The GOLDEN FLEECE by Jason

Complaints sifting in this week concern Memorial gymnasium. The site of hundreds of athletic battles, the scene of numerous graduation ceremonies, and the theater for lectures and assemblies, the Gym is familiar to all Idaho students.

The lamentations refer to the puddle of water found about three quarters of the way down the basketball floor on the right after every rain storm.

One Vandal fan told Jason that the same puddle has been causing trouble for the three years that he has attended basketball games.

More than one player has slipped to the hard, polished floor after skidding through the water. Jason suggests that chewing gum may fix the leak in the roof if no other material is available.

Astonished

Most surprised man on the campus during the week was probably Rafe Gibbs of the University Publications and Information service.

Gibbs turns out news stories about the university for the north-west during his office hours. Most of his other time is spent digging up magazine articles. A well-known writer, he has had articles published in Collier's, Esquire, This Week and other national magazines.

Gibbs strolled into the Argonaut office late yesterday afternoon. There he saw a news story which he had written a few hours previously. On the top scrawled with a soft pencil were these words: "Rewrite this so it makes sense."

Numerous Nuptials

The number of marriage announcements appearing in the columns of newspapers recently is being shared by the Arg. The previous two issues carried quite a few.

One of these, the marriage of former Arg editor Romaine Galey to Bill Hon of Hoise, was reported, but not completely. Boise's state-wide weekly paper, furnished the rest of the details.

It seems that Frank Galey, Romaine's father, desiring to do things up right, told the manager of Hotel Boise that he wanted "the biggest wedding cake" the establishment could provide.

The manager obliged by transmitting the order to the pastry cook, who turned out a magnificent product. Too late it was discovered that the proud pastry wouldn't fit through the kitchen door!

The Galey's learned something about "having their cake and eating it, too" when the management was forced to remove the frame from the kitchen door in order to get the cake out.

Short Rest

Off to Spokane yesterday to recuperate from an accident was Jim Spoerhase. Listed on the Arg masthead as "Day Editor", Jim is commonly referred to by Arg-staffers as "Twilight Editor".

The accident occurred in his room in Chrisman hall. Spoerhase, stepping briskly across the floor, tripped and fell on his face. He arose painfully to discover that he had broken a bone in his big toe.

The Villain Gets His

Simon Legree (Willard Barnes) gasped in pain after he had been shot by Lawyer Maris (Bob Miller) in the final act of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" last night. The classic melodrama will be repeated tonight and tomorrow at 8:15 p. m. in the university auditorium.

Variety, Clearer Speech Keynote Of 'Uncle Tom'

By JUNE THOMAS

Variety ranging from humor to tragedy with villainy and speculation woven into an exciting plot was the effective keynote in the opening-night presentation of a genuine melodrama, "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Effective spot lighting and blackouts drew the audience's attention on the changing scenes as the play moved forward.

Small sets were used in portraying the regret of Uncle Tom's master in having to sell him, Eliza's flight across the ice, and the cave fight which her husband, who is the runaway slave, George, played by Marvin Aldaffer, has with the "nigger catchers." Rich Pennell as Uncle Tom gave a stirring performance. Barbara Mariner was well-cast as Eliza.

Humor in the midst of adventure was provided for by Dick Peterson as Phineas, the Kentuck turned Quaker, who helps George and Eliza escape to Canada and by Charles Jackson as the child Harry, with his unexpected dialogue and actions.

Plot Thickens

A change from the small sets came when the action shifted to the big set, rich in the furnishings of Master St. Clair's 19th century plantation home. Here the melodrama was built-up so effectively by Uncle Tom and St. Clair, played by Maurice Paulsen, that some of the audience felt tears gathering as Little Eva's death scene neared.

Bette West contributed her talent of song and dance as the impish Topsy before going to Vermont with Miss Ophelia who, as played by Jo Anne Elam, looked grandly down her nose at the rest of the cast.

A whip cracked among top hats and on black backs as Willard Barnes as Simon Legree frightened the audience with his sneers and floggings. Uncle Tom has become Legree's slave along with the quadroon girl, Pat Barnes, and dies at his hands before his old master can repurchase him. All ends well in the swan scene as St. Clair, who followed Eva in death, and Uncle Tom (Cont. on page 3, col. 7)

Inquiring Reporter Polls Students On Local Rag

Casting critical eyes about the Argonaut office at press-time yesterday afternoon was the Inquiring Reporter, who decided to sample campus opinion on this burning question: "What do you think of the Argonaut?"

