'Pep Band Will Feature Flexibility Of Modern Music

Eight AWS Positions Still Undecided; Arnold And Burnside Are Winners

Jack Dempsey is giving away a trophy!

This trophy is a gold (colored) monster 28 inches high with a little guy on top looking like he's about to jump off with a circular wreath for a parachute.

People are getting trophies every day, but the quirk in this deal is nobody can decide how they are going to select the receiver of the mantle piece.

One sure thing—it goes to an athlete. Presumably the outstanding athlete on the campus. According to Jack the winner must be: (1) Enthusiastic, (2) Sportsmanlike, (3) Cooperative and have good team spirit, (4) of high athletic accomplishment.

The athletic department had the thing first; decided the graduate manager could award it with a minimum of politics. Gale Mix tried to shove it off on Jason, but with no success. The students are supposed to pick the winner, but Gale is afraid of politics if he puts it up to a general vote. If you have any ideas about how to dispense the award in a fair manner drop the worrying GM a note. The trophy takes up a lot of room in his office. By-the-way, the Adam Hat Co. is the promoter of the scheme.

Craggs, Price In Contest For May Queen

Associated Women Students election Wednesday resulted in a tie for eight AWS officers and election of Marga Walters as vice-president and Bonnie Burnside, orientation chairman.

Runoff elections for candidates not receiving a majority of the approximately 500 votes cast will be held next Wednesday at voting booths in the Administration building according to Ethel Jane Kopelman, outgoing president of AWS.

Candidates who tied for the other women's offices and the votes they received include Donna Chapman, 226, and Marion Eisenhauer, 178, president; Jeanne Hofmann, 165, and Mary Sue Tovey, 171, secretary; Pat Colvard, 189, and Helen Moulton, 186, treasurer.

May Fete Candidates

Tying for May queen are Betty Ann Craggs, 177, and Ann Price, 175; maid of honor, Margaret Arnold, 176, and Geneva Ferguson, 149; page, Pamela Harrington, 153, and Myrna Ritchey, 159.

The May queen chosen will reign at the thirty-eighth annual May Fete held in conjunction with campus celebration of Mother's day, with the maid of honor and page as her attendants.

Goebel Surveys Two Hundred Personalities

By JUNE THOMAS

A survey of the personalities of two hundred University of Idaho seniors is being made by Laurence G. Goebel, graduate student in psychology.

The survey consists of eight different standardized personality inventories that are administered to each of the two hundred senior men and women. An attempt will be made to determine the general social and emotional adjustment of students graduating from this school and to compare this adjustment with norms which have been established as desirable.

Among the traits measured will be self-confidence, happiness, truthfulness, tolerance, nervousness, social standards and skills, cooperativeness, objectivity, and adjustments to home, family and community.

The results of the survey will be compiled and used as the basis for a thesis entitled "A Personality Study of Two Hundred Idaho University Seniors."

Goebel hopes the study will provide an indication of the degree of confidence with which University of Idaho graduates face the future.

During the summer session, Mr. Goebel will complete work on his Master's Degree and in September will enter the University of Minnesota as a clinical psychology intern to study for his Doctor's Degree.

Pep Band Leaders Huddle

Pete Barrington, director (left), Fred Willett, business manager (center), and George Hartwell, director, prepare for the Pep Band show tonight and Saturday night. The picture was taken shortly before Barrington was confined to the infirmary. If he isn't released today, the show will go on—but without that sweet trumpet.

Honorary Planned For P.E. Majors Tuesday Evening

Plans will be made next week toward the organization of an honorary for all physical education majors. The meeting will be held Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in the Women's gymnasium.

The main purpose behind the organization is to further professional preparation of the majors. Speakers will be engaged to address the group on the practical problems encountered in physical education jobs in Idaho and other parts of the country.

Future Jobs

Harlow H. Campbell, head of the university placement service, will speak on placement service for physical education majors in the state.

A committee, headed by Bill Eimers, has drawn up a constitution which will be discussed at the meeting. A report on standards for membership in the club will also be on the agenda.

Jackie Ritchie and Bill Sweet, who will represent the university at the national convention of the American Association of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation at Seattle, will speak on plans for their trip.

