AWS Announces Final Candidates

Janet Fulton and Yvonne George are the final candidates for AWS president following preliminary elections Wednesday, February 21.

Snow again. Bah! Blame it on the Vandal Ski club. They were the only ones on the campus who wanted snow. Why do they want snow? Well, they've at least got a motive. Their annual ski carnival is scheduled for this weekend, and strange as it seems, that white cold stuff that we tired of way back in December is essential to the carnival and its success.

We can't complain too much anyway, for Old Man Winter hasn't been too harsh on us this year. And spring will be here soon (I hope, I hope) and campus ladies will discard those tiresome skirts and sweaters and don lovely spring frocks. Then the campus will be in full bloom. (Jason hopes that this is not just an idle prediction, refuted by a three-month siege of the "monsoons." Oh, well, raincoats would at least be a change.)

Discipline Could Change
A bit of explanation to the campus "bad" people. That is, those people that get caught. First, let's follow the case of a typical student — after he gets caught, that is.

He (or she) receives an invitation from the Dean of Men (or women). The Dean has the prerogative of deciding the student's case himself, (which is usually the case, for most are relatively minor) or refer it to the discipline committee.

The student, on the other hand, may ask for his case to be decided there at the Dean's office or he may appeal it to the discipline committee.

What's It About
Here lies the big "hitch" or bottleneck. Many students don't know exactly what discipline committee is, or if they do know, they somehow feel that they might be handed a "rasher" deal there than that given them by the Deans' office. This is not true, however. The discipline committee thoroughly reviews the case and the student has a chance to express his opinion and receive other student viewpoint. The recommendation by the committee to the president of the university (who has the final say in every case), is generally less severe than other action taken.

What is the discipline committee? Well, first of all, there are two of them—one for men and one for women. Each is composed of three faculty members and two students. The ASUI president and another male student, appointed by executive board, sit on the men's discipline committee. The AWS president and a female student, also appointed by executive board, sit on the women's committee.

Spread Out Authority
Looking objectively, the present discipline system and its jurisdiction problems could be even more improved. It is the opinion of many that the discipline committee (composed of five people) should have more direct authority than it has, while the Deans' office (composed of one person) shouldn't have "such a big stick." Although the Dean of Men is also the Director of Student Affairs, he wouldn't be thrown out of a job if his power concerning student discipline was lessened. For that office entails many duties, disciplinary work comprising only 10 percent of the total.

A committee consisting of Harry Turner, Janice McCormick, Don Willis, and Vern Bahr have been appointed by the ASUI executive board to formulate a more desirable discipline setup. This will be submitted to "the powers that be" for approval. Good luck.

QUESTION FOR THE FUTURE
Do we want pre-registration?

Janice McCormick, present AWS president, was elected to be 1951 May Queen. During her sophomore year she served as secretary of Spurs. Miss McCormick is also former AWS treasurer and, member of Phi Upsilon Omicron, national home economics honorary.

Veep Is Second High
Other final nominees on the slate are Erlene Clyde, and Sharon Osmundson, secretary. Candidates vying for the treasurer's position are Martha Allison and Ruth Belber.

Willa Schumann and Bonese Collins are competing for the May Felle page honor. Alice Henry and Helen Daniels were chosen to run for maid of honor.

The vice-president will be the second high candidate for president.

Many Coeds Voted
Carol Bowby, general chairman, reported a total of 423 votes were cast in the preliminary elections. Twenty-six coeds were originally named by the AWS council for the preliminary slate.

Final voting will be next Wednesday when the polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and from 12:45 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Booths will be set up near the main entrance of the Ad building. Representatives of women's living groups serve on the election board.

ASUI cards must be shown before voting.

Middleton Gets Ship Command

Comdr. John R. Middleton, Jr., USN, who was a member of the class of 1932 at the University of Idaho for three years before he entered the Naval Academy at Annapolis, has been given command of a destroyer, the "USS Porter," now at the Naval Base in Charleston, S. C.

The "Porter," under Commander Middleton, will resume her place in the active U. S. Fleet. When he was commanding officer of the "USS Thresher" during the last war, his boat was awarded the Navy Unit Commendation for destroying an enemy patrol in one night.

The former Idaho student also commanded the "Flounder," another submarine, and holds the Silver Star medal for sinking three Japanese ships on one patrol.

