The GOLDEN FLEECE by Jason

In plain unmistakable words Governor Len Jordan laid down a bold set of policies and plans before the Idaho legislature in their opening session in Boise Monday.

Most interesting to us among these was the plan to combine Northern Idaho college of education at Lewiston with the University of Idaho.

Won't Give It Up
The plan has caused a large furor in Lewiston where the folks have indicated they will not give up NICE without a terrific fight. While the University of Idaho might tend to gain some by such a proposal, Administration and students both are remaining strictly neutral. The idea did not originate here and we prefer to leave the matter to the legislature and the college of education.

Toot! Toot!
We don't often toot our own horn so to speak, perhaps it is because we don't often get the chance, but that is just exactly what we intend to do now.

Previous to both Thanksgiving and Christmas vacations we printed editorials, voicing what we believed to be the student's viewpoint in criticism of said vacations. We thought Thanksgiving vacation of one day was too short. We thought that Christmas vacation should not have started and ended in the middle of the week, especially on a Thursday so that students were forced to return almost a week early for two days school.

Extend Appreciation
University officials took cognizance of these opinions and for next year we have: 1—a four-and-a-half day Thanksgiving, 2—Sixteen days of Christmas holidays.

We wish to extend the students' appreciation to the administration for their cooperation.
We're all happy now!
Blood And — More Blood
"What, not again?" was our first reaction, and will probably be yours too. But another blood drive has been approved by the Executive Board and will come off some time in March according to present plan. In the last drive the University received nationwide recognition for its success. We still hold some sort of a record. Blood is needed even worse now than when the first drive was conducted however—thus another collection. This one will be held in competition to the Latah County Red Cross drive at about the same time.

Men Need It
We think we can cut-out them. (Not alone however.)

One might ask: "Will these blood collections ever end?" We don't think so as long as our men are losing it so fastly in Korea. One bright note has been injected however with the recent announcement that a blood plasma has been developed synthetically, using no animal resources. We hope so, or we'll soon even lose that lustre to our eyes.

Watch For Cartoon
Our mailbox continues to bulge with letters concerning the men and women at the university. We thought the whole thing would die down during the vacations, but the women have taken the initiative now, and it is still a red hot issue. Part of the literature has been childish we know, but some of it has been educational, and all very interesting.

Watch for a cartoon in the next Argonaut for a possible answer to all this malarky—which started just because Jason, in print, called the University of Idaho women the most beautiful in the Pacific Northwest.

Pan-Hellenic Tea Will Begin Rush

Norma Whitsell, president of the Pan-Hellenic Council, announced today that semester rush will begin January 28, with the Pan-Hellenic tea. Sororities will have parties on January 29 and 30, and pledging will take place on January 31.

Fitzgerald Named Orientation Head By AWS Council

Elizabeth Fitzgerald was appointed Orientation chairman by AWS council yesterday. This year the constitution has been revised and the council appointed the chairman instead of the voting procedure used in past years.

The treasurer's report was given by Barbara Swanson.

Form Bowling Club
Ski pants may be worn to classes whenever the individual thinks they are necessary. Levis are not to be worn to any classes.

Blanche Erickson, WRA representative, reported on a newly formed Bowling club. This organization will meet for the first time on Monday, February 5. Thereafter the club will meet every Monday and Tuesday from 4 to 5 p.m. After two weeks of practice, two teams will be chosen, and a tournament will be organized. Anyone is eligible for membership.

Campus To Issue Parking Permits

New permits for parking privileges on the campus will be issued by the office of the Dean of Men beginning January 13.

Those eligible for permits are full-time employees, part-time employees who are teaching at least half-time, and disabled students.

New Numbers Issued
After January 22, the rectangular Ad. building permits and round decals bearing numbers below 500 will not be honored. Round decals numbered above 499 will be the only type of permit used and honored in any of the restricted parking areas.

ASUI Cast Chosen For Drama Play

Idaho's next dramatic production "The Madwoman of Chaillot," a fantasy by Jean Giraudoux, adapted by Maurice Valency, will be presented March 2 and 3 under the direction of Miss Jean Collette.

Students Thanked For Help By Clay

In a typewritten, personally signed letter to President J. E. Buchanan, General Lucias D. Clay, head of the Crusade for Freedom, thanked students and faculty of the University of Idaho for their part in making their recent drive a success.

