The Campus Gets A Craze

When Lucy was in high school, she hated to cook and sew. Her idea of a good time consisted of coke dates, passing notes, holding hands at the movies, and in admiring the way that good-looking chemistry teacher handled a test tube. Then Lucy came to the U. She studied enough to make her grades, went out on dates, got a campus once for staying out too late—proved to be just a normal, healthy, well-balanced coed. But alas! She soon became a victim, to the college gal's latest craze. Her mother first noticed the difference when she came home at Christmas: Every other night she would stay home and knit on a pair of Argyle socks for some young man she had met at school. Her mother was shocked. For ten years she had been trying to interest her daughter in housewifely affairs and then gave up in disgust, only to find that now her vocabulary was limited to "casting on, pearl something, increase and decrease." In a few days the world will again welcome spring with its balmy winds and carefree, sunshiny days. Convertible tops will be down, tennis courts will be crowded, and men will amble about the campus with starry lights in their eyes and silly grins on their faces. But spring will find Lucy and the other girls wrapped up to their elbows in red, pink, blue and yellow yarn. Next year the craze might be interior decorating or remodeling old flower pots, but this year it lies in flashing needles and soft wool. —Knit-Wit

Idaho's Big Task—Research

Editor's Note: The Argonaut presents the second in a series of three editorials devoted to the University of Idaho's three divisions of overall duty to the state, "Teaching, Research, and Service." At first glance the word "Research" reminds students of hours of digging through volumes of oft-times old and boring facts. But to the state of Idaho the University Research program means more efficiency, more jobs and a more active assistance to the people in the state. To conduct research so basic to Idaho's development and provide the state-wide field services which carry the benefits of that research to every community in the state, the university maintains 500 full-time employees in every part of Idaho. Farmers benefit considerably from these projects. A new university-sponsored wheat, now grown on 150,000 acres, yields 3 bushels more per acre than the variety it replaced—boosting total yield by 450,000 bushels. A new barley promises to boost yield by 30 per cent on Idaho's 330,000 acres devoted to this crop. New industries are rising out of wood preservation research, which opened the way to extensive farm and industrial use of Idaho's lodgepole pine stands. The economic survey of southwestern Idaho with reference to irrigation development, made jointly by the school of business and the state planning board, played a role in obtaining for Idaho the Anderson Ranch Dam project near Boise. The College of Engineering also works for the state in many important ways. Their work on highway design and construction has paid many miles of dividends on our highways. The school of business working with the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce has been working on a detailed study of the state's industries and their possibilities for greater growth. New processes and new machines developed by the Idaho School of Mines has also given assistance to the mining industry not only in this state but in Michigan and other states. Idaho, as well as the other universities, is no longer an institution solely for the state's youth. Expanding research now serves the entire state. Next issue—"Service," the third phase.

LETTERS TO JASON

Dear Jason:
I want to take issue with G.D.'s latest editorial attempt and with the Arg itself. I believe if the Arg is going to grind political axes it should, as an independent student paper, present both sides of any political argument if raises. Contrary to G.D.'s assumption, I don't think he knows the average student's reaction to Taylor's statements, or to his decision to enter the presidential campaign with Wallace. It is easy for arch-conservatives and reactionaries to attempt to laugh Taylor off as a publicity seeking showman, but a little intelligent research will prove him more than that. Taylor is an intelligent progressive and a sincere and honest politician. Such a combination while being a rarity in itself, is especially important to us being present in the senior senator from our state. Taylor is also a nationally prominent politician and should be recognized as such by his state's university student paper. Let the reactionary press who have special financial interests in political arguments scoff at honest politicians like Taylor and Wallace. Please keep G.D. on the trail of Communists or some such cause.

Calls Ignorant
G.D. is evidently the type of college student Wallace terms "naively ignorant of national political issues." As for the Arg: If a paper printed and published by university students who are to be our future journalists is unable to print liberal, broad-minded editorials on national issues then surely there is no hope for a free and liberal public press. Of course this type of editorial writing (and I use the term generously) is good training for the majority of our public newspapers and perhaps the Arg is giving the type of training needed for such papers as the Chicago Tribune, the Hearst Syndicate, or the Spokesman-Review. The editorial in question certainly presents the same dull views and attitudes of those papers. Contrary to what G.D. probably thinks, I am not a Communist. Dick Dell
Ed. Note—(1) It is easy to say "Taylor is... a sincere and honest politician," but can you prove it? (2) Taylor's state's university newspaper feels no compulsion to back the senator's latest move. (3) If you have noticed, the Arg prints "liberal" as well as partisan editorials. (4) It is rumored that Hearst pays his hirelings well.

