University ROTC Units Will Stage Army Day Celebration

Military Department Plans Parade, Concert And Dance

Army day celebrations planned for this week will come to a conclusion Saturday with a military ball in the Farmer's club. The series of events planned to commemorate the day began last evening as Major H. N. Miller of the university ROTC staff addressed Legionnaires at the Legion club.

A concert by the university military band under the direction of Kermit Hosh will be presented in the auditorium at 8 o'clock Wednesday. The program, to be broadcast over KUOI, will consist of three overtures, several swing and march numbers.

Feature Orchestra

The Farmer's club will be the scene of the Military Ball which will conclude the week's festivities. The orchestra of Jim Varley will furnish the music and a special commemorative Army day program will be given at intermission.

All ROTC units, army, navy and air force reserve units on campus will participate in a parade Thursday. Company A, 200th Tank battalion of the Idaho National Guard and the ROTC regimental staff will also participate.

Other organizations which will be included in the parade are Pershing Rifles, basic military honorary, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts.

Parade Route

The route of the parade will be: Assemble at Main and A streets, south to 8th street, west on 8th to Deakin over to University avenue and then west to Memorial gymnasium.

Grand Marshal for the parade will be Leo Walton of Moscow, a veteran of World War II. Members of the university army staff will hold open house between 3 and 5 p.m. Thursday at Memorial gymnasium, according to Col. C. F. Hudson, commandant of the university cadets. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

Regulations Cited

The delegation then asked to see a copy of the recent ASUI executive board's recommendations which the calendar committee adopted in its policy. Scrutinizing these carefully, they pointed out to Jason the measures stating that each living group could have only two social functions a semester, and that when an all-campus event was being held only three other major social functions could be listed on that date.