Varied Program Planned For Two-Night Stand

Featuring several arrangements by different "name" bands, the Idaho Pep band, under the direction of Pete Barrington and George Hartwell, will present its first show of the year tonight and tomorrow at 8 o'clock in the auditorium.

The show will be a combination of modern swing, semi-classical and jazz music, and, according to the directors, will attempt to demonstrate the flexibility of modern music.

"Vet 5" Vocalist

Included in the program will be "The Devil and the Deep Blue Sea" featuring the band's Dixie-Land Trio, and a Claude Thornhill arrangement of "Where or When," with Don Singer at the piano. "Champ" Champness, vocalist with Johnny Powell's All Vet Quintet, will sing "Embraceable You," with the pep band.

"American Bolero," a twin-piano arrangement of jazz in five-four time, will constitute entertainment during the intermission between the second and third divisions of the show. Included in the various numbers presented by the full pep band will be a concert arrangement of "Blue Skies" in three tempos.

Students may purchase reserved tickets for the performance by presenting their ASUI books at the Student Union book store or at Hodgins Drug store.

Pep Band Members

French horn, "Zig" Lash, Bruce Campbell; piano, Don Singer, Jack Perciful; drums, "Andy" Anderson; bass viol, Champ Champness; bass horn, Ted Kass. E. J. Marty of the music department will be guest soloist on French horn. Fred Willett is manager of the Pep band.

That bit of nonsense last week in this column about the lack of interest in the proposed photo contest brought results. No less than three letters and a half-dozen camera enthusiasts dropped in to give their ideas and blessing to the project.

The source of the prize money also gave the project a send-off by agreeing to furnish the funds—small though they may be. It seems now that the best scheme will be to start the contest the first week after the spring vacation and run for a month with the best pictures from each division printed each week in the Arg, plus being put on display in a prominent campus spot.

The divisions of the contest haven't been decided but will be announced in plenty of time for the initial entry.

Message Brings Police Visit

Assistance of a Pasadena, Calif., policeman and policewoman was necessary, but the university service finally came through.

It all started when the university received from Pasadena a postal card so illegibly written the word "people" was the only word that could be deciphered. University officials reasoned it might be from some elderly ex-Idahoan desiring assistance in locating his or her people.

The card was forwarded to the Chief of Police at Pasadena with an SOS appended. The chief dispatched a squad car with a policeman and policewoman to the neighborhood indicated, and found the card writer, an elderly woman. Here's the report from the police blotter:

"She told the police that all she had written for was some literature on the founding of the University of Idaho, and also a picture of the university. She said it was plainly written right on the card."

She will get the literature and picture besides the police visit.

KUOI To Release Weekly Program Of Vet Features

Working in cooperation with the Regional Veterans' Administration office in Moscow and the American Legion, KUOI will open a series of programs to aid Idaho veterans in keeping abreast of current problems.

Every Friday from 5 to 5:30 p. m. the facilities of KUOI have been placed at the disposal of these two service organizations to feature up-to-date programs covering every aspect of the problems now facing returned veterans.

Transcribed Feature

"Decision Now," a transcribed feature program starring topflight radio actors and released by the American Legion through the NBC recording division, will take to the air this afternoon at 5 p. m.

The first program of this 52 week series will be concerned with housing and the home. At 5:15 p. m. a program from the public relations office of the Veterans' Administration entitled "For Those Who Gave Most" will have its initial airing. The subject of today's broadcast will be "Readjustment Allowances."

Whitman Given Ag Appointment In South Idaho

Appointment of Eugene W. Whitman, Idaho Falls, as extension agronomist and pure seed commissioner with the university agricultural extension division, has been announced by President J. E. Buchanan following approval by the university board of regents.

For the past two years Whitman has been director of research for the Idaho Potato Growers association. His headquarters will be in the Boise extension office.

Feet Vs. Ford

The great race will be run tomorrow afternoon at one p. m. Beginning at the Phi house on foot, six Gamma Phi girls will try to beat six Fijs (in their 1918 Model-T Ford) to the finish line near the Gamma Phi house.