Dear Jason:
The letter in the last Arg by Leo Soren applies quite directly to some of our instructors and courses. Too much time is spent in giving the student a store of facts that are going to help him but little. Directly back of the process of going to college is the notion that if one becomes sufficiently learned in various or specific matter he is removed to a higher status in society. Back of it, too, is the pressure of inheritance and the faith in the sheer magic of going to school. But is the mumbo-jumbo of facts that we are learning really going to work the magic we expect? No, in reality it is just the easiest course of postponing the fact that we will probably amount to too much in this unfeeling world. That is why, as Soren says, emphasis should be on principle and method. I believe that a man can say "I have went," and "I done it" and still be welcomed into society quicker than a "factual" Ph.D. That is why I don't mind getting less than an "A", or missing a class once in a while.

Heard... Or Seen

Music Hath Charms: Russian concert-goers were confused to hear, at frequent intervals, play-by-play newscasts of the Oregon WSC game from Idaho Club music lover Joe Groves portable radio.

Tidal Wave: Hell Divers and aspiring pledges were amazed Monday evening when the university pool suddenly surged and churned, resembling an angry sea. They were relieved, however, to discover only Mark Eusecher, exhibiting one of his famous swan dives.

The New Look: Dora Gaudin, Kappa, while on the Ad walk Wednesday, discovered to her horror that the ribbon from her brand-new petticoat was hanging noticeably. Grasping it inconspicuously, she found that she was pulling yards of stuff out into view, much to the amazement of the F.I.J.s.
Duz Does Everything: Joe Shin and Brad Minor, SAEs, left school for get-rich-quick schemes in Sun Valley. They got the executive positions, all right—washing dishes.

Graduates Double Salary In Five Years On Job

(I.P.)—The young man graduating from college this year, just beginning his business or industrial career, probably can double his starting salary in five years, a survey just completed by Northwestern university indicates.

This poll of 120 of America's best-known business and industrial concerns showed that they will seek to employ 4,900 inexperienced college graduates during the next year. The survey disclosed that the average starting salary for college men today is approximately $235 a month.

Housing Scarce
Housing continues to be a serious problem in the recruitment of college and university graduates for jobs in business and industry. Some concerns find that they must restrict their college-graduate employees largely to single men.

Ninety of the 120 companies supplied data regarding their training programs. Most of them undertake on-the-job training through planned, rotating job assignments. Others supplement on-the-job experience with brief courses of instruction, special manuals departmental meetings or conferences, and training films.

Know The Faculty

Dean E. S. Stimson

Dean of the College of Law, Edward S. Stimson, came to the Idaho campus in September of 1947 from Syracuse University.

Graduating from the university of Ohio with A.B., B.S. (in Bus. Adm.) in 1920, and A.M. degree from that school in 1922; later receiving from the university of Michigan J.D. and S.J.D. degrees, he became a Research Fellow, Harvard Law School, 1936-37.

Dean Stimson has in addition to teaching in several universities, including the University of Ohio, Carroll College, University of Michigan, Washington University, University of Toledo and Syracuse University, practiced law for several years. Special attorney of the U. S. Department of Justice, Anti-Trust Division, 1942-43, he became special assistant to the Attorney General 1943-47.

Now teaching Conflict of Laws in addition to his other duties, Dean Stimson is the author of several books and articles on this and related subjects. He is a member of the American and Federal Bar Associations.

Faculty Members Will Attend Meet

Dean Louise S. Carter, Dr. Allan Lemmon and Charles Decker left yesterday by auto for Portland, Ore., to attend the Northwest Guidance association conference, Dean Carter said.

"Student Counseling and Guidance Work" will be discussed at the conference held on Friday and Saturday, March 6 and 7.

Dean Carter, president of the Northwest Guidance association of the Deans of Women, will hold meetings with the Northwestern Deans of Woman. Dr. Lemmon will participate in a panel discussion of "Training of Personnel Workers," Friday afternoon, she said.

The meetings will be held in the Portland Civic Auditorium.

"Here's a woman. That changes the conversation."

Saturday dinner guests were Joe Smith, Tom Curtis, Art Riddle, Theron Smith, Bob Pettigrove, Bob Bunting, and Joe Uberaga.

Dinner guests Thursday night were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Mackey, Delta Chi

Jack Nicholas was a dinner guest Wednesday.

Women Talk, Men Squawk, Both Say Others Talk Most

By The Inquiring Reporter

In a recent issue of Esquire magazine there was a statement which read, "Women, in general, talk twice as much as men."

Wondering about this and what the typical Idaho student's reaction would be, the inquiring reporter wandered into the Bucket and asked this question: "Do you think that women talk twice as much as men?"