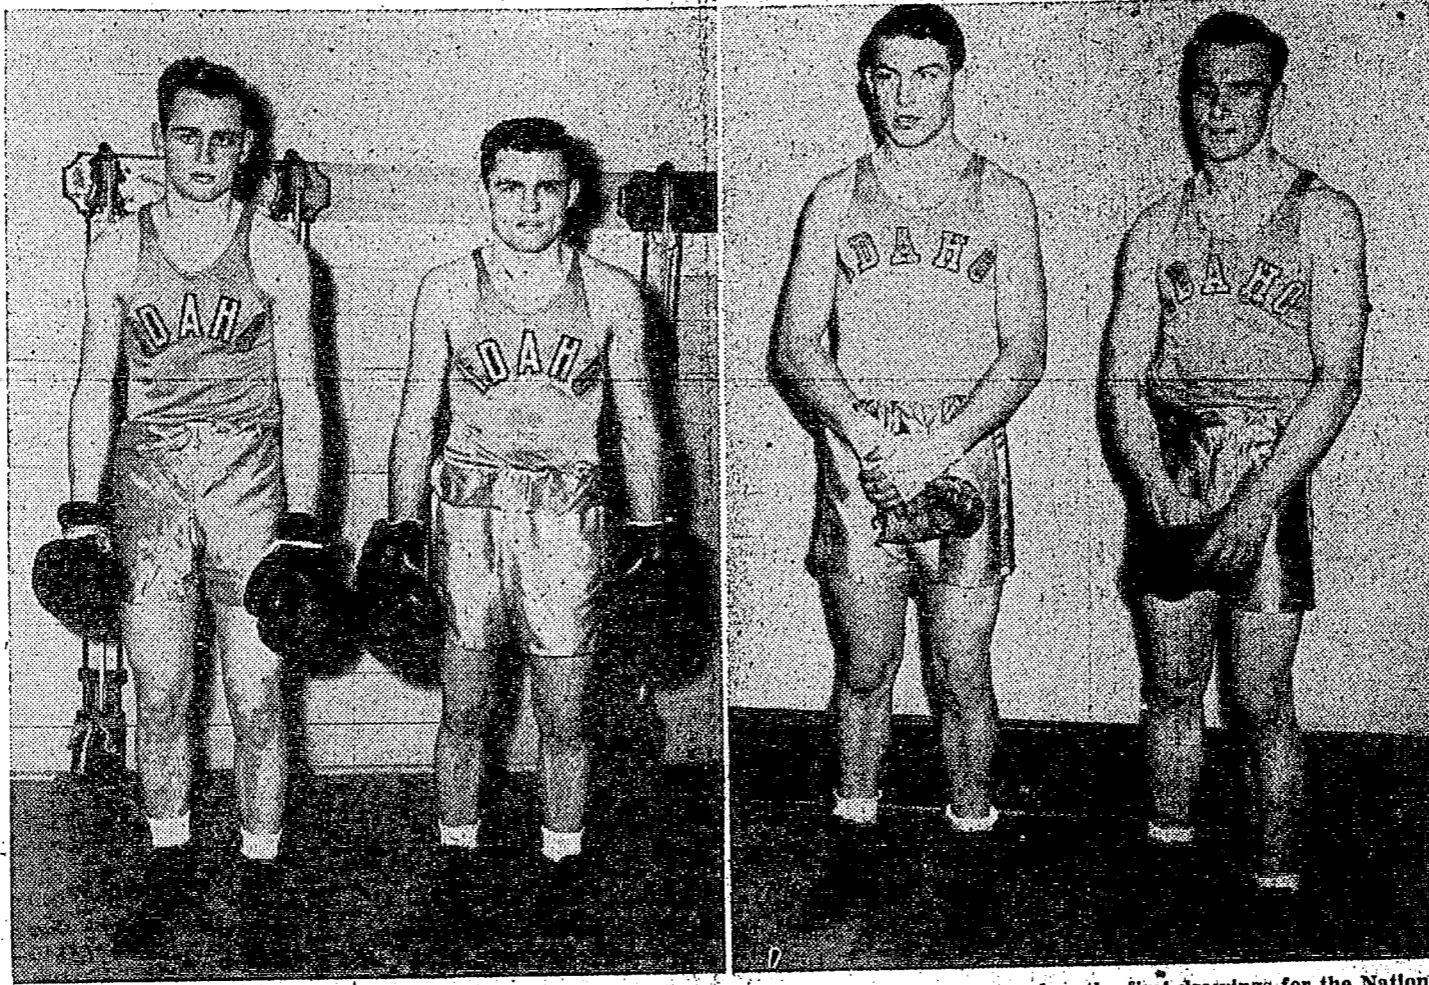

The leader of the group next asked Jason to find out what events were on the calendar for last Saturday night. After consulting the official calendar, it was determined that three all-campus events had been scheduled—the I club carnival, the Navy ball, and the Newman club dance. The group spokesman then told of the "glorified firesides" which two living groups held on that same night. These were not listed on the calendar and the groups concerned have two other dates on the calendar this semester.

Action Wanted

Another of the delegation then asked if the executive board passed such recommendations merely to be able to say that they had accomplished something in the record or did they attempt to solve student problems. He continued, "If it was to aid student affairs, surely the board would bring the groups which attempted to circumvent the joint policy of the execu-

Idaho Graduate Wins Washington Newspaper Award

Best story of the year to appear in a Washington daily newspaper with less than 50,000 circulation was written by a former Moscow resident and Idaho graduate.

Mrs. Helen Kerr Gleason, daughter of Dean and Mrs. T. S. Kerr, was awarded a $100 club by the Washington State Press club for an article appearing in the Tri-City Herald of Pasco, Wash.

Covers Dike Drama

In her story, "Miracle Mile Protects Richland from the Columbia," Mrs. Gleason caught the drama behind the dike which kept the rampaging flood waters at bay. Formerly on the staff of the Tri-City Herald, she now operates her own advertising agency in Richland.

A journalism major at the university, Mrs. Gleason was graduated in 1930. She served as president of both Theta Sigma, women's journalism honorary, and Winged Helmet, literary honorary. She was also editor of Under the Helmet, publication of the honorary, and editor of a Co-ed edition of the Argonaut. Handling a rifle as skillfully as a typewriter, Mrs. Gleason was an outstanding member of the Women's Rifle team. Her sorority is Kappa Alpha Theta.

