Broadway Hit To Be Given Despite Stage Difficulties

The university production of the political comedy "State of the Union" this Thursday, Friday and Saturday is made possible by the employment of an unusual set arrangement, Miss Jean Collette, director, said yesterday.

"I didn't feel this way before class, Jason," a friend said recently. He looked and acted as though the Spruce had burned down.

The sun was shining, the woman was smiling, life was beautiful as I entered the classroom. The prof. even looked pleasant as he started his lecture, forgetting to take roll. It was American government.

"After 50 minutes listening to the condition of our government and how the country is actually run, I was discouraged. Now, after thinking it over, I'm downright disconsolate."

Most Idaho students—if they think at all—know how the friend felt. Jason learned forcibly this week after an Econ lecture. Hearing about business cycles from prosperity to depression to prosperity, and gathering that even the experts aren't sure about the causes, Jason, too, was disconsolate.

The facts, as presented by economists, indicate a slump for all or sooner or later.

Owes An Apology
Jason didn't know what he was talking about last week regarding the Freshman assembly. He does not know whether he (1) received the wrong information or (2) misinterpreted the correct information. At any rate, this column owes the Vandaleers an apology.

Latest word is that the chapel group went out of its way to aid the Freshmen. The regrettable fact remains, however, that the Fresh were unable to hold the assembly on which they had worked so diligently.

Mortal Wound
On top of Jason's blunder, the Argonaut this week received an almost fatal blow. The staff's ego was severely dented when the paper was the recipient of a message almost unheard of in journalistic circles.

It seems the Arg exchanges papers.

Political Eavesdropping In Play

"State of the Union," the ASUI comedy being produced Thursday, Friday and Saturday, might well be called "Inside Washington" for it portrays on the stage the goings-on in party politics. Here the potential Republican presidential candidate, Grant Matthews (Bob Miller) protests the methods used by Washington columnist Spike McManus (Bill Davidson) and publisher Kay Thorncliffe (Kady Barlow) to learn a bit of choice gossip that may help their campaign.

Committee Asks ASUI Board To Compile Teaching Faults

Some of the main teaching faults of Idaho professors will be listed tomorrow night by the ASUI executive board, Walt Smith said today. The board has been requested to compile the list by Dr. D. L. Fourt, chairman of the Faculty Welfare committee.

Working on the teacher-course rating plan, the committee has enlisted the aid of the executive board in listing teaching faults in order to evolve a more satisfactory questionnaire.

A survey was made by the faculty committee to determine what plans are in use at other schools and how they are administered. Smith stated that the administration of the plan constitutes the stumbling block at Idaho.

The teacher-course rating plan, if put into effect, would permit students to rate their teachers for instructing ability, helpfulness, and other factors. University courses would also be rated.

Some university officials have expressed doubt that the plan would provide enough additional information on instruction to be worth the expense and work re-

They're Wet, Too

Yesterday Arg staffers had a good laugh at the antics of one of the news game's most humorous prodigies—the cub reporter.

Petite Mary Sandell searched for an hour through a pile of newspapers for possible feature story ideas, then typed the following scoop: "A fish has no eyelids. . . this is all I could find—Mary."

Smith Urges Participation

Members of the ASUI: Beginning Wednesday, April 14, and lasting through Friday, April 16, we students of the University of Idaho will have a most excellent opportunity to participate in a series of forums and assemblies directed toward bettering our understandings of the causes of war and the conditions of peace.

The "William E. Borah Foundation for the Outlawry of War" is sponsoring this conference, and several national and world authorities will be at the university to direct the assemblies and forums. This is our chance to contribute something toward the solution of the biggest problem facing the world today. It is our duty as members of a world society to help make this conference a success. As President of the ASUI, I strongly urge that the whole-hearted support of every student be given this conference.

WALT SMITH,
President, ASUI.

Officers Seeking Air Force Cadets

The challenge of jet propulsion and supersonic speeds is attracting young Americans to the U. S. Air Force for pilot training in ever-increasing numbers, Lt. Col. Henry C. Godman said today.

Maj. Robert D. Curtis, senior member of a special Air Force traveling team, said that the reactivated Aviation Cadet Program is turning out pilots on a major scale for the first time since war days.

