Is Football A Man's Game?

"You've got to be a football hero to get along with the beautiful girls," seemed to be almost passe at the game Saturday.

Maybe football has become entirely a man's game here at Idaho. At least anyone who looked over the stands at the game Saturday would say so. Where were the women? The stands looked as though the U. of I. was a men's school rather than a co-educational institution.

Sure, the day looked like rain—but the fact remains that it didn't. At the last two games there was a bang-up crowd when it was so hot that one could hardly stand it. But Saturday, when it was cool and the clouds hid the sun so that it was not beating down into a person's eyes the stands looked bare and empty, especially of the feminine element.

Of course there were many men who were not at the game, but as a whole the male spectators made a much better showing than the women.

Maybe some people think that the Vandals just like to bang heads with the opposition on the field but those people can think again. The boys like to play but they are representing the school and they like to have the school out to appreciate the fine job that they are doing.

Perhaps the men's living groups should send orchids to the women rooters who were out to cheer the Vandals when the going looked rough. Men's groups wouldn't have to spend much on flowers.

College Grads Earn Most Money

"I learned more in the college of hard-knocks than you'll ever learn out of a book." This broad statement has probably been heard by college students at one time or another, and we're going to take it to task right now. "Hand me the record book, Bartholomew, and we'll commence."

In a study of the financial value of a college education Boston University found that a college graduate's earnings during his working years will exceed by $72,000 those of a non-college man.

A similar study by the Inter-Collegiate Guidance Association revealed the percentage of jobs in leading professions and vocations for which a college education is required to be 70 per cent.

With the nation's colleges and universities now bulging at the seams with two million students, the National Conference on High Education recently predicted the total to rise to three million by 1960. To provide the necessary facilities three billion dollars of our national income will be needed. Compare this with the ten billion dollars a year spent by Americans for alcohol and tobacco alone.

Why should we expound the cause of such a minority in our population? Only about 2 per cent of our population are college graduates. Yet if we were to sit down and read through a copy of "Who's Who" we would find that of the names listed 86 per cent are college graduates.

'Daisy Mae' Aids G.A.A. Cause

It's logical to believe that more women students will now turn out for athletics. Daisy Mae got her man because she ran fast and was strong enough to pull him back to the altar. Rumors have it that the feds are even thinking of trading in their long, hobbling skirts for the old free-action sportswear. Regardless of whether or not the above is true, women who are interested in athletics are bewailing the fact that there aren't more who like to play. (Games, that is.)

The WAA program furnishes abundant opportunities for women to learn more about sports, and a money-back guarantee says that the games played at 4 o'clock every afternoon Monday through Thursday are just plain fun. The University of Idaho doesn't offer a very extensive program in women's athletics, but the ladies can find ways to get that figure-making exercise. An afternoon on the golf course or an evening in the swimming pool will do a lot more for their health than a pinochle session at the Bucket or a hag party up in Suzie's room.

Our Lovely Moscow Weather

The weather now prevalent in Moscow is not exactly conducive to the morale of the campus and good health.

Just as there are ways of making rain, surely there must be ways of stopping it. Dry ice is used to make rain; why not use heat to make for dissipation not known to habitues of the local burperies? Surely this person would be well rewarded for his efforts.

He would be rewarded in that he could join his comrades in arms and again enjoy the quiet evenings studying campusology in the arboretum, behind the art building and near the big pines near the music buildings.

Not to be overlooked, however, are the benefits to be harvested from a campus free of colds and all the afflictions that go with them. Here's to the man who does the deed and cuts down the number of names on the hot toddy list.

DORMITORY EVACUATED
Tears flowed last week at an Oregon dormitory when the girls ate their final dinner together in a candle-light dining room. As one girl put it, weeping copiously, "And I had just talked mother in to buying me a car because I had so far to walk."

Arg Error Cause Of Misery For Steager Of Willis Sweet

Ed. Note: This is probably the longest protest the Arg has received after committing an error.

