known ballad and blues singer, will be presented in a community concert for university students and townspeople of Moscow and Pullman Friday evening in Memorial gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

Admission will be only to persons with tickets for the concert series or by ASUI books, and present reports indicate that this will fill the gymnasium to capacity. Those without the stated means of entrance are urged not to attempt attending the program.

White appears in Moscow with special appeal to university students as the artist who popularized "One Meat Ball." Josephine Premice, Haitian singer and dancer, will assist in presentation of the program. Her offerings are to percussion accompaniment of the Cuban percussionist, Indio Macrije.

The singer accompanies himself on a guitar.

Commenting on a performance of the artist, the Detroit Free Press reported: "Interpretation and singing of ballads has grown into an art within recent years through the efforts of such men as White, Carl Sandburg and Burl Ives. It is an art that has much in common with lieder singing when it is handled with poetic sense."

"White, with his guitar as accompaniment, is an artist in his finger tips."

White appears as the second artist to be presented under the auspices of the Moscow-Pullman Community Concert association.

NROTC Reminds Eligibles To Sign Now

All young men desiring to enter the college Naval ROTC program were reminded recently by Capt. S. H. Ambruster, professor of naval science and tactics at the university, that applications to take the aptitude test must be filed so that they will reach the naval examination board in Princeton, N. J., by December 17. Application blanks may be obtained from local high school principals, college deans, the Offices of Naval Officer Procurement, or the NROTC at the University of Idaho.

Eligible candidates will take examinations at various cities on January 18, 1947. Idaho examination points are Boise, Moscow, Pocatello and Twin Falls. Other cities include Spokane, Walla Walla and Yakima, Wash.; Butte and Missoula, Mont., and Salt Lake City, Utah.

Answering the questions calls for a general knowledge of such subjects as history, grammar, physics and mathematics, plus plenty of "common horse sense."

To Name Schools

Successful candidates will be allowed to name three Naval ROTC schools which they would like to attend, and the Navy Department will assign them to one of these schools if possible. There are 52 in the United States. The University of Idaho unit is the only one between Puget Sound and Minneapolis. Because of the regional role assigned Idaho's NROTC unit, the board of regents recently waived out-of-state restrictions for a quota of approved NROTC candidates desiring to attend Idaho.

Those selected for the NROTC program will be given four years of education with tuition, books, normal fees and $50 a month furnished by the government. The students must agree to accept commissions as ensigns in the navy or second lieutenants in the marine corps for at least two years, if qualified, upon graduation.

In keeping with the current trend the sophomore class officers firmly pledge themselves to the perpetration of a bigger and better "Holly Week."

Officers Conjure Plans For Gala Holly Week

Initial plans for the sophomore "Holly Week" to be held December 9 to 14 were made Friday afternoon in the lounge of the LDS institute when the newly-elected sophomore class officers met to outline the coming "traditional festive week."

Sophomore class officers for the year are John Morley, president; Otis Walter, vice president; Robert Pettijohn, secretary; and Herbert Greenberg, treasurer.

It was decided that a representative sophomore would be chosen from each of the living groups to serve on a general planning committee. The first meeting of this group was held last night in the small ballroom of the Student Union building.

From this group of representatives, committee heads will be appointed. The theme of the event will be announced this week.

The outline of the events of "Holly Week" includes several gala affairs, among which are a serenade, assembly, and the semi-formal dance highlighted by the crowning of the Holly Queen.

Last year's dance with the theme of "Sleigh Ride" was postponed until January 12 when a large number of students left the campus early. Margaret Arnold reigns as Holly Queen.

In keeping with the current trend the sophomore class officers firmly pledge themselves to the perpetration of a bigger and better "Holly Week."

Schultz Returns From Iowa

Burman Schultz, university student from Denver, returned Friday from a three-day convention of Phi Eta Sigma, national scholastic honorary, held on the University of Iowa campus in Iowa City.

Appointed chairman of the Miscellaneous problems committee, Schultz aided in revising the by-laws followed by individual chapters of the fraternity.

Delegates from 42 colleges and universities attended the convention which was the first since the war for Phi Eta Sigma. Eight chapters were not represented.