Who will win—a World War One auto or a half-dozen post-World War Two coeds?

Lawrenson Leaves For Boise To Give Concert

Raymond E. Lawrenson, assistant professor in the music department, left last night for Boise where he will be presented in a concert for the Tuesday Musical club, Saturday, at the Boise Junior college. His program will include selections which he presented in his faculty concert at the university in February.

Crime Doesn't Help Grades

Who is the unknown student who was so afraid of his midterm quiz in Engineering Drawing that he broke into the engineering office Wednesday night in search of the exam?

The entrance was accomplished with the aid of a "jimny," a device to pry open windows. However, the prowler made one fatal mistake. He left a clear set of fingerprints on the window, and local police expect to make an arrest at any moment.

Instructor Carol Curtis stated that he felt partially to blame for the crime because he has tried to impress his students with the "stiffness" of the forthcoming test. The exams, which had been locked in a file, were untouched.

The irony of it all was that there was one copy of the test on one of the office desks with a group of other papers.

C of A Will Be Scene Of Alumni Assoc. Informal Meeting

Clayton Spear, alumni representative from alumni district No. 1, has announced an informal buffet supper for alumni to be held tomorrow night at Coeur d'Alene, according to James Lyle, secretary of the organization.

The supper will be held following the last game of the Northern Idaho Basketball championship tournament and alumni will be introduced to Dixie Howell, new Idaho coach.

Gale Mix, graduate manager, and Perron Shoemaker, end coach on Dixie's staff, will attend the meeting.

Lyle, who recently returned from a meeting of the alumni organization in Boise, reported that five of the seven alumni districts were represented at the meeting. Lyle announced an alumni meeting will be held in Grangeville tomorrow night. President J. E. Buchanan plans to attend.

Enterprise Plus

Those gents down at Idaho State College (The late Southern Branch) let no grass grow under their feet. The associated students have shelled out $100 for the organization of an alumni association. By the time the first graduate becomes an alum the trap will be set.

Foresters Sponsor Poster Contest

A poster contest among the high schools of Idaho is being sponsored by the students of the school of forestry.

The posters are to emphasize the significance of forestry in Idaho and to increase efforts in the protection and conservation of the forests.

Posters are to be here by Monday, April 21. First and second prize entries and a number of third prize entries will be on display during Forestry Week.

Foresters Travel To Spokane Meet

Members of the forestry department staff will attend the second Woods Products Clinic in Spokane March 24 to 25 and at the Inter-mountain Logging Conference March 26 to 28 in Spokane.

Dean D. S. Jeffers has been chosen chairman of the program committee. He will also participate in a panel discussion, March 28, on "College Preparation for Mechanical Loggers."

Deans of other schools, University of Montana, University of Washington and Oregon State college, have been invited to participate.

Willhide Lectures On Debussy At French Soiree

Lt. J. Laurence Willhide lectured on "Claude Debussy" Tuesday evening at the French Soiree held at the Faculty club room. He illustrated his lecture by playing five selections from the first book of preludes from Debussy.

Debussy selections included "Voiles," "La Fille aux cheveux de lin," "Les Sons et les parfums tournent dans l'air du soir," "Des Pas sur la neige," "Minstrels."

Under the direction of Miss Mary Kirkwood, the art department provided displays of French impressionist painting. Principal painters whose works were displayed include Manet, Monet, Cezanne and Renoir. Paintings showed similarity in spirit in painting, music and poetry at the turn of the century. Prof. A. H. Beattie read selections of French symbolist verse, and Miss Alice Armfield presided over the meeting.

Faculty members composing a committee appointed to work on plans for future activities include Miss Armfield, Miss Virginia Ross, Mrs. Ester Brockelbank and Mr. Frederick Franck.

Buchanan Addresses C. Of C. At Tuesday Evening Meeting

President J. E. Buchanan will be guest speaker at a meeting of the school of business administration Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday in room 110 of the Science building. He will speak on various aspects of the university.

Preceding President Buchanan's speech will be a short business meeting at 7:15 p. m. for the purpose of discussing and taking action on the following amendments to the constitution of the Chamber of Commerce.