"The enthusiastic response and whole hearted support given to the Crusade for Freedom by students and faculty—was one of the most heart-warming experiences of the campaign. . . . No group rallied to the cause with more fervor than did the college men and women," writes Clay.

Dates Announced For Bridge Meet

Dates selected for the annual national bridge tournament have been announced as February 4, 11, and 18, from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

Students wishing to enter the annual national contest should register in the Graduate Manager's office before February 1. Students may register for the tournament, designating a partner, or may enter singly and be matched with a partner.

Helen Means, chairman of the tournament, stated that all competition would be held in the south ballroom of the Student Union building.

Brothers Military Careers Cross Again At University

Rex Blewett, E. A. Blewett

Seven years ago, as a captain at Fort Benning, Ga., E. A. Blewett, 1939 Idaho graduate, pinned second lieutenant bars on his brother, Rex, 1943 university graduate.

This week at the university, Rex Blewett, now a captain, returned the favor by pinning the silver maple leaves of a lieutenant colonel on his brother's shoulder. Both are assistant professors of military science and tactics in the Idaho Army ROTC program. They were graduated as honor military students before serving in World War II.

Military careers of the Blewett brothers, originally from Kendrick, have crossed three times. First at Fort Benning, where Colonel Blewett was an instructor when his brother arrived as a student. Then in 1946 at Fort Douglas, Utah, the colonel was working at the separation center when his brother returned from a tour of duty in Germany.

Orchestra To Perform On Sunday

Carl Claus, symphony orchestra conductor, will raise his baton at 4 p.m. Sunday to begin the first concert of this school year by the University symphony orchestra in the auditorium.

Shirley Fowler, soprano, will be featured soloist for the afternoon. Selections to be presented by Miss Fowler are "With Verdure Clad" from Haydn's "The Creation," and an aria from Gounod's opera "Romeo and Juliet." These are Parts II and IV of the program.

Forty-eight orchestra members are performing in this annual winter concert. The public is invited to attend.

Officials Lengthen Vacation Period

Vacations during the 1951-1952 school year have been lengthened by the university administration, it was announced today. The new Idaho calendar calls for a four-and-a-half day Thanksgiving vacation and sixteen days of Christmas holidays.

In previous years, only one day has been allowed for Thanksgiving. Because students driving home have complained of the difficulty in reaching their destinations during daylight hours, administrators have provided that classes will be dismissed on the Wednesday noon preceding Thanksgiving next year.

The sixteen day Christmas vacation will begin on a week-end, starting December 21 (Friday) and continuing to January 7, 1952.

Buchanan Attends Washington Panel

President J. E. Buchanan is now attending the ROTC advisory panel of the civilian components policy board in Washington, D. C. Problems concerning ROTC students are under discussion and policies affecting them will be formed during the meeting.

Before returning to the campus, President Buchanan will attend a Board of Regents meeting in Boise.

Religious Emphasis Week Schedules Known Speakers

Speakers scheduled during the annual Religious Emphasis Week February 25-28 will include: Dr. Lewis Corlett, President, Northwest Nazarene college, Nampa; Rev. Thomas Hunter, Presbyterian, University Pastor, University of Oregon, Eugene, Oregon; and Dr. Forrest W. Wertz, Methodist, Twin Falls.

Wicks, Carter Tour Idaho High Schools

A ten day good-will trip of Idaho high schools began Tuesday for Dean Youise Carter and Guy Wicks, University Field Agent. Scheduled to appear before seniors of fourteen high schools, the speakers will stress the importance of a college education today.

Travel itinerary for the speakers will include high schools in Idaho Falls, Pocatello, Rupert, Burley, Twin Falls, Filer, Jerome, and Gooding.

Other towns in which the representatives will speak are Glenns Ferry, Mountain Home, Nampa, Caldwell, and Boise.

Before returning to the campus, Wicks will attend a Boise meeting of Idaho alumni.

A large audience witnessed the Virginia City Players' production of "Miriam's Crime or Innocent Sin" last night at 8 o'clock in the auditorium. The 19th century melodrama was brought to the campus as a part of the university public events program.

KUOI Party

The party for KUOI personnel will be at Ridenbaugh hall tonight following the basketball game. Come just as you are from the game.