AEC Gives Funds To U. Of Idaho For Isotope Work

First use in America—possibly the world—of radioactive isotopes in the study of a disease of conifers soon will begin at the University. First phase of the project will be with seedlings in the greenhouse. During the summer the work will be carried on out in the forests with older trees.

This activity has been made possible, through a $12,528 grant from the atomic energy commission to Idaho's forest, wildlife and range experiment station. The formal agreement with the commission has just been approved by the university regents.

Work Carried On
"Chemicals" in the tree's diet will be tagged with radioactive isotopes and placed in the soil where the roots will pick them up. (Cont. on page 2, col. 6)

Kimbrough Talks To Students Stressing Better Understanding

A plea for the peoples of the world to learn a language other than their own and anecdotes depicting real-life episodes were directed at university students Wednesday by Miss Emily Kimbrough, well-known authoress and speaker.

Miss Kimbrough, speaking on "It Gives Me Great Pleasure," stressed the need of language knowledge as "our hope for survival rests upon our understanding of other people and their understanding of us." She stated that not enough time was given to learning to speak a foreign language, which is necessary today as "geographical boundaries have ceased to exist."

"We have the star role in an international production—let us not play it in a half-role," Miss Kimbrough urged her audience.

Persistent Questions
Miss Kimbrough told students the two main questions that are usually asked her about her eventful life, "Do those things you write about really happen to you and if they do why?" These questions were answered by a series of "bizarre happenings" from Miss Kimbrough's travels and experiences which, she said, give her "great pleasure."

State Miss Kimbrough, "Bizarre episodes dog my footsteps." She went on to quote her friend and co-author, Cornelia Otis Skinner's contributing factor explaining this as "the somewhat unorthodox way in which Miss Kimbrough responds to a situation."

She Tried
Emily cited as an example her experience saving a drowning man. When she discovered a fellow swimmer was in the drowning stages and the fact that water was over her head at the same time, Miss Kimbrough uttered the "all-time high words of comfort to a drowning man: 'Wait a minute—I'll be right back.'"

Miss Kimbrough, author of "This Innocent from Indiana" and co-author with Cornelia Otis Skinner of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," was the first speaker in the university's 1951 public events series.

Freshmen Eligible For Phi Eta Sigma

Freshman men earning a 3.5 or above grade average, during the first semester of full enrollment are eligible for membership in Phi Eta Sigma, freshmen men's scholastic honorary.

Those interested in joining may contact Fred Kopke or Frank Shrontz, Beta Theta Pi. Phi Eta Sigma transfers are also requested to contact the organization.

Foresters Feature Jeans And Calico

Jeans and calico will be the order of the evening at the Forester's Ball to be held in the main ballroom of the SUB on Saturday, February 24.

This annual, all-campus dance, the 34th of its kind, was one of the few dances to survive through the last war on the campus. Tickets will be on sale in men's living groups.

Melody Men will furnish the music at this strictly informal hoedown.

Ski Club's 'Winter Carnival' Gets Underway Tomorrow; Dance At Gym

Skiers from both men's and women's living groups will compete in the giant slalom in the annual Ski club sponsored "Winter Carnival" tomorrow at the Emida ski run. A sport dance is slated at 9 p.m. in the south ballroom for a finale to the 1951 Carnival. Admission is 50c per person.

Buses charging no bus fare will leave the Student Union building Saturday morning, tentatively at 11 o'clock. Persons wishing to ride the bus should call Bert Stanford, 20501, or George Poulos, 6501. If enough want to leave the campus for Emida earlier, it may be arranged.

Races will start at 1 p.m., with Fred Taylor official starter. Commander H. E. Davey and Professor Glen Lockery will be official timers. The contest will last about two hours, Naida Whybark is recorder.

Four Skiers In Team
Four skiers from each living group are eligible to enter the contest. The top three scores will be added together to give a total team score for each group. A living group does not need four skiers to enter the competition, but will have a better chance with more entries. Cost to each racer will be 75c to use the rope tow.

Trophies will be awarded to the winning women's team and to the top men's team. The traveling team with 11 or 13 games, each nine feet wide. The race will consist of open gates, closed gates, and hairpins.

Talent Promoters

Jerry Haegale and Norm Green make preparations for the annual All-campus Talent Show sponsored by Blue Key, campus leadership honorary, which will be held in the auditorium tonight. They are general co-chairmen for the event.

