

World's Best

Blue Key Issues Call For Talent

Again the call for talent—talent in any shape or form—has been issued to campus living groups. Blue Key Talent Show, an annual affair open to the entire campus, has been set for Friday, February 16.

Tryouts for the show will be Saturday, February 10, in the university auditorium at 1:30 p.m. Anyone interested in appearing in the show are asked to be there then. Further information may be obtained from Norm Greene or Jerry Haegle.

Trophies Awarded
Trophies this year will be awarded to the living groups, one for the men's and one for the women's. They will be awarded by judges and also by an applause meter during the show.

"A rough draft of your particular line of interest is all that is necessary for the tryouts. Everyone is welcome. Singing, musical instrumentation, blackface, slapstick, hula girls, etc., can all be part of the show," stated Norm Greene and Jerry Haegle, chairmen for the all-campus event.

"Snaky" Riggers and his Craigmont Valley Playboys will provide a featured sidelight for the Talent Show.

Jam Session Sunday

Come one, come all. That is the theme of the jam session to be held from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday in the Central ballroom of the Student Union building.

All Idaho and Washington State college musicians are invited to attend. There will be no admission charge.

Enthusiasm Greeted Singing Of World Famous Soprano

Possibly the largest crowd ever assembled in Memorial gymnasium were on hand last night to applaud beautiful and brilliant Rise Stevens, famous mezzo-soprano. She appeared in conjunction with the Community Concert series.

Spontaneous and enthusiastic applause greeted Miss Stevens at the conclusion of each number. Judging from the great admiration and awe which swept over the audience when Rise Stevens was singing, this concert will be the topic of conversation for many weeks. The great crowd maintained an atmosphere of complete enchantment throughout the entire concert.

Also Screen Star
Not only Miss Stevens' great singing, but her radiant personality have brought her world-wide fame. Her great, emotional impact can also be noted from her appearance on television, radio, concert and opera, and from her records.

Students To Choose Service Says Hershey And Marshall

On January 25, General Marshall, Secretary of Defense, and General Hershey, Director of Selective Service announced in a joint statement the method by which college students whose induction is postponed to the end of their academic year will be allowed to volunteer for the service of their choice.

On Friday, January 25, the following telegram was addressed to all State Directors of Selective Service by the National Headquarters: POSTPONE INDUCTION FOR THIRTY DAYS OF ALL COLLEGE STUDENTS WHO ARE BEING GRADUATED AT THIS TIME AND HAVING THEIR STATUTORY POSTPONEMENT TERMINATED FOR THAT REASON. THIS THIRTY-DAY POSTPONEMENT IS TO ENABLE SUCH GRADUATES TO OBTAIN EMPLOYMENT IN ESSENTIAL INDUSTRY. UPON SHOWING OF SUCH EMPLOYMENT LOCAL BOARDS SHOULD BE REQUESTED TO REOPEN THE CASES OF SUCH REGISTRANTS AND CONSIDER CLASSIFICATIONS ANEW.

The American Council on Education reported on January 1 that by agreement between the Department of Defense, the several armed forces and Selective Service, the procedure is as follows:

- Students will continue to be called for preliminary physical examinations and, if found acceptable, will be ordered for induction, and at that time will be classified 1A-P—postponed to the end of the academic year.
- Thirty days before the end of the academic year, National Headquarters will direct all local boards, through the State Director, to reopen the classification of all students whose induction was postponed. Such action will permit the student to enlist in any branch of the armed forces in which he can find an opening.

There is reason to believe that this procedure is final and firm. If a student who has been ordered for his pre-induction physical wishes to enlist in the service of his choice, he must remain in school to the end of the academic year to exercise that choice.

Last August's Department of Defense inter-service agreement stated that no man who had been ordered to report for his pre-induction physical examination would be permitted to enlist. The new statement allows a man to volunteer after he is ordered to report for his physical examination, but before he is ordered to report for induction.

Full Text Stated
The full text of the Marshall-Hershey announcement is as follows: "The Congress is currently considering legislation affecting future military and selective service policy which, if enacted as now written, would entail the reopening of the classifications of many students. In the light of this fact, the Department of Defense and the Selective Service System took two actions today to make effective the new basic policy of voluntary enlistment in the armed forces by college students."

Simultaneous Orders
"The Secretary of Defense, General Marshall, issued orders officially rescinding, in the case of college students, the inter-service agreement of August 9, 1948, under which no armed service would accept a voluntary enlistment after a man had received notice to report for his pre-induction physical examination."

"Simultaneously the Director of Selective Service, Major General Lewis B. Hershey, announced that he would reopen in the last month of the college year the classification of all students who were ordered to report for induction during the year but whose induction was postponed under Section 6 (1) 2 of the Selective Service Act of 1948, as amended, and who desire to volunteer by enlistment in a service of their choice."