Executive Board Plans Book Sale

A plan has been developed and upon approval by the University president will be put into effect at the end of this semester, whereby students can buy and sell books at an exchange.

The executive board devised the method, and the Intercollegiate Knights service honorary has volunteered to run the exchange. Sometime during finals week, the JKs will set up in the SUB and take books from students, who will mark the price they want the book sold for in the book. They will give the owner a number receipt for the book, and if someone wants to pay the owner's price, they will sell the book to that person. Books will go on sale during registration week.

Date To Be Announced
The money realized from book sales will be returned to book-owners about a week later, or if the book was not sold it will be returned to him. Further dates for book-receiving and selling will be announced at a later date.

Whitehead To Speak At Cancer Society

Dr. A. E. Whitehead will address the Idaho members of the American Cancer Society which opened its annual convention in Moscow this morning. The topic of Dr. Whitehead's speech is "Working With People."

An estimated 150 persons are expected to attend the two-day session. All meetings are being held in the Moscow Hotel.

Pre-Med 'Tickets' Received By Some

Several University of Idaho pre-medical students received their literal "ticket to success" recently as letters of acceptance arrived to place them in medical schools around the country.

Ed Clizer was accepted at Washington University in St. Louis. Dave Samson will enroll at Columbia University in Morning Heights, New York.

Others Admitted
Bruce Powell was offered a registration number at Temple University at Philadelphia.

Warren Sutton will register at Northwestern University in Chicago next fall. William Chetwood will start his dental career next fall at the University of Oregon in Portland.

This was Idaho's first opportunity to see the Virginia City Players. The main objective of the group is to recreate the days in the early history of Montana when Virginia City was its capitol. The show is based on the original production of "Miriam's Crime" which gained popularity in Montana during 1868 and 1869.

Recently Started
The troupe was organized in 1948 when Larry and Dori Barness, seasoned actors, and Jack Barness, a writer, selected Virginia City as the scene of their ghost town story. The actors became interested in the project of reviving the one-time boom town through the influence of Charles Bovey, Montana state senator.

Bovey lacked the acting troupe and the playhouse to complete the reproduction of nineteenth century social life. The Barnesses stayed in the community and became known as the Virginia City Players.

Conduct School
During the summer the troupe presents the melodrama as it was originally presented during the city's prime. In the winter months, they conduct a school in 19th century melodrama in connection with Montana State university. A tour of neighboring states is also included in their schedule.

Air Force Team Visits University To Interview Men

Juniors and seniors interested in officer opportunities in the U.S. Air Force will have a chance to find out all the answers next week right here on the campus. A United States Air Force Aviation Cadet Selection Team will be here from Wednesday February 7 to Friday February 9.

According to Capt. Bob Wilson, who is making arrangements for the team, this visit is one of many to accredited college campuses this year by U. S. Air Force officers to provide college graduates with information on Air Force officer training. The Selection Team will be ready not only to answer all questions but also is equipped to process any Idaho men who qualify.

Draft deferments of four months duration will be granted to Aviation Cadet applicants accepted by the team.

Capt. Wilson stated that three courses of training are being offered to qualified men.

Maps And Pictures Have Disappeared

Maps and pictures which once hung in University classrooms have disappeared from the eyes of the students.

In order to remove distracting influences from classrooms, the maps and pictures which formerly covered many walls, have been put away—to appear later.

Regulars

Three honor students in the University of Idaho ROTC program receive commissions in the regular army at university commencement exercises in June. Talking over their future with Colonel Charles F. Hudson, professor of military science and tactics at the university, are (left to right) Roy S. Hooper, and William W. Gray. John R. Black is not pictured. All three are members of Sigma Nu fraternity at the university.

Dear Jason

Dear Jason:

I never thought of writing to comment on current, "battle of the sexes" before, but today, after reading HENRIETTA'S letter and the one written by the other three girls, I believe a comment is in order.

I came to college primarily to learn something I could do in case I found myself in later life in a situation such as having to support my children without a husband's help. Also, I'll admit I came to college figuring—"If men, better equipped to face the future than the ones at home are to be found, college will be the place to meet them." I will, as many other girls would, state that I haven't been disappointed in either aspect.