Idaho's Play Production Nears Completion Stage

Idaho's production of "The Mad Woman of Chaillot," a fantasy by Jean Giraudoux to be presented in the university auditorium March 2 and 3, directed by Miss Jean Collette, is nearing the final stages of completion.

During recent rehearsals the music for the show has been inserted into its proper places, and various members of the cast have been wearing their completed costumes.

Ronald Kern is in charge of the technical production. His authentic pictures of Paris provided an excellent supply of detailed ideas for the sets. The sets for the first act clearly depict all the elements of Paris, emphasized by shades of gray.

Set Can Move
The right stage wall represents the old part of Paris, and its two flats are connected by a vined wall illustrating the new part of Paris. Paris' "down and out" section, complete with garbage cans and a street level view of basement window tops, will be recreated on the left wall. Advertising posters will be scattered along the left stage. Part of the set for the first act will be on a movable platform.

The second act of the play is situated in a basement in the "down and out" portion of Paris. Arched doorways and high windows are accompanied by earthy brown tones of color. Sets for the second act are built, but they have not yet been assembled. Technical crews will work on them all weekend.

Dramatists Keep Busy
All drama majors are working on technicalities, and special crews are as follows:

Mary Thompson and Shirley Pettijohn are assistant directors, the Norman Jones is technical assistant, and Marv Alexander is stage manager.

The stage and construction crew consists of Rod Greening (head) with Clyde Winters, Paul Tobin, Stowell Johnstone, Don Taylor, and Judd Kenworthy assisting him.

Keefe Details Sets
Keith Keefe, head of the paint crew, is credited with much of the detailed work on the sets. Lois Troxwell, Ken Goldsberry, and Ted Gallagher are working with him. The light crew is led by Carl Stamm with Hugh Burgess and Bob Deerkop completing the crew.

Mona Rosenau is in charge of props. The rest of the crew consists of Lorraine Cole, Marie Hargis, Beth Lillard, Doris Moore, Jerry Sperrazzo, Bonese Collins, Terry Willey, and Donna Jean Broyles Hayes.

Other crews are make-up with Norm Greene as head and Nadine Tisdall, and Colleen Swanson assisting him; sound and music with Sharon Henderson as head and Georgia Hemovich and Bob Gartin assisting her. Publicity consists of Betty Peters, Andy Tozier, Margaret Alley and Harriet Walrath.

Flashlight's Job
ASUI Graduate Manager Gale Mix poses, along with his regular duties, as a walking information booth. Students confront him with problems and questions of every nature imaginable.

A classic example occurred recently when Jan Fulton, Spur student advisor, asked the learned man, "Do you know what happened to the flashlight batteries that were used in the Spur Waddle last year?"

On this point, however, Mix could throw no light.

KUOI Offers Jobs
All students interested in becoming announcers at Station KUOI, or working on the engineering staff, should attend a meeting next Monday at 4:15 p.m. in the KUOI offices on the 3rd floor of the SUB.

Amateurs Perform In Tonight's Show

Idaho students will get a taste of nearly every type of amateur theatrical performance—from the sublime to the ridiculous—when the Blue Key Talent show takes the spotlight tonight at 8 o'clock in the auditorium. Seventeen competitive acts are slated for the hour and a half show and two feature specialties are scheduled for presentation.

Slapstick comedy, vocalists, instrumental numbers, dancers, several mimics and pantomimes are included in the program. A semi-classical ballet routine will also be given.

Jazzmen Replace Playboys
The "Campus Jazzmen" have been booked to fill the specialty spot vacated by "Snaky Riggers and his Craigmont Valley Playboys." The Playboys were forced to cancel their engagement because of illness in their ranks.

Performers with the Jazzmen are Art Woodbury, tenor sax; Jim Varley, drums; Fred Schmidt, trombone; Ray Cox, piano; Bob Nobis, bass; Lou Petrovovich, baritone sax; and John Sheeley, alto sax.

The objectives to be considered during this time will be to arouse the realization that religion can be a vital and living force in the life of college students as a basis for gaining personal faith and determining conduct; for participating in campus and community life; for creating inter-group unity; for solving social problems; for facing world crises so youth may earn its "Right to Tomorrow."

Visitors Listed
Honorary chairman is D. S. Jeffers, and faculty chairman is William H. Baker. Howard Leroy Morton and Eleanor Earl Justice are co-vice chairmen.