Sigma Tau Dance And Dinner Held

Other officers for the coming year introduced after the dinner were George Haroldsen, vice president; Donald Lapray, secretary; Robert Sliger, treasurer; Donald Baumgartner, corresponding secretary; and William Burns, historian.

Idaho's Miss Coed Will Grace Cover Of Blot Magazine

Idaho's candidate for Miss American Coed will be featured in a full page spread on the May cover of Blot magazine, announced Bob Finlayson, Blot editor, yesterday. All women's living groups are urged to enter five pictures of their most photogenic members in the contest which closes Friday, April 8.

A board of college judges has been appointed to select Miss Idaho from the pictures submitted after which a group of glamour and campus portrait shots will be taken of her by Blot staff photographers. This picture review of "Miss Idaho" will be sent to Gene Schneider, New York City, the national director of the Miss American Coed contest.

Enters National Contest

Miss Idaho will adorn the May Blot cover and will be entered in the national contest in competition with coeds from nearly every other college campus in the nation, according to Finlayson. Entries from women's living groups are to be turned in to Finlayson or Sheila Darwin, Blot associate editor.

Argonaut Banquet Recalls 50 Years Newspaper Work

Historical reminiscences marked the golden anniversary banquet of the Idaho Argonaut held Saturday night at the Moscow hotel.

Mrs. J. J. Gill, sister of the first editor of the paper, and Louis A. Boas, editor of the Daily Idahoian, were principal speakers.

Mrs. Gill described the problems experienced by her brother, Guy Woolfe, in establishing the Argonaut as a campus institution. "There wasn't any ASUI in those days," Mrs. Gill said. "My father found himself paying most of the bills for the first issue."

Lists New Careers

Boas, a former Argonaut editor, gave some advice to staff members of today who seek careers in journalism. He listed various branches of journalism and pointed out that most newspapermen, after they reach the age of 45, want to settle down working on either a small daily or on a weekly.

Special Argonaut keys were presented to staff members who have completed five semesters of work on the paper.

GRADES AVAILABLE

Mid-semester grades will be available to students in the Deans' offices this week. This announcement was made yesterday by D. D. DuSault, registrar.

Argonaut Banquet Recalls 50 Years Newspaper Work

Unusual sideshows, skin games and other circus-like attractions, all conducted on Al Capp's "Lower Slobbovia" theme, marked the first annual I Club carnival held in Memorial gymnasium Saturday night.

Enough "Rasbuckniks" to alleviate the sufferings of the depleted I club treasury were taken in at the various booths, each under the sponsorship of a campus living group.

Feature Jungle Show Walking away with all honors for men's houses was Win Bishop, president of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, who acted the part of "Gargantaputin", an ape-man in the Teke's "Jungle Show". With Mac Black acting as "Frankness Rasbucknix", the ape trainer, the Teke sideshow merited the judges' award for best individual attraction, and also raked in the most folding money at the gate.

Thetas, Pi Phis Win

Kappa Alpha Theta's "Bendixovitch", based on the antics of a washing machine, was judged best booth among the women's houses. Pi Beta Phi's "Loop the Leg" hoop toss took in more "Rasbuckniks" than any other women's booth.

Four cups were presented to the three winning houses. Currency exchange at the cashiers' booths was one American nickel to every ten thousand "Rasbuckniks". To add to the carnival atmosphere, the I club sponsored a bingo game and a soda pop and hot dog concession.

A Salute To Army Day

Army Day is the day set aside by the American people to honor the institution which they maintain with their money and men.

It falls on April 6.

It is the day when the Army reports directly to the people, explaining what it is doing and what it plans to do.

It is the day when the Army invites young men and women of America to look over the opportunities offered by a military career.

It is the day when the Army asks the people to attend special exhibits, parades, etc., to get a better understanding of their great defensive force.