Of course, as far as reaction goes, the instant babble of male and female voices showed that, but here are some of the answers:

June Hoops, Pi Phi: "No, but they say twice as much."

Pat Hamilton, Sigma Nu: "Yes. They talk twice as much and say half as much."

Gerry Johnson, Ridenbaugh: "No. The last date, I had I didn't get a word in edgewise."

Paul Kunkel, Pine Hall: "Yes, if women would think a little more they would say less."

Jean Foster, Kappa: "Yes. Women think more than men do so they have more to say."

Bill Briggs, ATO: "Of course they do, anyone knows that."

Rita Marie Stewart, Tri Delta: "No. I don't think that women talk twice as much as men."

Lew Dunsen, Chrisman: "I don't know who uses the most words but the women have to use twice as many words to make any sense."

Writer Finds Book Store Policies Necessary, Efficient

By Margaret Weitz

The student union book store is being run as efficiently as possible under present conditions, Chuck Gilb, student-faculty board member, said yesterday while answering questions concerning book store policies.

The bookstore can't buy the students' books at the end of the semester because they don't have any place to store them. However, the store does buy books when there aren't enough available to fill demands.

Students also think that the university should use the rental system that is used in most of the big universities. However, the rental system doesn't work too well either. Here is an example: a book costing six dollars would cost a student two dollars a quarter to rent it. At the end of the year he would have paid six dollars in rental but still doesn't own the book.

No Commission On Bookstore
A suggestion might be that the veterans in all men's houses pool their books. They can keep their books for the other members in the house to use during the year, and can still sell them at the end of the year if they wish. Pooling books would also help the non-veteran students who can not afford to buy texts.

Gilb said that no one at the bookstore is getting a commission when books are sold and that no one is making money on the side. Any students having questions to ask about the bookstore, or the books may address their inquiries to the Argonaut and they will be answered.

This is but one of the many questions telephone men are called upon to answer.

Part of their work has always been to anticipate demands for personnel . . . to determine what additional equipment must be provided, what new construction will be necessary to handle the constantly increasing demands for service.

Careful planning in every phase of telephone work requires the services of many qualified men. For them, this growing business offers the opportunity for active, interesting careers.

NORTHERN DIVISION STANDINGS

Team	W.	L.	Pct.	PF	PA
Oregon State	10	5	.667	766	685
Washington	8	6	.571	731	676
Washington State	9	7	.563	795	815
Oregon	7	8	.467	823	800

The Idaho basketball squad entrained last night for Seattle and a pair of games that might hand the northern division crown to the Oregon State Beavers on a silver platter. Should the Vandals cop one of the two games Friday and Saturday, the Washington Huskies will be out of the running even if the Beavers lose their season's finale to the neighboring Oregon Ducks.

The Huskies dropped a game in the Moscow series on February 23 and 24. They ran away with the first game, 51-33, after piling up 24 points in the last few minutes; but the Vandals slowed them down to a walk the next night, and led all the way to win, 43-41.

Taylor Injured
Bill Taylor, starting forward on the Huskie squad, has been reported unable to turn out for practice sessions this week, and may not be able to get in the action this weekend. The Huskie star injured his shoulder in the first game of the Washington-Idaho series here last week.

Idaho men making the trip are: Centers Jay Gano and John Evans; Forwards Dick Geisler, Dexter Linck, Wendell Christiansen, and Jack Rainey; Guards Preston Brimhall, Joe Grove, John Taylor, Bill Eimers, and Harold Jaussi; Manager Mary Churchill; Coach Charles L. (Chuck) Finley; and Trainer Dr. N. J. Jacobson.

Gano, Evans, and Eimers will finish their collegiate basketball careers. This is the final game tour for the three Vandal seniors.

Rainey Tops Idaho Free Throw Race

Jack Rainey, sophomore forward for the University of Idaho basketball squad, is still leading his teammates in the Murphy's Men's Wear Store's free throw contest with a percentage of .688. With only two games left on the Vandal's slate, the race is narrowing and several members of the squad are still in the running.

Rainey, who gained his lead by sinking 11 shots in 16 tries, is closely followed by reserve forward, Gerry Gunnels, with 6 successes in 9 tries for a percentage of .667. Wendell Christianson, also a forward, is third with 35 good shots out of 55 tries and a percentage of .655.

The standings to date:

Vandal Portraits

Dick Geisler, 6 foot 2 inch Vandal forward, was born at Rigby, Idaho, on January 13, 1928. He spent all his high school years at Rigby, graduating in 1946.

While in high school, Dick was very active in athletics, winning letters in football four years, basketball four years, and track two years. Dick, who calls basketball his favorite sport, led the Rigby team to the runner-up position in the state class A tournament in 1944 and again in 1946.