The amendments are: Section D. All students (male and female) who sympathize with the object of the University of Idaho School of Business Administration Chamber of Commerce and who are registered in the School of Business Administration of the University of Idaho shall be eligible for membership.

Section G. A nominating committee consisting of one Greek and one Independent from each class

GLIDDEN TO SPEAK TO GROUP

"Public Relations" will be discussed by Horace Glidden, of Boise, for the benefit of all engineering students March 27, in the Engineering building, room 202, at 7:30 p. m.

Mr. Glidden is District Engineer for the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

SHAKESPEARE IN PULLMAN

The Shakespearean comedy, "Much Ado About Nothing" is being presented Thursday, Friday, and Saturday on the Washington State College Campus.

The Membership committee will present four nominations for each of the nine officers on the Board of Directors for election to that office at a meeting called one month before the annual banquet. The new officers will be announced at the banquet and will take office at that time for the following year.

If amendment G to the constitution is passed a nominating committee will be elected at this meeting. Students should make nominations either by leaving the names of nominees in the suggestion box at the school of business bulletin board or have them ready for action next Tuesday at 7:15 p. m.

COMING EVENTS

Today
Faculty square dance tonight at the Faculty club, 8 p. m.

Tuesday
Freshman week representatives will meet at 5 p. m. with class officers in the small ballroom of the student union building.

P. E. majors meeting at 7 p. m. tonight in the Women's gymnasium.

NEW ORCHESTRA APPEARS

Wednesday night at the Chrisman hall-Tri Delt exchange marked the initial appearance of Phil Batt and his six-piece orchestra, the "Music Makers."

Mary Stanek is vocalist with the group.

Student Is Author Of Lapwai Hi Play

Maurice Paulsen, major in journalism and dramatics, is author of the senior class play now in rehearsal at Lapwai high school. The three-act mystery, entitled "Sorcery," will be produced April 17 and 18.

John Cermak, superintendent of Lapwai public schools, is directing the cast of eight. Paulsen wrote the play in connection with a journalism course last semester.

Brockelbank Named

William J. Brockelbank, dean of the university law school, has been appointed to the committee on comparative law of the American Bar association.

Dean Brockelbank was appointed in recognition of the work he has done in comparative law over the last ten years.

Wally Shultz Dies In Naval Hospital

Word was received yesterday of the death of Wally Shultz, 25, former university student, and an outstanding member of the 1946 university swimming team. He died in a naval hospital in Seattle after a long illness.

Shultz first attended the university as a chief specialist in the navy radio school and returned as a civilian after his release from the service.

A member of the 1936 Olympic swimming team at the age of 14, Shultz led the Idaho team in wins during his year of competition.

Presidents!

House presidents must bring pictures of their living groups to the Gem office as soon as possible.

A Boon to the Northwest

The Bureau of Reclamation plan, approved by the Secretary of the Interior, for vast development of the Columbia basin deserves the attention and approval of every citizen of the Pacific Northwest. Although the proposal, if accepted, will cost over five billion dollars and will be in the process of completion for a century, its benefits will far outweigh the cost and time involved.

Hydroelectric power will be increased by 10,500,000 kilowatts; 5,360,000 acres of land would be put under irrigation by water provided by the Columbia and Snake rivers and their tributaries. Exactly 238 individual projects in seven states (Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Nevada, Montana, Wyoming, and Utah) have been outlined by the bureau, with 11—including the Mountain Home and Rathdrum Prairie projects—set aside for immediate consideration.

Economically speaking, the two phases of the program will compliment each other: increased water power will bring more industries to the Northwest, and products of new lands under cultivation can be used to feed the additional population brought to this area by the industries. The dream of an iron and steel processing center along the banks of the Columbia (ore could be transported from Utah by rail) may some day come true.

It seems unlikely that opposition to the plan would exist, but at least two elements are not in favor of the proposed program. One element is composed of bill-slashing congressmen and their followers who see in the plan only a waste of money. Yet these economists fail to understand that the development of the basin will eventually pay for itself through repayments by water and power users.

