Gripes On ASUI Are Aired By Recent Questionnaire

The biggest gripe which Idaho students have with campus life is centered about the Student Union Bookstore and its operation. Running a close second is the complaint about the general appearance of the campus. These were the strongest gripes as revealed by a poll just completed by the Independent Caucus and reaching over 750 students in every Independent hall on the campus.

"Jason," the voice said, "my journalism career has been nipped in the bud. I've been requested to appear for a conference with one of the administrative officials." Thus a "Dear Jason" writer announced the reception of his letter in the last issue of the Arg.

He went to the conference with a large amount of curiosity and a little dread. Forty-five minutes later he returned, somewhat enlightened and visibly impressed with the honesty and sincerity of the official.

One of the complaints had concerned the early hour Idaho women were locked in each night during Easter vacation. He was told that had the women requested later permission through the AWS they probably would have received it.

Our writer, however, didn't find why the Bucket lounge was closed during the four-day break.

Pressing Problem Jason has been curious for some time about radio broadcasting. He can understand the rudiments of script writing and program arrangement. The mysteries of tubes, condensers, and radio circuits aren't entirely unfamiliar.

But what he can't understand is why announcers insist on bidding their audiences farewell four times each hour.

The silky voice issues from the loudspeaker, accompanied by a popular recording, with the words "And so we end the Jive Alive program. This is Al Hockey, your disc jockey, saying goodbye until tomorrow at ten. See you then."

It is disconcerting to hear the same voice, one moment later, with a fresh greeting say, "Good morning listeners, this is the program you've been waiting for. Bring the Swing, featuring recorded music. This morning we present Ken Stanton and his band from Scranton."

The next fifteen minutes are filled with recorded music exactly like that of the previous quarter-hour. At the end of the period, our announcer bids us another sad adieu until tomorrow.

Foresters View Yellowstone Park

Dr. Paul Dalke and Mr. Kenneth Hungerford returned yesterday after a field trip to Yellowstone National Park, where they found the winter's unmetled snows required the use of snowshoes throughout their stay.

Students making the trip were James W. Betts, Reade Brown, Thomas C. Evans, Harold F. Haupt, John O. Herron, Jr., Charles R. Hungerford, Gordon Joslyn, Robert W. Neel, Grant B. Potter, Harry J. Taylor, and Robert A. Rowen.

Activities on the trip, which took place from March 28 to April 4, included surveys of the big game ranges, areas set aside for elk, antelope, mountain sheep, and buffalo. On their return, the group visited the Federal fish hatchery at Bozeman, Mont.

Lawrence Buckland took first place honors in the after-dinner speaking contest at the 25th annual meeting of the Pacific Forensic League in Reno, Nev., March 31 through April 2.

One faculty member and two students participating in the meet represented each school. Lawrence Buckland and Jack Menge, senior members of Idaho's debate team, were the two students, and Dr. A. E. Whitehead, faculty advisor of the debate team, were those representing the University of Idaho.

Spoils To The Victors

First place awards were trophies, and second place prizes were Chesterfield cigarettes. Strange Problems Confront Student Of Two Schools

David Stidolph, who has divided his education between Washington State college and the University of Idaho, has problems. He is scheduled to receive a Master of Arts in Education degree from Washington State May 30, but he will not receive his Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Idaho until May 31. He has been working for his master's degree at WSC on a certificate showing that he completed all bachelor requirements at Idaho last summer, but the question is: Can he officially receive his M.A. before his B.S.?

Beta's Problem, Too Another problem concerns the award recently made to Stidolph as the outstanding senior in Beta Theta Pi fraternity for the Northwest. The award is a plaque bearing Stidolph's name and is to remain in the local chapter of the fraternity for a year. Idaho Betas claim some of the achievements for which the award was given occurred at Idaho. The question is: Should the plaque repose in the Idaho chapter house for one semester, and in the WSC chapter house for another semester?

Both problems are expected to be ironed out, but to date the question marks remain.

Idaho Speaker Gains Award At Pacific Coast Meeting

Lawrence Buckland took first place honors in the after-dinner speaking contest at the 25th annual meeting of the Pacific Forensic League in Reno, Nev., March 31 through April 2.