More than 3,000 Aviation Cadets will be trained as pilots by the USAF during the coming year under an accelerated cadet program designed to enable the Air Force to fulfill its role as the Nation's first line of defense, he said.

The traveling Air Force team, one of several visiting major colleges and universities throughout the country, will be here through 19-23 April, '48, to explain to interested young men the benefits and opportunities available both in Aviation Cadet Pilot Training and in Officer Candidate Training for non-flying administrative jobs which also is being offered by the Air Force.

Girl Ratio Is Average

Occasionally we hear complaints from men students regarding the shortage of women on the campus. The University of Idaho is not unique in this respect. A survey covering approximately 1700 institutions of higher learning, including schools for women, showed an enrollment of 1,659,000 men and 679,000 women during the first semester of 1947-48. The results of this study were published in the December 1 issue of "Higher Education," by the United States Office of Education.

Another study, just recently completed by the University of Illinois, which included 125 representative institutions, showed an average enrollment as follows: men, 2519; women, 953; totaled 3472. Our enrollment during the first semester was 2726 men and 812 women.

Of the 2,340,000 students enrolled in the fall of 1947, 46 per cent were veterans. Here at the University, 55 per cent of the enrollment during the same period were veterans.

While our ratio of women to men is just slightly under the national average, we have a higher-than-average percentage of married students. This is probably due to the fact that the university has provided more units in proportion to total enrollment than most institutions. Less than 30 per cent of all veterans attending college are married. Here at Idaho the percentage is approximately 31.

Thus, it would seem that the over all situation at Idaho is very typical of the average campus in America. —M.S.

It's Only Temporary

A necessary evil in existence at most colleges and universities these days are temporary classroom buildings and emergency veterans' housing units. While these makeshift structures serve well the purpose of alleviating crowded conditions caused by the veteran influx, the beauty and symmetry of many a campus has been destroyed by their presence.

The poll taken by the Independent party recently indicated a strong desire among the students at this university for the removal, as soon as possible, of the temporary classroom buildings in back of the Administration building. This is ample proof of student interest in the appearance of their campus.

Idaho is more fortunate, however, than other institutions of higher learning in that its temporary housing units are located off the campus proper. Thus, these buildings can remain "temporary" for several years and still not remain in the way of a far-reaching building program. —S.H.G.

Students Give Reasons For Vile And Uncouth Language

By Nancy Bowden and Helen Means

In a Bucket booth, somebody spilled his coffee and swore; in the hall of the Ad building, somebody cursed a professor. Everywhere swearing was prevalent. Attempting to find out why, the Inquiring Reporters yesterday asked, "What is the most contributive cause to swearing on the Idaho campus?"

Ted Beecher, Beta: "The presence of veterans on the campus—it's their past, dirty life."

Thelma Klobucher, Gamma Phi: "Men! Need I say more?"

Pat Smith, Tri-Delt: "Instructors. I said it and I'm glad."

Jerry Swanson, ATO: "Women and their demoralizing effect upon humanity—especially manhood."

Gerry Johnson, Kappa: "The obnoxious Moscow weather is enough to make anyone swear."

Pat Barnes, Delta Gamma: "Golf." (She can hit a dandelion farther than she can hit a golf ball.)

Burt Dennison, Phi Delt: "I don't swear except when I'm all alone like a little mouse and none can hear."

Gene Michel, SAE: "Teachers

Dear Jason

Dear Jason: It has been with a great deal of interest that I have read recent letters concerning phraseology of text books, lock-out hours in women's houses, teaching methods, etc. All of these are really trivial when important issues—such as MacArthur for president—are facing us. Clubs for Mac are being formed on campus where the enrollment is primarily G.I.

Where are some of those G.I.'s who saw some of the nurses who came out of Santo Thomas, physical wrecks because Mac had to take his furniture instead of them to Australia? the reconconditioned boat at Taclaban in which Mac was going to make his glorious "I Shall Return" visit to Corregidor and Manila? Mac waded ashore for publicity after the smoke of battle was cleared? Mac's property in Manila left without a scratch? Where are some who cancelled their bonds because Mac wasted thousands of dollars building a road to his modern retreat in Hollandia?

