350 Graduates Receive Degrees At Monday Exercises

3500 Expected To Attend Commencement Exercises

Parents, alumnae and students attending the 1947 graduation exercises on the Idaho campus next week will witness the presentation of bachelor and master's degrees to about 350 students.

It would be nice to say that another Jason had quietly collected his sheepskin (Golden Fleece) and had deserted the Arg office for more lucrative pastures. Such is not the case. This Jason went to pasture without the sheepskin. It will come in time.

The Argonaut's Golden Fleece rests for the next year in the able hands of Art Riddle, recently appointed by the executive board as editor for the coming school year. At the same time, Stan Godecke, faithful Arg slave was approved for the managing editor's position.

Never has the school paper had at the top of the masthead two men more interested in journalism than Art and Stan. They eat, sleep it, and really work at it. But they can't make a paper by themselves. They can arrange it, cut out the errors, and see that it's distributed, but the paper will be in the end an exact reflection of what the student body wants. It will reflect your keen interest in campus life and school or your apathy.

The reason is that the staff of the paper, reporters, ad chasers, rewrite, and all the others are a cross section of the campus. If you want it to be a good paper you'll have to make it that with your personal interest and help.

That brings us around to the past year. There has been that typical cross section in and out of the office at one time or another. Names would be appropriate at this spot, but some one would be left off, and feelings would be hurt for no reason. Let's just say that the faithful and the dependable are appreciated. Those people who were there when the ads were few and the copy scarce will know they have Jason's thanks.

Some on the paper were "foul-weather friends." Sunshine and Spring Fever left empty seats and double loads on the faithful few, but nary an issue was missed.

The backshop crew at the Idahoan can hardly be given their measure of thanks adequately. . . editing copy as they went; correcting errors passed up by rushed editors, struggling with page dummies that looked more like a crossword puzzle than a plan.

Well, the screams for "more copy" are over for this year. The frantic calls for a forgotten story are ended. On the bright side, freshmen and sophomores with a year of experience behind them give promise of a better newspaper next year.

As Jason turns over the tiller of the good ship Argonaut to new hands, thanks to every man and woman on the staff. I've enjoyed working with you.

Names Wanted
The new executive board has as one of their first duties the appointment of a Homecoming chairman for next fall. Rather than jump into the thing with both feet and say "this man will be it," the board is asking for nominations from the students.

The board will consider the nominations and make the choice, as the constitution provides before the end of the year. Leave your choice for the job at the graduate manager's office.

Norm Holen
There is nothing a newspaper appreciates more than cooperation of a publicity chairman. Some of them give it to you some don't. For the outstanding job of publicity work on the campus work this year, Jason nominates Norman Holen, publicity man for the Little International. Nothing was too

Speaking on the subject "Upon This Mountain," The Rev. Joseph I. Gulick, D. D., of Idaho Falls, will give the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the Memorial gymnasium.

Kenneth C. Royall, undersecretary of war, will address the graduating class during commencement exercises Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

President J. E. Buchanan will present diplomas Monday in the presence of John D. Remsburg, Jr., member of the state board of regents, Gov. C. A. Robins, and 3500 guests in the Memorial gymnasium.

All candidates for degrees on June 2, 1947, are required to be present at the Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises unless excused by President Buchanan, according to D. D. DuSault, registrar. Caps and gowns will be worn at both exercises. Candidates should follow the following program for commencement:

Saturday, May 31
All candidates for degrees will meet their respective dean in the following places. Saturday, at 9:30 a. m.: Letters and Science, Memorial gymnasium, northwest section (organize alphabetically in degree group); Agriculture, 218 Morrill hall; Engineering, 206 Engineering building; Law, Ad. 324; Mines, Geol. 1; Forestry, 335 Morrill; Education, University auditorium; Business Ad., 207 Ad. building; Graduate School, Memorial gym, southeast section.

Following meetings with the deans, all candidates are expected to meet at the Memorial gymnasium for the rehearsal. It will be the only opportunity for graduates to hear final announcements and to practice for the details of the exercises.

A student planning to be present at commencement, but for some reason cannot be at the rehearsal, should advise his dean in order that a seat can be reserved for him.

Sunday, June 1
An assembly for the formation of procession for baccalaureate services will be held at the Administration building at 10:15 a. m. Candidates will line up as follows: first floor, south end, candidates (Cont. on page 5, col. 5)

Agronomists Plan Annual Field Day
The annual agronomy field day will be held June 11 and experimental plantings in agronomy plots will be open for public inspection. K. H. Klages, head agronomist, said this week.