One faculty member and two students participating in the meet represented each school. Lawrence Buckland and Jack Menge, senior members of Idaho's debate team, were the two students, and Dr. A. E. Whitehead, faculty advisor of the debate team, were those representing the University of Idaho.

Four sessions were held in oratory, extemporaneous speaking and after-dinner speaking. Buckland entered the oratory contest and after-dinner speaking, with Menge entering the extemporaneous contest.

Mary Louise Will, Charles LaFollette and Jack Gregory, are directing the assembly. Further notices about freshmen week assembly will be released soon, Miss Will said.

Committee Publishes Report On Board Bill Investigations

The Independent Board Investigating committee has published the final report on the investigation of the recent raise in dormitory board bills, Dave Weeks, caucus president, announced today. The board bill was increased from $35 to $38.64 per month.

The committee, according to the report, found the board increase to be justified under "present conditions," although some schools in the immediate area have a slightly lower board rate. A survey of 30 comparable schools throughout the nation gave an average board per day cost of $1.41, as compared with the university's $1.38. Raw food costs for other schools, approximated 55 per cent of the total board costs, whereas at Idaho raw food costs run from between 58 to 70 per cent which, say the investigators, would indicate that "Idaho students are getting 'more for their money' than students throughout the nation.

However, the committee does not believe that "the present conditions . . . are the most efficient, nor that costs of operation cannot be decreased. In order to lower the food costs, and to promote efficiency of operation, four recommendations were included in the report. Recommended were:

1. A plan for better co-operation between students and dietitians with a view to eliminating waste and the presentation to the dietitians of student complaints and suggestions.
2. More adequate supervision by administrative officers of the dining halls.
3. Adoption of a policy by the administration of better acquainting students with university policies and the reasons for them. In line with this recommendation, the committee recommended the publication of financial statements at the end of each semester, showing the results of the previous semester's food-serving operations.
4. The plan for the centralized purchasing of meat, already

Speech Contests Held By Ag School

Orval Hansen and Dee Harris were chosen as finalists in the extemporaneous speaking contest sponsored by the Alpha Zeta, agricultural honorary and the Ag club.

The two men were chosen from six speakers who talked on agricultural subjects. Harris spoke on the possibility of more farm boys staying on the farm if their fathers would take them into partnership and Hansen's topic was soil conservation.

A final contest will be held between the two men at the Ag Banquet, scheduled for April 7. Judges were Prof. H. A. Winner, agricultural education; Dr. Leif Verner, horticulture department; and Dr. H. M. Steffens of the zoology department.

Further plans for the Little International livestock show were discussed and chairmen of the float committees of the various departments made reports.

NROTC Trainees To Go To Sea This Summer

About 60 naval ROTC men will represent the University of Idaho on a summer cruise this summer, according to the Navy department. The midshipmen, together with other units from 52 colleges and universities throughout the nation will assemble in San Francisco about June 23. They will sail from there a few days later for cruises to various Pacific ports.

Some trainees are scheduled to depart from San Francisco on the battleship Iowa, and the light cruisers Pasadena, Springfield and Astoria. They will proceed to Seattle, Wash., for a five-day liberty and recreation period over the Fourth of July. Other ports to be visited are Pearl Harbor, Long Beach and San Diego.

To Join Carriers Another group will join the carriers Boxer and Princeton, covering the same ports. Their training will be directed toward teaching them the latest developments in naval aviation. It is expected they will tour air stations and participate in flights from carriers, as well as learn how a modern carrier operates.

New Cancer Study To Be Made With Runyon Fund Cash

The $18,000 allocated to the university for cancer research will be used in a study of treatment by certain amino acid derivatives, Dr. C. W. Hungerford, dean of the graduate school and chairman of the university cancer research committee, announced.

The grant comes from the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund, collected by Newspaper Columnist Walter Winchell in memory of the famous sports writer. Idaho was allotted $20,000, $2,000 was turned over to the radiology department of St. Luke's hospital in Boise.

"Effect of Selected Proteins and Amino Acids on Neoplasms in Mice," is the official title of the Idaho project, Dean Hungerford said.

"We will produce cancers in white mice in the laboratory and see what results will come from introducing different amino acids," explained Dr. A. C. Wiese, head of the department of agricultural chemistry.