There are some girls however, that must be misinformed and these girls promote an attitude on the campus that only detracts from college life—in fact, from life anywhere. This attitude is aptly expressed in the two recent letters mentioned above by such comments as, (referring to the boys wanting a kiss on a date)

"More than one has been turned down, and some never come back again, which is fine. Many have to be kept on being told 'no' for a darn long time before it dawns on them that we don't want a big necking party. We just don't appreciate the men who insist on trying to lower our moral standards—men who think they can get whatever they want just because they think they are the hub of the wheel revolving around them."

Either these girls who wrote this are overlooking a fact in human nature that is as evident as the nose on their face or they are approaching the matter of dating with the outlook of a 5th grader.

It out to be evident to any young miss, college level or above, that sex is the NUMBER ONE interest or driving force in a young man's life. Girls, look about you, nothing is more evident—the men have pictures of scantily-clad females in their places of business, indeed, most of the manufacturers of men's goods use this device to attract attention to their advertisements. The men's risqué jokes. Love is bought and sold by men throughout the world, this practice being as old as the world itself. It is almost always the man who is the aggressor in any intimate relation between man and woman. Mama should have explained these things to her girl by now. Still, girls like M.R., K.L., and M.E., seem to think that they can go on a date wearing their nicest sweater, fragrant with their most enticing perfume, looking heavenly (as they themselves think) in the moonlight coming back from the movies and not arouse the poor fellows instincts enough to want to kiss them. My golly, girls, if you fail to do that you're a failure as a female.

Most girls that have the problem of the boys wanting to neck all the time are themselves to blame. Elsa Maxwell said, in one of her recent articles, "that it is up to the girl to enhance her conversation, and in general her personality to the point where she can still be entertaining to a boy without having to engage in love-making to do so." Girls that can do this are the ones that fail to keep the boys mind off of his main drive and have to resort to necking to keep their date in good humor.

The girls, in a situation such that exists in the university, where the males outnumber the females certainly can not engage in passionate diversions with every date. Some popular girls may be going out with as many as five different boys. 98 per cent of the boys will admit that that would be morally unethical, but a good night kiss—that is certainly much different. Think of what the fellows feelings could be in this case. The fellows have the advantage of being able to select whoever they feel like to ask out. In many cases the boy knows much more about the girl on the first date than the girl does about him. He could have admired her from afar for quite a long time before he either chose to ask her out or could get up enough courage to do so. As a result of this he may feel he almost knows her before he calls on her for the date. If the girl's personality clicks with him on the first date it only proves what he has probably been thinking all along—that she's a darn good person. What is more logical than for him to want to kiss her good-night? A goodnight kiss from most fellows means "Thanks for an en-haven't developed socially so they joyable evening, I hope it isn't the last one with you." The fellows who are insincere can always be quickly spotted after two or three dates and can be given the "bums rush" so to speak. The ones who are sincere, however, when turned down are apt to be really hurt and thereby many girls lose many admirers that would be wonderful guys to know.

The girls that think every boy is out to lower her morals with a couple of kisses should have their ego batted down and GROW UP. Yours very sincerely, MARELYN.

Attention of the student body is called to an unfortunate act of vandalism perpetrated by certain men living in Pine Hall. These men cut down a large fir tree which had been growing on the campus and used it as a Christmas tree. Such acts discredit the student body and are not in keeping with the spirit of Christmas.

Academic Council

What are we, a bunch of little kids attending the University of Idaho on a high school level? Can we not find some thing more constructive to help the ASUI in these times of national grievances than to squabble over the question of which sex is the fairer, who should marry whom, and why one sex is more conceited than the other? The men at the present time fighting under conditions of cold, hunger, and perhaps loss of limb in Korea would gladly accept the conditions which exist here at the University. The ladies here on the campus should be able to visualize what the future may bring and prepare themselves for those emergencies which must be confronted. Some of these ladies now understand what really exists from the loss of brothers, friends, and sweethearts, and before the circumstance encircles everyone, be prepared so that you will not have unhappy memories of "WHAT YOU COULD HAVE DONE."

