Serenade Tonight Begins Lavish Holly Week Celebration

The discrimination issue which was recently the center of hot debate at the National Interfraternity Council meeting in Washington D. C. has set off considerable discussion across the nation.

It seems that the old story of, "I can handle your business better than you," is the case here.

Does this mean that everything is solved? Persons with a little insight can see that it does not.

Few people feel this is any business of theirs. Still they think that they must create a fuss which has had repercussions across the nation.

Jason was indeed gratified to read a recent editorial in the Salt Lake City Tribune which he is certain deserves much praise for hitting squarely an oft forgotten phase of the issue.

The following is the text of the article: "The painful question of discrimination was hotly debated at a recent meeting of the National Interfraternity conference in Washington, D. C.

Without defending college fraternities and their contribution to social barriers on the campus, it should be admitted that they generally are made up of young people with similar interests and backgrounds.

"Persons seeking a better deal for the minorities, however, should concentrate their efforts to get them equality in employment opportunity and in service in restaurants, hotels, theaters and other public places.

Ski Club Plans Activities With Snow Day Coming Soon

Sleigh rides, moonlight skiing, ski movies and weekend ski trips are planned on the activity schedule of the newly organized Ski Club, according to Howard Rue, president.

With a rapidly increasing membership, the Ski club has begun its program for the year. The club, backed by IK's and "I" Club, is planning "Snow Day" which will be held weather permitting sometime in mid-winter.

Dances, night ski parties, cross-country and overnight ski trips are all being planned. These cross-country trips will be to Elk Basin, back of Amida and Mica mountain.

The club is working in close cooperation with the Ski School where skiing is taught. Supplementing the ski school's work is a first aid class for skiers sponsored by the club.

Outstanding among the club members are Don Carroll and Bob Ducan, collegiate members of the National Ski Patrol. Club officers are Howard Rue, president; Fred Boyle, vice-president; Betty Biker, secretary; and Dorothy Galen treasurer.

Singer Draws Praise Of Audience During Community Concert Program

The singing voice of Christopher Lynch, noted Irish tenor, captivated his audience last night in Memorial gym. Lynch presented Moscow's second Community Concert for the 1949-50 season.

In 1946 Lynch staged his first debut over NBC's "Voice of Firestone." Before that time Columbia Concerts had signed a long-term contract with Lynch.

While studying with Dr. O'Brien, Lynch came to know the famous John McCormack. From that time until his death, McCormack was Lynch's friend and critic, providing his protegee much of his own vast human and musical experience.

Lynch's program as heard last night follows: Part I: "Sei mia gioia, from 'Parthenope' (Be Thou My Joy) and 'Alma mia' from 'Florante' (My Dearest) by Handel; a group of three Irish songs arranged by Beethoven, and 'Then You'll Remember Me' from Balfe's 'The Bohemian Girl.'

German and Italian were included in Part II. "Du bist wie eine Blume" by Robert Schumann, Tosti's "Marechiaro," "Ninna Nanna" by Theodore Gargiulo and "La Danza" (Tarentella Napoletana) by Rossini.

Part III was composed of four Irish folk songs. "Oft in the Sully Night," arranged by Moore, "Kitty, My Love" arranged by Hughes, "My Lager Love" arranged by Hart and "The Palatine's Daughter," arranged by Hughes.

Part IV was made up of "Flirtation Waltz" by Helmund-Bossart, "Sing a Song of Sixpence" and "Blow Me Eyes" both by Hay Malotte.

Xmas Card Sale By Attic Club Starts Today

Atticards, original Christmas cards made by the Attic Club, are now on display in the Art building and orders are being accepted. Some cards are being made up in advance of sales, and others will be delivered this week.

Designed and made by members of the Attic club, these cards cost about the same as those made by commercial publishing companies. With an order of $2.50 or more, the purchaser may have his name engraved on the cards at no extra cost.

Making these cards revives an Attic club custom which was carried out last year. The profits from the sale are put into a fund from which contemporary furniture is purchased and donated annually to the university.

Different types of cards are available and include dry point, silk screen, wood and linoleum, blocks, and water colors.