Notwithstanding the pertinent fact that the loyal Reporter carried a shotgun and three hatchets with her as she asked students what they thought of the college newsheet, the following poll is hereby presented to readers in all good faith and truth:

Agnes Hawley, Delta Gamma, commented, "I don't want my name in there!"

Laurence Buckland, Vets Village, suggested "It should deal with something besides campus affairs exclusively—should take issue in controversies."
Bob Crabtree, Alpha Tau Omega, quipped, "It's a good deal (not

Vets Move Toward Establishment Of Co-op. Group

The veterans cooperative association is progressing toward its goal of beginning operation prior to the first week of next term. The membership is limited to those persons and living groups attending, employed by or associated with the University of Idaho and residing within Latah county.

The cost of membership, twelve dollars and fifty cents, will be refunded at the end of each semester to those persons leaving the university, provided a thirty-day notice is given.

An election meeting will be held Monday at 7:30 in the large ballroom of the SUB to place in office the regular members of the board of directors. All prospective, and registered members of the co-op association are urged to be present.

By-Laws Explained

At this meeting the charter and by-laws will be presented and explained to the new members. After the scheduled business has been completed a question and answer session will be held to clear up any points not understood.

All persons interested in subscribing to the organization can do so by contacting a representative Friday or Saturday at the Moscow Meat Company building on West 6th Street.

Representatives who are now taking subscriptions are Mrs. Delbert Robinson, 8B W. 6th Village; Steel Barnett, 13H W. 6th Village; Vern Hartwell, 13A W. 6th Village; Robert Cree, 3E North Main Village; Mrs. Cleo Dodel, 315 Read St., Trailer village; Ken Newman, 303 Radford Way, Trailer village; Jack Stover, 328 Peterson Way, Trailer village; Bill Rathburn, Campus club.

Bill Rathburn, co-op manager, said that he would like to see faculty members take an active part in the association.

Eimers To Assume Editor Position

Richard "Dick" Eimers, assistant in the university publications department left Wednesday to assume a position as night editor of the Spokane Associated Press bureau.

Eimers was editor of the Argonaut last year and was a member of Sigma Delta, Blue Key, Silver Lance and is affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. He will receive his degree in journalism next June and will complete requirements by correspondence.

Eimers will be associated with William Johnson, director of the bureau, who graduated from Idaho several years ago. Johnson was also editor of the Argonaut while in school.

U. Course Model For New Book

The preservice training system developed for senior home economics students at Idaho was used as a model in the new edition of the book "Adult Education for Homemaking" by L. Belle Pollard, supervisor of household arts in St. Louis public schools.

Moscow women enrolled in the adult homemaking class in furnishings highly recommended the course and say that "it's just right," according to Miss Lucille Magruder who is in-charge of the course. Students in this course are taught stenciling, hand painting, the making of draperies and slip covers and the refinishing of old furniture.

Prof. Eke Leaves For Conference

Prof. Paul A. Eke, head of agricultural economics left today to attend a meeting of the technical committee of the Regional Livestock Marketing committee in Denver, January 16 and 17.

Purpose of the organization is to coordinate and promote research work on livestock marketing. Enroute to Denver, Eke will stop at Boise to attend sessions of the Western Livestock association.

MUCKERS PLAN BALL

Preliminary plans for the Muckers ball scheduled for February 7, were made at a business meeting of the Associated Miners Tuesday evening.

Claus Directs Sunday Concert

The University Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Carl Claus, will present its winter concert, Sunday at 4 p.m. in the university auditorium.

The program will open with Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony". Schumann's "Concerto in A Minor, for Piano-forte and Orchestra", will feature Polly Howard as piano soloist.

Also included on the program will be "Praeludium" by Jarnfelt; "Slavonic Dance in C Major" by Dvorak, and "Prelude" to "Der Meistersinger" by Richard Wagner.

Student-Merchant Meeting Promises 'Better Relations'

One of the largest steps in the advancement of student and business relationships took place last night when the newly formed Student-Businessmen's committee met at the Washington Water Power office.

The meeting was called to order by Harry Lucas of the Washington Water Power Co. He explained that the purpose of the meeting was to bring about better relations between the students and the town business men.