PICKLES TO MARY LEE GRAHAM

It is easy to criticize anyone who has taken some form of action, however, Mary, can't you see that you used very poor judgment stirring up the subject of what each sex thinks of the other? Surely, you can realize the current situation and couldn't you of thought of something more constructive and beneficial which every student could realize some form of information from? This controversy subject has taken up space in the Arg. for over two months. You have filled an assignment of a reporter, you have personal satisfaction from your achievement, but I do not term such an action as a masterpiece of journalism. You have simply renewed an old, touchy argument. Can you not think of any thing more profitable to the students than this rit-wash ??? A couple of ideas, to start the

City To Give Postmaster Exam

An open competitive examination to fill the position of postmaster in this city, has been announced by the U. S. Civil Service Commission.

Engineers Appointed

Two University graduates, Carlyle Brown and Ladd Sutton, have been appointed junior engineers in the Bonneville power administration, according to John Richardson, personal director of the organization.

A student with a headache consulted his married friend for relief suggestions. "Well," the friend said, "When I had a headache yesterday, my wife kissed me for half an hour and it went away." "Good idea," said the sufferer. "Where's your wife now?"

Chairs are very ancient, but until the 16th century they were used as emblems of official splendor rather than for common utility.

A proposal to the Executive Board is to erect a stop sign at the intersections of Elm and Idaho. Through the graces of God it has been a wonder that some serious mishap, to some unfortunate student, has not occurred YET. During the noon hour one may stand on the corner of Elm and observe cars speeding, both directions, through students, without any regard of the chances which are present of crippling some individual for life.

On the campus, we have a project called, "Student Recruiting Program." The majority of students have heard of this, yet, the results were very low for the over-all average of students attending the University. We have heard, read, and should understand what possibly the next year will bring in enrollment. Couldn't more students get behind this project and really push this and make it a major program to help our school through the coming years?

Let us be less selfish and possess more concern of our future, our University, and spend our time more profitably.

Truly,
Kenny West

Should We Draft Women?

An interesting sidelight has developed in view of the present federal administration's plan to keep in school those male students staying in the upper one-half of their class. This institute being coeducational in nature is posed with a unique problem not found in men's schools or women's schools.

Looking at the statistics covering the last several years, the women on this campus place a higher percentage in the upper one-half than do the men. Citing a relative comparison, take a class in Osculombosis III. The class is composed of 15 women and 45 men, comparing favorably with the ratio throughout the school. (Engineering, law, agriculture and some others are excepted, being offset by home economics and similar courses.) When the grades come out, four of the six A's are attached to the names of females. Seven out of 12 B's are awarded to coeds, three women get C's, and one is left with a D. The men as a group get six F's, 11 D's, 20 C's, five B's and two A's.

Figuring that these same students, male and female, obtain approximately the same grades in relation to the rest of the class and in all of their courses (Osculombosis III being a relatively easy course), this little experiment shows that in the top half of their class there are only 17 males while 28 are in the lower half.

This would indicate that more coeds on the top-side, displacing men who have nowhere else to go but to the under-side. Two of many possible solutions have been posed. Women could manage fewer high grades, assenting to be placed in the lower half of their class. This would keep more men in the upper bracket, where they could obtain deferments. The other solution? Draft women. Oh, no, let's forget the whole thing. A woman for a top sergeant? Please, not hen-pecked in the service too.

"Lend Me A Hand"

January 15 marks the beginning of the March of Dimes drive. This yearly attempt to raise money for the fight against infantile paralysis has been well supported at the University in past years. One of the big boosts in recent years was afforded last year when the ASUI made a donation out of its reserve fund.

Slogan for this year's campaign is "Lend me a hand." The display poster bears the Infantile Paralysis foundation's stamp, plus the picture of a small boy with both arms in a cast, pleading for help.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, himself a victim of infantile paralysis, was the founder of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The funds which are donated to this foundation each year are used to buy iron lungs and other badly needed equipment for different areas, and in other ways help to combat the handicap and aid those stricken.

Once again Idaho students have a chance to display their bigheartedness. They did it in the Campus Chest drive—this year's total is the biggest yet. They did it in the blood bank—setting what stood as a national record until UCLA (a school of over 20,000 students) broke it by about 25 pints, and now we feel sure they'll do it again.

Sure Cure Cold Remedies Offered For Burning Noses

By Don Hardy

Since a goodly share of the populace have bad colds, bordering on the state of triple pneumonia, it seems only human to offer a few of the better "sure-cures."

The reader will undergo these cures under his own risk, but if one of the cures herein offered is taken properly the vict... ops—the patient will probably never have a cold again.