Following the business meetings, a tour of the Iowa campus was taken. A banquet was attended later by the delegates.

"I enjoyed the trip thoroughly," Schultz stated, adding that he brought back several ideas for activities of the Idaho chapter aimed at improving student scholastic standings.

'I' Men Assured Basketball Seats

Beginning with the first home basketball game, only members of the "I" club with membership cards will be allowed to sit in the section reserved for them. Cards will be given out at the meeting Thursday night, according to John Evans, president.

A committee headed by Don Dahlberg is working with Gale Mix planning two banquets a year to present "I" club awards, sweaters, and letters to all eligible men.

From football game concessions the club has acquired over $500 which will be used for banquets, the "I" club dance in the spring, and block "I's" for key chains.

Club members wish to thank the Spurs for helping with the concessions during the football games, Evans said.

Is This Democracy?

Two weeks ago on election day, Joseph Scattereggio, a Manhattan Republican precinct captain, left his home to go to the polls to vote. As he turned on the street corner, a group of thugs suddenly appeared from behind a hedge and professionally beat him until he dropped senseless to his knees.

One week ago Scattereggio died of head wounds in a New York hospital. A thousand friends attended his funeral and heard his grief-stricken, hysterical wife cry out to them as they were leaving the church:

"I want to tell you people he died so you could go on living in a democracy. I want you to know he fought against Communism and this is what he got. Remember, every one of you!"

Scattereggio had committed no crime. He had worked hard but unsuccessfully to get his party in power in his precinct. It makes no difference what he was fighting for or against; his death was the result of an assault which was incongruous to the issue concerned.

Occurrences such as this are not commonplace. Every day some person in the United States dies because of somebody else's carelessness, cold-bloodedness, or primitive release of anger. The small space provided in the nation's newspapers for this story is proof enough that such killings are not everyday affairs.

But in Manhattan today a lonely widow weeps silently over the injustice caused by irresponsible malcontents, and all the punishment in the world which could be dealt to the killers of her husband will not replace her loss.

Americans generally were shocked at the starvation and brutality stories drifting from Europe during the war. We were justifiably aghast at the reports of cruelty accorded prisoners by the enemy, and were properly agitated by the details of barbarism permeating from such horror-camps as the one at Buchenwald.

It is sad to say that at times the lovers of liberty, freedom, and right in this land of plenty can be just as cruel and evil as were the SS men and other masters of terror of the recent war.

TIPS FOR VETS

By GEORGE

Petitions will be in circulation this week to find out the viewpoints of U. of I. vets on the new veterans' organization which is in the process of organization. The drive will end Wednesday but the enrolling of members will be carried out until all veterans enrolled in the university are contacted.

As to the internal organization of the body the following points should be considered by the organizers: (1) some provision should be made for the different groups of veterans, (2) the governing body elected should not in any way be composed of a majority of any certain group but should be a proportional representation of all groups, (3) every chance must be given for an active participation in the functions by any veteran member—at the same time keeping the group orderly, not merely a social club.

The organization, as yet unnamed, should be one large cooperative body with divisions or committees for separate functions. This would include married vets, Public 16 men, Public 346 men, off-campus single vets, and single campus vets which each have their own separate problems with regard to education and housing. Any member falling into more than one of these categories could choose to attend the one which most directly concerned him or of which he was most interested in. The various committee heads would be chosen by popular vote and would compose the leaders of the Veterans Cooperative Association.

The duties of the body should be carefully planned, even though it is concerned with promoting the procurement of acceptable accommodations to see that all resolutions and proposals issued by it are not of such a trivial nature that its voice will not be respected by authoritative ears. It must be carried on in all seriousness if its objectives are to be realized and if it is to be noticed by those who are in position to help the veteran in his problems relating to education.

Dear Jason

The Thanksgiving holiday situation has received little comment as yet, although surely few people are in favor of the announced policy of having one day only, rather than the usual three.