It is the day when the Army reviews with pride the accomplishments of the past in peace and war:

From the gallant Continental Army and militia under General Washington;

To the expedition into the wilderness by Captains Lewis and Clark;

To the conquest of yellow fever;

To making the Mississippi a navigable river from near its headwaters in Minnesota to the delta;

To its last great undertaking—ATOMIC FISSION.

NOW . . . the Army looks toward the future.

Its goal: Security—Peace.

Funny Boys Do It Again

The "funny boys" have done it again. But their latest attempt at humor has been expensive both in terms of dollars and cents and in public good will. In the early morning hours last Sunday, two tractors were taken from a downtown establishment and driven up to the campus where they were parked first on the lawn of one sorority house and then on the doorstep of another.

As it worked out, the joke fell completely flat. The vehicles were removed before many people saw them, so most of the laughing was done by the pranksters themselves. The first loss, then, is the time and effort wasted by the pranksters.

But the story does not end there. There is another much higher cost. The radiators had been drained to prevent damage to the tractors on cold nights. The thoughtless pranksters drove them without filling the radiators, resulting in damage to the tractors estimated by their owner at about $600. So in addition to being unfunny, the joke cost one of the local merchants a good deal of money.

There is still another cost to be added in, perhaps the greatest and most permanent cost of the whole affair. We refer to the loss in terms of public good will, particularly that of the people of Moscow, resulting from this and similar occurrences.

It happened that the owner of the tractors, Everett Will, is one of the best friends that the university has in the city of Moscow. Although he realizes that it was the work of only a few, any friendship will tend to wear thin when it costs $600. —O.H.

Resolution Six Is Shattered By Pranksters

By GORDON GRINDSTAFF

New Year Resolution Number Six no longer exists. The last remaining and least important of our 1949 resolutions, No. 17, was shattered at 8:53 Friday night. The resolution: "I shall not be fooled on April Fools' Day."

When Friday arrived, I swore I'd be on the lookout for any pranks. Although four different pranksters had been mentioned in the resolution, I recognized as Shorty's prank, I wasn't tricked into calling.

Apparently my shoestring was untied right times, but I didn't look down.

Vacation In April?

I didn't believe a word of the "Latah County Booklegger's Gazette" either. And when someone called to tell me that summer vacation would begin on April 15, I just laughed.

Some are preparing for governmental careers.

Salt Content Of Boise River Least Of Irrigation Waters

Water from the Boise river has the lowest mineral salt content of any water used for irrigation in Idaho, reports Max C. Jensen, irrigationist, and Glenn C. Lewis, analyst in the department of agricultural chemistry at the University of Idaho agricultural experiment station.

Payette river water ranked second in purity, with water from the Spokane river, outlet for Lake Coeur d'Alene and used on Rathdrum prairie, coming third.

Water from the Bear river and Portneuf river in eastern Idaho had the highest mineral salt content. The range was from about 30 parts per million for Boise—a mineral salt content not far from rainwater—to more than 600 parts for the Bear and Portneuf.

Idaho's biggest source of irrigation water, the Snake river, showed a fairly low mineral salt content at the headwaters, but this content steadily increased downstream as drainage water returned to the stream.

River Samples Taken
In cooperation with the leading irrigation companies of the state, the university's agriculture experiment station has been studying the mineral salt content of the

Collette Releases Facts On Story Behind New Play

Miss Jean Collette, drama department head, released some details yesterday on the real story behind "Chicken Every Sunday," ASUI play now in rehearsal for its April 29 and 30 run.

Mrs. A. H. Johnson, a Moscow resident, recently related to Miss Collette the history of the real family about whom "Chicken Every Sunday" is written. The original family name, according to Mrs. Johnson, was Drachman.

Describes Real Family
Rosemary Drachman, who is Rosemary Blachman in the play, was a pupil in the class Mrs. Johnson taught as a resident of Tucson, Arizona. Verifying many "Blachman" family activities as they appear in the play, Mrs. Johnson described the boarding house for which the family is well known in Tucson and the famous "promoting" deals Drachman always sponsored.