John L. Clarke, Ricks College, Rexburg; Lewis T. Corlett, Nampa; Guy Thomas Fattaruso, Seattle; Bernard D. Rosenberg, Tacoma; F. W. Werts, Great Falls; Thom. H. Hunter, University of Oregon; Frank A. Sharp, Newburgh, N. Y.; Dean Charles E. McAllister, Spokane; and Paul Marsh, Pittman, Calif., will be the visiting speakers. All the local ministers will also present addresses during this event.

Jerry Haegale and Norm Green are in charge of the annual show.

Bahr To Address Students Monday In ASUI Report

Vern Bahr, ASUI president, will speak to the Idaho student body over KUOI Monday at 7 p.m., giving a "Report of the ASUI."

The radio talk is an explanation of the accomplishments of the ASUI and the problems facing their elected student representatives. It will also show where the ASUI fees go and how much is involved in activities.

Talk Will Include
Other subjects Bahr has chosen are the composition and place of student government at Idaho, financial aspects, current problems (restrictions, decreased income), accomplishments of student government this year and future plans.

Bahr may ask for consideration of curtailment of many activities, more cooperation and support of the university by the students here and throughout the state. He is also expected to ask students to assume more responsibility for handling their own problems. He will probably request increased and widened student representation in groups making decisions affecting the student body.

Mosman Announces Air Cadet Openings

Lt. Col. O. J. Mosman, professor of Air Science and Tactics, announced that there are openings for approximately ten additional cadets in the advanced AFROTC program at the university. These may be filled prior to February 24 for the current semester.

Eligibility requirements are flexible for junior and senior students in engineering-type fields of study. If such students have had the required basic military training, they may be eligible for advanced training whether they have one, two, three, or four semesters of school remaining. For students of general-type fields of study, this advanced training may be available if they are otherwise qualified and have four semesters of school remaining.

Kirkendall Surveys Attitudes Toward Family Life In Series

Editor's Note: This is the first of a two-column series in which masculine and feminine attitudes toward family life are surveyed. The feminine side will be discussed next week.

By Lester A. Kirkendall
I've got a major overhaul job ahead of me," said the young man, a husband and father, after one of our class discussions. And he wasn't talking about automobiles; he was speaking of his attitudes toward marriage and family life. He had just realized that sometimes men's concern with emphasizing their masculinity makes them unnatural and uneasy in their relations with women or anything which signifies femininity.

Evidence of this is often seen. I notice every term how on the first day the classes in marriage meet, the first man to arrive at the classroom peeks in very cautiously. If he sees only women in the class, he retreats and waits until another man shows up and they enter together. If only two men are in the class they are practically certain to sit together. All this is a hang-over from the day when a study of marriage and homemaking was supposed to be a concern of women alone.

Daddy
One of the most important lessons learned in the marriage class is that the two sexes can discuss the problems of marriage, sex, and family adjustment together and objectively.

This concern with being associated too closely with things commonly considered feminine causes some men to be uneasy with children and makes it difficult for them to feel at ease as a father. All of us have probably seen the acute embarrassment of some high school boy or college man at having a strange child mistake him for its parent, and call him "Daddy" in a crowd of people.

In contrast, I shall never forget the assurance with which one young man met such a situation. He reached down, picked up the tot, and said, "No, I'm not your daddy. But when I am a daddy, I hope I'll have a nice little girl like you." And what a daddy the little girl would have!

At Least Look In
A nursery school is an excellent place to observe the difference in the assurance which different men feel in the father role. As they come to get their children, some will enter the play yard and go over to the sand box to observe what the children are doing. They may even take part in some of the activities. Others will no more than enter the door. They stand nervously waiting until their child is ready to leave, and then beat a retreat.

If this analysis is correct, obviously one of the important contributions of a course in marriage, family relations, child development, or children's behavior is the reshaping of attitudes. Factual material is important, but the devel-

Students Informed

Monday evening at 7 o'clock, Vern Bahr, ASUI president, will present a speech over station KUOI in an attempt to better acquaint the students with ASUI activities and functions.

This type of address by an ASUI president is probably the first of its kind on the campus, and we hope it will not be the last. Very few students actually know just how their ASUI fees are used, and how ASUI operates. Bahr's talk Monday evening is an attempt to shed some light on what goes on in ASUI.

The well-informed student is in a position to take part in government, and will know how to avoid abuses if and when they arise. When a student knows what is going on, he will also be more interested, and will probably act instead of sitting still.