The rainy mist coming down from the dark Friday morning sky sprays noiselessly on the flat roof of the sprawling two-story building. Upstairs, alone in his room, seated on a book-littered bed is a big, black-haired, boy.

Tears, coursing like small rivers down the downy cheeks, pour out of his blue eyes and drop, spattering, on the paper he holds in his hands: "The Idaho Argonaut," dated Friday, October 17, 1947—Page 6: the vital, always-read sports page. The tearful eyes read again the lines they see, but cannot believe:

"Second place in the intramural football scoring is held by Steager of Willis Sweet who has 25 points."

Causes Weeping
Well, at least, they had the number of points right. But his name—mutilated, horribly mutilated. He looked around the dark, plain room. Willis Sweet? Hardly. How would anyone know who Steager of Willis Sweet was? Would the little blonde in TC-101 every Tuesday and Thursday mornings know that he was Steager of Willis Sweet and that his name was not Steager and he wasn't from Willis Sweet? His sobs shook the thin walls.

Running, leaping into the air to catch the wild passes heaved by the rust-worn arms of Rose and Henricus, it had been no easy thing to score those 25 points. But he'd done it—hell, he was even Captain of the team. But who knew it? Not, the readers of the Idaho Argonaut.

Babe and George knew it, and the members of the team, but did the little blonde know it? Uh-huh.

Causes Beating
And then there was the incident with Babe, the intramural manager, and he shook again with sobs as he thought of that. Babe had walked into the room, minutes ago, a copy of the newspaper clenched in his fist. He had stared up at him from his own five foot four. Without warning, Babe had struck him; had batted his head from side to side like a basketball. "So it's finally come out now, eh? You been playing for Willis Sweet all the time! And on our team!"

No, there was no joy in life now. At one time known as the Meridian Flash, the name of Steager had been emblazoned in headlines across the top of the local weekly Times. But then that had been long ago. Things could never be like that again.

So Herman Steager, pass-snatcher par excellence, Captain of the Team, The Meridian Flash, sat there and sobbed. Not for a long time would his heavy laugh issue forth from the blue building, to die out only after carrying five blocks in all directions.

There were only two sounds in the big blue building now: a soft, shaking, sobbing; and the rustle of papers as the other occupants of the hall adjusted their newspapers in their hands: to read of Steager of Willis Sweet who had scored 25 points.

All was quiet in Pine hall now and only the pale lights shining from the hundreds of bleak rooms against the outside mist gave evidence of life. There was no joy in Pine hall now, for Herman Steager laughed no more.

288 FOREIGN STUDENTS AT W.S.C.

Thirty-three foreign countries are represented at W.S.C. by 288 international students, a new peak for the college.

Christianson Fumbles Ball

Dear Jason

Dear Jason:
Last Thursday night, the Beta house was well saturated with a thick, pasty, blue substance resembling paint. To completely remove this from the walls, windows and door is an impossibility. The pranksters have managed to make a permanent eyecore on our property and I hope they are proud. The next night, some other jokers took the trophies that are kept in our den. Among the items taken was a "Memorial plaque" that is dedicated to the memory of two fellows from our house. It seems to me that certain people would think twice before making something as precious as this the object of a prank. When memorial plaques become the objects of childish ambitions, then it is time something was done. Between these two happenings, our faith in people has taken a sad drop. The wilful destruction of campus property is certainly not funny and then when precious memorials end up the object of pranksters—that's too much. Let's think it over.

CHUCK GILB.

OPEN LETTER TO THE BETAS:

We have not seen your plaques. We do not want your plaques. We do not know where your plaques are. Most important, we do not have your plaques in our possession. We know, because we looked. Please ask someone else.
Signed, Delta Delta Delta

TODD GIVES 50,000th VOLUME

Dr. Todd, of the College of Puget Sound at Tacoma, Wash., gave his book to the library in manuscript form so it could be the 50,000th volume in that library. Dr. Todd has worked on the book for the past two and one-half years and presented it sans pictures and perfection. Much work remains before the book can be published.