Select Service
"General Hershey stated that the act of reopening these classifications would require the cancellation of any order to report for induction which might have been issued and therefore automatically renew the right of these students to enlist in the service of their choice, to the extent of available openings. As in the past, each service would accept enlistments only to the extent that places were open for those who desired to enlist."

"This implementation of the basic policy announced January 19 will make it possible for those already ordered for induction, as well as those who may be ordered during the balance of the college year, to select their service at the time their classifications are reopened in the final month of the academic year, provided the service is able to take them."

"This policy is designed to implement the intent of Congress to encourage students to continue college to the end of their academic year, and, at the same time, preserve their right to indicate the service in which they wish to serve."

No Change In Mind
"General Hershey, in announcing his intention to reopen such cases and thus reinstate the right to enlist at that time, emphasized that no change in the obligation of students to serve was contemplated. He further pointed out that procedures for accomplishing reopening of classifications would be announced later."

"Students will not have to select their service in the two months immediately preceding the final month of the academic year, as previously announced."

Info. Requests Received By KUOI

Letters from Spain and three countries in South America — Peru, Brazil and Uruguay — have been received by University of Idaho student radio station KUOI, requesting information on the operation of the station, according to Dale Benjamin, Coeur d'Alene, station manager.

The requests were the result of a recent article published in Popular Mechanics magazine on KUOI and other student radio stations.

Begun by Cady
Since the station joined the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System, an organization for student radio stations, early in 1947, requests for information on operation have been received from Texas, Washington, New Jersey, Massachusetts, North Carolina and Idaho colleges and high schools. Many of these requests were the result of another article mentioning the station, which was published in Collier's magazine.

The station was begun with a "breadboard" transmitter by a student radio club in the attic of a university engineering building during the fall of 1945. The station began operating from modern studios located in the University of Idaho's new Student Union building this fall.

U. Concert Band Gives Performance

The University Concert band will present its first formal concert of the year next Thursday at 8 p.m. in the University auditorium.

The 55-member organization, under the direction of Kermit F. Hosch, will play compositions dating from 1822 up through 1950. Emphasis has been placed on modern band literature, however, as the band will play a new suite by Siegmeyer entitled "Prairie Legend" and "A Solemn Music" by Virgil Thomson.

Johnson Composition Played
The most recent composition for symphonic band to be heard will be "Sonata Allegro for Band" by Wallace Johnson, assistant to director Hosch. Johnson has just completed this work in partial fulfillment of his Masters of Music requirements. Written in the older sonata allegro form, the composition falls into the category of modern music.

In the realm of classic music the band will perform the first movement of Schubert's "Symphony in B Minor," better known as the "Unfinished Symphony." The band transcription of this famous work was made by Lucian Cailliet.

Final number of the evening will be Williams' "Folk Song Suite," a group of traditional English songs reflecting the composer's lifelong studies in the field of folk music.

Bridge Fans To Compete On Sunday

The bridge tournament, sponsored by the Student Activities board, begins this Sunday afternoon. The tournament will be played February 4, 11, and 18.

Students interested can sign up now in the Graduate Manager's office.

Anyone Can Enter
Games will be played each Sunday afternoon from 2:30 to 5 in the south ballroom of the SUB. Players may enter competition simply by coming down to play bridge. Players need not be experts to enter local competition.

According to local tournament chairman, Helen Means, Idaho is among the 45 eligible schools in this district which will send two champions to the National Intercollegiate bridge tournament in Chicago in April.

Registration Lines Prove Students Are Still Here

The last day of registration has come and gone, and the second semester's classes have started. Registrar D. D. DuSault has not released the official figures on the total completing, but it is estimated that at least three students are enrolled at the University of Idaho.

Many people believed in the old adage, "The early bird catches the worm," and appeared on the scene at such impossible hours as 6 a.m. These ambitious students were rewarded for their efforts and managed to emerge from the lines with their registration completed in one day. The other less energetic group put off wandering about the gym until the last possible minute, and then emitted cries of alarm and indignation when their chosen classes were found to be full.

AWS Issues Officer Slate At Meeting

The nominating committee of the AWS presented the preliminary slate for officers through the council, at a dinner meeting Wednesday in the Pine room of the SUB.

On Thursday, February 8, at 5 p.m., there will be an open meeting in the SUB for anyone who would like to make nominations from the floor for designated offices.

Preliminary elections will be held on February 11, and the runoff is scheduled for February 21.

Preliminary Slate
Those who have been nominated for office are Naida Whybark, Janet Fulton and Betty Thompson, president; Erlene Clyde, Lois Bush, Mary Hansen, and Dolores Uria, secretary.