We believe that this attempt to inform the students is a very good thing. We hope it will establish a precedent, and continue for the years to come as part of student government.

Tighten Your Belt And Give

In the not so distant future we will have another blood drive on the campus. It presents a chance to beat our own record of 499 pints obtained during the last drive, and also a chance to surpass the goal of the forthcoming drive in Latah county.

A challenge was recently issued by ASUI to the people of Latah county to compete in blood-letting. They replied that they would be only too happy to compete with us. The county drive, scheduled for February 20 to 22, has a goal of 700 pints. Our drive is set to come off in the first part of April.

While we hope the county drive will reach its goal, we also hope we can beat them. But these blood drives are not just games to see who can give the most blood, they are serious business. To use a trite but true phrase, there is a war going on and everyday there are wounded men in Korea who need blood transfusions.

The men in Korea are giving their blood, and it is up to us to help give it back to them. When a GI loses blood there is a lot of pain connected with it, but we can give our blood quite painlessly.

A pint of blood is a very small thing to ask in comparison to what the men in Korea are giving. We sincerely hope that everyone on the campus will take it upon himself to give a pint of blood during the campus drive. It is the least we can do, so let's do it.

Chaperone Agency Needed

Since chaperones seem to be needed at campus social functions, there is a need for a set of standards or rules so that both the chaperones and students can know what is expected of both.

Chaperones have their job thrust upon them, and they do their duty because they have to. However, there have been some cases of apparent disrespect for chaperones. This newspaper still maintains its stand that chaperones are not needed, but since we have them there is no need to abuse them.

We believe that this alleged disrespect stems not from any deliberate intent on the part of students, but rather it is a case of not knowing what is expected.

This business of chaperoning is a rather indefinite thing. It is hard for a chaperone to walk into a social affair not knowing what is expected of him, and it is equally hard for the students present to know how they should treat the faculty member or members sitting there in the corner twiddling his or their thumbs.

Students and faculty are both placed on the spot under the present system. We believe it would be a blessing for some campus agency to set forth some information for faculty and students telling what is expected from both at dances and other social functions where a chaperone is required.

Sponsored by Chesterfield cigarettes, "Club ABC" is heard every Thursday from 10 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. over KUOI, The Voice of the Vandal. Three mystery records are played during each program, and correct telephone answers are rewarded with a carton of Chesterfield cigarettes.

No Words Wasted

A cryptic lieutenant from Georgia doesn't waste words in battle reports to headquarters.

He is Lt. Remer Y. Brinson of Savannah, whose infantry platoon commands a shallow ford in the Han river southwest of Seoul. Three days ago Brinson radioed battalion headquarters:

"Twenty enemy crossing river."
"You want artillery support?"

asked Lt. Col. Julius W. Levy of Augusta, Ga., battalion commander. "What you want us to do?"

Back came the reply:
"Nothing. Twenty crossed. Twenty dead now."

Yesterday Brinson reported 33 reds trying to surround his position. Did he want aid? Brinson said no. An hour later he radioed:
"Killed 22. Sorry, rest got away."

There's something feminine about a tree—it does a strip tease in fall, goes out with bare limbs all winter, gets a new outfit every spring, and lives off the sap all summer.

Drama Film 'Rain' Finds Players Miscasted

By Jerry McKee

Those who saw the 1932 production of "Rain" last night saw an interesting comparison of movie techniques now and then, among other things. Roughly, the box score would run something like this:

Quite obvious to all present, it was alternately over- and under-acted. Beulah Bondi played the role of Mrs. Davidson with great finesse. That is about as far as the compliments go. Joan Crawford was too much restricted by the personality she was depicting to give much of an acting performance. A person of Sadie's "nature" can only be played one way, and Crawford did that. Of course, for what the part required, Mae West could have done just as well.

As for Walter Houston, task, task. His portrayal of the reformer was very poorly done. He tried to put too much into the role to do it any justice. Of course, the audience was opposed to him, due to the Pollyanna part he was stuck with. And possibly Pollyanna could have done better.

Actually, the main character in the film was the rain, the overpowering, over-whelming rain. It's role set the underlying tenseness of the plot. The rain heightened the drama with its continual roar in the background. This form of technique is one of the elements of moving pictures that have been lost in 19 years since "Rain" was produced.