Little Moron Corner

Mohair Moron, the upholsterer's son, was found huddled up and shivering in his refrigerator one day. He explained by saying, "I was th-thirsty for a P-pepsi-C-cola and was told it should be d-drank when cold. Now I can drink it. I'm c-c-cold!"
You don't have to be a moron to write these... but it helps. $2 for each accepted we'll pay you, and not a penny more.

EXTRA ADDED ATTRACTION

At the end of the year we're going to review all the stuff we buy, and the item we think was best of all is going to get an extra $100.00

EASY MONEY DEPARTMENT

Sing a song of sixpence, pockets full of dough. Here's the way you'll get it from Pepsi-Cola Co. Make us laugh... if you can. We'll pay you $1, $2, $3... as much as $15 for stuff we accept... and print. Think of it. You can retire. (As early as 9 P. M. if you like.) You don't have to mention Pepsi-Cola but that always

HE-SHE GAGS

If you're a "he" or a "she" (as we suspect) writing HE-SHE jokes should be a cinch for you. If you're not a "he" or a "she" don't bother. Anyway, if you're crazy enough to give us gags like these, we might be crazy enough to pay you a few bucks for them.

He: Give me a kiss and I'll buy you a Pepsi-Cola... or something.
 She: Correction. Either you'll buy me a Pepsi... or nothing!

He: When a man leans forward eagerly, lips parted, thirsting for loveliness, don't you know what to do?
 She: Sure, give him a Pepsi-Cola.

He ghost: I'm thirsty. Let's go haunt the Pepsi-Cola plant.
 She ghost: That's the spirit!

CUTE SAYINGS of KIDDIES

(age 16 to 19 plus)

A famous sage has said that people are funnier than anybody. If that were true, all you'd have to do would be to listen to what the kiddies are saying, write it down, send it in, and we'd buy it. If that were true, it might be, for all we know. We haven't the slightest idea what we'll accept. Chances are it would be things like these unless we get some sense.
"Cuy George, who will just be 17 on next Guy Fawkes Day, had his appendix removed last month. When the doctor asked him what kind of stitching he'd like to have, George said, 'suture self, doctor.'"
"Elmer Treestump says his girl Sagebrush, only 22 $\frac{1}{2}$, brings a bottle of Pepsi-Cola along on every date for protection. She tells everybody, 'that's my Pop!'"
$1 each for acceptable stuff like this.

GET FUNNY... WIN MONEY... WRITE A TITLE

This is easier than taking candy away from a baby. And less squawking. Maybe you don't want to be rich, but just force yourself. You'll like it. And, if we like the title you write for this cartoon we'll force ourselves to give you $5. Or if you send us your own cartoon idea we'll up it to $10. For a cartoon that you draw yourself, we'll float a loan and send you $15 if we print it. Could you expect any more? Yes, you could expect.

Frosh Wore Pants, Seniors Cords In 'Good Old Days'

Forty years ago there was a battle of styles among the men on the Idaho campus, and co-eds had a tough procedure finding time to see and talk to young men.

Idaho at that time had a tradition in pants and how they should be worn and it really went rough on the man who did not abide to the style of the day. The following rules were published in the Argonaut of 1907.

- 1. Corduroys are to be found only on Juniors and Seniors.
 - 2. Seniors wear corduroys with the illuminating cuffs (leather cuffs that were polished to a bright glow).
 - 3. Juniors wear corduroys without illuminating cuffs.
 - 4. Underclassmen can wear worsteds, blues, calicoes, overalls, blacks, whites, browns, bagged or unbagged, with or without belt, with or without suspenders.
- Any infringement upon these rules will not only mean the breaking of our tradition, but will mean a broken neck, and after that complete dismissal from all college activities.
- Girls were tied to chaperones during this Victorian period of young womanhood. A rebellion would be the result if the following rules would have been presented today:
- 1. Gentlemen may be received only once a week, and must go at 10 p.m.
 - 2. Girls are not supposed to be out on the streets after 6 p.m.
 - 3. Girls are not to go anywhere without a chaperone.
 - 4. Girls are not supposed to linger on the campus talking to young men.