Administer Remedy

Our first remedy, which is taken from the "Bootleggers' Industrial Manual, and Scientific Handbook," has all the earmarks of a great scientific discovery. It goes like this—Swallow a handful of fine sand. Allowing the sand to settle for a few seconds, quickly drink two jiggers of rubbing alcohol. After this is done, sit quietly and wait for the cold germs to get drunk on the alcohol. The germs will, when properly potted, cluster around the sand pile and begin throwing rocks at each other, thus killing a major portion of them.

At this point, if the reader has a cold, he should stop and administer the above remedy. If it cures him he will not have to read further, if not he must be the stubborn type, and might as well come back for more punishment.

The second cure in our list requires very little effort, and almost never fails when taken at the first sign of a cold. All set? Here we go. (Remember now, follow the directions closely.) Take one tub of boiling water, add one cup of salt, one jar of mustard, and the contents of any dangerous looking bottles which happen to be in your medicine cabinet. Then carefully place your head in the tub and assume an upside-down verticle position. (In other words, stand on your head, you fat head). Keeping this position for three minutes, inhale deeply several times. This will circulate the healthful ingredients through your body. When using this cure, it is a good idea to keep your eyes closed—the salt might hurt the eyes.

Drown Germs

You probably feel better already, but in case you don't, we will tell you of one other cold remedy and after that you are on your own.

Fill a tub with newly mixed cement. Then place your feet in the cement and wait until it hardens. When you are sure the cement is set, have a friend dump you in the nearest lake. The object is to drown the cold germs.

If you do not feel better after taking these remedies, see your physician. Chances are you are suffering from something besides a cold.

Simplicity Feature In "Shoe Shine"

By JERRY MAKEE

The Italian production of "Shoe Shine" was celluloid testimony to all those in attendance that superb acting, along with a meaningful plot, need be the only ingredients of a great movie. Americans, long accustomed to Hollywood's ultra-colossal super-productions, were stunned with the utter simplicity and yet the utter beauty of "Shoe Shine."

The movie draws its tremendous impact from the contrast between the enormity of its events and the meagerness of its two heroes. Despite their criminal natures, Pasquale and Guseppe were not seen in anger, but in complete compassion.

Drew Tears

There were several individual performances which superlatives cannot define. Of course Pasquale and Guseppe were fine in their portrayals of happiness and bitterness, sadness and anger, especially when one realizes that they actually were Roman bootblacks. The devotion of Nannarella, Guseppe's friend, and the tender life and death of the tubercular "Naples" drew moisture to many eyes.

The photography while not of Hollywood technical standards, was outstanding in the artistic techniques employed. Perhaps the actual end of the movie would have been less of a jolt if the highly climatic finale were less in-

Subject Of Week's Survey: How To Study For Finals?

By Mary Lee Graham

Rejoice you lucky Arg readers, Graham is here with another poll—no nasty comments please. This week I decided to prow around the campus and find out what people think about studying for finals. Why I choose that dreadful subject, I can't quite imagine, but it seemed a good idea at the time. As usual I began at the Nest (one of these weeks, I'm going to defy convention and begin somewhere else) and there I found two likely prospects to answer the question of the week.

"What, in your opinion, is the best way to study for finals?"

Ben Dod, Sigma Nu: "Don't crack a book till the end of the semester, and then cram like mad."

Dee Dee May, Alpha Chi: "Sleep plenty, relax, don't take hard courses, and then walk into the test with a clear, and empty mind."

Bev Powers, Tri-Delt: "There must be a best way, but I haven't found it yet."

Stan Ellsworth, ATO: "I've never studied for a final so I guess I wouldn't know."

As for me, I believe in pre-destination so if I'm going to fail, I will, and nothing will prevent it, so why worry.

If anyone really is interested in learning the best way to study for finals, my advice to you is, "Don't read this article, it will not help you one smitheren."

As an afterthought, I would appreciate some suggestions for future polls. Anyone having any brilliant ideas may contact me at the Tri-Delt house.

Only once before—in 1949—had polio attacked with greater violence.

The 1951 campaign of the March of Dimes starts Monday, January 15th. Your Chapter stands ready today to serve you when polio strikes. It will continue to serve as long as you give your wholehearted support.