The new amino acid derivatives are now being used in cancer studies in leading hospitals throughout the United States. "We will attempt to find if certain amino acids are responsible for accelerated cancer growth in the mice," Dr. Wiese added, "and if others show promise in retarding it."

Hurley Presents Egg Collection To University

More than 100 different bird eggs have found a permanent home in the "nest" John B. Hurley, widely-known collector of Yaki-ma, Wash., helped build.

A quarter-century ago, Hurley worked for the contractor building Science hall at Idaho, Ever since, he has had an interest in the building, and recently decided to give an egg collection to the department of biological sciences, which is housed in Science hall.

The collection was formally accepted this week by the board of regents.

"The eggs form a highly valuable addition to our bird specimens," said Dr. H. Walter Steffens, head of the department of biological sciences.

Many of the eggs were personally found by Hurley, and others were obtained by swapping with collectors around the world. Some of the eggs are from Texas, but they are not the biggest. Largest in the collection is that of a razor-bill auk from Lundy Island, North Devon, England. About the size of a double-yolked chicken's egg, it is pale blue with black spots. Smallest is a bush-tit egg from Seattle. It is about the size of a Palouse pea and chalk-white in color.

Officers Elected By Fraternities

Beta Theta Pi

Arnold Sanders was installed president of Beta Theta Pi Sunday, April 4. Other officers include Perry Dadds, vice president; Tom Smith, secretary; Jack McClaren, house manager; Denny Anderson, Sgt. at arms; Dick Lint, Archivist; Chuck Gibb and Robert Pond, Interfraternity representatives; and Bruce Scranton, recorder.

Sigma Nu

Election of officers held Sunday included Bill Gartin, president; Norman Farnham, vice president; Michael Vukich, house manager; Roger Hartman, marshal; Charles Berry, recorder; Wallace Kenyon, reporter; Phil Kinnison, chaplain; and Bill Gray, sentinel.

Question Food Bills

Also receiving a strong vote of disapproval were the living conditions in the independent halls with 104 students laying the fault directly at the door of the director of dormitories. Many students are not satisfied with the kind of food they are getting and equally as many complain about being required to pay for meals from which they could be excused if proper arrangements could be made. The charge for meals over Easter vacation seemed to afford a sore point even though there was notification by the director of dormitories. Many students have questions which they would like to have answered.

Other suggestions which were frequently mentioned included: more need for investigations; more inter-group social activities; "T" section should be done away with; more library facilities and better service; and more student power.

Here's More About Gripes On

So it goes all through the day. Each fifteen minutes our hearts are rended as we are torn away for twenty-four hours. No wonder Americans develop ulcers, grey hair and coffee-nerves. The strain is terrific. The French put it nicely, "To say goodbye is to die a little."

Now that election time has rolled around again and various organizations are installing new officers, some changes are noted. New life is reviving many of the groups.

One example was found in the stanch old Inter-Fraternity council yesterday. The officers, probably with an eye toward efficiency, have apparently developed a new communications system.

The Arg received a message yesterday from Ray Stommell, newly elected president of the group. It didn't come by telephone or telegraph. It was delivered in person by a Delta Gamma frosh. Maybe Pan-Hellenic should reverse the system.

NSA Membership Shows Increase To 114 Colleges

Membership in the newly organized National Student association has swelled to include 114 universities and colleges, it was announced recently. Idaho joined the association March 9.

The purpose of the baby organization is to present a united voice for American college students. Main problem facing the organization today, according to Bill Welsh, national president, is to form a workable NSA representation in each college.

Representatives Withdraw

Two representatives of the NSA withdrew from the International Union of Students in Europe last month when that organization failed to protest the treatment of students in Prague by Czechoslovakian officials.

The incident condemned by NSA involved the killing of one student and the wounding of several others when police fired on a procession of 1500 students marching to ask President Benes not to install the new communist government.

Meanwhile in Washington, two NSA officers took part in the fourth meeting of the U.S. national commission for UNESCO.

Herb Carlson, Vandal 155-pounder, retained his national intercollegiate middleweight championship Saturday night at Madison, Wisconsin, copping a decision over Maryland's Eddie Rieger. Carlson's win led the Vandals to third place in team scoring.