Have you all forgotten so soon? Let's wake up G.I.'s it's MacArthur who is being paged for the presidency!

—M.B.B.

Dear Jason:

In view of the interest evidenced on the campus in the Wallace-Taylor club, and in an effort to better acquaint the students with the policies of this club, we propose a friendly debate in the form of a round table discussion with students who oppose the policies of Henry A. Wallace.

We feel that such a discussion may settle differences of opinions on both sides and further may clear up many doubts and misunderstandings presently connected with Henry Wallace and the third party. This debate would take place at a meeting of the Wallace-Taylor club.

Because the following named students have shown a very definite interest and a democratic spirit in previous meetings, and in

Scribe Finds Common Likes Real Basis For Happiness

By JACK TAYLOR

If Spring comes to the campus, and possibly without it, there will be the usual march of starry-eyed couples down that last aisle. At a time like this it might pay us to look into some factors that bring success in this vital human contract.

There is no set formula for success in this relationship of man and woman, but a critical analysis for mutual likes and dislikes might go a long way toward preventing the mistakes made under the influence of moonlight and roses.

The cold realities of the days to come need not be the rude awakening they so often are today. Personalities Must Match—The prospective couple should look to see if they have common likes and dislikes, in the physical, intellectual, religious and social pursuits. Opposites do not attract in social relations, and "wreck and ruin" can result if proper attention is not given to how well the personalities of the two in love match up, as well as their physical attractiveness.

Both parties should like either vigorous, physical recreation and work or the quieter and more intellectual pursuits. There have been notable successes in marriage where the two are combined but they are the exception, not the rule. College men and women should especially realize the value of having common interests in literature, music, art, drama, or whatever.

Chess or Sports Their social life, be they introverts or extroverts will reflect these likes and dislikes and it will become obvious that the social "butterfly" will not be content to settle down with the "pipe-and-slippers" man, or the vigorous athlete.

Howell Attends Football Clinic

The University of Idaho's football coach Millard F. "Dixie" Howell joined with other experts of gridiron affairs at Spokane Friday in conducting a football clinic for mentors of the Inland Empire.

Ray Flaherty, head coach of the New York Yankees professional football team, and Coach Phil Sorboe of Washington State were other instructors.

The clinic was sponsored by a sporting goods store and presented for coaches attending the annual Inland Empire educational conference. "Football from all angles" was the topic of discussion.

A Hammond organ was given to Oregon State college by the class of '49.

Engineers Saved By Bell --Therefore Lost By Bell

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles which will attempt to answer the question asked in the last paragraph of this story.)

Of the hundreds of freshmen who register in the college of engineering only a small percentage ever graduate. Among the biggest stumbling blocks is the sophomore course in engineering physics.

Engineering physics is basically a course in problem solutions. The lectures consist of an occasional demonstration but are mainly directed to the derivation of formulae. Theoretically, the students can solve the problems from the basic concepts of physics without learning a large number of formulae.

Arabic Numerals and Sine Curves
The lectures are generously punctuated with examples of such problem solution. Recently, the instructor was solving a problem in which most of the theories of magnetism come into play. He had covered two sections of the blackboard with Greek letters, English letters, Arabic numerals and sine curves.

He was just about ready to combine all of his information into the solution of the problem when the bell rang. One hundred desk tops were dropped and 200 feet hurried out the door.

No Explanation
There was one student left in his seat. He had fallen asleep before the lecture started.

There seemed to be no explanation for the behavior of the engineers—they had to pass physics to graduate—but it was serving a purpose. It was flunking out a lot of engineers who needed a good answer to the question: "What do they expect out of College?"

SAEs In Close Win Over TKE Team

Sigma Alpha Epsilon defeated Tau Kappa Epsilon to take first place honors by a split-decision in the men's intra-mural debate tournament Thursday night at the Tau Kappa Epsilon house.

Jim Brockle and Wayne Knudtson represented Sigma Alpha Epsilon on the affirmative side, while Bill Reagan and Maurice Johnson took the negative for Tau Kappa Epsilon. The question of debate was "Should World Federal Government Be Established?"

A trophy, given by Delta Sigma Rho, was awarded Sigma Alpha Epsilon to keep for one year. The winner of this tournament last year was Lindley Hall.