In an article in the 8 November Argonaut, President Buchanan remarked that "students are here for an education" so that only one day would be observed. True enough; we are here to receive education, but whether education is aided by curtailed holidays is an issue over which I am uncertain. Reduction or suspension of vacation periods during the war was excusable, I suppose. However, now that transportation facilities are somewhat normal when there is no longer the driving necessity to cram as much school as possible in the least time, and particularly when so many veterans attending school have not spent Thanksgiving with their parents for many years, having a single day rather than the usual Thursday through Sunday holiday seems silly.

Now that the Board of Regents has made its decision, probably there is no appeal and the Thanksgiving holiday will be so limited that few students will be able to spend the holiday with their parents. If the two days of school which have been considered so important as to bar observance of this traditional American holiday in the usual style simply can't be omitted I suppose

Ugh!! Says Hasher About Campus Sleeping Beauties

Definite proof, one way or another, was given this week by several hashers at various women's houses and halls that coeds are not as sharp looking early in the morning as they are later on in the day.

The question put to these (male) representative egg-slingers was stated thus:

"Do you believe that your conception of the ideal American girl has materially changed since you started hashing at your respective girls' houses and observed them in the morning before breakfast?"

Speaking about the versatile Phi Phis, for whom he washes dishes and serves Wheaties, Bill Raymond of Beta Theta Pi answered the question by making these remarks:

"Yes, I am afraid my idea of the true American girl has changed considerably. I've never seen anything like it before. I'd say more, but I don't want to commit myself any further because I would sort of like to continue hashing at the Phi Phi house."

A fellow coffee-brewer for the Phi Phis, Chet Timmer, was at first reluctant to give any pertinent information about the changing nature of the female residents of his place of employment. However, after much persuading, Timmer finally admitted that the girls were not Helens of Troy at 7 a.m. and that "as an ardent Lil' Abner fan, all I can say is UGH!"

ZoBell Speaks

Forney hall also underwent investigation this week, and hasher Rex ZoBell, LDS, commented about the weaker sex:

"No, my conception of the ideal American girl has not changed very much, except that you get to see them as they really are instead of what they appear to be. The Forney girls don't look so bad after they first get up."

Walt Smith, LDS, and also a Forney hall hasher, had these kind words to say:

"Yes, I must admit my illusions have rebounded. Seeing the girls in the light of the dawn proves a point I have long contended: that is, that all girls simply have a dual personality. But since women are a necessary evil, sooner or later every man will have to face this fact of life for himself."

The third and last group of women to have their innermost secrets revealed to the world were the sedate and comely circle of Alpha Phis. One hasher gave them a fair break, and the other decided not to conceal his true views about the girls' early facial conditions.

Stated Jeff Overholser, Sigma Nu: "No, my idea of the American beauty has not changed since I started putting sugar on the Alpha Phis' oatmeal. I don't notice much difference in the girls when I see 'em at breakfast time as compared to when I see them later in the day about the campus—but a few of them do look a little rough when they first roll out."

Disillusioned

The other Alpha Phi hasher was less complimentary. Commented "Dutch" Schultz, Phi Delta Theta: "My idea of the ideal American woman has definitely changed for the worse since I started hashing. I can't add much to that statement, but the amazing point is that most women are completely unrecognizable."

Just to be on the safe side of things, queries were thrown at a hasher at the Willis Sweet cafe about the looks the fellows of Chrisman hall wore to their first meal of the day. Commented Chuck Robins of Chrisman:

"The boys' appearances vary to best hell. Some of them go through the tray line like sleep-walkers, others are fresh as daisies. But from what I've heard about the girls' conditions at breakfast time, the fellows are far better looking at that time of day than are the women."

This completes the week's exposure—but next week the Argonaut intends to contact hashers from Ridenbaugh hall, Delta Gamma, and Kappa Alpha Theta to see what they think of the early-morning charm of the women they work for. Don't say you were not warned.

Lil' Abners Give Daisy Maes A Wild Chase

Weighted down with a pair of size 15 boots and a heavy beard, Mike Williamson proved an easy catch for Dottie McNeil in the annual Sadie Hawkins day classic run-off at Saturday's football game.

Mike was snared by two Dogpatch "beauties" but Marryin' Sam, alias Jim Spoerhase, settled the dispute with a flip of a coin, with Dottie on the winning end of the toss. When interviewed after the race, Dottie said, "It was a hard race, but I got the man that I wanted."