"Chicken Every Sunday" was presented several years ago at Idaho State college. The Seattle Repertory Theater also presented the play recently with a former Idaho graduate, Grace Lillard, taking the part of Emily. The Idaho production has been scheduled for April 29 and 30 in the university auditorium.

Social Science Students Do Field Work In Two States

Sampling life to come, 23 University of Idaho students in social science have been doing field work with public and private social welfare organizations of Idaho and Washington during the last month. Working with agencies varying from probation boards to children's homes, each student has been obtaining an average of 51 hours of practical experience.

"We hope that the field work experience, brief though it is, will give students increased awareness of the high degree of competency necessary to do adequate social work," said Professor Harry C. Harmsworth, chairman of sociology. "The experience should also help the students in evaluating their own potential capacities for social work."

Will Expand Program
In charge of the program is Mrs. Sarah Woodson, assistant professor of sociology. She said the various agencies had given full cooperation, and that the program would be expanded next year.

"An important result of the field training has been increased opportunities for employment after graduation," Mrs. Woodson added.

Students training with the State Department of Public Assistance were:

Grid, Diamond Schedules Drive Full Speed Ahead

Football Practice Begins Tomorrow

Coach Millard F. (Dixie) Howell's football coaching staff was in fighting trim today and ready to handle the tough bunch of Vandal griders who will begin the first of their allotted 30 spring practice sessions tomorrow.

With the arrival of William D. Godwin from Lafayette, Arkansas, Howell's staff is complete for the first time since early in the year when two Vandal coaches resigned. Godwin was recently chosen as line coach for the Idaho aggregation.

Coach Howell said that spring practice would not begin until Wednesday, altering earlier reports that the sessions would begin Monday. He indicated that he would need some time to brief Godwin before the 30-day session gets underway.

Godwin comes to Idaho from several years as center with the professional Boston Yankees. He was a star center with the University of Georgia during the early '40's. The Idaho staff now includes Howell, who will coach the backs; Babe Curzman, coaching the ends; Gene Harlow, guiding the tackles; and Godwin, the centers and guards.

Baseball Nine In Action

Meanwhile with Doc Jacobsen, Idaho trainer, still acting as baseball coach for the ailing "Chuck" Finley, the Idaho baseball squad took advantage of the sunny sprink weather yesterday afternoon and began preparation for their fourth engagement with the North Idaho College of Education nine, Thursday afternoon on the home diamond.

Idaho has won one and lost two to the Loggers in previous spring training contests. NICE knocked out both ends of a double-header, 4-2 and 4-0, while Idaho took the third game by a 6-4 score.

Sunday afternoon the Idaho baseballers outdid the Bremerton Bluejackets of the Western International league, 18 to 9 in a pre-conference game at Lewiston, but lost to the Bluejackets, 15 to 13, in a wild scoring affair. Time-hits by Bremerton and free passes by Idaho gave the WIL leaguers the contest.

Youthful Idaho Cage Team Aply Named "Giant Killers"

Idaho can be proud of the new athletic setup that has been entirely revised under the hiring of new coaches, men that have brought to this institution great athletic teams.

Charles L. Finley, head basketball coach, molded together one of the finest quintets that the University has ever seen. Not only that, but this squad was composed of sophomores, which could mean but one thing. Watch out for Idaho on the maple courts next year.

Started With Shoestring

Starting from scratch, Finley gradually built up the Vandal casabans. It wasn't until midway through the conference race that they caught fire and when they did, there wasn't a team in the league that considered the Vandals pushovers.

The Vandals looked strong in their conference openers with the University of Oregon, in dropping the first 50-48 and winning the second 60-52. The following weekend, Idaho invaded the Willamette valley and on this disastrous road trip dropped all four contests, first to Oregon 70-37 and 58-50 and then to Oregon State 42-31, and 69-53.