Others named were Martha Allison, Pat Albertson, Jackie Lee, and Ruthe Beiber, treasurer; Janice McCormick, May Queen; Alice Henry, Maid of Honor; and Bonese Collins, Page.

The council also discussed the possibility of obtaining loans through AWS and presented ideas for enlarging the council.

All Argonaut reporters' pictures for the Gem will be taken Saturday afternoon, February 3, in the Gem office. The editors of Idaho Forester and Idaho Engineer pictures will be taken at this time also.

If you cannot be present for pictures, please contact Kenny West, Delta Tau Delta. Phone 2119.

Have You Registered

There are still some students attending the University who have not registered for the draft. Mrs. F. H. Helmsworth of the local draft board has issued a reminder to Idaho students.

"Every male who was born after August 22, 1922, must register. This is regardless of whether they are veterans or are in a reserve program."

Faculty Club Meet

The Women's Faculty club will meet February 6 for cards and sewing at the Faculty club.

Lists Of Students Served Released By University

Since last commencement the University of Idaho has served a total of 4,713 students. It was revealed recently in figures released by Registrar D. D. DuSault at the close of the 1950-51 first semester.

Although enrollment as a whole dropped 7.5 per cent from that of the preceding year, two divisions of the university showed increases. Biggest jump was made by the school of education with an increase of 10.3 per cent. College of agriculture enrollment rose 2.5 per cent.

Education Third High
The school of education, with an enrollment of 493, now stands as the third largest division in the university. It is surpassed only by the college of letters and science, which serves all the other divisions of the university and has an enrollment of 996, and the school of business administration with a total of 523. Enrollment of the other divisions follows:

- College of agriculture, 389; college of engineering, 378; school of forestry, 250; college of law, 92; school of mines, 58; combined agricultural engineering, 40; graduates — no degrees, 40; combined business and law, 8; combined arts and law, 6. Other students served included those taking special courses, non-resident instruction, extension courses, summer school and study in-absentia.

Hurrah For Our Mail Service

From under the Iron Curtain comes another ray of light beamed our way by International Union of Students requesting our membership. There is enclosed a very scenic folder, telling of the winter sports carnival being held on Stalin Mountain, not far from Stalin, Roumania. Right now the sports are in their sixth day, with two to go. Too bad we live in a capitalistic country and have such difficulty in attending functions of this sort.

But not to dally—this is just one phase of their wonderful life which they display for our approval. They are unhappy, these folks in IUS, that such countries as Sweden, France, Denmark, Australia, New Zealand and others have left the fold. All is forgiven—they need only promise to adhere faithfully to those principles set forth in the IUS constitution, and they will be joyfully readmitted. As for ourselves, we have never been members, but if we wish membership, we too can pay homage to Russia, the source of all energetic drives against fascism (and also the source of a few other things, too nice to mention).

But to go on, we to this day don't understand how we got on their mailing list. The information is interesting. It makes good feature material. Why gripe? So in the People's Republic of Roumania we can join hands with all, singing praises for Stalin. Fine.

This receipt of information brings out another point. There are absolutely no censor marks on the envelope. Our United States government allows such trips to be thrown into the offices of college newspapers, for dissemination and furtherance of the Communist cause. How can this be? Some other private individuals in this country haven't so great a degree of faith in a college student's ability to discern what is good and what is bad. To cite a well-known case, we name the board of regents of the University of California.

There, by a vote of 12 members to 11, the Board of Regents lifted the burden of discernment from students and took it upon themselves to see clean and scour the local set-up that no communist doctrines or teachings could possibly filter down to students. They inaugurated a loyalty oath. All who took this oath were not necessarily non-communists. But the 43 teachers of various courses who refused to take the oath are to most people's knowledge all non-communists.

The oath may have bothered them because they were communists, but it may just as well have bothered them because of the principle of the thing—that age-old gripe of all mankind. So they didn't sign their names to the golden tablets—no indeed, they got canned instead. And other classes immediately became overcrowded with schedule-shifting students. Graduate students who had been supervised in their work were compelled to begin again. Other colleges—faculty and student alike—let out a mighty holler and told Sal what they thought. Our own legislature and Board of Regents have been wise in making no move to establish such oath. It helps rather than hinders the Communists. Anyone can sign a piece of paper, and what good Communist is going to have qualms about perjuring himself?

The vote was 12 to 11. And the prexy was opposed to such an oath, yet it was instituted. It's nice to see that the mail service and security agencies within the United States have more faith in the students' intelligence than some who claim for themselves a direct interest through association with these same students. —T. Don't Let Ignorance Show; Follow Bowling Etiquette

Because most people learn to bowl without the benefit of formal instruction, many of them attain some command of the game's mechanics without learning much of its etiquette. On the Student Union alleys, where a large number of bowlers are beginners, there is practically no observation of the courtesies bowlers normally extend to one another.