Committee members in charge of printing names are Marge Thompson and Lois Siebe. Jim Marshall is in charge of sales, and Norman Tilley receipts. Ed Neal and Jack Guillou are in charge of material procurement.

Orders for these Christmas cards may be placed with individual house representatives, or at the Art building in person or by calling number 8356.

Delegates Return From N. S. A. Meet

Bill Gates, University of Washington, was elected NSA president at the regional conference held last weekend at the University of Washington.

Glen Nygreen, executive director of student affairs at the University of Washington, spoke on "The Role of the Student in the Educational Community" at the conference attended by nearly 100 students from 18 schools in the northwest.

Besides specific work of the conference which included the study of student governments, student activities, and student union buildings, the delegates drafted a new constitution for the region.

Leaving Boise December 9, the four university men will attend the annual meeting of representatives of ten schools in the Pacific Coast Conference at Carmel, Calif.

Horse And Colt To Hawaii, Red Tape Hampers Trip

What is train fare for horses from here to Portland? How much to send a mare and a colt from Portland to Hawaii by boat? Can horses ride in airplanes? Frank Kinnison, junior agriculture student, knows the answers to these and many other questions concerning transportation of horses.

Frank is sending a mare and a colt to his sister, Frances, who lives in Lanai, Hawaii. These horses are Appaloosa, a breed which has been developed from the older Indian ponies of this area.

According to Frank, the trip to Portland will cost about $150, and the boat ride to Hawaii about $125 not to mention the red tape he had to deal with in preparation for transportation.

Remember December 7th

December 7, 1941. Just eight years ago tomorrow the Japanese pulled a sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, and dealt this nation a blow that if followed up by another attack might have meant the end of the United States as we know it.

None of us will forget that day and the long years that followed, war and our quest for a lasting peace, a quest far from realized even though the great conflict is "over". Tomorrow won't be a holiday. Holidays are set because of a great happening such as the birth of a great man or the end of a war—but not the beginning. It may sometime be declared a holiday in the sense that Memorial day is one, but even that is doubtful. No war in history has marked its beginning as more than a date, one of many, in the history books.

December 7, 1949, means more than just a date to us, however. It is a day always to remember, not in sentimental reminiscence but as a warning for the future. There'll be no future Pearl Harbor. Nothing of consequence militarily speaking remains on our island possession. But with new developments in weapons, atomic energy, long range aircraft, and guided missiles, any spot in the world is vulnerable to attack from any other spot. No nation is safe if another has the means and desire to take action in enmity.

Singularly we must think of this when we remember the eighth anniversary of Pearl Harbor tomorrow. We must resolve never to be caught unprepared again.

Trials And Tribulations Of An Argonaut Writer

By JOE HOTROD
 I haven't any pressing duties for a day or two, so will take a little time to give my many readers a short autobiographical sketch.

After the excitement and novelty died down at the beginning of the year, I began to tire of routine classes, beer, study; classes, beer, study; classes.

So looking for some extraordinary extracurricular activity worthy of my endeavors and participation, I gave the campus an objective scrutiny to determine where my talents might best be utilized for maximum benefit to my fellow students.

Idaho offers no outlet for my abilities in the more refined fields of entertainment id est ballet or opera — I wouldn't want to sing opera anyway, because it runs in the family. Athletics are a waste of time and beneath my dignity. Idaho women are a low-brow lot who could not appreciate my artistic love-making techniques. I discovered, first hand, the difficulties of an intellectual when he tries to serve the lay or middle classes. And I didn't want to lower myself into campus politics. Maybe I should have stayed in the Army.

Then I was attracted by a notice in the Argonaut asking for new additions to the staff. I read the paper over, and knew I could write a better one.

Surely this was my great opportunity! I had never before done any writing, but that added the spice of challenge. I would conquer this field as I had conquered every other.

With visions as to how I was going to rescue the poor Argonaut from its anemic illness, I trotted down to the Arg office and told the news editor on duty, that I would take a job on the rewrite staff. She appeared to be pleased, and said that they needed more good writers.

So I went to work — rewriting news stories. Must have done a damn good job, too, because she had me rewrite every story six or seven times.

The next time press day rolled around, I guess she decided I shouldn't waste my time rewriting news stories, because she told me to write some feature stories. I must have really impressed her then because the next time she had me working on some editorials.