Mining students in those good old days gave Prof. Janes a traditional birthday party. All the students lined up and gave the spry professor one resounding spank for each year, and "one to grow on."

Revolvers, pans and horns were the noisemakers during all celebrations, and the great Administration building fire was still being widely discussed one year after it had burned down in 1906.

Commercial Seeds Possible Crop In North Idaho

The Palouse area of northern Idaho, long famed for its production of seed peas, holds possibilities for the commercial raising of other vegetable and flower seeds.

A university plot of Lilliput zinnias on non-irrigated land at Moscow yielded as high as 324 pounds of seed an acre.

"If such a yield can be obtained consistently, zinnia seeds will provide a profitable crop in this area," said Kraus.

Seed yields of 400 to 600 pounds an acre were obtained with White Portugal onions when grown by the seed-to-seed method.

He reported that head lettuce would probably not mature seed in the Palouse area unless it could be seeded as a fall crop. Only 51.7 pounds of leaf lettuce seed were produced per acre, mainly because just a small percentage of the seeds ripened.

Club Plans Dance

A Halloween dance will be given this weekend for the members of Dames club.

A regular meeting will be held

Bored With High School, He Went To College

Roy Ohta, Livingston, Montana student, recently received permission to enter college as a sophomore after a month's work in high school as a senior.

How did he do it? The whole situation started when Roy, after finishing his freshman year at Park county high school in Montana, decided to go to college.

Roy got into college a right because the officials were behind on their paper work. After completing four quarters in college, three as an honor student, he was suddenly notified that the officials could find no record of his having graduated from high school.

So back to high school he went. High school officials felt that Roy's experience warranted his being admitted as a senior. This fall he returned as a senior, but with permission of Montana State's president, took and passed college entrance exams.

That is how Roy Ohta gains his education. Very simple for Roy, but hard on college officials.

Mission To Moscow

By Russki

I was just leaving a class in Nutrition and Trailer Management, held daily on the ground floor of TC-2048 when a petite coed, attired in a green skirt-length sweater pushed through the throng on the sidewalk and pummeled me in the stomach.

"I've been looking for you all day!" she exclaimed, and before I could stop her she pulled an evil-looking bull-whip from the folds of her sweater and flailed me viciously about the ears.

"Hold on!" I retorted. "Why take your wrath out on me? I don't even know you!"

She put away the bull-whip and smiled sweetly.

"I'm so sorry," she apologized. "Somebody told me you were one of the graders in the Econ department, and I got a D and I'm simply furious!"

There was an evil glint in her eye and when she bared her fangs in anticipation of meeting the luckless grader, I was reminded of a tiger I once saw in a San Francisco zoo.

"Where do you live?" I asked the Tiger.

"The janitor up at the Dairy Science building lets me have a stall for helping him keep the monthly butterfat testing records on Queen Agnes Royal and Club-foot Tessie."

"Where's your home town?" She breathed deeply and displayed her molars again.

"Say, are you trying to get fresh or sumpn'?" If you want a date you'll have to wait your turn. I'm all dated up to the twenty-third of December, but I've got a coke date free on the day after Thanksgiving.

A date! She made a date with me!

I could hardly talk for excitement. "Gee, thanks," I muttered. "O.K., stumblebum," she answered. "Help me out of the stanchion at 4 o'clock on November 20th and we'll go down to the Gory Container for a few straight ones."

"Til then, dearie," she added, and as she left she closed one bloodshot eye in farewell.

I can still feel the effect of that wink as I write in my little blue diary. A date! with me! Who said that you couldn't win even if the odds seemed to be six thousand against you?