The second available male to be snared was Rich Pennell who was unmercifully trapped by Carmel Crim.

Surprise event of the annual feature was the appearance of "Lena the Hyena," portrayed by Leroy Beeson, who astonished the crowd of 3500 spectators with a brilliant exhibition of open field running, and shot past nearly the entire congregation of "Abners" in quest of a man.

Due to the surplus of "Daisy Maes" not every gal got a man, but the winning two couples were presented with appropriate prizes; the men receiving certificates of marriage and the girls getting a miniature rolling pin as a memento of the chase.

Here's More About DELEGATES

The Idaho club, submitted a paper on the "Treatment of Defeated Nations." Other delegates who took part in the round table discussions were Howard Anderson, political problems that threaten peace; Marilyn Kerby, Irene Odberg, Margaret Eke and William Reagan, social problems; and Dale Winston, economic problems.

Election Held

Mrs. Malcolm W. Davis, representative of Carnegie Endowment and sponsor of all International Relation clubs, presided over election of officers for next year.

The northwest regional conference of IR clubs will meet next year at the University of British Columbia, Vancouver.

Jeppeson will serve as vice president for this second conference as his election was confirmed during the meeting at Portland.

Students Discuss U. N. Meeting

Two college students, the first to be granted formal hearings in a United Nations meeting, reported on the meeting over radio station KGW of Portland, at 12:30 p.m. Nov. 13.

The students, Troy M. Strong, College of Puget Sound, and Lois McConkey Putnam, University of Oregon, representing 47,000 northwest college students in 31 northwest schools, were picked by delegates who met last April in the first Pacific Northwest College Congress.

Patricia Ann Hagán and David Doane represented Idaho at the Congress.

Strong and Miss Putnam expressed the belief that students throughout the U. S. may soon have a continuing voice in United Nations procedures.

Well, now that nine weeks quizzes are over... Well, not that nine weeks quizzes are over... Well, now that nine weeks quizzes are over... We won't say that our quizzes were tough, but the highest grade received on one of our nine-week quizzes was a fifty-eight. The prof with a fiendish gleam in his eye, was frothing slightly at the mouth as he passed the papers back. He was heard cackling gaily as he wrote all the "F's" down in his little grade book.

We thought that we had just about seen everything on this campus until we saw chickens on the TKE lawn the other day. At first we thought it might be a delayed-action hangover, but when we heard the contented clucking, we knew, with a feeling of relief, that it was no mirage. We may be a little behind on the situation, but we thought meat shortage was over. Perhaps they are pets of one of the boys, who just can't live without them. We did notice, though, that their lawn is in poor condition.

Smith Strikes Aralia

It happened the other day in English 61. It was a cold, dreary day, perfect for a murder. That was precisely the way it struck Mr. Banks, the instructor. As he strolled into the classroom, he said to no one in particular, "This sure is a fine day for a murder. Why a murder could take place right in this room—the body could be hung by a rope out this window or it could even be hung on the vines outside the window—which just goes to show you that you shouldn't underestimate the power of a vine."

At this point in the discussion, Nancy Smith, of KKG, burst out laughing inane. Mr. Banks observed the display, a moment and then cautioned, "Miss Smith, be careful; you are revealing your private life."

Now our problem is this: how could Nancy be climbing down vines to keep a secret rendezvous when the Kappa House doesn't have any vines? Maybe her impressionistic mind pictures the fire escape as a vine. Or perhaps she is planting some seedling vines in anticipation of future years on the old camp.

Phi Delt Blackout

One of the better parties of the year was held last week at the Phi Delt House, which, incidentally, is located within binocular view of the Kappa dorm. Rumors are flying that it was darker inside than it was outside and that was a pretty black night. We were down at the blood bank donating a fifth, which was used to sterilize the needles, when we overheard the Phi Delt (who came down to get their eyes drained) talking over the situation. It seemed to us that everyone had a rousing good time... you might say.