Dr. W. E. Folz, school of business, gave a brief resume of a survey taken by Pullman showing that Moscow was about two dollars higher on a hundred dollars spent than Pullman. Other cities in the surrounding areas also were stated higher than Pullman. He went ahead to explain that this survey could not possibly have covered the subject adequately enough to be of any value.

Chuck Gilb, representing the Inter-Fraternity council, asked if a survey had ever been made comparing Moscow with other college towns.

Dr. Folz answered his question by saying that the bureau of statistics was interested only in labor towns and that none had ever been made on college towns.

The question of the price of haircuts, cleaning, milk, and other essentials of living were brought up and discussed. These questions will be looked into and answered as well as possible at the next meeting which will be held in about a month, Lucas said.

Theaters and the recreation problem were discussed by both factions present. The chamber of commerce hopes to look into the various problems that arise and will see what can be done for a more complete program here, Robert Summerville, manager of the chamber of commerce, said.

Dance Postponed; Mr. Mysterious' Identity Secret

To make it easier for all of ye I now reveal clue number three: "I'm not Joe College, I'm not a lass. In fact I never got to class."

This was scheduled to be Mr. Mysterious's third clue to his identity. However, Elizabeth Robinson, Gem editor announced yesterday that due to the fact that a large number of the women's houses have closed the final week weekend for their underclassmen, the Gem has been forced to postpone its scheduled dance.

"A dance on this weekend would lose money for the Gem and increase rather than decrease production costs for the book," Miss Robinson said.

Mr. Mysterious's identity will remain secret.

Joyce Hanson Wins Journalism Award

Joyce Hanson has been named as winner of the senior scholarship award given annually to a senior student majoring in journalism at the university.

This $100 senior scholarship award and also a $50 junior award given to a junior student majoring in journalism are awarded by Mrs. Margaret Allshie, publisher of the Statesman newspapers in Boise.

Miss Hanson lives in Moscow and is a member of Delta Tau Gamma. She is president of Theta Sigma, journalism honorary.

The winner of the junior scholarship is as yet undecided. Last year Louise Schlegel won the senior scholarship and Miss Hanson the junior award.

Eight Initiated By Law Honorary

Eight men were initiated into Phi Alpha Delta, law honorary, last Friday, according to Richard Riordan, chief justice.

Those initiated were Robert Remakius, Charles Donaldson, Watt Prather, James McClure, Theron Roberts, Lou Gorono, Robert Shephard, and Walter Smith, Jr.

Riordan spoke on "Delivery of Deeds in Idaho," at a meeting of the group Thursday evening.

Chemists See Film

A sound film, "Petroleum and its Uses" was presented to members of the Idaho Chemical society in the navy building last Tuesday night. A short business meeting was held previously in Science hall.

Next meeting of the group will be held February 10.

U. To Make Gym Annex Of 7th Baxter Building

The Carson Construction company, Helena, Montana, has been awarded the contract to move another 25 by 150-foot ward building from Baxter hospital at Spokane to the university.

Formal Ball Slated For Saturday Night

The Interfraternity Ball, first post-war formal for fraternity members and their guests, will be held in the large Student Union ballroom at 9 p.m. Saturday, Chuck Gilb, president of the Interfraternity council said today.

A pre-dance banquet for council members and their guests will be given at the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. A total of 22 couples will attend, Gilb said.

The Rhythm-Aires will play for the affair and refreshments will be served during intermission in the Coke room.

Faculty Leaves For Engineer Meet At Boise

Professional engineers from all over Idaho will converge on Boise for the annual meeting of the Society of Engineers to be held in the Owyhee hotel, next Saturday.

Engineers from here are Dean Allen S. Janssen, C. O. Reiser, Chemical Engineering; Max Jensen, Agricultural Engineering; W. J. Jackson, Mechanical Engineering; J. C. Dalton and G. A. Reidesel, Civil Engineering; and J. H. Johnson and H. E. Hattrup, Electrical Engineering.

The meeting will consist of committee reports, election of officers and action with regard to the society's affiliation with the National Society of Professional Engineers.

A banquet will be held in the evening, followed by entertainment and a talk by Glenn Howell, executive secretary to Governor Robbins. Subject of his speech will be "China."

The group from Moscow and north Idaho left for Boise this morning.

Tourney Changed

The second round of the bridge tournament will be held at the Beta house Sunday afternoon, and not in the ball room of the student union building as was announced in Tuesday's Argonaut.