Apparently they were profoundly impressed with my journalistic genius and were breaking me in for the editor's job. I was assigned to a reporter's beat. They certainly were thorough. They wanted me to have insight into every aspect of the paper's functions so that I would be able to direct my staff with alacrity and efficiency after I took over the editor's chair.

When I reported for duty the next time, I was surprised to find that I was again assigned to a reporter's job. I was still more surprised when I found that my beat was a dead beat—there were no available stories on it. I was completely perplexed.

Then I figured out the reason: I had completed my training, and am now just waiting while the administrative details are being accomplished which will make me the editor. They didn't want to waste any more of my time doing simple jobs like reporting.

Cheers For The Loser

The crowd cheered and at other times strongly disagreed with the referees but the heart-warming cheers were really captured by a young man—Scott by name—in the preliminary basketball game Saturday evening.

Scott, number 3 on the Newport squad, gave the fresh squad a rough time during the entire second half.

He was one of few hard-playing basketball players on the court during that game. He virtually covered the floor, intercepting passes and taking the ball away from a team that seemed to be at times a little cocky.

Every time Scotty pulled a fast one on the Idaho yearling squad, the crowd showed enthusiasm and cheered him on. This was probably the impetus he needed to keep going at such an aggressive pace.

He exhibited to the crowd many times that his team might not win the game, but still they were going to fight to the end. This display of spirit won the heart of every spectator.

The old sentiment of the American people rooting for the underdog in a contest was brought out quite plainly at this game.

With the spirit shown by this team of aggressive basketballers, we hope that they find a successful season. Good luck!

New Ways To Get Money Studied By Fraternity

Some guys will do anything for money. As a saying that's trite, but as a statement it's absolutely and irrevocably true. Sociologists may say they cannot predict with complete accuracy the behavior of the human animal. They're right, and it applies here—all we can say for sure is some guys will do anything for money.

It isn't a big thing, in a way, since lack of sanity is relatively common among college students; but there is a limit to everything, and this thing is getting out of hand.

For example there is the Theta Xi house on the Michigan State campus. These guys have it figured out that they need a fraternity house, and before that, money to buy a fraternity house. So they are "offering themselves for hire for any service, duty, or task you may see fit to assign."

Theta Xi's have said that "no task, no matter how large or how small, will be refused." They will also "escort women to beer busts, dances, movies, house parties, or merely take them for a walk."

The only trouble is, they have limited the sale. That is, Theta Xi's are for hire only between the hours of 12:30 p. m. and 12:30 a. m. Dec. 3 and after 12:30 a. m. they must be given back.

Of course there is a scale of prices. "This is strictly a business proposition," maintain the Theta Xi's, "all assignments will be carried out in full."

Rate for a man serving as a date will be a flat $2 per date—plus expenses.

Some sport coats are made of banana fiber. They must be easy to slip on and peel off.

Flunk Insurance

An answer to student worries is being advanced by Alpha Phi Gamma, journalistic fraternity, San Francisco State College, as they sponsor Flunk Insurance. All students on the campus are eligible, even the "brains." The higher a student's scholarship, the lower the risk and the premium.

For example, an average student pays fifty cents for coverage on a particular course. If he flunks, he gets a dollar instead of a mere dressing down by the dean. Under the plan, dividends, if and when they come in, will go for a high school journalism scholarship.

Pocket Stoves What's Next?

People can now reach in their pockets and pull out — a stove! A miniature stove about the size of a cigarette lighter has been put on the market. It's designed to thaw out frosty hands or feet when one comes in from the cold. The stove burns benzene or white gasoline, but there's no flame, just a faint glow. With perforated cover in place, it can be carried in the pocket, held in the hand or used instead of a hot water bottle.

One filling keeps the stove burning from 24 to 36 hours depending on fuel used. Manufacturers say the stove won't burn bedding or clothing.

GET MARRIED GALS

Grab your man girls, then you can drive. Unmarried women students are not permitted to ride in automobiles while attending Bowling Green State university this year. Men are also restricted in the use of cars. To operate an automobile, men students must establish a just need for it, secure a permit for its operation, and have approved insurance.