Visitors will be shown the various plantings of forage crops, Klages said and added this is in contrast to last year's field day, which featured both cereals and forage crops.

However, the agronomist explained, three meetings scheduled for July this year will show cereals to better advantage. The July meetings have been arranged primarily for delegates of northern Idaho counties.

From President Buchanan
In the first issue of The Argonaut last fall, I asked for the tolerance and cooperation of all students in facing the difficult year ahead. Now, in the last issue, permit me to say "Thank You" to all University of Idaho students for their generous cooperation and sympathetic understanding of the problems that have faced the institution during the year.

Memorial Honors Ex-ROTC Men Killed In Action

In a presentation ceremony at the military offices on Saturday afternoon Col. B. H. Hensley, commandant of the ROTC unit, accepted a memorial plaque donated in honor of seven university men killed in action.

The plaque was presented to Col. Hensley by Col. W. H. Hale, USA-retired, on behalf of the members of the senior ROTC class of 1943, classmates of the men who gave their lives in the service.

The memorial lists the names of the men honored and will hang permanently in the Senior ROTC classroom.

The names of the men and the dates killed are: John Erramouspe, Malad, November, 1944; Dallis Hartwell, Wendell, January, 1945; Donald Milich, Boise, January, 1945; Tad Neilson, St. Anthony, June, 1945; Duane Taylor, Drexel Hill, Pa., December, 1944; Thomas Woods, Weiser, December, 1944, and Bill Zahora, Atlanta, Ga., January, 1945.

Class Of 1947 Largest Group Since '42

Approximately 350 graduates will receive bachelor and master's degrees at the commencement ceremony on June 2. This is almost two times the number that were awarded last year and more than any year since 1942 when 490 degrees were awarded.

Fredekind Says 'Thanks'

To All Students:
Thank you for your cooperation during the past school year. You have helped to make it a very successful year for the University and for the student body as a whole.

Without the guiding hand of Graduate Manager, Gale Mix, who had a solution to every problem; we would have been faced with many complicated situations.

I want to especially thank the Executive Board for their fine attitude in carrying out their duties in an unbiased manner. To them should go most of the credit for a very successful year.

'Oldest Salt' Entered U. Of I. In 1936
"After a lengthy investigation conducted by Tau Mem Aleph, down-town men's association, O. Nick Huhtala of Chrisman hall was determined to be the "Oldest Salt" attending the university.

Huhtala first entered the university in 1936 and will graduate in 1948. His home town is Cabinet, near Sandpoint. When asked for a statement Huhtala exclaimed "Well, its rather a dubious honor. Maybe I won't graduate next year. Perhaps I still will be the oldest salt ten years from now."

Chuck Owens, Lou Larson, and Bob Hendricks were the runners-up in the contest, having entered the university in 1937.

The name of Elmer D. Gray found its way into the contest, together with the information that he had a grandson also in attendance at the university. However, investigators discovered that the "grandson" was mythical.

An Open Letter To Students:

June 4th will mark the end of the most difficult year in the history of the University. Some of you have not been entirely satisfied with the results. Housing was not all it might have been. Some of your classes were too large. You had to stand in line at registration time and you wanted more parking space. It is true that things were difficult at times; but actually, in view of the conditions which existed last summer and fall, a lot has been accomplished. Just recently, I attended the national meeting of Deans and Advisors of Men. After listening for three days to the trials and tribulations of staff members from 140 colleges and universities, I returned home with the feeling that the University had done a surprisingly good job. For example, the average student in college dormitories at other institutions is paying approximately $20.00 per month for a room and $10.50 per week for meals, whereas at Idaho the charges are $8.00 to $14.00 per month for a room and $7.70 to $8.75 per week for meals. When the semester ends you will scatter to every community in Idaho and to many places in neighboring states. During the summer months you can generate good will toward the University or you can emphasize its shortcomings during the past year. These are just a few of the things you may talk about, if you really want to see the University grow and improve: 1. You can let your friends know that, in spite of the most trying conditions, housing for 350 married veterans and 385 single men has been added to the University plant. 2. You can state, with authority, that the Legislature appropriated a reasonable amount of funds with which to operate the University. 3. You can tell your friends that the alumni are now giving the University more support than at any time in its existence. 4. You can state that we have a President who knows the needs of the University, has the backing of Idaho citizens, and knows how to get things done. 5. You can tell prospective students that we now have the means to compete with other institutions in holding the very best instructors and that we have a football coaching staff, second to none. 6. You can point with pride to our boxing team and tell your friends that the University is one of the few institutions in the West with R.O.T.C. Programs in both the Army and Navy. 7. You can say that additional buildings have been added to the campus and that we shall have proportionately adequate classroom and office space next fall. 8. You can inform your neighbors that enrollment during the past year was over 800 greater than in any previous year. 9. You can tell your parents that the faculty has been pleased by the work done by the G.I.s. 10. You can inform prospective students and their parents that provision has been made to house an additional 120 girls next September and that a permanent girls' dormitory will be built just as soon as the costs of building can be justified. Incidentally, did you know that during the war, some of Idaho's ASTP units ranked at the very top in certain examinations, such as physics and mathematics, given to all units? Also, did you know that the University of Idaho has had as many Rhodes scholarships as any institution west of the Mississippi? Or, that the Peabody report stated the University ranked in the upper 10 per cent when compared with major colleges and universities in the middle west? On the other hand, if you are dissatisfied and like to criticize, you can tell the world that we won very few ball games this year. You can cuss the coaches and professors for actual or imaginary shortcomings. You can even tell your friends that the grounds around the housing units were a mess during the winter, because labor and materials were not available. You can truthfully say that some of the boys had to bunk in the gymnasium last fall, because the new men's dormitory was not completed. You can even revive the false rumor that G.I.s were being flunked because too many had enrolled. Yes, you can easily find points for criticism. You could find them in any college or university in the land. When you entered the University of Idaho, you were being accorded a great privilege because your friends and neighbors—the taxpayers of Idaho—stood willing and ready to pay a part of the costs of your education. If this were a privately endowed institution, you would be paying a lot more for no better training. On the day you enrolled in the University of Idaho, you assumed a certain responsibility for its welfare. From that day on, you will be known as Idaho men and women. If the University continues to grow and prosper, some of its glory will be reflected on you. If, for lack of support, it becomes unfavorably known, that too will reflect on you. You cannot avoid that responsibility. Why not accept the situation cheerfully and start now to do your share? Every student or alumnus of the University has a right to disagree with policies or practices found here. If one is not in accord with what is being done, he may refer the matter to those who are responsible, or he may resort to destructive criticism. If he selects the former method, he will be doing a service. If he elects the latter, he will be undermining the efforts of those who are trying to build. Remember, a well-bred family settles its internal problems in a democratic manner. It never airs them in public. H. E. LATTIG, Director, Student Welfare.