The change was necessary since the tournament would interfere with the work of the clean-up committee assisting the Interfraternity Council in clearing away the I.F. Ball decorations. Time for tournament play to begin is 1:30 p.m., and all players are asked to be present at that time.

Summer To Have Only One Term

One term of summer school instead of two will be held this year, according to an announcement by Dean J. F. Weltzin, school of education and director of summer school.

School will open June 10 and close August 4. This is advantageous because now all courses when completed will equal a full semester's work. Before courses were not quite evaluated as a semester's work.

Adequate dormitories and family housing units will be left open this summer for the students, and programs, public events, concerts, and lectures will be scheduled for their entertainment.

Nearly all schools and departments will be represented and will be well-staffed.

Kennedy Receives Master's Degree

James Kennedy, 1947 graduate in political science, will receive his master's degree in economics and foreign trade at the International School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts college this spring. The school is located near Boston and is affiliated with Harvard university.

Kennedy entered Tufts college last fall, one of 30 applicants accepted out of 2,500 who applied for entrance from the United States and foreign countries. Acceptance requires an excellent scholastic record.

In connection with his work, Kennedy attended United Nations meetings at Lake Success. He plans two more years of work for a doctors degree in economics and foreign trade.

Executive Board

Tanner Is Named To Head WSSF

Shirley Tanner, sophomore, was named head of the World Student Service Fund drive by the ASU executive board Wednesday, Jim Day, board member announced.

The drive, backed by the executive group this year, is slated to begin in early March.

Walt Smith, ASU president, read a letter from the board of regents requesting that the Idaho student body revise its constitution. The request was made in the form of a formal resolution at the January 8, meeting of the regents in Albion.

The board anticipated the regent's action by starting work on a revision of the constitution last week.

Long hours and little glory are the lot of photomounters, as the students pictured here can truthfully say. Besides mounting the pictures of 3,600 individual students, the photomounters help prepare prints of campus groups, college scenes, sporting events, etc.

S. Africa Student Waits Days For Phone To Ring

When vacation time comes, a home in Port Elizabeth, South Africa, is a long way off. No one is more acutely aware of this than Alexander (Jerry) Williams, a student in soil chemistry at the university.

After serving four years and three months in the British navy doing duty in the Atlantic and the United States to Murrans run and in the East Indies fleet, he was returned to England and discharged. With intentions of going to school in the United States he enlisted in South Hampton as a navigator on a lend-lease vessel sailing to Boston, arriving there in March of 1946.

Since then, he has become completely Americanized. He acquired a short haircut, lost his accent, and married an American girl. Aside from missing the cold weather and wondering if the neighbors would recognize him, he is happy. This, however, doesn't alter the thoughts of home. He has been six long years since he has seen his parents and it will be at least another two years before he has the opportunity to meet them.

Still a British subject, he plans after graduation to return to his homeland with his American wife and to settle down at last. In the meantime, letters and an occasional phone call are all the contact he has between here and home. Just in case there are people who think that the latter method is always an easy way to communicate home, they should drop down and speak to Jerry. Since last Saturday night he has been sitting by the telephone most of the evening vainly trying to get a call through. Atmospheric interference, no open lines, etc. all have combined to keep him on a day and night watch. Here's hoping for tonight, Jerry.

E.E. Majors Hear Supervisor Speak

Amel V. Olson, safety supervisor for the Washington Water Power Co. of Spokane, gave a lecture and demonstration on safety Wednesday to senior engineering students enrolled in the Field Trips course. He was assisted by Earl Martinson also of the Spokane Washington Water Power Co.

Speaking on the importance of safety, Olson gave a demonstration on artificial respiration. Demonstrations of treatment for shock, first, second, and third degree burns, and bleeding were given by Martinson with the aid of two local men, according to N. F. Hinde, instructor in the department of mechanical engineering. "The field trips course is designed," Professor Hinde said, "to acquaint students with some of the things they will need to know in industry with emphasis on safety and accident prevention."

J. Harry Lucas, Moscow manager of the Washington Water Power Co., was also present at the lectures in Memorial Gymnasium.

Honorary Approves Three New Chapters

Members of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men's honorary, voted Tuesday to approve applications for new chapters at Beloit College, Beloit, Washington; Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va.; and the State College of Washington at Pullman.

This brings the total to 57 chapters, six of which were installed last year. The chapter at the University of Idaho was the 58th to be established on November 9, 1934.