Since the omission probably results from unawareness instead of deliberate discourtesy, a few pointers from the etiquette section of the W.I.B.C. Bowlers Manual should help clear up the situation.

The rules of etiquette generally concern persons bowling on adjacent alleys, using the same ball return rack.

Watch the Pin Boys

1. Don't double-ball the pin boy; don't deliver your ball at the same time the person on the adjacent alley is making his delivery. The pin boy can't duck pins coming at him from two directions at the same time.
2. When the pins on adjacent alleys are set down at the same time, the bowler on the right alley has the privilege to bowl first.
3. If one person is rolling the first ball of the frame, and the other is working on a spare, the spare bowler has the right to bowl first.
4. Don't go to the return rack to get your ball if you have to go in front of a bowler who has taken his approach stance on the adjacent alley. Wait until after he has made his delivery.
5. After delivering the ball, walk to the rear of the runway to wait its return. Do not stand by the front of the return rack while the bowler on the adjacent alley is bowling.
6. Be at your post ready to bowl when your turn comes. Delay in your game may keep someone else from getting a chance to bowl.
7. Do not use a ball someone else is already using.

By the way, if you haven't yet bowled that perfect game, don't give up. You may have a few more games to roll before you are eligible. The odds against a 300 game are 225,000 to 1.

Marriage Partners Must Be More Than Simply Roommates

Lester A. Kirkendall

The temptation to comment from the current Hilton-Taylor imbroglio (Italian for "mess") is so strong that it overcomes my sense of prudence. The marital failures of certain Hollywood personages and other socialites raise this intriguing question in the minds of many: "Why can't they stay married?" I might as well put in my two cents worth.

If the various influences contributing to the marital failure of Hollywood stars could be factored out my guess is that the following causes would emerge.

1. The inability of husband and wife to submerge any significant part of their personalities in a common, cooperative relationship is a highly important factor. In case both husband and wife are actors each has his own public, his own fan-mail, his own aspirations for an Oscar, or an Academy Award. In their professional lives, they have learned to be highly competitive, and are actually competitors of each other. This makes it very difficult for them to work cooperatively in marriage. Since both are striving for personal, individual success, their goals lie outside their home and marriage. Their activities separate rather than unite them. They have no common project in which they may invest their efforts to reach an objective important to both.

Need Integrity

2. They live too much in an unreal, make-believe world with unreal values. An ultra-sophisticated outlook on life emphasizing show, glamour, and high tension living is a poor basis for a stable marriage and family life. These need an emphasis on integrity, submerging of self in a common endeavor, some privacy and quiet, and a willingness to accept the routines of family living.

Not Incidental

3. The economic position of some of these people makes it unnecessary for them to sacrifice anything for their marriage. Not all the sacrifices of a marriage are financial, but enough money enables a person to run away from almost anything, even though he can't escape it. Some of the situations which breach the marriages of Hollywood stars would be worked out by Pumpkin Hollow couples because they had no other choice.

Increased Culture

4. The chances for associations with glamorous members of the other sex, multiplied through the kind of associations which Hollywood provides. When ties are none too tight anyway, this is somewhat like touching a match to tinder.

Warren points out, "This theme reflects the spirit of the campers and the philosophy of those responsible for its organization. In addition, nationwide recreation specialists invited to attend 'Chatcolab' will put their creative talents to work in helping leaders train themselves.

Up to 100 leaders interested in recreation are welcome to attend. Quotas for each state reserved until April 15 include: Idaho 25; Washington 15; Montana 40; Oregon 5; and Wyoming 5.

Pen Pal Enlarges Coeds' Male List

Despite the fact that each Idaho coed statistically is allotted two and one half campus males, she has been offered the chance to add one more man to her list. A letter received by ASUI president Vern Bahr from a Spanish student states:

"You'd oblige me by finding for me a suitable pen pal. Having learned English, I wish I could use it in a field more interesting than textbooks.

"I'd prefer a girl. Women are half the world and, generally, they are discovered by the Columbus from the opposite half. I'd like to participate in this great discovery, even in a literary way.

"As for myself, I'm a student at the University of Barcelona and my main hobby is drawing although I can also declare I'm interested in most things, to different extents.

Hoping you'll grant my request, I'm yours sincerely,

Plans Made For Study Abroad

Arrangements have now been completed with five famous European universities to ease summer school registration for American students. By facilitating advance registration to Americans interested in combining summer travel and study abroad, the Institute of University Studies Abroad guarantees that much past confusion can now be avoided.

In 1951, there are to be Summer Schools at the Sorbonne (Paris), Madrid, Fribourg, Oxford, and at the University College, Dublin. Oxford is conducting a series of residential lectures, "Arts in England in the Seventeenth Century." The University of Fribourg in Switzerland is presenting "Divided World," a series of courses in history, philosophy, sociology, political science and economics. University College, Dublin, is offering "Great Britain and Ireland from 1800."