Wisconsin placed first with four individual champions and 45 points, followed by Michigan State with 19, Idaho with 14, Louisiana State with 12, and Miami with 7. The win gave the Badgers the John J. Walsh traveling trophy, named in honor of the Wisconsin coach, and awarded for the first time this year.

Two TKOs
Carlson piled up four wins in claiming his second national title in two years of collegiate boxing. He scored two second round TKOs in preliminary bouts. He put away Doug Fleming of Bucknell in 1:51 of the second, and Jim Surch of Superior (Wis.) Teachers in 1:15 of the second go. The Idaho champion ran into trouble with Collin Connell of Minnesota, but won a decision to advance into the finals with Rieder.

Ted Diehl, Idaho lightweight, dropped a decision in the finals to Cal Vernon, Wisconsin negro. Vernon suffered an eye cut in 1:08 of the second round, and the fight was awarded to him by a decision at that point. Though he missed the national title, Diehl won some measure of revenge. In his first match, he met and defeated Pete Franusch, San Jose State batter who took a disputed decision from the Idaho mittman at Sacramento to win the Pacific Coast title. Diehl advanced to the finals with a decision over Louisiana State's Jim Claitor, and then lost his last match to Vernon.

Winners To Olympics
Dale Hammond defeated Minnesota's Tex Caswell in his first fight, and then tangled with Michigan State's two-time national champion Charles Davey in the lightweight semi-finals. Davey copped a decision from Hammond, and went on to win the crown. He had turned the trick in 1943 and 1947.

Thane Johnson, Vandal lightweight, dropped his opening match with Don Brown, the California Aggies' coast king who had previously decided Johnson in the Pacific Coast tourney. Brown went to the finals before losing a decision to Don Dickinson of Wisconsin.

Carlson, along with the other title winners, earned a spot in the Olympic trials in Boston in June.

Vandals Batter Bremerton Pros For Seventh Win, 11-3

The Idaho baseball club added another scalp to their string Saturday when they outplayed, out-hit, and outscored the Bremerton Bluejackets of the Western International League, 11-3, at the NICE field in Lewiston. The Vandals pounded out 11 hits while the Bluejackets were committing nine errors to help the Idaho cause.

Francis "Lefty" Auer and Don "Red" Fodrea handled the mound duties for the Vandals, scattering nine Bremerton hits over the nine innings. Auer gave up two runs in the first inning, and then settled down to throttle the Bluejackets until he was relieved midway in the game by Fodrea. The big righthander, still favoring a bad knee, gave up a single run in the eighth to end the Bremer-ton scoring.

Bremerton's Ragni led the field at the plate, hitting three for four. His teammate, Maul, and Idaho's Scott and Tobe Masingill all had two hits in four times at bat.

Five-run Fifth
The Vandals picked up their first score in the fourth inning when Dex Linck's long fly ball to left field was dropped, and the Idaho first sacker went all the way to third base. He scored a moment later on another Blue-jacket boner. In the next inning, the Vandals romped around the bases for five runs, and went into a 6-2 lead. They added two runs in the sixth, one in the seventh, and another pair in the eighth to win in a runaway as the Bremerton infield muffed chance after chance.

Cope Leads Coast Basketball Scoring

Bob Cope, Montana State University's versatile sophomore, finished the 1947-48 basketball schedule as the Pacific Coast Conference's top scorer for the full season, according to the statistics released from the Conference Commissioner's office.

Averaging 15.9 points per game throughout the Grizzlies' 32-game schedule, Cope piled up 502 tallies to rank among the five high scorers in the nation. He finished the season with a slim two-point margin over Washington's Jack Nichols, Northern Division scoring champ. Nichols scored 507 counters in 34 games this year.

Close behind Nichols in the complete season averages comes Chuck Hanger of California and Oregon's Roger Wiley. Jack Phoenix of Idaho averaged 11.6 points per game to finish in sixth place.

$15 Meteor Camera

Our friends have confidence in our photographic advice. For that reason, we are extra cautious in offering low price cameras.

When we heard that a popular consumers' organization had rated the Meteor "best buy" in its class, we investigated it in critical mood. Our doubt soon changed to amazement when we found how many features from expensive cameras are packed into it, and what sharp, clear negatives it makes. We know of no other camera near the price which has so much for the money.