Crossline Rivalry

Civil war broke out in Memorial gymnasium, Saturday, January 22, as Idaho and WSC mixed it up for forty solid minutes in the so called "Battle of the Palouse." Unfortunately Washington State won 54-37. One week later Idaho invaded Bohler gymnasium in Pullman and in doing so handed the Cougars their first loss in conference play, 41-32. From then on the Vandals started to roll.

Oregon State, our next foe, despite the psychological advantage they held over us dropped their opening contest to the sophomore laden Vandals 51-39. The next night was a complete reversal as fans saw State Gill's northern division champions come from behind to post a 47-35 win.

Ambushed In Seattle

Coach Finley's cagers journeyed to Seattle, and in doing so surprised the basketball world as they handed the Huskies a 64-47 setback. However, Idaho dropped the

Time Out

By DON RICE

Skimming rapidly over the headlines of the week is always an interesting pastime. It isn't often that you can pick up a paper without seeing some account of the stark drama of everyday life. The sports world, highly—and sometimes starkly—dramatic, often offers something along the flotsam and jetsam pattern.

For instance: Olympia romps to easy victory. A three-year-old colt moved out in front of the pack to garner a win for himself, and 20,000 bucks for his owners. All this while Notre Dame's Frank Leahy moans about having the worst Irish team in history, and predicts seven straight losses next fall.

Meanwhile, an Oregon vaulter breaks the record with a 14-foot, 2 1/4-inch pole vault; Utah's junior skiers top Sun Valley races, and Washington plans fish stocking in trout streams and lakes.

Meanest Man

Finally, an item which seems to indicate that we've found one of the meanest men in Texas. It appears that Bing Crosby sent Golder Ben Hogan a Christmas present. Hogan left Fort Worth before the package arrived, and he's been in the hospital recuperating from an auto accident since February 2.

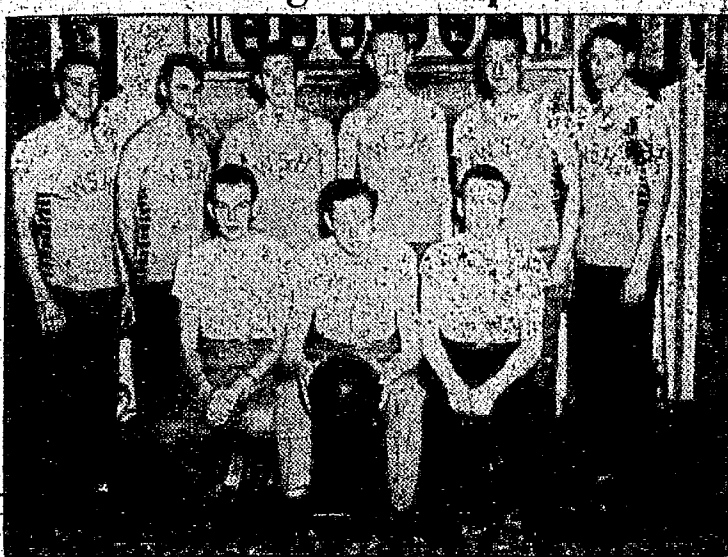

Before the accident, he saw Crosby on the west coast, and the crooner asked him how he liked the present. "I haven't seen it yet," Hogan said. "What is it?" "If you haven't seen it, I'm not going to tell you."

Hogan returned home, but a burglar had taken the unwrapped package, along with a lot of others. In our opinion, that's plain meanness.

BUGS BUNNY HELPS

To help dissipate the nervous tension built up within the undergraduates during the midyear examination period, Brown university scheduled a noontime series of comic cartoons featuring Bugs Bunny and other well-known cartoon personalities shown in the campus theater.

'B' League Champions

Winding up a whirlwind "B" league intramural basketball season, a fast, hard-to-beat Wills Sweet hall quintet brought home the bacon in the form of the championship crown. This is the third Sweet team to win the honor this year. Left to right, they are: Ted Nowak, Roy Doupe, Gene McNeer, Gene Hyde, Don Larsen, John Weinmann, L. W. Spicer, Doug Weinmann, and Troy Doupe.