Increased Culture

To solve the transportation problem, transatlantic carriers have been asked to make as many spaces available as possible to students who have registered with the Institute. Students will get a better background knowledge of Europe and its current problems through a series of tours, which have also been arranged. This integration of both factual and academic knowledge is essential to a proper understanding of the problems which beset our times.

Thanks To The Administration For Freedom Of The Press

Freedom of the press is a term that gets kicked around all too freely and with too little meaning, but here at Idaho it is put into practice.

We of the University of Idaho have more freedom of expression than almost any other college students. Journalistically, we are free to do as we please without interference from administration or classroom.

Gale Mix, ASUI general manager, who has had the opportunity to study the administration of almost 50 colleges, says that this is the only school he has seen where the students have so much freedom of expression.

Preserve Freedom

We think this fact should be kept in mind by Idaho students. We must value that freedom, and should do all we can to preserve it. The present publications set-up has worked exceptionally well for many years, and we hope that we may never be faced with becoming nothing more than yes men for the administration.

All of which adds up to the fact that we have an excellent deal that should not be abused, and that the university administration is to be thanked for allowing us to have the freedom of the press that we now enjoy.

Bowling Bout In Second Month

The Chesterfield bowling contest is now well into its second month. Two cartons of Chesterfield cigarettes have been awarded each week to high scoring bowlers in the Student Union bowling alleys.

One carton a week is presented to the highest score bowled by a woman, and the second carton is given to the man bowling the highest score. High scores are marked on the Chesterfield blackboard above the desk in the bowling alley, and as each higher score is achieved, the previous scores are erased.

Current winners in the bowling contest are Bob Waddell, 259; Mary Ann Tuttle, 162; Bob Waddell and Arlie Caudle, tied at 239; Ann Eggleston, 167; and for a second time, Ann Eggleston, 163.

Cartons for the above winners are on hand in the bowling alley. Any winner who has not already received his Chesterfields, should ask at the desk in the SUB bowling alleys.

Extended tours of active duty are being offered second lieutenants of the Air Force ROTC or USAF Reserve. Headquarters United States Air Force has announced. Requests for active duty will be considered until June 30, 1951. This program is part of the current expansion of the Air Force. The opportunity for extended duty is open particularly to AFROTC graduates desiring flying or technical training. Emphasis also is being placed upon securing those officers who are eligible for and desire to remain on active duty as potential career officers.

How To Clean Your Room Without Destroying Junk

Undoubtedly most of you have been faced with the terrifying necessity of cleaning out your room. About the time that dirt on the floor becomes waste deep, and the furniture can no longer be seen because of the junk piled ceiling high, some energetic cuss will decide that the room should be cleaned whether it needs it or not.

This writer had that experience only a few days ago, and after much wailing and moaning the room cleaning process began. We (my room-mate and I) began by throwing everything on the floor to be sorted out in three piles—things to throw away, things to keep, and doubtful.

Someplace To Sit

That game was played for an hour or so, and nothing was in the throw away pile but textbooks. There was nothing to do but go back through the pile and try to find something else to throw away—after all, the furniture had to be uncovered.

We finally decided to part with a few valuable items such as ticket stubs from a movie three years ago, an ancient thunder mug, and a few three dollar bills on which we had done a bad printing job.

Dirty Reality

Well, after several hours of suffering and indecision, we finally threw away enough stuff so that we could push the rest of it into a corner and still have a little room to breathe. By now the floor is getting dirty again, and the stuff in the corner is creeping over the furniture again. It's kind of uncomfortable at times, but it seems more home-like.

It seems that almost every room has more junk piled in it than a dozen students could possibly bring home on a full time basis. There must be some kind of djits or gnomes running around the campus with carts full of odds and ends to throw in peoples rooms when they aren't looking.

Be On Lookout

This is becoming a very serious situation, and while we don't wish to unduly alarm anyone, we believe that everyone should be on constant guard against djits and gnomes. If you see a band of them coming down the street, notify the authorities immediately. Just what authorities we are not quite sure, but someone should be told. Besides, after an experience like that you will probably want to tell someone about it.

Spokane Prepares For Music Festival Scheduled In May

Preliminary bulletins and entry blanks for the 1951 Greater Spokane Music Festival, May 6 to 13, were mailed this week to 2,500 Inland Empire people. According to Leonard Martin, president, the bulletin with its wide variety of music activities should appeal to many in the Inland Empire.

"Our purpose this year is to stimulate young people in every community within a radius of 250 miles to participate in the 1951 festival. Good music is the best possible way to occupy leisure hours and prevent worry in our troublesome times. Equally important is the fact that our annual festival brings to light and encourages exceptional talent along many lines."