The other group opposing the plan consists of private water companies. Their dislike is based on the fact that they will be forced to cut their rates for power-supply to conform with the new government-sponsored power companies which will spring up under the development program. And yet the success of TVA and REA has proved to the world that cheap, available power has played a large part in raising the standard of living of farmers and other isolated segments of population.

The plan to extensively develop the Columbia basin has been submitted to the governors of the seven states concerned and other interested parties. It probably will be some time before any legislative action is undertaken. However, now is the time for universal study and discussion of the program. —S.H.G.

TIPS FOR VETS

By GEORGE

Subsistence Boost?

Not at the rate the House Veterans Affairs Committee is moving. When the Rogers bill to increase subsistence for single vets from $65 to $100 and married vets from $90 to $125 with $10 for each child reached the House Committee it met a good many snags. Many of the obstacles seemed inconsequential to veterans who are finding the present subsistence payments do not meet their expenses. This is especially true of married vets.

Internal Friction

One of the hold-ups came when the members of the subcommittee of subsistence frequently found their interest directed to the affiliations of several of the student-veterans who were testifying. As can be seen this would cause some delay in the hearings.

The Main Bottleneck

Perhaps the biggest snag came with the announcement from subsistence subcommittee chairman Homer A. Ramey (R. Ohio) that the committee now intended to hear the views of college presidents and college registrars from different sections of the country. This will entail the college of college officials from all types of colleges—state, private, and land grant—and the time and expense involved will not be small. Meanwhile vets are getting by the best they can.

Coast Guard Seeks Academy Entrants

Applications may now be submitted for the 1947 entrance examination to the United States Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn., Coast Guard officials announced recently.

Tests will be held May 7 and 8 in key cities throughout the country. Application deadline is March 31.

Applicants must be between 17 and 22, of a minimum height of five feet six inches, with eyesight of 20/20, and with high school credits in algebra, English, physics and plane geometry.

Those who qualify will not need Congressional appointment for acceptance. They will be given four years of intensive training, ending with a bachelor of science degree in engineering and a commission as Coast Guard ensigns.

Alpha Phi Pins New Members

Initiation ceremonies were held recently at the Alpha Phi house for the following women:

Bernice Campbell, Janice Cooper, Jean Gray, Ramona Harris, Clarice Hove, Donna MacRae, Jean Ottenheimer, Eleanor Paulson, Beverlee Randall, Rayola Ritchey, Frances Shodde, Betty Thompson and Gloria N. Taylor.

Officers have also been elected for the coming term. They are: president, Cynthia Jessness; vice-president, Gloria N. Taylor; corresponding secretary, Margaret Maize; house manager, Margaret Spring and social chairman, Donna MacRae.

Seventeen women were initiated into Delta Delta Delta sorority Monday and Wednesday nights.

They are Betty Batts, Patricia Clark, Betty Stevenson, Betty Wood, Jacque Falls, Winona Galaway, Maxine Galvin, Sally Norris.

Dairymen Discuss Problems On Tour

Approximately 40 farmers and members of the Dairy Herd Improvement association from Benewah and Kootenai counties visited the university dairy department recently, D. L. Fourt, head of the Dairy Science department, announced.

The group, headed by Clyde Stranahan, county agent from Kootenai, and Loren Kambitsch, Benewah county agent, inspected the creamery and dairy science department equipment and discussed problems of producing milk for market.

The dairy barns were inspected Wednesday afternoon and better methods of feeding, breeding and management of dairy herds were discussed by the group with particular emphasis on dairy housing, mastitis, and calf raising and care.

Dr. Glenn C. Holm, station veterinarian, demonstrated the proper techniques of hoof trimming and artificial insemination, followed by a discussion of herd sire selection.

Paving Of University Drive Became A Reality In 1934

(Editor's note—This is the first of a series of historical features dealing with highlights and noteworthy moments in University of Idaho history).

By JOHN DILLON
Paving of the principal campus roadway, an improvement that was talked about on the Idaho campus for years before anything was done about it, became a reality in early August, 1934. The roadway extends from the tennis courts near Ridenbaugh hall on past the Engineering and Administration building to the U-Hut intersection.