Filming Technical
The same is true of the actual filming. A delicate combination of alternating foreground and background, camera movement, and focus gave this picture more impact than many modern pictures with the same theme. Of course the producer of this picture probably didn't have $5,000,000 or so to work with to produce art through sheer grandeur.

John Zweener, James Connors, Clayton Reynolds, Richard Merrill, Harlan Olson, Roger Allen, Loralee Epperson, Harold Johnston, and Phyllis Andrews have been returned to classes.

Lost Articles

Another lost and found department has developed, but James Bowlby hopes it won't continue to be as successful as it has been in the past. Right now, he is being crowded out of his office with scarves, lipsticks, gloves, books, and other student belongings.

For the time being, they are filed in his filing cabinet. But—the top drawer is filled, and he wants to get rid of some of the articles. To him they are worth nothing, but to those who lost them they may be irreplaceable. If you lost anything in the Bucket, have a look in the Bucket Manager's office. He'll be glad to give you all you can carry.

University Farms Explore New Fields

Farm electrification research at the University this year will explore five new fields in farm use of electricity, reports W. H. Knight, project director for the Idaho farm electrification committee. The year's research program was approved by the committee at its recent meeting.

One project, Knight indicates, will investigate the possibility of using high-frequency electrical equipment to dry vegetables and seeds for handling and storage. Participating in this activity will be the departments of agricultural engineering, electrical engineering, and plant pathology.

At the suggestion of the state brand inspector, the farm electrification investigators will explore the possibility of designing an electric non-branding iron for sheep. Another project will aim at the development of an electromagnet for installation in feed grinders and feed chutes to protect livestock from "hardware disease."

Trees Offered To Civic Groups

Idaho civic groups wishing to do any conservation type tree plantings this spring will have the opportunity of doing so free of charge so far as the cost of planting stock is concerned. Tree will be made available to the groups through the State Forester's office at Boise and will be distributed through the university's tree-planting program.

Vernon Ravenscroft, extension forester at the university said the trees would fill a long felt need in the state.

"Orders for the trees are to be sent to his office," Ravenscroft said, "and will be processed in the order in which they are received." Delivery will be made at the same time that trees leave the university nursery for farm plantings early in April. Deadline for orders is March 1.

Ooh! Watch Out!

Tumbling artists who performed last Saturday night in Memorial gymnasium are shown above in one of their "all hands participate" events. The human pyramid extends to a height above the floor of over 15 feet. The team will participate in another exhibition later this year, again on the home floor.

Bowling Competition Stiffer Among Men

Competition among men students in the Chesterfield Bowling Contest is much stiffer than among the coeds, according to bowling alley employees. The number of women bowlers is much smaller, in comparison to the male supporters of the sport.

Carroll Taylor and Joan Florence are winners of one carton of Chesterfield cigarettes, respectively, for their high scores in last week's bowling contest.

Bench and Bar meet again Tuesday, February 19 at 11 a.m. in room 320 of the Ad building. All members should attend this business meeting.

Ringmen Host Stout San Jose Golden Raiders Tomorrow In Memorial Gym

Echevarria-Martinez Bout Highlights Eight Card Bill

The Idaho ring delegation will trade blows with Dee Portal's formidable San Jose Golden Raiders tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Memorial gymnasium squared-circle. The card is the first home match of the mitt campaign for Coach Frank Young's boxing legions and their "Sunny" California opponents promise to make it a stiff go.

Eight corking varsity encounters may result in fireworks before the Fourth of July. In the 125-pound pairing Frank Echevarria, the battling Basque from Blackfoot, will have the dubious honor of pitching leather with Mac Martinez, San Jose State's popular NCAA bantamweight king. Martinez bested Frank in the Pacific Coast finals last season and he has only lost one collegiate fight in 27 outings. The lone defeat on "Little Mac's" high strung record was a highly disputed decision to Pee Wee Moss of LSU in the 1949 NCAA finals.

Terry McMullin, a sophomore who fought his first collegiate bout last week in Minneapolis, will oppose Al Tafeya, a rough customer and a good bet for Pacific Coast and National honors this season.

In the 135-pound bracket, Norm Walker, who has been cooling his opponents like an icebox chills tomatoes, will wage a battle with Jerry Stern. The Spartan led transferred from San Francisco City college last year where he was a national junior college champion.

Bud Lawson will meet Johnny Johnson, a 22-year-old senior from Fargo, North Dakota, in the 145-pound pairing.