Thirsty Elevens To Battle In Oregon Beer Bowl Game

(Ed. Note: The following item appeared in the Oregon State Daily Emerald.)

Four kegs of beer will be the take of the winners of the two thirstiest elevens in the country, the Chi Psis and Phi Psis, in the 16th annual playing of the Beer Bowl game at 1:30 Saturday on the intramural field at Oregon University.

30 Kegs
Of 15 games played to date, the Psis (sighs) have collected nine victories and 36 kegs to, five and 20 for the opposition.

After breezing to the intramural touch football championship, the Blue-and-Gold brigade will be heavily favored to win the annual tackle orgy again this year.

Training "Rough"
Reports from Chi Psi training camp headquarters have it that a devastating new passing attack has been cooked up especially for the 11th Avenue Boozer Boys.

Choo-Choo Charlie Rufner, Chi Psi grid boss, has kept mum about his team's chances for victory, but Lodge fans are anything but pessimistic as to the outcome of Saturday's "Battle for Brew."

Phi Psi coaching staff reports the Big Red squad is in only fair shape after a rugged schedule of beer-busts and parties.

Time Out Comments
While passing the crying towel around, the Big Red head men all voiced the opinion that they couldn't possibly stop the Chi Psis' dazzling aerial attack and just hoped the score wouldn't be too big against them.

Line coach "Tiny" Tim Preston commented, "Even if'n we don't whup 'em, dem bums 'ull know dey wuz in a game." Coach "Tearjerker" Thalbofer just sat in the corner and moaned.

Ball Date Is Set For February 17

The Inter-Fraternity Council has set February 17 as the date for the inter-Fraternity ball. Friday night was selected because of a conflict with the basketball game on Saturday. It has been agreed that no fraternity shall sponsor any house functions on that date.

The degree of formality for the Ball is still under consideration.

Geisler And Irons Make Their Bids In Gonzaga And EWCE Games

World War II veterans with service-incurred disabilities are reminded by the Veterans Administration of an important G. I. insurance privilege which will expire the first of the year.

Until December 31, disabilities actually incurred in line of duty between October 8, 1940, and September 2, 1945, if less than total in degree, will be disregarded by the VA in determining if a veteran is eligible under the health requirements for National Service Life Insurance. Applications must be filed before January 1, 1950.

Vandal Portraits

By Stan Riggers

Mr. Bob "Swish" Wheeler is the towering topic for this week's Vandal portrait. Why the swish? That's all you can hear around the gym when he's in the center spot looping hook shots through the bucket. Incidentally Bob has kept the net warm during the past three games, having scored 35 points. currently he is high point man on the team.

A native of Idaho, the hoopster played high school ball for American Falls. His six foot plus frame was a big help to his team during his junior year in prep school. At that time American Falls went all the way to win the State Class A basketball crown.

The blond, 20 year Vandal let-terman plans to graduate in '51 with a degree in Business.

Bob has no special hobby other than keeping up with latest basketball dope around the nation and seeing who is doing what on other college teams.

Inter-Squad Swim Winners Listed

Ken Lyon's team splashed its way to a 44 to 35 victory over Jim Farmer's squad, in the inter-squad swimming meet last Thursday afternoon. Despite the injury of Wartena, 300 yard free style specialist, Farmer's team was in the race until the final event.

Coach Kirkland was pleased with results though there were no records broken. A similar meet will be scheduled within the next two weeks to note progress being made by the team.

Individual team winners were Ed Fiester in the 50 yard free style; Kinney, 100 yard free style; Lyons, 100 yard backstroke; Medley, 100 yard breaststroke; Miller, 300 yard free style; and Lyons and Fiester in the 75 yard Individual Medley.

With three games behind them the Idaho Vandals squared away today for the second week of basketball season. Three contests at home opened the season; the Vandals defeated Eastern Washington 60-39 and Portland University 60-38, but lost to Gonzaga, 54-48. This Thursday the Idaho squad will fly to Boise to meet perennial AAU and national champions, the Phillips Oilers. This game should provide a rough test for Coach Chuck Finley's team.