Month By Month Photographs Illustrate Idaho Campus Life

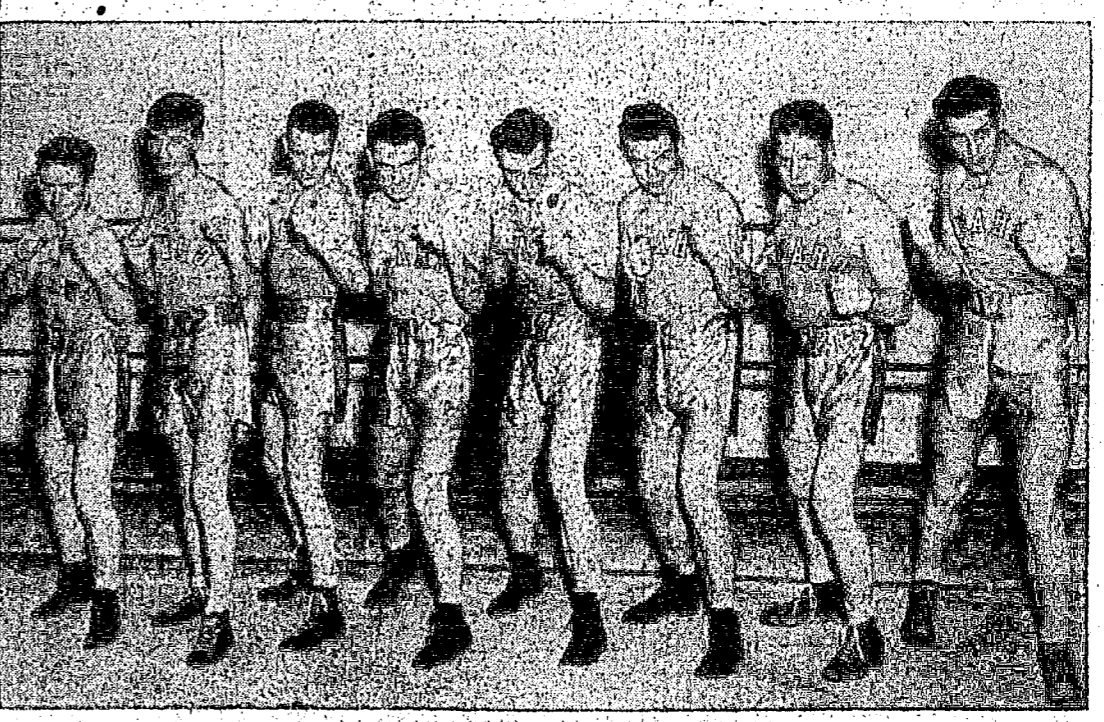

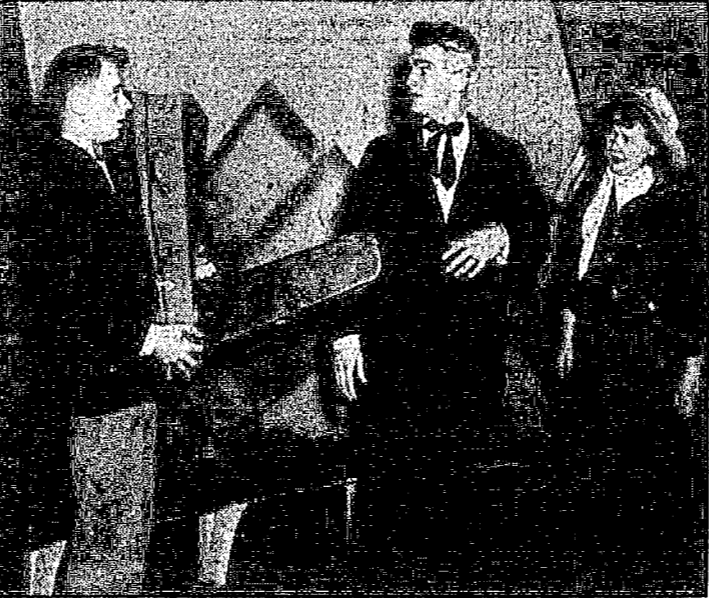

The school year 1946-47 began with the highest registration in the university's history. Student No. 3000 is shown (left) securing final approval of his courses. September also brought housing shortage problems as veterans returned en masse to absorb higher education. For the first time an Idaho graduate became president of his school. October found King Football on the sports throne, but the reigning Homecoming Queen (above) was blonde Barbara Brill of Lewiston. Other events of note during the month included publication of the Peabody report and destruction by fire of the university sheep barn. The Homecoming theme, "Roast the Ducks Brown," was boosted by campus living groups, but Oregon won anyway. Idaho's pigskin star continued to soar downward through the month of November, but Vandals like Team Captain Merrill Barnes (right) never stopped fighting. "Beavers" grew beards in preparation for Dad's Day and the Radio Club celebrated the first anniversary of KUOL. The month ended with the academic council turning thumbs down on students' wishes for an extended Thanksgiving vacation.

December's snow failed to halt Alpha Phi Omega's tea-dance, Idaho's first swing concert, or the Vandaleers' candlelight service. Early in the month the "T" club began investigation of Idaho's athletic situation as the search for Babe Brown's successor began. Geraldine Shepard became Sweetheart of Sigma Chi the same evening that Shirley Gustafson (far right) was chosen Holly Queen from the bevy of beauties above.

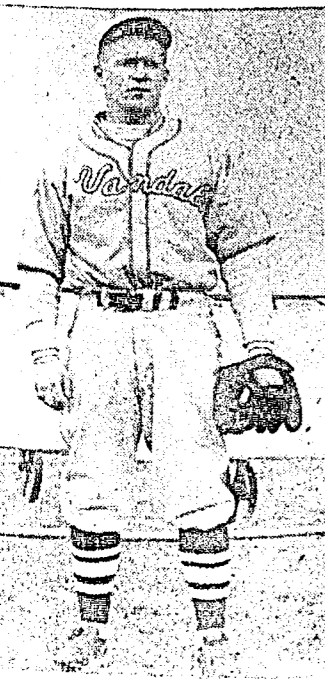

Word of Coach J. A. (Babe) Brown's resignation was released early in December.