Clear Skies And Deep Snow Give Excellent Spring Skiing

Ski fans, don't put your skis away now that winter is passing because the best time of the year has arrived for skiing. There will be skiing until May if weather conditions permit, according to ski experts, on Mount Spokane, Washington, and the Look-Out Pass ski area near Wallace, Idaho. A recent excursion to both areas indicated an average of ten feet of snow still remaining and unlimited sunshine to ski under. Spring skiing is here and now you can cast aside those heavy coats and wear a light shirt and sun-tan oil.

Skiing 'Til May

The Look-Out Pass ski area near Wallace, Idaho, on highway 10, will offer excellent skiing conditions up to May, according to Hans Hauser, who is ski instructor in the area. It is 120 miles from Moscow. Snow conditions are perfect with three rope tows to lift you to the top of the clouds. At this time of the year, "corn snow" conditions are prevalent, especially in the early morning and late afternoon.

Hauser said that excellent snow conditions may extend to the end of May in the Look-Out area, depending upon dust clouds which originate from the Palouse area in early spring. Usually in April or early May heavy clouds of dust settle upon the pass, making the snow dirty and impossible to ski on.

Has Big Lodge

Look-Out has a large ski lodge with a concession selling sandwiches, soup, soft drinks and beer. Music is played over loudspeakers and a soft waltz or Norwegian folk music can be heard throughout the ski area. The area is open during week-ends. The tows begin running at 1 p.m. on Saturdays and 11 a.m. on Sundays. Fees for the tow are one-dollar for the complete day. At present and in the near future a skier could not ask for a better ski area in this vicinity.

Ten Feet at Mt. Spokane

Mount Spokane, Wash., has a depth of ten feet of snow and skiing will continue until May if weather conditions permit, according to the Washington Park Service. This area has been developed extensively. A chair lift, operated electrically, is on the North face of the mountain and a three hundred yard rope tow is on the South face. The road going to the top of the mountain and ski lodge is graded daily and in good condition. The chair lift and rope tow operate on week-ends. Fees for the rope tow are one dollar; the chair lift will cost $2.50 per day.

The ski lodge offers fine food and soft beverages. Mount Spokane has a tendency to become more crowded than Look-Out because it is close to Spokane and other large population areas.

These two areas offer the best

Vandal Grid Squad Displays Promise Of Future Power

Despite the fact that it produced only three wins, this year's schedule left Idaho boosters with more than one reason for confidence of a good future. The Vandals lose only three men through graduation.

By the end of the season, pre-schedule dopesters were surprised to discover their low-seeded Vandals tied with the conference champion Oregon Ducks in rushing averages. They added up 4.5 yards per carry. Then we might mention their lead in PCC punting. Johnnie Brogan, Bob Mays and John Christenson went together to pile up an average of 40.8 yards for 51 boots.

Diehl Top Ball Carrier

In netting 9.3 yards per carry, Vandal halfback, Jerry Diehl, topped Coast Conference ball carriers.

Dixie Howell's gridgers face an even greater test next year. This season's sophomores will need all the savvy they've acquired. They are slated to meet a consistently terrific Texas Longhorn team. A rejuvenated Stanford eleven has also been added to the fun.

Below is listed one of the toughest schedules in the University of Idaho's football history:

12-OSC	27
6-Utah	21
12-UCLA	28
8-Oregon	15

Track Team Meet Set For Saturday

This week will mark the first time that Vandal track men will be on Idaho cinders this year. Reconstruction of the track is almost finished, stated Coach Hiserman, and all weak spots have been filled in and leveled off with new cinders.

Along with completion of the track's reconstruction, Coach Hiserman has scheduled the first inter-squad meet for Saturday afternoon, April 9. The main purpose of the meet is to give the squad some competition and to determine who the outstanding members are on the team.

CHECKS BOUNCED

Campus Chest finances at the University of Washington seemed to be in an "awful mess," Chuck Wilson said, when a check from Panhellenic of $2000 bounced, and several other checks were returned.