Seeks Number 24 Idaho's National champion, Len Walker, faces a rugged lad in the person of Bob Frazer. Frazer, only a sophomore, earned the Outstanding Boxer award in the Junior Tournament at San Jose when he beat two veteran lettermen. Walker will be after his 24th college win.

Verl King matches Nick Diez in the 165-pound tiff. Coach Dee Portal's boy is a smooth ring workman even though he boxed only briefly last year.

Larry Moyer, Coach Young's favorite sophomore, will fight sophomore Darrell Dukes who has also shown fine boxing skills at the 175-pound weight.

Heavyweight go will pair Idaho's Jack "Blackjack" Ramos against the explosive hitting, Jack Scheberies, who sports an impressive record.

Judges for the match are Patsy Fitzpatrick, Spokane, and Roy Petragalla of St. Maries. Andy Tidrick of Mead will referee and W. J. Will will be timer. Stan Hiserman is clerk.

The Spartans have gone unscathed in 14 consecutive duel matches. Records for both clubs this season are:

Idaho	3 1/2
Louisian State university	4 1/2
Washington State	4
Minnesota	6
San Jose State
San Francisco State	0
Washington State	1 1/2
Compton junior college	1

A Pair Of Portal's Potent Punchers

Mac Martinez (left) and Al Tafeya are the Spartans' two little guys with large winning streaks. Martinez, a pre-ministry student who plans to spend his life in the service of God, faces one of the toughest tests of his ring career tomorrow night at Memorial gymnasium when he pitches the 12-ounce mittens with Frank Echevarria in the 125-pound go. Tafeya will throw his 12-4 record against Terry McMullin in the 130-pound fracas. Both battlers are two-year lettermen. The bouts start at 8 o'clock.

Injury-Laden Vandals Face Dye's Huskie Five In Seattle

Coach Chuck Finley's casaba crew may hobble like cripples, but they'll make an appearance at Edmondson pavilion in Seattle this week-end for a final brace of battles with the University of Washington cagers.

For the first time this season, leg injuries are plaguing the Idaho quintet. Sophomore Hartley Kruger, who pulled a ligament below the right knee prior to the Oregon State series last week-end, returned to practice this week but still favored the injured limb.

In addition, Stu Dollinger aggravated a bruised thigh muscle which necessitated Finley's eliminating the six foot-two inch junior guard from the traveling squad. In Dollinger's place, Finley named Roger Lillibridge, six foot-six inch sophomore forward, who himself is recovering from a twisted ankle.

Besides injuries, the Vandals will have to cope with the Northern Division's No. 2 team in total offense. The Huskies have scored an average of 53.8 points per contest to trail Oregon by three tallies. On the other hand, Idaho ranks fourth with a per-game mark of 47.7.

In field goal percentages, Washington tops the Northern Division with 201 buckets in 599 shots for a .336 percentage while Idaho brings up the rear with 202 two-pointers in 745 attempts and a .271 average. The two squads exchange positions in the free throw department as Idaho leads with a .668 percentage and Washington trails with a .604 mark.

Bob Houbregs and Frank Guiness of Washington rank No. 2 and No. 4 respectively in individual point averages. Houbregs posted a 11.2 average in 10 contests while Guiness recorded a 9.8 mark. Idaho's leaders are Kruger with 9.0 in 10 games and Bob Wheeler with 8.7 in 12 frays.

Herb Millard tops the Northern Division in field goal percentages with 11 goals in 21 firings for .524. From the free throw line, Idaho's Dick Reed ranks fourth with 20 successes in 27 attempts for a .741 percentage.

Lottie Soriano of the Huskies is the villain of the ND with 40 personals in 10 games. Sam Jenkins possesses 34 fouls for Idaho in a dozen contests.

Road Trip Crew. Finley's traveling squad consists of forwards Sherrel Williamson, Herb Mead, Ken Barker, Roger Lillibridge, and Dick Reed. Centers are Bob Wheeler and Hartley Kruger. Bruce McIntosh, Herb Millard, Sam Jenkins, Bob White, and Bill Mather are in the guard positions.

Washington and Idaho split in their two-game set at Moscow with the Huskies grabbing the opener, 50-44, and Idaho retaliating in the finale, 55-50.

Bob Houbregs

One of the outstanding sophomore cagers of the nation is Washington's Bob Houbregs. The six foot-seven inch center leads the Huskie scorers for the season with a 236 point total, 112 of them coming in conference play. Houbregs is also an ace on the backboards with 169 rebounds in 19 games.