Dick is a sophomore majoring in agriculture, and came to the University of Idaho in the fall of 1946. He immediately earned a berth on the Vandal junior varsity squad, and was moved up to the varsity before the beginning of conference play. He played the remainder of the season on the varsity squad, earning his letter as a freshman.

Geisler, who has made a rapid improvement during the current season, ranks third among the Vandals for total points made in conference play to date with 63. Fourteen of those were made in the first game of the recent Washington series when he led Vandal scoring. He has displayed a great deal of speed and ability to work the backboard during the entire season, and will undoubtedly be one of the key men around which Idaho's future basketball hopes will be built.

The present seating capacity at Person field, 2,100, is not likely to accommodate the fans who will wish to attend the game, according to the Round Table members; therefore, more bleachers are to be borrowed to increase the seating to 4,000.

Idaho Cops Second In Emida Ski Races

Idaho hickory aces placed, second in the Intermountain Class C tourney at Emida, Idaho, February 29, in competition with Washington State, Gonzaga, and the Chewelah Ski club. Idaho men placing in the slalom were Giles, Bradford, Werry and Allen. In the downhill, Giles, LeDuc, Bradford, Allen, Kinnison, Munkwitz, and Werry scored for Idaho. Washington State took top position with 423 points. Idaho followed with 306 points, Gonzaga scored 294, and Chewelah trailed with 170.

In plain daylight? How did that happen? The neighbor asked.

"All the people thought it was just another one of those fraternity initiations!" came the reply.

Frosh Grid Squad Will Meet Huskies In Coeur d'Alene

Freshman football squads from the University of Idaho and the University of Washington will battle in a night game on Person field in Coeur d'Alene, October 16. This information was made public by the board of directors of the Athletic Round Table of Coeur d'Alene, Monday night.

Final arrangements were made Tuesday on ratification by Graduate Manager Harvey Cassill of the University of Washington at Seattle. The contest, originally scheduled for Spokane, will open the grid season for the Idaho yearlings. Last year the Vandal Babes lost to the Huskie Frosh, 26-7, in their game at Gonzaga stadium in Spokane.

Seating Inadequate
University officials in Coeur d'Alene Monday to assist with the planning were: Millard "Dixie" Howell, head football coach; Gale Mix, graduate manager; Ken Hunter, director of publicity; and George Greene, athletic director. Other Idaho athletic department members present at the discussion included Ben Ennis, Perron Shoemaker, Gene Harlow, Charles L. Finley, Stan Hiserman, and Steve Belko.

Two Exhibitions
Durman Look will fight an exhibition at 127 pounds and Denny Anderson will fight a heavyweight exhibition. Freshman bouts will feature brothers Norm and Len Walker at 145 and 155 pounds respectively.

Jim Farmer leads off the regular bouts at 127 pounds. Others will be Howard Morton at 160 pounds, Vernon Bahr, also at 150 pounds, and Wayne Hazelbaker at 175 pounds.

At least two of these Idaho fighters will appear again tomorrow night on the WSC card. The Washington State college mittmen invade Moscow tomorrow night to engage the Idaho national co-champions in the last half of the Cougar-Vandal dual meet.

Bouts begin at 8:00 p.m. and a capacity crowd is expected to fill Memorial gymnasium to view this card which promises to be one of the best of the season.

Vandals Improved
Having previously defeated the Vandals at Pullman, the strong Cougar squad has only one blemish on this season's record. The University of Minnesota defeated them 4 to 3 two weeks ago.

Idaho, on the other hand, can boast only two wins for the season to date. These were the defeat of John McNeese junior college at Lake Charles, La., and last week's taking into camp of EWCE. They are vastly improved, however, and will be out to avenge the 6½ to 1½ drubbing WSC handed them last month.

Three newcomers will be given a chance to gain valuable experience tonight, according to Coach Ken Butler. They are Wayne Hazelbaker at 175 pounds, Jim Farmer, 127 pounder, and heavyweight Denny Anderson, brother of Chace Anderson, Idaho's 1938 national intercollegiate heavyweight champion. With the exception of these changes, the card will be the same as the one last Saturday night in which the Vandals defeated the Savages 6 to 2.

Tennis

All men interested in tennis are requested to meet Monday at 4 p.m. in room 109, Memorial Gymnasium.

Cause for American Pride

WASHINGTON'S FAREWELL ADDRESS
Here, in our First President's own handwriting, is part of the far-sighted speech he delivered to the American people 152 years ago. The spirit of the doctrine still applies. It calls for a firm unity among our people . . . emphasizing, above all, the need for "every citizen to take pride in the name of an American." The original is now aboard the "Freedom Train"—a traveling exhibit of the most significant documents in our history.