Obtain Information

Special divisions of the festival will include instruments of all kinds, school, civic, and church choirs, dances, voice, drama, junior artists in aria competition, and young artists concerto-aria competition. Nationally-known names will adjudicate the series.

Anyone desiring further information is urged to write the Greater Spokane Music Festival Association, Leonard Martin, President, 167 South Howard, Spokane.

Broad Education Aim Of Students Attending Idaho

The theory that students want to broaden their education and need only the opportunity is now proven fact at Idaho. Four general knowledge courses, offered for the first time last fall, now rate among the university's most popular courses.

The courses are designed to simplify subjects for students whose specialized training is far removed. An artist, for instance, will not find himself lost in "Introduction to the Physical Sciences." This course introduces a picture of the physical universe especially emphasizing the forces which have formed and are affecting our planet.

In turn, science majors enter into masterpieces of literature, art and music with "Introduction to Humanities." The course progresses from Renaissance writings to moderns as T. S. Eliot and Eugene O'Neill. Chopin and Strauss, da Vinci and Van Gogh become more than just names to students, who are neither musicians nor artists.

"Introduction to the Biological Sciences" is planned to acquaint students with the variety of plants and animals. Enough of the facts of inheritance (genetics) are presented to give the student a good background in the field.

"Introduction to the Social Sciences" takes students of many major fields through the fundamentals of history, political science, economics and philosophy.

We would like to suggest that the university build a large building filled with rooms in which junk could be placed. Until such a structure is built, however, we suggest that you keep an eye out for stray gnomes running about the campus.

This is becoming a very serious situation, and while we don't wish to unduly alarm anyone, we believe that everyone should be on constant guard against djits and gnomes. If you see a band of them coming down the street, notify the authorities immediately. Just what authorities we are not quite sure, but someone should be told. Besides, after an experience like that you will probably want to tell someone about it.

Die Fledermaus Tells Story Of Misplaced Personalities

By Jerry McKee
"Die Fledermaus," the musical comedy that appeared in the Borah Room last Tuesday and Wednesday was excellent—as a comedy. The musical portion of the film was unfortunately not quite so excellent. Many people attending the movie expected to hear more of Strauss' operetta than the brief portion encountered at Prince Orlovsky's ball. I am speaking of the musical aspects of the operetta, and not of the plot, which the movie followed quite well.

This technique of a plot off the stage which is patterned to one on the stage is not new to Idaho students. This same technique was employed in "La Boheme," which appeared at the Borah room earlier in the season. This technique is fine for enlivening the plot to a modern audience, but it is the music, and not the story, by which we know and remember "Die Fledermaus" and "La Boheme."

However, when considered from a sheer comedy standpoint, the movie was very delightful. It gave an entirely new twist to the standby of misplaced personalities. The persons acting these roles did a very creditable job. Of course, musical comedy is no criterion for judging acting performances, but who can forget the drunken jailor, the flirtatious maid and the pseudo-titian wife of "Marquis Renald?"

Over 650 people witnessed the four showings of "Die Fledermaus," which denotes its popularity to Idaho students. And this includes the man who saw the first performance Wednesday and then ran home and brought his wife to the second performance. Matinee for "Rain"

The next movie in the ASUI cinema series, "Rain," starring Joan Crawford and Walter Houston is scheduled for Thursday, February 15. There will be a 4 p. m. performance for the benefit of the freshmen women, as well as the two night showings.

Ag-Home Ec Clubs Hold Square Dance

Ag club and Home Ec club members enjoyed a mixer and cake social at the Student Union ballroom Tuesday evening. Square dancing was the order of the evening for the 70 or more persons who wore cotton dresses and levis. Highlighting the country style affair was an old fashioned cake auction for which some of the coeds furnished cakes to be auctioned to the opposite sex. Nine cakes were auctioned to the highest bidders at an average price of $3.75 each.

Vandals Up For Oregonians; Outcome Vital For Both Teams

The University of Oregon basketball forces, under the direction of Uncle John Warren, arrived in Moscow yesterday and immediately began final preparations for its crucial two-game series with Idaho Friday and Saturday nights at Memorial gymnasium. The Ducks held a closed-practice session in the gymnasium Thursday afternoon. They were at full strength with the exception of Will Urban, a senior forward who remained at home to nurse a foot injury.

The Webfoots, who were resigned to last position in the league according to most pre-season prognosticators, started the conference season inauspiciously with an overwhelming defeat at the hands of the University of Washington. Then in their next contest they fought back from a 17 point deficit only to lose by a one point margin to these same Huskies. They haven't been stopped since. In their last four contests Oregon has outscored the Vandals 56-52 and 62-56 and tromped the Oregon State squad 62-53 and 66-47.