After a 17-day Christmas vacation, Idaho students returned to live again the lives of scholars. Memorial gymnasium overflowed with fans witnessing basketball scenes such as these. A million dollar increase in the university operating budget was asked of the state legislature, and details of a ten-year plan of campus building construction was revealed. Final exams stole the spotlight from activities as January drew to a close.

February brought events such as skiing, work on the winter sports lodge (left), "Sing, Singleton, Sing" (above), and a series of successes to Vandal boxers (right). Senior Week and class elections also redlined activity-packed February.

Baseball, Jr. Week, Ag Show, Other Activities Mark Year's Windup As Semester Examinations Approach

Baseball flingers such as "Duck" Bybee, above, donned uniforms again in March. Idaho's new football coach, "Dixie Howell, arrived in town. The phrases "Swoony Sam," "Sexy Sarah," and "Gentlemen of Distinction" were added to the campus dictionary. The Pep band gave a concert and an ancient Model-T barely nosed out six fleet-footed coeds.

Students chuckled and strict moralists frowned as the April 1 Argonaut started the rainy month. After a four-day Easter breather, Phi Gamma Delta (above) claimed a Junior Week prize. April introduced a third political party, the Spinster Skip, and 11 new Phi Betes. In sports, track season was well underway.

During the month of flowers Ag majors held their Little International show (top) and Idaho student body presidents gathered in Moscow for a conference (bottom). The annual May Fete saw honoraries tap new members and student voices rang out in the Songfest. Two elections were needed to prove Walt Smith ASUI president, and Willard Belts won fair "Linda."

Representing the month of June is this unidentified "crammer" preparing for the means to an end—or the end to the means, as the case may be. The 52nd commencement exercises on the second day of next month will find approximately 350 graduates receiving degrees. Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall will be the commencement speaker. The school year ends on June 4.

Social Activities Finish With Finals, Graduation

This week sees few social activities due to final exams but it also brings the social activities on the Idaho campus for the year of '46 and '47 to a close. As we look back on the varied activities such as formal dances, firesides, picnics, banquets, to say nothing of the many dinner guests entertained at the various houses and halls, we see that the social calendar for the year was a busy one.

Gym Bond Retired; Funds Go To Student Union Building

Regents Approve Site For $600,000 Structure

With the retirement last week of the last $10,000 of outstanding bonds on the Memorial gymnasium, the road is now open for a new student union building at the university.

Since 1935, regular students have paid $5 a semester, summer school students $2, toward retirement of these bonds. Now these fees, by student action and board approval, will go into a student union building fund. The past year's heavy enrollment at the university resulted in the final bonds being paid off about a year and a half ahead of schedule.

Plans Developing
Preliminary phases of the new student union program are developing rapidly, reports H. E. Lattig, director of student welfare and chairman of the student union planning committee.

The university board of regents has approved the site for the new building and authorized the committee to negotiate with the New York architectural firm which has designed practically all of the student unions in the country during the past 20 years.

University property on the east side of Blake avenue, between the Kappa Sigma and Tau Kappa Epsilon houses, is the approved site, been considering a building which will cost around $600,000.

Committee
In addition to Dean Lattig, members of the group who hope to have all plans ready when construction conditions again become favorable, include Mrs. Louise Carter, dean of women; Dean Allen S. Janssen, college of engineering; Chester Kerr, manager of the present student union; Gale L. Mix, graduate manager; and four students, Gerry Johnson, Eugene Myers, Stuart Clelan, and Norman Fredelkind.

Seniors' Plans Diversified; Distance Lures

By JEAN KNUDSEN
As the underclassmen say goodbye to the seniors of '47, let's take a look into the futures of a few members of that class.

You won't have to look far to find Bill Williams and Sylvan Jeppeson. Both are returning to the campus next fall to attend law school. John Krier will begin graduate work for a master's degree in forestry service.

Joyce McMahon is another senior who found the charms of the Idaho campus irresistible and decided to stay. Her cheerful smile will brighten Dean Kerr's office next year when she trades a home at the Gamma Phi house for one in Vets Village.

Other seniors have accepted jobs in Idaho and nearby states, and hope to return to the campus for occasional visits. Pete Rowell, a chemical engineer, will be working for General Electric on the Hanford atomic bomb project. "Queen" Ann Price plans to teach typing and shorthand to high school students in Washougal, Washington.

Business Minded
Marina Dochios will head the commercial department in Kellogg "for at least a year." After that? Well... you never can tell about these football players. Next September will find Florence King teaching in Twin Falls after a summer of "just loafing" at home in Pocatello.