Uncle Sam Offers Map-Making Jobs To Graduates

The U. S. Geological Survey at Sacramento, Calif., has positions open for recent graduates in engineering or physical science who are interested in work in topographic mapping. An enlarged mapping program in the western states requires an increased technical staff providing opportunities for career appointments for both men and women with appropriate educational backgrounds.

For engineering graduates with substantial training in surveying there are positions open as Topographic Engineer at $2844 a year in field surveying, consisting principally of triangulation, leveling, and plane-table mapping. These duties require considerable traveling from headquarters at Sacramento to assignments in various parts of the seven western states comprising the Pacific Division. Four dollars a day living allowance is paid in addition to salary while on field duty.

Map compilation from aerial photographs is carried on by the Survey at Sacramento, where a new building has been constructed and modern photogrammetric equipment installed. Training positions in this engineering specialty are open to either men or women graduates in engineering, geology, geography, physics, or other appropriate science. This type of work requires good eyesight, some drafting ability, and an aptitude for precise detail work. The salary is $2844 a year.

Anyone desiring additional information about these positions is invited to write to the U. S. Geological Survey, Box 348, Sacramento, 2, Calif.

Dear Jason

Dear Jason:
Since reading the article which appeared in the Argonaut urging veterans to write to their representatives to support the Rogers Bill (H.R. 870) which provides for an increase in subsistence allowances, I have spoken to numerous veterans about it.

The replies received were, as expected, greatly varied:
1) We don't deserve an increase; still one student.
2) Won't be here next year, said another.
3) Never heard about it—send me a copy of the Argonaut.
4) Made a note of it—will write soon.
5) I've already written.

It behooves us all to take a greater part in seeing that this legislation providing for an increase is passed.

Action speaks louder than words! In the summer of 1948 a student toyed with the idea of joining a cooperative store. No action, just words—with the result that his idea never materialized. Other students went out and did something about it, with the result that university students will now be able to enjoy the increased savings brought about by a cooperative grocery store.

Write your congressman! If we can use $55 more each month do something about it. Let's make our feeling known by acting now!

Tompkins Writes Uréthane Article

Dr. L. G. R. Tompkins of the chemistry department has recently published an article, "Derivatives of Uréthane," in the Journal of the American Chemical Society. Experimental work contained in the article was carried out at Purdue university, however the method had not been tested at the time the article was written. The purpose for the experiment was to test pharmacological activity as sedatives; hypnotics, or local anesthetics.

Recent Act Allows Overseas Training

World War II veterans desiring to study at universities abroad are eligible for benefits under both the Fulbright Act and the G. I. Bill, the Veterans Administration has announced.

The Fulbright Act offers financial aid to veterans of both world wars through the sale of surplus property overseas. The G. I. Bill grants tuition and subsistence payment only to World War II veterans.

Further information may be obtained from the Argonaut office or the Veterans guidance center.

Flying Disc Chase Still On

"Flying discs seen over Washington." "Flying saucers seen over south Idaho." "Pilot chases flying disc in Montana."

Such were the reports that flew thick and fast in the newspapers all over the country around the Fourth of July last summer. These reports were denounced as being due to a sort of national frustration, such as the fragments of a liquid Independence Day celebration; and from one report, they were flying in from a beer bottle factory.

Now the Associated Press has released a story from Louisville, Kentucky, announcing the appearance of more "discs." A pilot was killed when he raced his plane after one of the rapidly moving saucers, going too high and "blacking out." As a result, his plane crashed and exploded.

After all the denunciations of these "things" as figments of the imagination, many men and women must think they are going ballistic. After all, when two pilots and an airline stewardess in southern Idaho, a couple pilots in Kentucky, a "put-put" pilot in Washington, and countless observers all over the United States, swear they saw objects that looked like flying discs they must have seen something.

Yet any number of scientists have wondered about the subject but have never come up with an answer. The Army has been approached but they flatly refuse to say anything. Is it the trick of an enemy nation? Is it the experimentation of our own Army or Navy? It's a good question! What are they?

Campus Trees Not Suffering, They Were Born That Way

By Mary Louise Will

No! No! No! Get that old idea out of your head! The trees in front of the Engineering building are not planted upside down, they are planted right side up. Furthermore, the fir tree on the south side of the Women's Gym is not wilting, it was born that way. The droopy trees on the Ad building lawn are not suffering from the severe heat and dryness, they are mulberry trees and have been shaped that way for years.