The sudden surge on the part of the Oregonians is attributed largely to the come-through performances of several newcomers mainly Bob Peterson, Jim Loscut-off, and Curt Barclay. Peterson, a 6'5" 207 pound forward transfer from San Mateo (California) junior college, has begun to show the scoring punch and backboard work that made him a first string choice on the Northern California junior college All-Star team in his first year. While at San Mateo Peterson was one of the most potent scorers in the league and this talent is coming to the front as late in Duck games.

Loscutoff, another JC transfer from Grant Tech in Sacramento, leads the high-geared Oregon offense with a total of 198 points to his credit. He also is one of the top rebounders on the squad, having picked off 75 in conference play.

The present standing in the Idaho-Oregon series is 72 wins for the Webfoots and 26 victories for the Vandals. In last season's play, Idaho came out on top in three of the four contests.

Oregon Offense Heads ND

Hang on tight to your wallet at the basketball games. Some of the men who wear stripped shirts are thieves. Others are called officials.

Last week two of them robbed Clair Bee's Long Island university Blackbirds in Tucson, Arizona. And the week before, another pair of robbers stole a ball game away from LaSalle college in Raleigh, N. C., an act which Ken Loeffler of the Explorers called "the worst steal since the Louisiana Purchase." Looks like there's just no justice in this wicked world of ours.

The game of basketball is easily given to riuabarfs, but a lion's share of the blame can be laid on the officials. There's nothing like the quick exhale of a canvas-shoed constable blowing taps on his whistle to take the edge off of a ball game. Lately it seems that the men paid to call them as they see them have been a little quick in pointing an accusing finger at players and coaches every time there's an aggressive scramble under the basket.

Personally, I think that the game of hoop shooting belongs to the ball players and coaches, not the whistle-happy arbitrators. The duty of the official is to enforce the rules which are flexible to permit a clean and hard played contest.

Granted, officiating basketball is far from being an easy task. There are times when an official will run into contests where ill-feeling between the clubs keeps his whistle blowing until it sounds like a train is running through the gymnasium. At other times, spectators become so unreasonable in their partisanship that criticism of officials often becomes personal and abusive. But good officials should have ears which are numb to the home crowd and their ear-cracking boos of defiance over their decisions.

Actually the officials, especially the ones in this league, could ease some of the cooker-pressure tension if they would let the fans in on their decisions. The game is played at a terrific pace. Decisions often are a matter of judgment and must be made in a split fraction of a second. Many of the calls have an important bearing on the final outcome of the con-

Idaho Tankmen Seek Second Victory Over Savages Today

The University of Idaho swimming squad splashes water with Eastern Washington's Savages this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Memorial gymnasium pool. The meet is the second engagement this season between the two schools, Idaho outswimming EWCE 50 to 25 at Cheney in the first meet.

Coach Eric Kirkland expects his pool paddlers to better three meet marks against the Washington school. Bill "Torpedo" Hoblet, speed-demon of the squad will be aiming at the 24.3 pool record in the 50-yard free-style contest. Hoblet registered a 24.4 time in the same event at Cheney.

In the 440 yard free-style, Dick Wartena will try to crack the 6:12 meet mark, while Tom Gentry needs a good chance of besting the 2:48.5 time in the 200-yard breast stroke.

Moore and Chuck Clark have both been doing exceptionally well and are expected to make a good showing. Other squad members competing include Don Miller, free-style relays; Peter Vajda in the distances, and Dick Warren in the back-stroke and individual medley. Allen Dixon strengthens the squad in the sprint and John Keller in the distance events.

The Vandal's take a jaunt into the Willamette Valley February 9 and 10 for their first Northern Division competition against Oregon and OSC.

"Whose game?" asked the football enthusiast.
"I am," murmured the shy young thing.