Wednesday, October 22, at 8 in the Faculty club. Mrs. Walde, president of the club, will preside.

Novices Gulp Vitamin Pills

By SHELLA DARWIN
"Go into your corners and come out fighting" . . . these words will echo through Memorial gym come the 11th of November, but right now the amateur mittmen signed up for the IK-Spur sponsored boxing tournament are just "training."

"Just training," did we say, Well, maybe not professionally, but if running four miles at the crack of dawn each day, starving oneself down to literally skin and bones, knocking ones remaining molars loose in practice bouts five times a week, plus abstaining from all manner of coffee, intoxicating beverages, and smokes or any reasonable fascimile (and just show us one that's legal) just to be a boxer is your idea of an easy life, drop dead.

Don't say you weren't warned, boy, 'cause if you get pushed into the ranks of campus nonentities among women, by this group of some 104 muscle bound miracle men with golden mitts, maybe you'll realize what just a little training plus a handful of vitamin pills can do for you.

Rivalry High When Distance Between Schools Low

By STAN GODECKE
Rivalry between two city-states back in the days of ancient Greece was always at its bitterest if the two cities were almost within hailing distance of each other.

To athletic competition between two American colleges or universities is at its peak when the students of one campus are practically neighbors of the students of another campus.

No wonder, then, that a feeling of mutual conflict sweeps over both Idaho and Washington State supporters just before Vandal and Cougar athletic teams tangle!

The shortest distance between two camps in the Pacific Coast Conference consists of the nine miles one must travel to get from Moscow to Pullman.

Second shortest mileage between two Pacific Coast Conference schools is the 15 miles separating the University of Southern California, near Exposition boulevard in Los Angeles, and the University of California at Los Angeles, which is located near Westwood boulevard in the Beverly Hills sector of the same city.

Stanford university in Palo Alto is approximately 35 miles distant from the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

Forty-five miles separate the two Oregon towns of Eugene and Corvallis, which seat the University of Oregon and Oregon State college, respectively.

Perhaps the nine miles between Moscow and Pullman are the shortest distance between any two schools of major athletic conference status in the nation.

If any reader has information contrary to the above paragraph, the Argonaut's statistics and mileage computing department will be glad to receive it.

Trustees Publish Annual Award For Engineers

The trustees of the James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation announced the rules of their Annual Engineering Undergraduate Award and Scholarship Program recently. The purpose of the plan is to promote the interest of the engineering undergraduate in arc welding, to stimulate his imagination and ability in this contribution to new engineering.

There are two interdependent plans: the Award and Scholarship. Under the former students will submit papers on arc welded design of machines, trusses, etc., not actually built but completely described and designed. In rating the paper the Jury of Award will give proper consideration to, among other things, ingenuity and originality displayed, clarity of design and description, practicability of the conversion described, and presentation.

Under the Scholarship plan, scholarships will be allocated to the schools in which the three highest award recipients under the Award program are registered to be used by them in equal amounts of money.

Resident engineering undergraduate students registered in any school, college or university in the United States, which offers a curriculum in any branch of engineering (including agricultural engineering) or architecture leading to a degree, are eligible to compete. Papers must be postmarked not later than midnight, May 15, 1948.

Copy of the rules and conditions may be obtained by writing the James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation, Cleveland 1, Ohio, or visiting the Arg office.

Showboat Butte Defies Prof. Gravity

By CHUCK MAHER
Today, children, we shall take up the study of a rock formation.

The particular formation we shall study today is the historical old "Showboat Butte," which is located in the far off Hornbill Islands. The Hornbill Islands were, oddly enough, named after Dr. G. F. Hornbill, famous geological explorer, and a convert to "Alcoholics Anonymous."

"Showboat Butte" is a unique butte in that its base, by some mysterious force, is suspended two feet from the ground. Nobody seems to know for what length of time "Showboat Butte" has been hanging in the air, and what is more, nobody seems to care. Dr. Hornbill was once quoted as saying: "I believe the rock to be held up by Leprechauns." (This statement was made by Dr. Hornbill before his conversion to "Alcoholics Anonymous.")