Lois Little and Margaret Madison are planning to spend the summer together as Girl Scout camp counselors at Coeur d'Alene lake, after which they will separate; Lois taking a job as a Girl Scout field director in California,

1947-48 Argonaut Heads

Art Middle and Stan Godecke, right, will labor far into the night next year on Monday and Thursday each week as editor and managing editor of the Argonaut. They step up from the positions of managing editor and co-news editor.

and Margaret by teaching at Aberdeen, Washington.

Teaching seems to be the ambition of most of these Idaho seniors. Virginia Geddes will teach home economics in the Moscow junior high school, but will be known to her pupils as Mrs. Robert Eyestone. Donald Dalberg will be assistant coach at Emmett high school. Rosa Ascuaga will teach music in the first six grades at Wapato, Washington.

Not Positive
Many of the seniors have no definite plans for the future. Consider, for instance, Romaine Galey, who has to choose between a newspaper job and a trip east this summer. Lucile Thompson's plans are also indefinite, but careering in San Francisco is the goal. Ruth Gochnour, a zoology major, will be at home in Burley this fall, but has not decided on definite plans for the next year.

In every graduating class are a few who are bound for distant places, and the class of '47 is no exception. Ora White, editor of this year's Gem, has been accepted for enrollment in the medical school of Johns Hopkins university at Baltimore, Md. Carolyn Cleare will enroll in the University of Chicago's medical school after a summer of work in a hospital in Pocatello.

Another thanks to Ted Cowin, Arg photography. He cut classes, lost sleep and was always willing to take just one more picture when the time was running out. Thanks a million, Ted, and so-long everybody.

Trophies, Campus Figures Complete Year-End Scene At Idaho

In the election held last Thursday to determine the winner of the Jack Dempsey-Adam Hat trophy for the outstanding athlete of the year, Laune Erickson, three-time national boxing champion, was voted the winner. The trophy is Laune's for keeps.

You may not recognize all, or even many, of these people, and the reason may be that they have been hidden in the dark recesses of the Argonaut office or the Idahoian printing plant. Although they couldn't all be assembled at one time in one place, here is the majority of the crew which made it possible for you to read a campus newspaper every Tuesday and Friday morning.

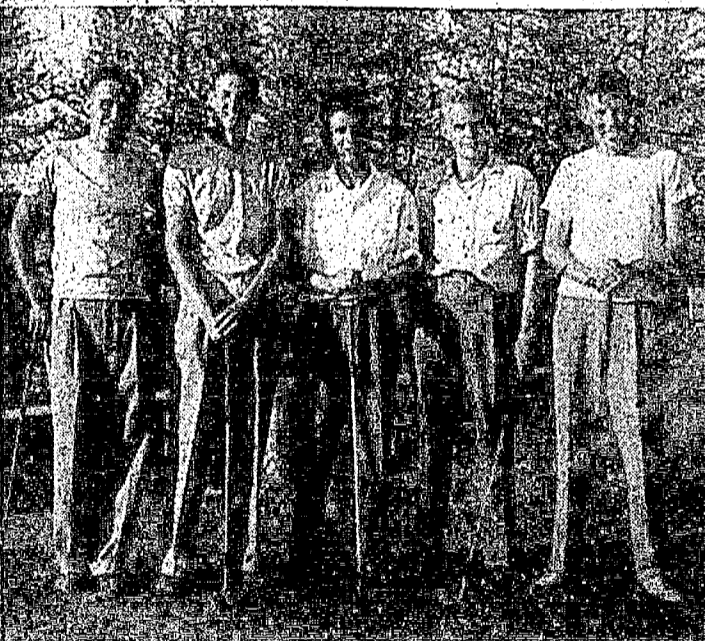

L. to R.: Vernon Rogus, Gooding, medley relay cup; Zens Miller and Norman Barber, Boise, 880-yard relay; Don Drake and Don Harper, Boise, with the team runner-up cup; Jane Thompson, I Club Queen; Henry Conlin and Harvey Conlin (high point man) with the Championship cup. Spring brings with it to Idaho the local version of the sidewalk cafes of Paris. A little less glamorous, but just as enjoyable. These campus citizens relax while pondering the possibilities of finals.

In this shot, Harvey Conlin, sensational sprinter from Rupert, is seen breaking the tape in the 100-yard dash. He ran the 100 in 9.8 seconds to set a new high school record for the state.