Successful completion of the project was done by the department of buildings and grounds under the general direction of its superintendent, R. W. Lind. Professor John Howard of the department of civil engineering, a former highway construction man, was the engineer in charge. Seventeen men were employed on the job, 14 of them Idaho students.

The new highway was laid according to standard Idaho specifications of 1934 as to mix and thickness, with the idea of making it as good a job as there was in the state.

Concrete for the paving job was mixed at a central plant on University avenue. Two trucks were kept busy hauling concrete.

Several sidewalks that now conform with the pavement had to be raised in some cases more than a foot. A new stretch of walk was built from the U-Hut entrance west to Line street.

Attendance increased appreciably. The Moscow fire department led the parade. Said Moscow's fire chief who was already present when the siren blew, "Maybe we'd ought to call the boys." John "Smoky" Stover, village fire warden, took advantage of the increased attendance and carried on with the lecture.

DON'T QUOTE ME

By GENE ROSE

Probably the most important event taking place in Idaho athletics in 1946 was the hiring of J. E. Buchanan as president of the university. He was hired to pull the entire University of Idaho "out of the hole" and his plan for a revised athletic system is indicative of the work that he has accomplished thus far. Buchanan found, upon his new appointment, Idaho athletic teams deeply obscured in the mires of numerous defeats. His attempts for the rejuvenation of Vandal athletics have stolen the spotlight from his curricular activities.

One item... seemed to have been neglected in the policy of the future athletic system. This columnist has failed to hear or see any extensive reports on the matter of keeping Idaho athletes in Idaho. Every year a few talented Idaho high school athletes have tantalizing offers dangled before them from other conference schools and it is seldom that these offers are refused.

Why is it that the Boise high school football team has not lost a game in three years—but still has sent only one representative from those winning teams in the last two seasons? A school such as Boise should be a constant source of material for future Vandal athletic teams.

Can it be... that Idaho high school coaches are failing to "push" their athletes to attend the University of Idaho? This is one of the main sources of difficulty. Oregon, Texas, California or any other state's high school coaches consider it almost a crime if their star athlete does not attend the state university. Apparently this isn't the policy followed by our prep coaches.

The high school coach wields a vast amount of influence over his athletes. Being under the guidance of a creditable coach during his period of athletic endeavor in high school, a boy respects and heeds the opinions of his athletic head. Proficient coaches could and should send all potential athletes to the university.

It would help... if various representatives were sent throughout the state each year visiting and talking before every high school in the entire state and pointing to the importance of "keeping Idaho athletes home." These representatives should preferably be athletes or coaches and they should become personally acquainted with as many high school coaches as possible.

Of course the main factor responsible for the loss of many athletes can be traced directly to the university. Any athlete with possibilities would rather attend a larger college where the competition is keener, the coaching more advanced, and winning is nothing out of the ordinary. Anyway we are on the right step by building better athletic system but in order to build that system we must have athletes. So why don't we start a scouting tour this year and keep all of our athletes at home?

Mike Ryan's dreams... are beginning to materialize—just one year too late. Grand old Mike, track coach of the Vandals last year, used to fondly envision the possibilities of a new track for Idaho tracksters. Mike also dreamed of the time when Idaho would have the much needed field house in order to get his thinclads in shape early in the season. Mike was a fine credit to the university and we wish that he could have obtained the improvements while he was still here.

Spring Weather Helps Vandal Diamondmen

Despite the absence of coach Guy Wicks, in south Idaho attending a high school basketball tournament, University of Idaho baseball squadmen are taking full advantage of ideal weather conditions in preparation for games with Whitman college at Walla Walla, Washington, April 4 and 5.

Wicks and Athletic Director George W. Greene are in south Idaho this week attending high school basketball tournaments at Pocatello. During Wicks' absence, Jack Newell, former Idaho pitching ace and Tom Lyda, professional pitcher, are in charge of diamond drills.

Before leaving Moscow, Wicks said the Vandals' April 7 game with North Idaho college of education scheduled to be played at Lewiston would be played in Moscow if weather permits.