Honorary Selects New Members

Wearing overalls and carrying a hoe over one shoulder will be in order for the men selected for initiation into Alpha Zeta, agriculture honorary recently. They will also be required to be at the entrance of Morrill hall at 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. for a week to open the door for members of Alpha Zeta and for faculty members of the College of Agriculture.

Those chosen for initiation are George Hoagaboom, Gordon Leovs, Dale Price, Aaron Yock, Seth Jenkins, Frank Jacobs, Jerome Dahmer, Russel Lindstrom, and Paul Wetter.

Scholarship, character, leadership, and participation in the activities of the College of Agriculture are the requirements for initiation into Alpha Zeta.

Lena And Daisy Maes Begin Big Race

Material for the Vandal track team was evident when Lena the Hyena and Idaho Daisy Maes leaped forward in pursuit of LVI Abners during the half-time of Saturday's football game. Marryln Sam holds a shotgun as he officially starts the race. Lena raced down the field, caught her man, and packed him back in victory.

Men Enter Debate Tournery Friday

Four university debate teams, members of which are John Menge, Blaine Evans, Roscoe Buckland, Frank Cannon, Richard Boren, David Weeks, Robert Rigtrup and Thomas Rigby, will travel to Gonzaga university at Spokane Friday to participate in the first intercollegiate men's debate tournament of the year.

The question to be debated is: "Resolved: That labor should have a direct share in the management of industry."

Other colleges represented will be Washington State college, Whitman college, Lewiston State Normal school and Gonzaga university.

We hope, in the future, to bring KUOI to have an even closer tie with all campus activities and personnel.

It is through the never-ending support granted us, that we are able to bring to you the types of entertainment and service that you request and deserve.

Sincerely yours,
The Staff of KUOI.

Station Extends Thanks To Students

An open letter to the student body and faculty of the University of Idaho:

For the past year, KUOI, the radio voice of the University of Idaho, has had the honor of furnishing entertainment and service to the U. of I. This has been made possible and maintained only because of the splendid co-operation, rendered by every office, house, hall and organization on the campus, and for this co-operation, we of the staff of KUOI extend our thanks; for we are indeed deeply grateful.

A new electric sign made its first appearance at the program, flashing "KUOI" to the audience.

A larger number of rooms are needed for Thursday night.

KUOI Celebrates First Birthday

Radio station KUOI celebrated its first birthday anniversary Saturday night in the Student Union ballroom with a broadcast followed by a party for the entire radio force.

Dean T. S. Kerr gave a brief talk on the progress made by the radio station during the last year.

Norman Fredekind presented a birthday cake with one candle to station manager Ted Cady.

A short skit, "And the Lamp Went Out," was presented by Maurice Paulsen. The first script broadcast over the station was read, followed by a brief history of the station.

A new electric sign made its first appearance at the program, flashing "KUOI" to the audience.

A larger number of rooms are needed for Thursday night.

Faculty

Facilities of the Faculty club building will be at the disposal of any single or married member of the faculty who has inadequate space to prepare a Thanksgiving dinner.

Any member of the faculty who is interested in taking advantage of this opportunity to get together for a co-operative Thanksgiving dinner with other faculty members on November 28 should call Virginia Ross at 8027 for complete details.

Attention

Faculty members who are willing to provide a room for members of the North Idaho Chamber of Commerce on the nights of November 20 and 21st are requested to leave their names at the office of the dean of men.

A larger number of rooms are needed for Thursday night.

By CLARK CHANDLER

There exists a serious problem at Idaho. It pertains to football and the prospects of a team next year. Evidently, the "Simon-pure" Atherton code does not prevent frequent and periodic athletic raids on the Idaho campus by other conference schools.

Four players can be named that have been broached by both midwest schools and those right here in the northern division. Surprisingly, two players on the junior varsity are considered excellent material by another conference team.

Also, two varsity ball players, who haven't played very much ball until the last few games, have been contacted. A backfield man has received feelers from two midwest institutions and a lineman is definitely desirable on another northern division campus. It is highly evident that rival scouts are pretty much on the ball even while scouting an inferior team.

Removal of the obvious stars is only part of the problem. Nearly every gridster who really lives football claims he won't come back to Idaho.