Judges for the debate were Dr. A. E. Whitehead, Professor Clifford Dobler and Professor Robert Hosack. Jack Menge and Lawrence Buckland, members of Idaho's Varsity debate squad, were in charge of the tournament.

Vandal Nine Dumps Zags With Eleven Run Rally In Sixth

Idaho Roars From Behind To Best Bulldogs, 14-6

A big 11-run sixth inning spelled the margin of victory for the Vandals as they downed the Gonzaga Bulldogs, 14-6, Saturday afternoon. Lacking just two men of batting around twice, the Vandal scoring spree was aided by six hits, four stolen bases, three Zag errors and two passed balls.

The Bulldogs drew first blood with two runs in the third inning. Cliff Masingill's error at second sent Presley, to third on a single. Sweeney went all the way around, scoring Presley ahead of him, when he hit a long fly ball that proved too much for Couper to handle.

In the bottom half of the same inning, the Vandals took the lead by a 3-2 count. Linck and Kanikkeberg both drew walks and stole second and third. Both scored on Tobe Masingill's double. Masingill scored on a balk after Gregory had walked.

Zags Grab Lead
A three run fifth frame put the Bulldogs back in the lead. Hanses, right fielder for the Zags, singled, went to second on a sacrifice, and then on to third on Cliff Masingill's error. Lenoue was struck by a pitched ball and came home with Hanses on a double by Herd. An error at short put Petersen safe on first and scored Herd. The inning ended on a ground-out by Presley.

The Bulldogs scored again in the fifth when Sweeney tripled and came home on an error by Cliff Masingill.

In the sixth frame, Idaho broke loose. With one away, the entire lineup crossed the plate, Couper and Kanikkeberg twice. Couper and Kanikkeberg came through with singles. Couper went to third on McKay's miscue, and Kanikkeberg stole second. Grove was safe on Herd's error and one run came in, Kanikkeberg advancing to third. Linck walked, and Williams slammed a triple into deep right center, driving in three runners. Tobe Masingill singled, scoring Williams, and went to third on two passed balls. Sparks drew a base on balls, stole second, and came home behind Masingill when Whitcomb singled to left. Fodrea was safe on Herd's error and Whitcomb scored.

The top man on the batting order, Chuck Couper, was hit by a pitched ball. Kanikkeberg singled, scoring Fodrea and Couper, and scored on Grove's ground ball to the infield.

Second Game Called
"Lefty" Auer limited the Bulldogs to four runs in as many innings, and "Red" Fodrea gave up only one hit during the three innings he was on the mound. The Bulldogs used three pitchers in the sixth in a vain effort to stop the Vandal scoring rally. With a single and a double in three trips to the plate, Tobe Masingill was the big gun for the Vandals.

The second game was called because of darkness at the end of four innings.

Time Out

By Harry Howard
With the enthusiasm created by spring football, and the eager anticipation that comes with watching a fine looking team prepare for next fall, a sportswriter as well as anyone else, can get in a football rut. Yet that is still no excuse for the error that appeared in this column in the last issue of the Argonaut.

Victor O. Schmidt is the Pacific Coast Conference Commissioner—the late Francis Schmidt was Idaho's gridiron coach back in 1941. A former mentor at Ohio State, Schmidt took a team that had won only one game, a 14-6 victory over winless Nevada State, and copped four victories in nine contests.

Not Misquoted
However, though this column gave Victor Schmidt the wrong name, it did not misquote him in stating that Idaho's intra-mural program was the best organized he had ever seen.

This year, participation in the intra-mural sports has taken a tremendous upswing. There were 749 men taking part in Intra-mural basketball—351 in "A" league play, and 398 in the "B" league. Last year's total was 514. Intra-mural basketball has just finished its greatest season in history—208 games were played by 61 teams.

Participation in other sports has increased also. Touch football showed an increase of 223 participants over last year. Volleyball has an increase of 127. Table tennis lured 146 more participants than last year.

All in all, intra-mural sports participation has increased by 731 over last year at this point. Track, softball, golf, and horseshoes are still on the agenda, waiting to take their crack at intra-mural record breaking.

Finley's Diamond Squad Meets NICE

The University of Idaho baseball squad will play their last pre-conference game tomorrow when they go to Lewiston to tangle with the strong North Idaho College of Education nine.