Contrary to popular opinion, the Ulmus Glabra Camperdownii (the umbrella-looking trees in front of the Engineering building to you) are not roots which have sprouted leaves but are a grafted tree. A special variety of English elm used mostly in landscape gardens by horticulturists, the pendant branches are grafted on to a five or six foot stem.

Growing in no other form, the Camperdownii elm (Ulmus Glabra Camperdownii for long) got its name from the idea of people's camping in downs!!

Round the Mulberry Bush
As to the fir tree mentioned, it seems that almost every variety of tree has within its family, a group in which the "starch" in the wood has been forgotten—a la weeping willow and weeping birch. (This fact is to be listed under Things-To-Look-For-When-I-Go - For - A Walk-On-The-Campus.)

Rising prices make the fact of the mulberry's existence most important since not only silk worms but human worms (i.e. students) have been known to consume the food products of the mulberry trees. In the warmer months of the year the mulberries appear in profusion. It is thought that this year will see an increase in the profusion of mulberry enthusiasts.

The infirmary reported a fairly favorable balance of trade this week with eight students admitted and six released. Admitted were Diana Hooper, Delbert Robinson, Larry Stanley, Lowell Horne, Margaret McNamara, Shirley McDaniels, Robert Paulus, and Lee Harness.

The importance of the meeting was summed up by Lucas, who stated that in his opinion similar meetings in the future would bring about a firmer understanding between the students and the Moscow businessmen.

When he got through, he had a whole notebook full of information, covering everything from the number of pillowslips needed to athletic facilities.

Blandford then interested a Twin Falls publishing company in publishing it in a booklet, which has just come off the press. A tough Vandal on the cover growls, "Listen, Bud! You Wanna Go to Idaho?"

Now Blandford is busy seeing that the booklet gets into the hands of high school seniors in the Twin Falls area. If the senior happens to be a fast, shifty quarterback, Blandford says he will autograph the copy.

Students Asked To Sum Up Profs.

Howard Wilson, professor of economics at Loyola university, Chicago, has sent out an appeal to college students to evaluate their present and former college professors.

Wilson believes that teachers and professors wish to conduct their classes to meet with the approval of the students. Since college enrollment is now weighted with ex-GI's and older students, there is a need for a re-evaluation of college teachers according to the new standard.

A representative sampling will be made by Wilson from letters written to him from students throughout the country listing their complaints and criticisms. This will be made available to educators.

Letters should be addressed to him at Loyola university, 323 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago 11, Illinois.

Why I'm an Air Force Pilot
"I guess it began when I was just a kid, making non-stop flights around the dining-room table. Later on, the town got an airport. I got to know every plane, right down to the smallest bolts and screws."
"During the war I took off with the Aviation Cadets. The folks were all for it. They figured—correctly—that it was the best way to get me into the air where I belonged."
"I made it all right. Trained in the best planes the Air Force has, and now I'm heading for transition work in jets. The pay? Now that I'm a pilot, $336 a month, plus $500 for each year of active duty. And there's plenty of room for promotions."
"But that's not the real point. Some men belong in the air. They were born wanting wings—with the action, the pride, the freedom that go with them. There's no better way to have all that, along with the world's finest flying training, than to join the Aviation Cadets. And the future—in civilian aviation or in the Air Force—is as wide open as the horizon. If you want the fast-moving life, why not drop around to the Recruiting Station in your community or the nearest Air Force installation."

Idaho's Co-Champion Ringmen Cop Opener From Louisiana Sluggers

Carlson Salvages Narrow Decision

The Idaho ring squad made Wednesday night's initial defense of their share of the national crown a successful one, defeating John McNeese Junior college of Lake Charles, Louisiana, 5 1/2 to 2 1/2. Dale Hammond, Vandal 135-pounder, provided the fireworks for the crowd of 1500, scoring a second round technical knock-out over Clifford Jobe.

Herb Carlson, Idaho's captain and last year's 155 pound national champion, had to be content with a close decision over Lloyd Jones. Referee Ed Khoury scored 30 points for Carlson, and 28 for Jones.

Darrel Titus, Ted Diehl, and Ken Clark all gained decisions, Wilford Overgaard fought to a draw, and Ed Morgan and Thane Johnson dropped decisions to the Cowboys.