Most geologists were inclined to disagree with Dr. Hornbill however, because the average temperature on the Hornbill Islands is 180 degrees, too hot for a Leprechaun, or anyone else as far as that goes, to be holding up objects the size of "Showboat Butte" for any length of time.

Dr. Hornbill, upon attempting to investigate the vast recess under the butte, received a severe abrasion on the forehead from a strange twelve-legged creature, (one can only imagine the terrifying monsters which abide beneath elevated rocks) and since then all sub-petro exploration on the Island of Hornbill has ceased.

When Dr. Hornbill passed away in 1932, his colleagues thought it only fitting that he be given a proper burial. He was laid to rest in a rock casket which lies suspended, by nothing in particular, two feet in the air, near the famous butte which bears his name.

This has been the first chapter in a book written by Professor P. E. Kirkman and entitled, "Know Your Landmarks." Unfortunately, and at an enormous

Improved Frosh Batter Kittens For 6 To 0 Win

Belko's Boys Bruise, Beat Favored W.S.C. Eleven

Starting what may be a string of victories over the football teams from Washington State, the Vandal frosh squad last week ran rough shod over the Cougar juniors on a wet, muddy field at Rogers stadium for a 6 to 0 victory.

The low score does not tell the complete tale, however, for the Vandal Babes were masters all the way, stopped only by fumbles caused by the slippery condition of the ball which halted several of their scoring drives.

Glen Christian, halfback from Forks, Wash., scored for Idaho early in the second quarter when he ran untouched around left end on a reverse for 12 yards. The play had been set up by a drive sparked by Johnny Brogan and Harley Williams, halfbacks, from the Vandal 46 yard line.

Johnny Brogan captured the praise of Coach Belko for his terrific punting all afternoon. Brogan consistently got off 50 to 60 yard kicks and dropped several punts right in the coffin corner.

In the second half the Vandals, because of the unsure footing and slippery ball, played a stalling game and kept the Cougars deep in their own territory most of the time. All of the Vandal linemen exhibited fine play with Wilbur Ruleman, guard, Bill Mullins, end, and Marvin Beghul, tackle, standing out.

Next week the Vandal frosh will meet what most fans think will be their toughest team of the season in the Boise Junior College Broncos, rated by Paul Williamson as the third best junior college team in the nation.

Steve Belko appeared quite jubilant over the showing made by his squad against WSC but was pessimistic concerning the outcome of the game with BJC, as yet undefeated, in Boise Saturday.

All State
The Broncos, coached by Lyle Smith, have many all state footballers plus several players who have returned to Boise this year after having played for some other college team last year.

Leading the Boise aggregation is triple threat back Bob Mays, a Boise boy who punts 60 yards and shows all the signs of being able to place that punt within a four yard square. Backing Mays they have Benny Bryan at quarterback Ray Koll, a deceptive open field runner at halfback, and Bob Bradshaw, all state halfback from Boise last year, who does all their place kicking.

On the defensive side they have Bill Moad, a 178 pound end who played varsity ball at Idaho last year, and Jack Frisch, a terrific line backer weighing in at 175 pounds. The teams are fairly even in weight.

The game should give fans a real punting exhibition with Bob Mays and Johnny Brogan for the honors.

Alicakos In First

Coach Stan Hiserman has announced the results of the three mile cross country time trial held October 16, at the university golf course.

The seniors and frosh competing against the juniors and sophomores won the meet by a margin of three points, the score being seniors and frosh 29, juniors and sophomores 26.

Finishing first was John Alicakos, freshman, whose time was 16:47.8. He was followed by Marvin Badger, sophomore, who was clocked at 16:54, and Arthur Humphrey, senior, who ran the course in 16:55.