The Vandals fly home Friday morning to prepare for a Moscow invasion Saturday night by Seattle University's quintet, rated as one of the top independent teams in the Pacific Northwest. This will be Idaho's final home game of the pre-conference season and last chance for Vandal fans to see the club in action until it plays Oregon State in Moscow January 23 and 24.

Statistics

A re-check of figures for the first three games shows the Idaho squad hitting the basket at a .314 clip with 207 tries from the field going through the hoop for 65 baskets. Percentage from the free throw line has improved as well with 32 tosses good in 68 chances for a .633 average.

Last year Idaho finished 14th in the nation as a defensive club, winding up by allowing their 32 opponents an average of 46.2 points while averaging 56 points themselves.

In the individual list the surprising accuracy of Bob Wheeler, reserve center, has been a factor in the Vandal victory column. Wheeler has tried 32 times from the floor, connecting 16 times for a .500 average. His three successful free throws in five tries has given him a point total of 35 for three contests. Nick Stallworth, starting center, has second highest point total with 12 baskets in 38 tries, plus three gift tosses in seven chances for 27 points.

Jenkins Ranks High

Next to Wheeler in accuracy, and fourth in scoring is Sam Jenkins, sensational sophomore guard. Jenkins has tossed at the hoop 23 times, connected for eight, and dropped in three of his four free throws for 19 points. His accuracy from the floor gives him a .347 average. Bob Pritchett, forward, and last year's scoring leader, is third in standing with 23 points.

Joe Grove, senior guard, has the best average from the free throw line. He has been successful on six of his seven attempts for an average of .857.

Coach Finley said he would probably take the full squad of 15 players on the Boise trip.

Babes Break Even In Weekend Games

Coach Steve Belko's Idaho freshman basketball team split 50-50 in its two game preliminary series last week.

Friday evening the Vandal Babes dropped a close 26-27 game to the Gonzaga frosh in a slow, ragged contest. Vandal Babe Krueger drew high point honors for the evening with 15. Mihalovich was high point man for the Gonzaga Pups.

Saturday night the Vandal frosh toyed with Lefty Auer's Newport high school cagers and registered a 52-24 score over the Washington school.

Correction

Through an oversight in last Friday's Argonaut, Luella Setton was left off the list of women winning positions on the university Women's rifle team.

Time Out

By COSTELLO

Scene: Memorial Gymnasium. Time: 4:30 p.m. Monday.

Situation: Basketball practice is in full swing. The varsity is trying its plays on a frosh defensive team. Everyone is perspiring, working hard. An occasional four letter word floats over the scene. Unknown to the players a pretty orange moving van has backed up to the steps in front of the building. The driver recruits a couple of dozen huskies and gently unveils the load. A huge velvet covered monster is conveyed, not carried but conveyed past basketball practice and silently placed on a small stage at the gym's end.

Oh! Hevvin's

Off comes the padding and, behold, it turns out to be the most beautiful piano in the whole world. A gasp goes up from the crowd. The escort disperses and this beautiful creature is left to sneer in its own wooden way at the basketball players. Soon most observers have gathered their senses again and are watching ball practice.

Then in comes a magnificent creature. He is attired in a fantastically well tailored tan, camel's hair coat, light colored gloves and a suit that marks him as a world traveller, connoisseur of all that it claws. Three paces behind him come his "people," two men in slouch hats, obviously there to fulfill his every wish. The gentlemen mount the stage, peel off their gloves in the manner of Franchot Tone, and greet the piano enthusiastically. Apparently they had met it before. One of the "people" sits down at the keyboard, massages his fingers for a moment, then becomes lost in a world of music. For ten minutes he forgets the pandemonium caused by the athletes. The tune is enchanting. His master and the other "man" stand by chatting with each other's sneers. When the concerto stops, they pull gloves back on and file out again as quietly as they had arrived.

Celebrity

Everyone whispers that the impressive man was the famous young Irish tenor who is giving a concert for the local folks. More four letter words are heard; basketball practice is getting wilder. Now alone the black shining piano still scowls at these vulgar activities. Suddenly plummeting from high in the air, a basketball rockets downward and bounces off the keyboard.

End of scene.

More than 40 high school students and teachers from all sections of the state registered for the third annual journalism conference of the Idaho High School Press association held at the University of Idaho during the summer.