Washington's Nationally Ranked Mermen Perform Against Vandals Saturday

Coach Eric Kirkland's finmen, fresh from a 46-38 PCC conference win over the Oregon State Beavers, run up against the Washington Huskies Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in Memorial pool.

The Huskies, fortified with a non-conference triangular victory over the University of British Columbia and Western Washington last week-end, get their taste of Palouse water in the WSC pool Friday afternoon. The Cougars meet in their first PCC competition of the 1951 season.

The Idaho squad looked exceptionally good in downing the Beavers, a feat which has not been done in the Orange pool since 1927.

Influenza will force Tom Gentry, top Vandal breaststroke performer to lay out the meet. Gerald Weaver, a much improved senior, will replace Gentry.

Washington coach, Jack Torney, said he felt at least four Northern Division records could be broken in the Inland Empire clashes. At Idaho, both the individual medley and the 100-yard free-style marks may be lowered, and at Pullman, marks may be set in the individual medley and the 200-yard breaststroke.

From all indications the Seattle lads can expect a rough week-end. The Vandals have one of their strongest teams in recent years. With Dick Wartena in the 220, Bill Hoblet in the 50, and Jim Moore, who has never been defeated in conference competition on the boards, Idaho's chances will be fair.

Moore, however, will run up against Merrill Hodges, rated as one of the top divers in the United States. Perhaps the Huskies' top performer is Pete Salmon. The Northern Division 150 yard individual medley mark, currently held by Washington's Van Smith at 1:38.3, might be broken by Salmon.

In last week's meet, Salmon clocked the 150 medley in 1:34, bettering by three seconds the Northern Division record, and coming within two seconds of the national record of 1:32.

Hell Divers try-outs will be held Monday, February 19, and February 26 at 7 p.m. for all coeds. Men's try-outs will be Tuesday at 7 p.m.

IM Basketball

Larry Jones of Alpha Tau Omega was elected president of the intramural managers for the second semester at a recent meeting. Other officers named were Gordon Cook of Chrisman hall, vice president; Don Harrison of Beta Theta Pi, secretary; and Bob Tilt of Phi Gamma Delta, treasurer.

Intramural skiing will be staged tomorrow afternoon in the second annual ski carnival.

"B" basketball will officially open Monday, February 26. Be sure to get your team lineups in. "A" League play-offs will start Monday, February 19.

In a play-off of a disputed Monday game Kappa Sigma tripped BTP 37 to 27. Jordan led KS with 13 and Birch scored 8 for the Beta's.

In Wednesday night action BTP ran roughshod over PKT 45-24. Lodge scored 17 for BTP and high point effort for the losers went to Larsen with 5.

ATO bested SAE 46-36. Jones tallied 12 points for ATO, while Rayburn and Jasper collected 11 each for SAE.

KS gained another win in the victory column after accepting the forfeit game of PDT.

SC paced by Sweeney's 17 points nosed out DTD 33-20 in League II play. Lawrence paced the losers with 12.

The lost-and-found department of the Moscow bus company reported a telephone call from a coed who said she had left a package containing a brassiere on a bus.

"What bus?" asked the company employee.

"Size 38," replied the coed.

Regulars Lead Idaho Statistics

With four games remaining on their 1950-51 hoop schedule, the five regulars of the Idaho cage squad continue to dominate the statistical picture.

Sophomore Harley Kruger maintains his lead as "squad sharpshooter" with 65 buckets in 207 attempts for a .314 average. Stu Dollinger and Bill Mather follow with marks of 309 and 308 respectively. In conference play, Herb Millard has hit 11 of 21 attempts for a .524 mark to pace the Northern Division in that department.

Free throw leader for the season is Sam Jenkins. The Vandal guard has connected with 54 of 75 for .720 in season play and 34 of 44 for .773 in league action. Other high men are Dick Reed with a .635 and Kruger with .622. Reserve McIntosh has hit 11 of 12 for a .917 mark.

Jenkins is also the most adept rebounder with 173 grabs in 25 games and 97 in ND play. Bob Wheeler follows closely with 172 and 90 for season and conference play respectively.

Jenkins is also the bad boy of the squad with 72 personals for the season. Wheeler with 68 and Dollinger with 63 also rank high. In conference play Jenkins has 34 infractions while Wheeler and Dollinger have 33 apiece.