Dexter Linck will be holding down first base, Ozzie Kanikkeberg will be at second, Tobe Masingill at third, and Cliff Masingill or Joe Whitcomb will patrol the shortstop's territory. Joe Grove's two homers off Farragut pitching will likely earn him an outfield berth with Chuck Couper, and the third spot will be filled by Sparks, Gregory or Scott.

The Vandals will leave Thursday for a six-game conference tour on the coast. They open their conference season with the Washington Huskies in Seattle on April 16 and 17, and then travel into Oregon for a pair of games each with the Webfeet and the Oregon State Beavers. Coach Chuck Finley's nine will make their first home conference appearance against the defending northern division champion Washington State Cougars April 26.

Coaching Headaches Mount As Snow Flurries Continue

By JOHN MARTIN
Old man winter is providing no end of trouble for the Vandal spring sports coaches. Rained out is not an uncommon catastrophe in spring athletics, but "snowed under" is a new twist to the mentors' April problems. With the baseball, tennis, track, and golf squads all slated for meets this weekend, the Idaho coaches are hoping that the weatherman will relent and give Moscow and vicinity a long awaited taste of spring.

Coach Stan Hiserman's trackmen are hoping they will be able to turn in their gloves and overshoes this week. The long distance mile with snowshoes; but despite their remarkable progress, they long to doff the winter apparel. The Vandal harriers are slated to take on the Washington State runners on MacLean field Saturday—weather permitting. Intermittent snow flurries forced the cancellation of last week's scheduled meet with the Oregon Ducks here.

Golfers vs. Skiers
Red flannels and heavy jackets have enabled the baseball players to complete a portion of their pre-conference games. Coach Chuck Finley will be keeping his eyes skyward as he has only three remaining practice sessions before the Vandal diamond men entrain for their six-game trip to the Coast. Friday and Saturday, the Idahoans will face the Washington Huskies in Seattle. Next stop on their itinerary will be Eugene where they will meet the Oregon nine Monday and Tuesday. The Vandals will finish the trip in Corvallis Wednesday and Thursday against the Oregon State Beavers.

The golf team is having considerable trouble keeping the ski enthusiasts off the course. However, a few brave golfers have ventured out for a round of their favorite game. They have learned something beside putting; a dark colored ball is much easier to find in a snow bank than the conventional white pellet. The University of Oregon golf squad will meet the Vandal link team here Saturday if the weatherman will permit.

Idaho Golfers Open Season Against Division Champions

The Vandal golfers are hard at work this week, preparing for their conference opener with the University of Oregon Ducks, defending northern division champions, in Moscow.

Coach Frank James is counting heavily on his five returning lettermen—John Morley, Gene Rodwell, Walter Kelm, Glen Cushman, and Jack Keenan. In addition, there will be one man picked from the following group to round out the first team: Peterson, Ogsburg, Naibaur, Mansius, Hagan, and Lenzi.

Vandal Marksmen Top Kansas State

Five Duck Lettermen
Four lettermen from the 1947 championship Oregon squad, and a returning letter winner from 1946 will give the Vandals stiff competition. Lou Stafford, one of the finest golfers in Oregon history, reached the semi-finals in the NCAA meet at Ann Arbor, Michigan, last season before bowing to the champion.

He set a new course record and took division medalist honors in the championship tournament at Moscow last year, going undefeated in conference play. He tied the course record at the Eugene country club in the first match of the year with a seven-under-par 64. The Idaho-Oregon match will follow Patty Berg's exhibition which starts at 1:45 p.m. Saturday.

Netmen Schedule Intrasquad Match

The Idaho tennis team will play an intra-squad match Wednesday afternoon on the courts in front of Memorial gymnasium. Nolan Johnson and Hal Barnes will be the two captains of the meet.

Coach Eric Kirkland stated that this match would determine which of the team members will be chosen for the five-man squad that will meet Washington State College here Saturday. Leading the list of players are John Bretz, Jack Rainey, Hal Barnes, Nolan Johnson, Howard Berger, and Bart Chamberlain. Others turning out are Mark Euscher, Bill Gartin, Tom Benson and Arland Hotstrand.