Hard pressed and on the spot is congenial Guy Wicks, head case mentor, who has inherited a defending championship team and one of the toughest basketball schedules in Idaho's history.

Prior to today, Wicks has weeded a squad of over a hundred men to a workable squad of sixteen men. It wasn't easy. Now he has the problem of deciding which men will make up the eleven-man squad barnstorming the east prior to the northern division race. He has to decide fast!

It is a conference ruling that only eleven men will comprise the basketball squad, but a team can take as many cagers as wanted on a pre-season tour. After stressing his needs, Wicks has been allowed to take twelve men back to Madison Square Garden instead of eleven. Wicks said he didn't believe he could handle or would like to work with more basketballers than the twelve he will choose shortly after the Vandals' initial showing against Whitman November 25 and 26.

Wicks is the first to admit that the competition is close and that several players are running neck and neck, so to speak. The hardest question for Wicks will be whether or not to select senior men with experience or inexperienced underclassmen with much promise of development. Such action involves both the present team and future teams. What would you do?

Stan Hiserman, track coach and trainer, is one of the nicest guys up Memorial gymnasium way, and aside from the personality hasn't been doing badly his first year at Idaho with the cross-country team. Idaho has won three straight meets, quite decisively, against Whitman, and Washington State, here and at Pullman. The harriers are now pointing for the Inland Empire championships to be held on the golf course this Saturday.

Ben Ryan, however, has been helping Hiserman with the track team while the latter has been performing his training duties with the Vandal gridsters. Ryan deserves some credit for the tracksters' fine showing.

Traveling Cagers To Perform In South Idaho

Idaho's 1946-47 basketball schedule was completed this week when athletic officials announced the Vandals would meet the University of Idaho, southern branch, at Twin Falls on December 16.

Confirmation of the game was received by Coach Guy P. Wicks today from John Platt, Twin Falls superintendent of schools.

The game with the southern branch, formerly coached by Wicks, now Vandal cage mentor, is the second south Idaho game for the Idaho club. Boise junior college is scheduled December 18 in the Idaho capital.

The Vandals' game in south Idaho comes at the end of a nine-game barnstorming tour which opens in Madison Square Garden, New York City, on December 3 with a game with City College of New York.

The first game of the season for the Vandals is this Saturday with Whitman College at Walla Walla, Wash. A second game with the Missionaries is slated for Moscow, Nov. 26, prior to the Vandals' departure for the east.

Idaho's complete schedule follows:

- Nov. 23—Whitman, Walla Walla, Wash.
- Nov. 26—Whitman, Moscow.
- Dec. 3—City College of New York, New York (Madison Square Garden).
- Dec. 5—Georgetown University, Washington, D. C.
- Dec. 7—St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia (Independence Hall).
- Dec. 9—Univ. of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky.
- Dec. 11—Univ. of Kansas, Lawrence, Kansas.
- Dec. 13-14—Univ. of Wyoming, Laramie, Wyoming.
- Dec. 16—Univ. of Idaho, So. Branch, Twin Falls.
- Dec. 18—Boise Junior College, Boise.
- Dec. 30—Santa Clara University, Moscow.

- Conference Games
- Jan. 2-4—Univ of Washington, Seattle, Wash.
  - Jan. 11—Washington State College, Moscow.
  - Jan. 14-15—Univ. of Washington, Moscow.
  - Jan. 21-22—Univ. of Oregon, Moscow.
  - Feb. 1—Washington State College, Pullman, Wash.
  - February 8—Washington State College, Moscow.
  - Feb. 11-12—Oregon State College, Corvallis, Ore.

Wicks said it was fairly obvious where the balls were going and their immediate return would be appreciated by the basketball squad.

Butler Demands More Boxers

Ken Butler, boxing coach, today announced several new additions to the boxing squad. He also declared that he is short of material in the 130, 135 and 175-pound classes. Butler urges men in these weights to turn out.

In preparations for a mid-December smoker, practice has consisted of road work, pep drills, and shapening-up exercises. "A manager who can double as a trainer is needed," Butler stated. Anyone who meets the qualifications and who can be at the ring between 4 and 5 p. m., report to Butler at the gymnasium.