Eight Skiers Leave For Banff Contest

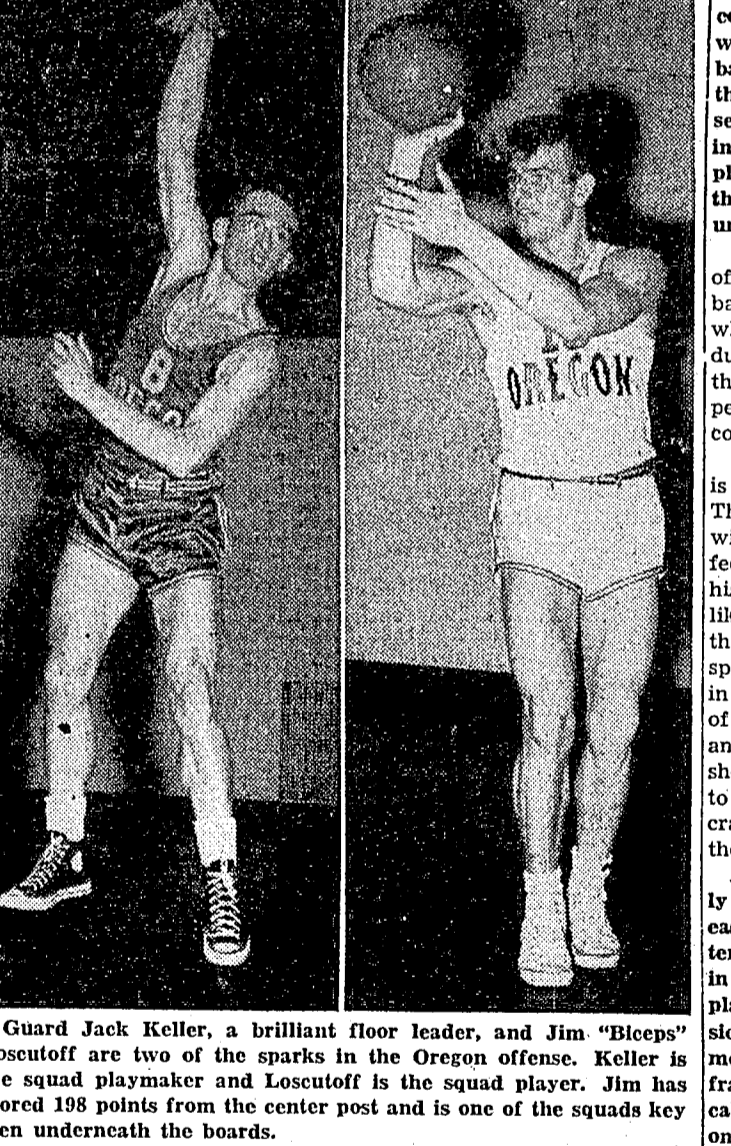

The University of Idaho Ski team and their coach Gene Harlow left by car this morning for the International Intercollegiate ski meet at Banff, B. C. Saturday and Sunday.

Harlow has named eight men for the trip to Banff where at least 15 teams from the Northwest and Canada will compete in cross country, jumping, slalom and downhill.

Among the Idaho members is Sverre Kongsgaard, holder of the North American Ski jump record for a brief period two years ago. Kongsgaard will be competing for the last time for Idaho. He receives his degree in civil engineering next week.

Other members making the trip north are Fred Boyle, Muddy Numbers, Crusty Hamon, John Harrington and Norwegian exchange students Kaare Reed, last year's Northern Division cross country champion, Paal Mykkelbust and Thor Lyshaug.

Jumping Jack And A Clown

Guard Jack Keller, a brilliant floor leader, and Jim "Bleeps" Loscutoff are two of the sparks in the Oregon offense. Keller is the squad playmaker and Loscutoff is the squad player. Jim has scored 198 points from the center post and is one of the squads key men underneath the boards.

Frosh Lay 14 Game Win Streak On Line Tonight Against Larsen Air Base Team

The University of Idaho freshman court combo is making no bones about putting its long win streak on the line this week. Besides the contest played Wednesday in Lewiston against a Lewiston high school faculty outfit, the charges of coach Art Smith have a pair of games scheduled for tonight and tomorrow evening against the tough Larsen Air Base five.

The Larsen squad from Moses Lake is the same outfit that played the frosh down to the wire earlier in the season before losing 46-42. This is the smallest margin of victory yet experienced by the Babes in their string of 14 straight wins.

Coach Smith has been forced to change his line-up for the games this week due to the fact that regular forward Bill Mahlik sustained a sprained ankle in action last week against the Boots and Saddles of Spokane. Stepping in to replace Mahlik will be Mac Porter, 6'2" forward from Augusta, Montana. Porter's 11 point effort against Boots and Saddles last weeks shows that he is an ample replacement for the Smith machine.

Win 64 to 36

In the contest at Lewiston Wednesday, the Frosh racked up win No. 14 by knocking over the Lewiston team 64-36. The frosh received some stiff opposition at the outset of the contest as the Lewiston team held a 13-4 lead after the first nine minutes. However, baskets by Tom Flynn, Stan Wilcox, Dwight Morrison, and Ken McClennen closed the gap quickly, and the Idaho club coasted in without further trouble.

The Lewiston five was led by two former Idaho Vandal stars, John Evans and Bill Eimers. Evans was top scorer for the evening with 15 counters, while Eimers put through nine points. For the freshman, Flynn and Wilcox each garnered 13. McClennen put through 10, Swanstrom 8, Morrison 7, Hymas 6, Porter 4, Collins 2 and Emerson Clark 1.

Clark is a newcomer on the squad from Twin Falls. Last year he won the State half-mile championship in track.

The preliminary contest with Larsen Air Base this evening starts at 5:45.