MacLean field, home of the University of Idaho baseball Vandals, is undergoing its annual face lifting. Graduate Manager Gale L. Mix reports. The diamond, which university maintenance crews have already whipped into shape, will have ten yards of white river sand added to its infield surface to eliminate mud during spring rains.

The Vandals have been concentrating on hitting practice during the prevalent good weather, spending most of the workout time in the batting cage.

Vandal Boxers Leave For Nationals Wednesday

Battlers Leave Via Plane

National boxing tournament officials notified Coach Ken Butler yesterday that all five of Idaho's boxing entries had been accepted to compete in the National Collegiate boxing championships to be held in Madison, Wisconsin, March 27, 28, and 29.

The Vandals will leave early Wednesday morning by plane en route to Wisconsin, and are expected to arrive at their destination sometime in the evening of the same day.

Those making the trip, along with Ken Butler, will be Ray Engberson, Herb Carlson, Laune Erickson, Bill Williams, and Ted Diehl. Engberson, 135-pounds and Carlson, 155-pound artist, both captured their first Pacific Coast crowns at Sacramento last week. Erickson punched his way to his second coast championship. All three are expected to carry the brunt of the attack in leading the silver and gold in their third quest for the mythical team crown. Idaho was NCAA Champions in 1940 and 1941.

Third Time?
Bill Williams, 1942 coast titleholder in the 145-pound class, and Ted Diehl, hammering 165-pounder, are both back in shape, and promise plenty of trouble for opponents. This gives Idaho a quintet of experienced battlers.

Blond Laune Erickson, who was national 165-pound champion for two successive years before the war, 1940 and 1941, will be trying for his third title, this time in the 175-pound division. If he succeeds, he will tie the record set in 1941 by the late Ted Kara, famous Idaho lightweight. He has not been defeated in bouts this season.

Team To Compete In Nationals

By reason of placing in the Sixth Army Intercollegiate Rifle Matches, the University ROTC rifle team will shoot for national honors in the national championship matches to be fired from March 16 to April 16.

In these matches the University team will compete with the high 5 teams in each of the other Army areas throughout the country, the winner of the matches being proclaimed National Intercollegiate Rifle Champions, Colonel Benjamin H. Hensley today disclosed. The men firing this match are the same group that recently won the William Randolph Hearst Trophy, for the Sixth Army Area. Members of the team are: Alexander Yarosky, Von Johnson,

San Francisco Bay was discovered by one Sergeant Ortega in 1769. Frank Hawksworth, Gerald Stearns, Johnnie Blair, Richard Boyle, Floyd Moulton, John Wittman, Horace Wood, Milan Bush, Carl Guderjohn, Dean Lenander, Fred Fitzpatrick, Eugene Sharp and Richard Peterson.

Other major awards went to Wendell Christensen, Dick Geisler, John Evans, Jay Gano, Grant Mortensen, Jack Phoenix and John Taylor.

Awards were made on recommendations presented by Guy P. Wicks, varsity coach, and Steve Belko, jayvee mentor.

Stadium To Have New Cinder Track

Plans are being drawn up for the construction of a new cinder track in Neale stadium. The construction will include full cement curbing.

The old track will be dug up and completely replaced with new material after the curb is installed. The cost of the construction is estimated at $4,000.

This will allow the separation of the track and field events which will reduce the danger of runners being hit by a javelin or discus. The field event will continue to use McLean field.

Activity Continues Among Church Groups This Week

Regular church group meetings are being held this week but few social activities are scheduled.

The Christian youth group will meet at the church at 1 p. m. Sunday for a trip to Suncrest lodge.

After a hike over Moscow mountain, the group will meet at the lodge to hear a talk by Wayne Kiouis.

During the Lent Season, Westminster Forum (Presbyterian College Age Young People) is meeting at 5:15 p. m. on Sundays and joining the congregation at dinner after the discussion meeting.

Because many students will be going home for the Easter holiday, plans are underway to hold an early morning service and breakfast on Palm Sunday, March 30.

Anyone interested is cordially invited to attend this service and breakfast.

Prof. L. C. Erickson led the group discussion Sunday. His topic was the break-down of the church in the early '20s leading up to the present day. The group will be directed by Howard Morton Sunday evening.