Greene To Attend Conference Meeting Today

George Greene, athletic director, will represent Idaho today in a meeting of Pacific Coast conference representatives at Berkeley, California. The main purpose of this meeting will be to determine the opponent for the Pacific Coast team in the oncoming Rose Bowl.

Burning question of the meeting is, of course: Will it be Army or a Big Nine school in the Rose Bowl next January 1.

According to U. C. L. A. and Southern California officials, Army is the answer as both schools will pull solidly for the West Point team.

Both of the schools are believed in favor of the Big Nine tie-up, with reservations—including that it doesn't go into effect until January 1, 1948.

Strong opposition is seen by some, however, as to the coming of Army to the Rose Bowl, and this may lead to an embarrassing situation when the representatives decide whether it will be Army or a Big Nine school.

Attack Sparked By Kivus, Beitz

Unleashing a powerful ground attack to go with their already potent air offense, the Idaho Vandals broke into the win column for the first time this year by grinding out a 20 to 6 victory over the youthful Portland University Pilots last Saturday at Neale Stadium.

The Vandals rallied to a fast score early in the first period, and although driving inside the invaders 20 yard line five consecutive times in the third and first half of the fourth periods, were unable to get to the golden gate until three and one-half minutes of play remained in the game.

The fireworks started after Portland recovered an Idaho fumble on their own 10 yard line and punted out of danger. After two successive smashes failed to gain for the Vandals, halfback John Kivus, who played a stellar defensive game, broke off tackle and tightroped his way 45 yards down the sideline to score.

Shortly after, Idaho's freshman quarterback, Jim Hammond, made a spectacular pass interception on his own 40 and legged it off to the Portland six to set up the Vandals second score.

Vandals Score First After an exchange of punts in the first canto, the Vandals staged a successful drive that ended with Williams passing to Killsgaard for the initial score. Portland retaliated immediately. After recovering their own blocked punt on Idaho's 47 yard line, the Pilots came back strong. Led by the rifle-like passes of Pat Sweeney and hard running of fullback Del Owens, the Oregonians advanced the ball to the Vandal one foot line. Owens dived over for their only score.

The Idaho crew came out strong in the second half, but although halfback Willard Beitz crashed through for several long gains and Marvin Earl; fullback—George Whiteman.

Idaho's junior varsity will steal the spotlight from the idle varsity grid machine this Saturday, when they travel across the state line to meet the Washington State college juniors in a return engagement.

The approaching battle will be the last of the season for the baby Vandals, who sport a victory, a defeat and a tie thus far in three games.

The underdog role will be given to Idaho this week because of the Kittens' reserve strength. This reserve strength was mainly responsible for their narrow 24 to 20 victory over the Idaho juniors in the first clash.

According to Coach Steve Belko, the squad will take it easy the rest of the week in order to prevent further injuries.

A tentative starting lineup for Idaho includes: ends—Warren Briggs and George Ballew; tackles—Ted Diehl and Bert Sorenson; guards—Winston Bishop and Ken McCormack; center—George Ellis; quarterback—Don Underkofler; halfbacks—Jim Paris and first downs, the Vandal gridsters were unable to pierce the strong Portland wall once inside the visitors 20.

The steady pounding the Idahoans gave the younger Portlanders brought results, however, when with three and one-half minutes remaining to play, Kivus broke loose for his spectacular jaunt. Idaho applied the pressure to score again on a Williams to Killsgaard pass, and were again in a scoring position as the game ended.

The Vandals take a two week layoff until their final game Nov. 30 when they play against Fresno State at Fresno.

Vandals Will Face Tough Opponents

"Idaho's opposing teams in basketball this season rank among the toughest in the country. Such teams as City College of New York, St. Joseph's, Georgetown, Kentucky and Wyoming, to say nothing of Pacific Coast conference teams, all of which are regarded with the utmost respect," Coach Guy Wicks said last night.

Wicks added the games in the East will be played with only two days rest between them. In these games Wicks hopes to find the right combinations and to determine which players can stand up when the going gets rough.

"As for the Northern Division conference race," Wicks says, "Take your pick. No coach can tell yet what kind of material his opponents have."