The summary of the bouts is as follows:
Bantamweight (125) Ken Clark, Idaho, outpointed Walter Cade, McNeese.
Featherweight (130) Albert (Rabbit) Manuel, McNeese, outpointed Morgan, Idaho.
Lightweight (135) Dale Hammond, Idaho, won by TKO in second round over Clifford Jobe, McNeese.
Welterweight (145) Darrel Titus, Idaho, outpointed Bertney Landry, McNeese.
Junior middleweight (155) Burl Jobe, McNeese, outpointed Thane Johnson, Idaho.
Middleweight (165) Herb Carlson, Idaho, outpointed Lloyd Jones, McNeese.
Light-heavyweight (175) Ted Diehl, Idaho, outpointed Ernest Moubot, McNeese.
Heavyweight (204) Ed Morgan, Idaho, and Bill Overgaard (204) Idaho, and Bill Meagher, 177, McNeese, fought to a draw.

Vandal Portraits

Preston Brimhall—6 foot 2 with eyes of blue—one of Idaho's stellar basketball players, and adjudged by his team mates to be the "Handsome man on the squad," was born January 8, 1922, in Glendale, Utah.

When Preston was seven years old, he and his parents moved to Paris, Idaho, which has since been his home.
Brimhall was very active in sports at Paris high school, lettering in basketball 4 years, football 3 years, boxing 3 years, and track 2 years. He was chosen on the fifth district all district team in his junior and senior years, and during his senior year, he averaged 15 points per game for the season.
To Rick's College After graduation from high school, Preston entered Rick's college, which he attended for 2 years, lettering in basketball and track. While at Rick's college, he played in the National A.A.U. tournament the first year, and in the National Junior College tournament the second year.
From Rick's college, Preston entered the army air corps for a 40-month tour of duty as a fighter pilot. While a cadet, he didn't get much chance to play basketball, and when he graduated, he was sent to the Aleutian Islands.
Brimhall is a valuable addition to Idaho's basketball team, and is greatly responsible for that "new look."

Time Out

By Harry Howard

It has been said that no one likes a quitter. If that's true, half the Idaho student body should hate themselves.
It is hard for a spectator to realize the way the men in the game feel when they're losing, but recalling a few little incidents might make it easier. For instance, remember the way Johnny Evans looked and acted Monday night when he missed two consecutive free throws that would have tied the score? Remember Portland's great halfback, Dan Christensen? When Bill Williams' pass sailed just out of reach of his hands and into the arms of Woody DeLorme for the winning touchdown in this year's Idaho-Portland game, Christensen fell face downward on the turf. He didn't get up for quite a while, and when he did, there were probably a few traces of tear streaks on his tired, mud-smearred face.

Great Spirit
It's easy to remember what "Dixie" Howell said when Idaho fans greeted the football team's return from the Stanford game too. He was overwhelmingly pleased with the spirit the students displayed, but if he could have seen the Idaho-Oregon State basketball game Tuesday night, he probably would have had a definitely different comment to make.
Those guys don't play their hearts out just for the heck of it! They play to win, not just for themselves, but for every one of us; it would be nice if a few of the students wouldn't mind putting themselves out a teensy-weensy bit to help them.
The boys can't win them all. Next time they're losing one, we'll find out whether psychology is right in saying we have no "conscience."

Beavers Regain Conference Lead In 59-39 Victory

Capitalizing on their accuracy and the Vandal's failure to hit the hoop, the Oregon State Beavers regained top spot in the Northern Division hoop standings with a 59-39 victory over the Vandals Tuesday night in Memorial gymnasium.

The Beavers, hitting the hoop from everywhere, chalked up 25 goals in 59 attempts. A tight Oregon State defense allowed the Vandals only 155 tallies in 60 tries.
Norm Carey, diminutive Beaver speedster, dropped one in from close in to open the scoring for the evening. Teammate Ken Storey sank a free throw soon after to put Oregon State ahead 3-0 in the opening minutes of the game.
Slipping two in from under the basket, Jack Phoenix put the Vandals back in the game. Carey came back with two more goals for the Beavers. John Evans and Jack Rainey both hit the hoop to make the score 8-7 in favor of the Vandals. This was the last time the Vandals were able to get in front. In the next few minutes, the Orange offense hit its stride, and quickly surged ahead with 4 baskets, while Idaho was held scoreless.

ANSWER: No indeed! Though prices are way up on most items, some few things actually cost less. For example, the average Water Power residential customer is now getting 61% more electricity for his dollar than he did ten years ago. Electricity has not gone up in price.