Barnes Catches Pass For Touchdown

Orville Barnes catches Jim Hammond's pass in the end zone in the third quarter of the Idaho-Portland game Saturday at Neale stadium. In the next play Will Overgaard made a successful placement to tie up the score, 7 to 7.

Ski Club Elects Hayes President

Don Hayes was elected president of the Vandal ski club for the 1947-48 season at a meeting held last Thursday night.

Other officers elected by the ski enthusiasts are: vice-president, Jack Robinette; secretary, Jo Anne Link; and treasurer Dorothy Galey. The board of directors is to be composed of Bill Larson, George Haas, Ella Marie Farnun, Gennie Kuehl, Larry Remaklus, Larry Morrison, Ed Le Duc, Dick Anderson and Lou Berriochoa.

There will be a short meeting this Thursday at 7 p.m. in room 110 of the Science building at which time a movie on Sun Valley will be shown by Kenny Henderson, president of the Selkirk Ski club.

President Hayes stated that all members should be on time so pledges can be back to their houses by 7:30.

A Challenge

Attention, rockheads (miners that is)!

If it is possible for you to bring your dirt-laden selves above ground into the light of day this Friday afternoon, we the representatives of the Chief Forester of the U. S., and especially of the U. of Idaho, hereby challenge you, the underground rodents of the U. of I, to a football "SLAUGHTER" on the Ad lawn at the above mentioned date.

No doubt being a group of Vitamin 'D' deficient hulks yourselves you will subsidize players but at least confine your paid players to being from this noble state.

The fundamentals of the intricate game of football will be explained and of course will be printed in braille for your benefit. Your headlamps you may bring; but where on your body they will do the most good can't be mentioned here. Any other equipment you need can be checked out at the Women's Gym. Padded bloomers will not be worn.

So if it be understood, (we doubt if you can) show up around 4:15 p. m. next Friday afternoon, and we will arrange infirmary excises for you the following week.

The underdog Portland Pilots held Idaho's Vandals to a 14 to 14 tie Saturday in Neale stadium time when Woody Delorme carried until five second before the gunnied Bill Williams' 34-yard pass into the end zone for the winning score.

It was a hard fought battle all the way with the Portland eleven determined to upset a conference member for their first victory of the season and the Vandals just as determined to get back into the win column after two consecutive losses to OSC and WSC.

Christianson Stars

Starring throughout the game was Portland's Dan Christianson who piled up yardage with both runs and passes and proved himself to be just as good at defense by bringing down several would-be Idaho scorers.

The tie half ended in a scoreless tie with both teams forging deep into the other's territory but neither being able to carry the ball through the stiffening resistance they met near the goal line.

Portland scored early in the second half after receiving the ball on the kickoff from Idaho. Christianson passed and ran the ball from the Idaho 48 down to the 3 where he was stopped by the Idaho line. Unable to push the ball over, he passed to Pilot quarterback Jim Connors in the end zone and Steve Troy made the placement bringing the score to 7 to 0.

Hammond Passes

Jim Hammond received the

kickoff and ran it back to the Idaho 40, Delorme took a pass to the 25, Hammond's next pass to Orville Barnes in the end zone went incomplete but a few plays later Hammond again passed to Barnes in the end zone and Will Overgaard's kick tied the score.

In the final quarter Williams completed a pass to Delorme in the end zone and Overgaard's kick was again good to put Idaho ahead 14 to 7. After the kickoff, Idaho again got control of the ball when Jerry Diehl intercepted Christianson's pass on the Idaho 5 and took it to the 28. In the next Billy Williams' pass was intercepted by Bud Williams who ran it back to the Idaho 7 before Diehl stopped him with a hard flying tackle. Christianson passed to Bill Fargher in the end zone and with Troys' placement the score was again tied 14 to 14.

For the remaining nine minutes of play neither team was able to make much headway until with five seconds to go Bill Williams passed to Delorme on the 9 and he ran into the end zone to break the deadlock.
